COOK COUNTY JUDGE ORDERS CONVENTION DOOR SMASHED DOWN

Conflicting Court Orders Are Ignored By the Rival Factions.

Chicago, April 15.—The Seventh regiment armory, designated as the meeting place of the Cook county Democratic convention, today took on the appearance of a state of siege, with national guardsmen within and the police, deputy sheriffs, officers of the election committees and delegates to the convention outside.

At noon County Judge Owens appeared at the armory and demanded that the doors be opened. On being refused, he ordered the police to break in the doors. Assistant Chief Schnettler with an ax then began battering down the door.

After the doors had been battered down, the Hearst-Harrison delegates, who had been waiting outside, filed into the armory. On the orders of their officers the national guardsmen offered no resistance and the delegates proceeded to their seats.

While the doors were being broken down, some one turned in an alarm of fire. Firemen who responded found nothing to do and returned to their quarters.

A clash between the police and the guardsmen seemed imminent at times when efforts were made to enter the building.

The disturbance was occasioned by the failure of the Hearst-Harrison Democrats and the Democrats allied with National Committeeman Roger C. Sullivan, to agree on the proper method to organize the convention. Each side professed to believe that if the plans of the other were carried out they would not receive fair treatment, and both claim a majority of the delegates.

The Hearst-Harrison faction has the backing of a court order from County Judge Owens directing Election Commissioner Czarnicki, a Republican, to effect the temporary organization and call the roll of accredited delegates.

The Sullivan forces have behind them an injunction from Superior Judge McKinley restraining the police, the election commission and the sheriff from interfering with the convention.

The Republican county convention proceeded harmoniously. Resolutions indorsing the administration of President Taft and Governor Deneen were adopted before the list of delegates to the state convention and the several Cook county congressional districts' convention were named.

Hold Two Meetings.

After the Hearst-Harrison delegates had gained entrance to the armory the so-called Sullivan faction under the leadership of John McGillen took possession of another hall, where they also proceeded to hold a convention.

The roll of delegates in the armory, constituting the Hearst-Harrison aggregation, was called by Election Commissioner Czarnecki, a Republican who has been delegated by County Judge Owens. Lists of delegates to the state convention which is to meet at Peoria, April 19, were prepared for the approval of the delegates.

The Sullivan convention also will select delegates to the state convention.

Packers' Hearing Postponed.

Jefferson City, Mo., April 15.—The hearing of the beef packers in the state's ouster suit before Special Commissioner Daniel Dillon, set for today, was continued until May 1 because attorneys for the packers were arguing cases in the federal courts.

HELD ON CHARGE OF KILLING "HUSBAND"

MRS. MARY F. KARNS SNYDER.

New York, April 15.—The New York police are investigating the death of Walter J. Snyder, who lived in St. Nicholas avenue with a woman who claimed to be his wife. His matrimonial affairs were somewhat tangled. She was known as Mrs. Snyder. Sunday she sent for help, saying her husband was ill. He was found in a bathtub dead. The woman's story was that he had been teasing her and she had threatened him in fun and that he had run at her, catching the hand in which she held a pair of seven-inch scissors, he had pressed them against his breast, wounding himself. He then went to the bathroom. The police are holding her on the charge of killing Snyder.

ROOSEVELT AND WILSON

Pennsylvania Primaries Favor Ex-President and New Jersey Man.

Colonel Gets at Least Sixty-Five of State's Delegation.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 15.—Sixty-five of Pennsylvania's seventy-six delegates to Chicago will be for Roosevelt, according to present returns from Saturday's primary.

On the Democratic side, Wilson will have 74 delegates at Baltimore.

Incomplete returns for every district give the former president 65 of the state's 76 delegates in the Republican national convention. The Roosevelt supporters are claiming 67 and later returns may carry the figures to that total.

Colonel Roosevelt won 53 of the 64 district national delegates and his followers elected enough delegates to the state convention to give them control of that body. The state convention will name 12 delegates at large.

Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey, who had no organized opposition, will have 74 of the 76 delegates in the Democratic national convention. In the Eleventh (Pittston or Luzerne) congressional district the two Democratic national delegates elected are favorable to Governor Judson Harmon, but they are not pledged.

Penrose May Fall.

The significance of the Roosevelt victory can be realized when it is remembered ahat the delegates in control of the state convention have the power to select the state chairman and under the party rules the delegation to the national convention elects

WHEAT MEN WHIP-SAWED

Chicago, April 15.—Buyers and sellers alike were whip-sawed today in wheat. The market swiftly whirled up, then down, and up again over a range of nearly 4c. Trading reached a magnitude seldom equalled except in war times.

The news which had the greatest influence on the bull side of the wheat market was from a crop expert who had previously been disposed to minimize the effect of supposed winter killing in the soft winter states. Today he telegraphed from Decatur, Ill., that between there and Mattoon, Ill., virtually all wheat was dead, that the fields were perfectly bare and would

DARK HORSE TALK AGAIN

Roosevelt's Recent Victories Cause Doubt as to Convention's Result.

Hughes Strongly Favored But Likely to Prefer Supreme Bench.

(By Willis J. Abbot.)

Washington, April 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The politicians who think themselves wisest, and who in their infinite wisdom seek to evade a frank expression of opinion early in a political war are apt to exert less influence than men of less so-called shrewdness and vastly less power. For example, the New York delegation which has been chosen and which is a Taft delegation, though under the domination of William Barnes did not definitely instruct for Taft, carries less weight today in the Washington discussion of the action of the coming Republican convention than do the twelve votes from Maine, instructed for Roosevelt. New York with its ninety votes quibbled. People believe that in the end they will be for Taft. But they know exactly where to put Maine's twelve and the fifty-eight of Illinois.

Nobody believes that the New York

CRISIS WITH MEXICO NEAR

State Department Note Is Looked On as Virtual Threat.

Conditions in That Country Are Growing Worse Steadily.

Washington, April 15. — The state department's forceful note to the contending factions in Mexico, warning them against any mistreatment of Americans, is believed to have brought the relations between United States and Mexico to a critical point. This is a fair deduction from the past experience and tradition of the state department, notably and recently in the case of Cuba.

It is recalled that just such warning as this preceded the Spanish war, culminating in the famous message of President McKinley which referred to the "intolerable conditions existing at our doorway."

Hope for Good Effect.

It still is hoped and believed by administration officials, however, that Saturday's notes will have a sobering effect upon the passions of the struggling factions and that it will not be necessary for the American government to consider drastic steps in regard to Mexico. This hope led to renewed assurances from official quarters today that there would be no intervention.

The next step must be taken by Mexicans, either through the rebel leader, Orozco, or by President Madero, from whom some kind of an answer to the state department's representations surely will be forthcoming.

"Actions speak louder than words," was state department comment today in reference to Orozco, who will be judged by his deeds rather than by his promises.

Conditions Much Worse.

Meanwhile conditions throughout Mexico have undoubtedly become much worse within the last week and the state department's advices from its various agencies, as made public today show that the area of turbulence and violence has grown to formidable proportions. Conditions in the states of Michoacana, Puebla and Morelos forming a semi-circle adjoining the state of Mexico daily are becoming worse.

Similar reports come from the vast states of Sonora and Sinola, comprising most of the western boundary of Mexico.

The disturbance in the state of Vera Crux threatens the Atlantic communications with the Mexican capital.

LIGHTNING BURNS HOLMEN CHURCH

Wisconsin Towns Are Visited By Severe Electrical Storm.

La Crosse, Wis., April 15.—During an electrical storm last night the Norwegian Lutheran church at Holmen, Wis., was struck by lightning and burned. The Vine street school at La Crosse was also struck and badly damaged, but not set afire. A number of farm buildings in the vicinity were burned after being struck by lightning bolts, the entire loss from lightning in this vicinity being $25,000.

DASTARDLY ACID PLOT IS DISCOVERED

Would Doubtless Have Maimed Two Intended Victims for Life.

Strength of Acid Shown By Recent Accident to Horse.

Accident and kind fate saved Capt. Peter Solheim and Lieut. L. E. Larson of Fire Hall No. 3 from being the victims of an inhuman fiend who had plotted to maim them for life by burning off their feet with chemical acid.

The powerful acid had been poured into the bottom of their boots, evidently some time early Friday evening. The boots are those which are placed alongside their cots and into which the men jump from their sleep in response to alarms.

Lieut. Larsen, purely through chance, found the deadly acid before he retired. Capt. Solheim did not learn of its presence in his boots until Saturday, when a general examination was made when the report of the dastardly attempt upon Lieut. Larsen became known throughout the hall.

Had an alarm come in Friday night or early Saturday morning Capt. Solheim would have leaped into the acid-filled boots. The powerful chemical would have eaten away the flesh of his feet, probably disabling him for the rest of his life. His feet would never again be serviceable and there is great likelihood that it might have

SEVEN ACCUSED OF ONE MURDER

Chicago Man Called to His Door and Stabbed to Death.

Chicago, April 15.—Seven men, suspected of complicity in the murder of Antone Gasiar, 30 years old, who was stabbed to death in front of his home on the West side early this morning, are under arrest.

Stanislaus Farzkowsky, one of the prisoners, is under guard at the county hospital, where he was taken when it was discovered that three fingers of his left hand had been severed. The police believed he was stabbed by Gasiar in resisting the attack. The other prisoners are Frank Novak, John Frieda, Frank Kapeto, Stanley Murak, Felix Pingula and Simon Vitnol.

Gasiar was called to the door of his home by seven men and stabbed to death, his assailants fleeing.

McGOVERN IS WORKING ON SPECIAL MESSAGE.

Madison, Wis., April 15.—Governor F. E. McGovern will start work this week on his forthcoming message to the legislature, which meets in extra session on April 30. For several days, he said, he has been evolving plans for the message and had desired to get it under way ere this day. In it he will suggest those principal subjects for urgent legislation for which the session was called, and will make it plain that other measures will be irrelevant under the call.

DULUTHIANS ON TITANIC

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Silvey Passengers on Ill-Fated Boat.

Report That Mr. and Mrs. Prindle Were Also Aboard, Unfounded.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Silvey of Duluth were aboard the steamer Titanic which collided with an iceberg in the middle of the Atlantic.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Silvey were naturally much perturbed when they read the first news of the accident to the big Atlantic liner, for it was known that they had sailed for home aboard her.

It was thought at first that Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Prindle were also aboard the Titanic, but it was later learned that they would not sail for America until May 1.

John Mullin, father of H. J. Mullin, the local real estate man, was also reported to be aboard the Titanic, but Mr. Mullin stated that he did not expect his father would leave England for several weeks yet, and in his last letter he said nothing about sailing on the Titanic.

So far as is known Mr. and Mrs. Silvey are, therefore, the only Duluth people aboard the Titanic.

PASSENGERS TAKEN OFF BY OTHER SHIPS

Archie Butt, J. J. Astor, C. M. Hays, W. T. Stead and F. B. Millet in the List.

Halifax, N. S., April 15.—The Canadian government marine agency here at 4:15 p. m. received a wireless dispatch that the Titanic is sinking. The message came via the cable ship Minia, off Cape Race. It is said that the steamers towing the Titanic were endeavoring to get her into shoal water near Cape Race for the purpose of beaching her.

New York, April 15.—Wireless dispatches up to noon today showed that the passengers of the monster White Star liner Titanic, which struck an iceberg off the Newfoundland coast last night, were being transferred.

Twenty boat loads of the Titanic's passengers had been transferred aboard the Carpathia, and allowing forty to sixty persons as the capacity of each lifeboat, some 800 or 1,200 persons already had been taken from the damaged liner.

The latest reports indicate that the transference of passengers is being carried on successfully and safely. The sea is smooth and the weather calm. It is probable that all of the passengers on the Titanic are safe.

Under Her Own Steam.

While badly damaged, the Titanic still is afloat and is reported to be making her way toward Halifax under her own steam.

The accident occurred at 10:25 last night at a point about 400 miles south of Cape Race, N. F., and about 1,100 miles east of New York.

The Titanic is the largest steamer ever built. She is 882 feet long and has 46,328 tons displacement. She was launched last May and this was her maiden trip.

Vice President Franklin gave out at 1 o'clock this afternoon the following message, which he had received from the Boston office of the company:

"The Allan line Montreal confirms the report that the Virginian, Parisian and Carpathia are in attendance, standing by the Titanic.

While this message adds nothing new to the situation, Mr. Franklin gave it out to refute an unconfirmed report that the Titanic had sunk.

"I do not believe that is possible," he said.

P. A. S. Franklin, vice president of the White Star line, sent the following wireless message to Capt. E. S. Smith, the Titanic's commander, this morning:

Heard From at 4:24 a. m.

Mr. Franklin said he had received a brief wireless dispatch from the Olympic, saying she had talked by wireless with the Titanic at 4:24 o'clock this morning. The message gave no further information, Mr. Franklin said.

This message shows conclusively that the Titanic was still afloat six hours after the reported accident.

At 9 o'clock this morning Mr. Franklin gave out the following statement:

"We place absolute confidence in the Titanic. We believe the boat is abso-

GLEANED ALONG THE POLICE RUN

When turning in a fire alarm, particularly during the night when the streets are deserted, do not leave the box before the arrival of the fire department.

Sometimes the fire will not be visible from the street and the department will not know what it has been called out to fight.

To illustrate:

At 4 o'clock this morning an alarm was sent in from the box at Third avenue west, in the heart of the city. The man who sent it in hurried back to help fight the blaze. When the department reached the scene there was no one in sight. Hose was attached and strung from the nearby hydrants, but there wasn't a glimmer to show the men where to go.

Had not the man who sent in the alarm ran out on the street again, within a couple of minutes of the arrival of the apparatus, the men would have turned back. A conflagration which might have cost thousands of dollars and wiped out a part of the business section might have resulted.

The fire was in the rear of the Club chop suey at 217 West Superior street. It is supposed to have been started by mice biting into a large package of matches which had been stored there. Smoke awoke two Chinamen who were sleeping there. They ran outside and called the policeman on the beat. One of them pulled the fire alarm box and then all three went back to the restaurant to fight the fire, forgetting all about the fire department.

Once the men knew where the fire was it was but the work of a few minutes to extinguish it. When the chemicals were turned on it the blaze had assumed fair proportions. A little later and the frame building in which the chop suey is located would have been a mass of flames, which would have spread rapidly to the adjoining buildings. There is no telling where it might have been checked. The loss was about $200.

Hence the warning not to run away from an alarm box after it has been pulled until the arrival of the department. The firemen are pretty keen, but they are not omniscient, nor can they ascertain the location of such a fire by intuition.

C. W. Wilson, second assistant chief of the fire department, is back on the job. He was badly shaken up and narrowly escaped serious injury about a week ago when his buggy struck a heap of dirt while making a run to a fire in the East end. The obstruction was unmarked by any warning light and he was hurled to the pavement. The driver stopped the horse in the next block after climbing over the dash board for the lines.

John McDonald and Con Scanlon will be on the water wagon for the next two months, at least. But not because they have any desires to climb onto the little car. They pleaded guilty to third offense drunkenness in police court this morning and were sent to the county bastile for sixty days.

Pat Kiely and Sam Hood were arrested early this morning on charges of being drunk and disorderly. They pleaded not guilty and will be tried this afternoon.

Iver Backe, suspected of stealing a watch valued at $55 from Jacob Hanson, who was rooming in a Bowery hotel, was arrested Saturday afternoon. He will be arraigned in police court this afternoon.

The number of lodgers at the police station has again assumed undue proportions. This is said to be largely due to the shutting down of the rock pile the first of last month. Last night fifty-seven homeless men slept on the benches. Saturday night fifty-three were housed in the bull pen and Friday night the number was forty-eight.

Joe Robertson and Viola Brooks, both colored, were arrested here yesterday for the Superior police. They are said to be wanted across the bay for stealing a $5 bill.

Frank Laurick came into the police station Saturday night at 11 o'clock and said that he had had nothing to eat for four days. He explained that he was on his way to Chisholm from Austria, and that the $20 which he had expected to live on while en route from New York had been stolen from him. He claimed to have a brother at Chisholm and that he had come from New York without tasting food. He was given a meal and a place to sleep during the night.

Alfred Naslund reported to the police Saturday afternoon that he had been robbed of $35 in Superior by a man whom he had met the day before. He thought he had come to this side of the bay. Naslund said that his erstwhile friend's name was Arvid, but that he did not know the rest of it. The chances are that Alfred has seen the last of his $35.

TALLULAH, LA., FLOOD-SWEPT

Houses Are Afloat and People Have Taken to Boats.

Tallulah, La., April 15.—As far as the eye can see north, east and west from the highest point in this town, nothing but water can be seen. The Mississippi's flood tide, escaped from a break in the levee near Alsatia, is sweeping through town with the speed of a mill race. Many buildings are afloat. Scores of persons, driven from the roofs of their dwellings in Tallulah, now are homeless.

A mile and a half north of here, along the Iron Mountain railroad, the water is up to the cross arms on the telegraph poles. It is believed that further out the poles are submerged.

Before the water came Sunday morning, there was a boat of some kind on nearly every front porch, or a raft in the yard. Now the streets are full of boats and rafts carrying household goods to places of safety, or getting poeple out of their overflooded houses.

Men who know the great section of Northeast Louisiana already overflowed or certain to be inundated, say it is impossible at this time to estimate the monetary loss. Thousands of head of cattle, sheep and hogs will perish before the floods cease. Thousands of acres of land, much of it already planted, are ruined.

Taft Asks $788,000.

Washington, April 15.—President Taft today sent to congress a special message urging the immediate appropriation of amounts aggregating nearly $788,000 for use in controlling the floods of the Mississippi river and to aid flood sufferers.

NO RUN MADE ON CINCINNATI BANK

Capital Stock of $2,000,000 Lost, But Deposits Are Guaranteed.

Cincinnati, Ohio, April 15. — The Second National bank, which has been taken over by the Cincinnati clearing house, pending the formulation of plans by its stockholders for a reorganization satisfactory to the comptroller of the currency, opened as usual today. About $2,000,000 in cash was on hand to meet a run, but there were no unusual demands.

The officers and directors of the bank resigned last night and new officers were chosen at a meeting of the board of directors. The following statement was given out by the Cincinnati clearing house:

"The Cincinnati Clearing House association has undertaken the reorganization of the Second National Bank of Cincinnati and guarantees its deposits.

"All of the members of the present board of directors have resigned, and the following board has been elected:

"W. S. Rowe, Charles A. Hinsch, Clifford B. Wright, Frederick Hertenstein, B. H. Kroger, Casper H. Rowe, Charles E. Wilson, Harry L. Laws and John Omwake.

"The new board will manage the bank until the shareholders have formulated plans for its reorganization to the satisfaction of the comptroller of the currency.

"Members of the Cincinnati Clearing House Association."

Capital Stock Wiped Out.

Washington, April 15.—The capital stock and surplus of the Second National Bank of Cincinnati, Ohio, amounting to about $2,000,000, has been wiped out by losses, according to reports to the comptroller of the currency today. The action of the clearing house association in taking charge of the institution, guaranteeing its deposits, avoided suspension. An assessment will be levied on the stockholders to restore the capital.

BOYS' DEPARTMENT NOTES

The interscholastic committee, composed of two boys from each grade school of the city, will meet at the boys' department for dinner this evening. This committee has charge of the annual boys' exposition, which will take place May 3 and 4, and also of the field meet which will be held on June 1. Important matters relative to these two big events will be discussed and officers will be elected. The exposition promises to eclipse all previous efforts in that direction and the schools are very enthusiastic about their exhibits. The field meet is always a big success and there is great rivalry as to which school will carry off the pennant.

ASSESSMENT IS ATTACKED

Says It Is Assessed for Higher Percentage Than Other Taxpayers.

WHAT THE STATE CLAIMS IN REPLY TO COMPANY.

That about $88,000 delinquent taxes for 1910 and 1911 are due from the Duluth Street Railway company.

That the failure of the company to pay its personal property tax has caused the city of Duluth to be short $70,000 in its tax receipts.

That the physical valuation of the company's property on May 1, 1911, was approximately $2,000,000.

That its bonded indebtedness was at that time about $3,000,000.

That the market value of its stock on May 1, 1911, was 3,920,000.

That under the peculiar tax law of Minnesota regarding the taxation of corporation franchises, concerns like the Duluth Street Railway company are about the only taxpayers which are allowed to enjoy the privilege of deducting their debts.

That in this instance the bonded indebtedness deducted amounts to about $1,000,000 more than the valuation of all of the real estate and personal property holdings of the company.

Saturday afternoon, the Duluth Street Railway company filed with the clerk of the district court an answer in the 1911 personal property tax proceedings, in which taxes became delinquent on March 1, 1912.

The answer sets up substantially the same kind of a defense as was made by the company in the 1910 delinquent personal property tax proceedings, which was recently tried in district court and which is awaiting the decision of Judge W. A. Cant.

In the 1911 answer, however, the city assessor is brought into the case, it being claimed that he conspired with the county and state tax officials to discriminate against the company by assessing its personal property at a much higher rate in proportion to its value than other property is assessed at in the city, county and state.

The company alleges that the city assessor in the year 1911 assessed the personal property of the Duluth Street Railway company at 45 per cent of its true full value, although all other personal property in the city is assessed at about 33 1-3 per cent of its true value.

It further alleges that the city assessor and the boards of equalization assessed the personal property holdings of the company, not only its assets, but also upon its debts and liabilities, so far as they were represented by the bonds, which secure the mortgage on the property of the company.

One-Third in Superior.

As in its former suit, the company claims that not more than two-thirds of its assets on May 1, 1911, were located on the Duluth side of the bay and that not less than one-third was in Superior.

The answer further contends that the value of the stock of the Duluth Street Railway company, so far as it represented assets in St. Louis county, did not exceed $2,613,334 on May 1, 1911.

The position of the company is clearly defined in a further allegation to the effect that in assessing the personal property of all other taxpayers of the city of Duluth at 33 1-3 per cent, while the assessment of the Duluth Street Railway company was made on the basis of 45 per cent of its full taxable value, the Constitution of the state of Minnesota and of the United States had been violated.

The company claims that certain constitutional provisions have been violated in that the taxes on its personal property were not levied uniformly with other property of the same class, and that the Duluth Street railway would, if the tax were paid, be deprived of its property "without due process of law," and also that it is being denied an "equal protection of the law."

References are made, calling the attention of the court to several constitutional provisions, some of which are as follows:

"Article nine, section 1, Minnesota constitution: All taxes to be raised in this state shall be as nearly equal as may be, and all property on which taxes are to be levied shall have a cash valuation and be equalized and uniform throughout the state."

"In article five, amendments to the United States constitution: No person shall be deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law."

"Fourteenth amendment, United States constitution: Nor shall any state deprive any person of life, liberty or property without due process of law, nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws."

Two Cases Alike.

The position of the state in the fight to enforce the 1911 tax will be practically the same as the stand taken in the 1910 tax matter, in which it showed, so it is claimed, that approximately 80 per cent of the total assets of the company at the Head of the Lakes were located in Duluth and subject to taxation here.

The state will also endeavor to show that the personal property of the traction company was not assessed in 1910 or in 1911 at more than 43 per cent of its full market value after its debts, or bonded indebtedness—amounting to $2,890,000 on May 1, 1911—had been deducted.

The state also takes the position that large amounts of other personal property such as bank shares, logs and lumber, lathes and shingles, coal on docks, etc., have been assessed from 40 to 75 per cent of their full value.

In the 1910 tax case, the state showed by the engineer of the Wisconsin railroad and warehouse commission that the physical valuation of all of the property of the Duluth Street Railway company on May 1, 1910, did not exceed $890,000 and the testimony of Engineers Burch and Pillsbury showed that the Duluth holdings of the company amounted to $1,430,500. On this basis, 78.6 per cent of all of the company's property is in Duluth and 21.4 per cent in Superior, it is claimed.

In the former case, the state also showed, it is claimed, that for a period of two years, from June, 1908, to June, 1910, that approximately 80 per cent of the net earnings of the company were earned in Duluth and that for the period of six years, from June, 1904, to June, 1910, inclusive, that 78.7 per cent of the net earnings of the concern were made in Duluth. On this showing, it is claim of the state that all values in excess of the physical valuation must be apportioned to Duluth and Superior in the same proportion as the net earnings are in the two cities.

The personal property tax levied against the street railway company for 1911 was $42,616. The money and credits item charged against the company on its own assessment of $246,000, was $792, none of which has been paid. In February, 1911, the company tendered $27,165.93 to the county treasurer as payment for the 1911 tax, but it was refused as insufficient. The real estate tax for both years has been paid and is not involved in the litigation.

As a result of the company contesting the personal property tax for two years, about $88,000 of back taxes claimed by the state are unpaid. The street railway company has tendered during that period, about $57,000, which it admits it owes.

In view of the fact that about fourfifth of the total amount of taxes collected from the Duluth Street Railway company are turned over to the city of Duluth, it is claimed that the city treasury is short about $70,000 in its tax receipts, as compared with former years when it has received money from this source.

She is survived by two sons and five daughters. They are: Charles and Erward Hansen of Duluth, Mrs. G. Sheehan, Mrs. A. G. Kelley, Mrs. C. F. Hector, Mrs. K. Durkey and Mrs. F. M. Monkhouse, also of Duluth. She also leaves a sister, Mrs. H. H. Saulle of Lemon, S. D.

WILL SELL STATE LAND WEDNESDAY

Considerable interest is being taken by land speculators and farmers about the county in the sale of school and other state lands in St. Louis county, which will be held at the courthouse Wednesday.

Theodore Nelson, chief deputy under State Auditor S. G. Iverson of St. Paul, will be in Duluth to conduct the sale, which will be held in the county commissioners' room, beginning at 10 o'clock in the morning.

County Auditor Halden has been called upon to furnish about 100 interested people with lists of the lands which will be offered for sale at that time. The lands will be sold to the highest bidders.

ISLE OF PINES

I own 40 acres adjoining one of my grape fruit groves on the Isles of Pines. I want to sell 10 acres each to four persons, who will improve. I will personally superintend the clearing and planting and care for the groves until in bearing.

I will make easy terms; anyone with ordinary means can in a few years be possessed of an income that will support them for life. It is a wonderful opportunity for those who wish to get out of the rut, have something worth while with a very little effort.

This is an exceptional opportunity; one that you cannot afford to overlook. Come and see me now.

JIM FLYNN IN DULUTH

Johnson's Opponent Says He Will Win Heavyweight Championship.

Jim Flynn, looking in the best of condition, and his manager, Jack Curley, and also Al Williams, the big Eastern fighter, are registered at the St. Louis hotel, arriving late today from Chicago.

"Flynn will beat Johnson as sure as you are standing here," said Curley. "If Flynn wins it means $1,000,000 between us. I am banking my fortune on the result of this fight and we are not going into it for the loser's end. I will select some secluded spot and Jim will train there for at least two months before the date of the battle.

"There is not a chance in the world of the fight not being held. A win for Flynn is what we are after, and he is the greatest short odd proposition that has ever been offered in this country. Flynn is the toughest fighter in the world today. Al Kaufman will tell you this. No man was ever any good after Flynn got through with him."

Here is what Flynn thinks of the coming fight:

"Johnson can't hurt me. I am in the prime of life right at the present time and am taking the best of care of myself. I know what Johnson can do, because I fought him. He couldn't put me out then, and I was only a kid and didn't know the first thing about boxing. I will beat Jack Johnson just as sure as the next Fourth of July rolls around."

J. A. Hickey, manager of the St. Louis hotel, has arranged a banquet for Flynn, Curley, Williams, the sporting writers of the two Duluth papers and a number of fans of the city, which will be held in the new Woodland cafe after the show tonight.

NEW LEAGUE WILL HOLD MEETING.

According to the news that came from Superior today, there will be another meeting of the Central International league some time the present week. There is the matter of the election of a president and the appointment of a secretary, and it is also expected that some definite arrangements for the season will be made at the forthcoming meeting.

According to W. J. Sommer the league is a positive arrangement, and Mr. Sommer says there is no doubt whatever but that the final arrangements will be made within the next few days. The president of the Superior club believes that arrangements will be made for playing Sunday baseball at East Grand Forks, thereby removing the objection some of the business men of Grand Forks have for backing that city in the organization of a team in the new league.

MOTOR BOAT ON THE RIVER

Only one motor boat enthusiast braved the rough weather yesterday. R. B. Whiteside and his "Silver Spray" were out for a short trip up the river yesterday afternoon.

Other motor boat owners spent yesterday in drawing their boats out of the winter houses and preparing them for the coming season. A number of the boats are to be repainted this year, while a still larger number of new boats are to be seen on the water for the first time.

HIGHWAYMEN MAKE RICH HAUL

Thomas Healy, Proctor saloonkeeper, reported to the police early Sunday morning that he had been held up and robbed of $1,300 by two men shortly before midnight Saturday.

He stated that he was relieved of his wealth in front of Stewart's store on the main street of the village. Healy was unable to furnish any good description of the stick-up artists, saying that all he could tell was that one was short and the other tall.

He stated that after they had relieved him of his wealth at the point of a revolver he was ordered to start walking. Complying with their order he started down the street and the highwaymen disappeared.

Healy asserted that a part of the $1,300 in gold and silver was carried by him in a small grip, while the balance, in greenbacks, was in a bill book in an inside pocket. He says that he was on his way home when the two men jumped from the shadows of the Stewart store and ordered him to hold up his hands. He says that he did so, and that while one of the men kept him covered, the other went through his clothes and took the grip.

STEEL MILLS ARE PRAISED

Report of Committee of Stockholders Is Made Public.

New York, April 15.—The report of the committee of stockholders of the United States Steel corporation, appointed to investigate labor conditions at the mills, was made public today and gives the corporation a clean bill of health. Charles M. Cabot, who instigated the investigation into labor conditions, was present when the report was made. The report of the labor committee says:

"Our investigation leads us to believe that it is feasible and practicable to eliminate the long term formerly followed in the changing of shifts in continuous process work and that it should be done; further, that conscientious efforts should be made by all to reduce to a positive minimum any undue length in work hours that emergencies and unforeseen conditions may sometimes demand."

When a piece of machinery becomes useless to you, a "For Sale" ad becomes useful to you. What has come to be "junk" to you. What has come thing needed to some one else.

NO REVIEW OF JAPANESE CASE

Supreme Court Will Not Look Into Arrests for Sealing.

Washington, April 15.—The United States supreme court today declined to review certain legal questions arising out of the dramatic seizure in Alaskan water in 1910 of the Japanese sealing schooner "Tokai Maru" by the United States revenue cutter "Perry."

Each of the thirty-eight members of the crew was fined $500 by the United States commissioner in Alaska. Later the circuit court of appeals held that the crew as a whole and not the individuals should have been fined. The ship was held liable for this fine. Choemon Ki Kuchi, owner of the ship, asked the supreme court for a review.

NORTH BUTTE PROSPEROUS

Cost of Mining Leaves a Splendid Margin of Profit.

Company's Holdings Enlarged —Ore Contains Much Silver.

The annual report of the North Butte Mining company, issued today, shows the net cost of producing a pound of copper to be 9.975 cents. The total cost of producing the metallic mixture from the company's mines is 12.533 cents per pound, but from this is deducted the value of the silver and gold, 2.558 cents, leaving 9.975 cents as the approximate net cost of producing a pound of copper. With copper at its present price, there is a very good margin of profit.

During the year 1911 the company declared from dividends of $123,000 each, a total of $492,000. But this is not all that the company earned, the net earnings for the year 1911 being $641,857.93. As the capital stock of the company is $6,150,000, this is an excellent showing.

During the year there were shipped 426,203 net tons of ore and there were treated at the smelter 410,694 dry tons of ore, of which 27,114 dry tons or 6.6 per cent were first-class and 383,580 dry tons or 93.4 per cent were second-class. This ore produced 23,816,669 pounds of gold. Settlements received for metals produced during the year were based upon prices averaging as follows: Copper, 12.561 cents per pound; silver, 53.709 cents per ounce; gold, $20 per ounce.

Has No Debts.

Except for the current month's labor and supply accounts, the company has no indebtedness.

The company's mines are situated in the Butte district in Silver Bow county, Montana. Since the last annual report, the company has purchased an additional three-tenth interest in the Carlisle and Protection lode mining claims, situated in Silver Bow county, Montana. The company now owns a solid block of mineral ground with all side and end lines definitely defined, located in Silver Bow county, Montana.

It owns all of the following lode mining claims: Edith May, Copper Dream, Mines' Union, Jessie, Hancock, Ground Hog, Paul, Croesus, Snowball, Lynchburg, John Emmit, Berlin, Leaf, Gustavus, Eva and Margaretta. It also owns fractional portions and undivided interests in the following lode mining claims: Speculator, Adirondack, Sioux Chief, East Gem, West Gem, Carlisle, Protection and Granite Mountain.

Development Work.

"During the year the Speculator shaft was sunk to the 2,800 level and all the preparatory work has now been completed on both the 2,600 and 2,800 levels. During the present month a cross-cut will be completed on the 2,800 level to connect with the high ore workings for drainage and ventilation purposes and the development of all of our veins, both north and south, on these levels can then be accomplished speedily and at reasonable cost.

"The Granite Mountain shaft was completed to a depth of 1,048 feet. This work is still being pushed and should reach the 2,000-foot level by October 1, next.

"During the year our lateral development work was very largely confined to the Croesus and Snowball veins and has resulted in opening up valuable ore bodies in each of them. A very noticeable fact in connection with these northern veins is the comparatively high silver values contained in the ores there developed.

"The recent opening up of the Adirondack vein on the 2,200 level and the discovery there within the last week of a body of ore 6 feet in width, carrying 7.3 per cent copper and 7.6 ounces silver is very satisfactory, as the 1,800 level, directly above this, showed about 4 feet of the same grade of ore.

"A gradual decrease in our ore reserve was noted from time to time during the year in the quarterly reports of our general manager, copies of which were mailed to all stockholders. Such decrease has been due to the fact that the levels of the Edith May and Jessie veins above the 2,400 had been largely explored prior to the year 1911, and that the work of sinking the Speculator shaft, which occupied a large part of the year, precluded any great amount of development work on the levels below the 2,200 in these two veins and necessitated the doing of the greater part of said development work on our northern veins, to reach which, long cross-cuts had to be made from our older workings, consuming a great deal of time and necessarily making slow work in reaching and developing these veins, and to the further fact that the opening up of these northern veins, while disclosing ores of a higher grade, did not develop quantities of ore to correspond with the tonnage of the ores extracted from the Edith May and Jessie veins. It does not appear that these conditions are likely to be changed until the development work on the 2,400, 2,600 and 2,800 levels reaches the ore bodies on these levels. This work is now being pushed with a maximum of speed consistent with economic practice."

votes will go to Roosevelt. But those who doubt their final delivery to Taft are beginning to discuss the suggestion of a dark horse. This suggestion does not come from the Taft headquarters. The hard blows delivered by Illinois, Maine and Pennsylvania have not in the slightest degree dismayed the Taft managers. While they have encouraged the Roosevelt managers and led the candidate himself to assert that he would certainly win, it is nevertheless true that dark horse suggestions proceed from the Roosevelt forces almost wholly.

Do Not Suggest La Follette.

Curiously enough the beneficiaries of at least eight years of earnest agitation on the part of Senator La Follette, the Roosevelt people do not suggest his name. Yet if there is one man who is fairly to be regarded as the leader of the Progressive forces it is the Wisconsin senator. When Roosevelt was as standpat as Joe Cannon is today, La Follette was fighting for the doctrines now preached by the colonel from Oyster Bay. For that matter so was William J. Bryan. But La Follette fought always within the ranks of the Republican party. No taint of irregularity attaches to him. And yet the bitter spirit of antagonism which has sprung up between the three really great Republican leaders, Taft, Roosevelt and La Follette, is such that even those who think it inexpedient to nominate one of the first two, do not suggest the third. They look rather for a man who has no delegates, though La Follette at the present writing has thirty-six.

Of course the discussion turns strongly to Justice Hughes. Democrats admit that he would be a most dangerous candidate for them to meet. As an executive, Governor Hughes won little but applause. Naturally as a partisan he did encounter a certain amount of purely political opposition, but that is to be expected by any man in a gubernatorial position. There is further an undercurrent of distrust as to the forces which led to his appointment to the supreme bench. That again is one of those lines of criticism which are necessarily discounted because the just foundation for them cannot be fixed. Effort has been made to secure legislation which would compel a president to make public the names of the men or the public forces that had pressed the candidacy of any man for place on the United States bench, either district or supreme. But thus far nothing of the sort has been done, and while vague reports have been circulated about the forces back of Hughes, they are so vague that they would not materially affect his undoubted high standing with the people as a whole. Still but few people in Washington believe that he would retire from the supreme bench under any circumstances to become a presidential candidate, and his closest and most intimate friends know that would be unwise to go to the supreme complete acquiescence of President Taft himself.

Furthermore, some men in public life who claim that such failure as has attached to the Taft administration has been due to the fact that he possesses a judicial rather than an executive temperament and that it would b unwise to wo to the supreme court for a successor.

Lively Biblical Discussion.

Senator Jones of Washington, who cast the fifth vote in the Lorimer committee for the vindication of that statesman, is much disquieted by the fact that the people of Illinois in their recent primaries did not seem to agree with him or to approve either his vote in committee or Senator Cullom's vote last year in the senate. But he turned for consolation to the Scriptures and he discovered in the famous decision of Pontius Pilate that the voice of the people was always wrong, and that judges, even though they sat on the bench of a senatorial investigating committee who gave heed to public clamor, were unfit for their trust.

As a result of this scriptural discovery, a lively Biblical discussion took place in the senate with Senator Owen of Oklahoma attacking alike the ethics and the scriptural accuracy of Jones. The whole debate is worth reading, but this paragraph will perhaps give an idea of its acrimony: Senator Jones had insisted that he would not yield to any popular clamor. He put it in this phrase: "The only difference between Pontius Pilate and myself on that proposition is that I am not going to yield to clamor."

Mr. Owen: "I congratulatee the senator from Washington on having established an important difference between himself and Pontius Pilate. In the first place, Pontius Pilate was not an upright judge. He was a standpat, ple-counter politician from the house of Tiberius Caesar, serving as governor of Judea under the patronage system of the Roman empire."

With Mr. Roosevelt "slugging standpatters over the ropes;" with La Follette describing the Roosevelt Progressive as of "the soft shell variety," and with Owen attempting to identify the entire standpat element with Pontius Pilate, the fight surely seems interesting.

ILLINOIS STEEL PLANT POWER HOUSE WRECKED.

Chicago, April 15.—A gas explosion which endangered the lives of more than 100 workmen, wrecked the power house of the Illinois Steel company's South Chicago plant Sunday, causing a property loss of more than $100,000. Reports of fatalities in the accident were denied by officials of the steel company.

DAVID M. ROBERTS HANGS HIMSELF IN AN ASYLUM.

Chicago, April 15.—David M. Roberts, formerly a well-known Oshkosh, Wis., attorney, who suffered a nervous breakdown about a year ago, killed himself by hanging at the Dunning asylum Sunday. Roberts was committed to Dunning April 12 by Judge Pond of the county court. Officials at Dunning said that Roberts at various times had been confined for brief periods in institutions in Wisconsin, Minnesota and South Dakota.

DULUTH PLANNING TO ENTERTAIN STATE CHRISTIAN ENDEAVORERS

Tuesday evening of this week the executive committee of the Christian Endeavor union will meet at the First Presbyterian church to make final arrangements for the holding of the state convention here in June.

The program for the three-days' session is in the hands of a state committee, of which Rev. J. A. McGauhey is a member. President C. J. Hockin of the city union has appointed the following chairmen of committees to take charge of the local arrangements: Decorating, Ellis McAllister; housing delegates, Miss Belle Austin; social, Miss Lulu Grogan; depot, Willis Churchill; publicity, John C. Johnson; recreation, Arthur E. Manthey; good fellowship, Miss Anna Hicken; information, Ralph Page; ushers, C. J. Warren; registration, Charles Towner; pulpit supply, Rev. J. A. McGaughey, assisted by Rev. Black and Rev. Mutchler; transportation, A. C. Kienly.

From 500 to 600 delegates are expected to attend from the various societies in the state and as it is seven years since Duluth entertained a similar gathering of Endeavorers it is expected great benefit will result to the local societies. All members of the executive and central committee are being urged to attend the meeting at the First Presbyterian church.

NEGRO MURDERER SHOT DOWN BY SHERIFF.

Tampa, Fla., April 15.—Trailed into a swamp by bloodhounds and surrounded by a posse, Sam Arline, a negro who earlier in the day shot a negress and killed C. M. McIntosh, his employer, who rebuked him, broke through the first cordon of men and was fatally shot by Sheriff John Logan near here Sunday.

KILLED BY BACILLI HE WAS STUDYING.

Boston, Mass., April 15.—Inoculated with "gas bacilli," of which he has been making a scientific study, Dr. Louis Nelson, an instructor in the Harvard medical school died at the Eliot hospital Sunday, a martyr to his profession. He was 34 years old.

For nearly a year Dr. Nelson had been making a special investigation of a recently discovered "gas bacillus," believed to generate gases in the human system. While engaged in this laboratory work two months ago he became inoculated and grew steadily worse. At the hospital it was found the bacilli had produced intestinal inflammation too severe to admit of an operation.

The 72d Degree is the Linofelt Rite

AND you and your family have a right to that 72nd degree. Their health and your pocketbook both demand that the temperature in your house be equable—summer and winter.

Of course, you might attain it by burning even more coal than you do now every winter. But the only reasonable method is to use —because by using Linofelt you can chop 40 per cent off your present coal bill, as proved by hundreds of actual tests.

LINOFELT

Linofelt is a quarter-inch thickness of prepared flax fibres bound between two sheets of building-paper. It comes in rolls 36 inches wide and is used like building-paper, but it excels 38 thicknesses of building-paper in stopping the passage of heat and cold. Linofelt in the walls of the house furnishes genuine "thermal insulation."

But don't think that it can be used only on new buildings. By laying Linofelt under the roof or on the attic floor any house can be given the Linofelt rite. Ask your local agent about this today, and write now for vitally interesting information about this dwelling necessity.

MERIT IN MEDICINE

The continued success of a medicine depends entirely upon its merit. For nearly forty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been demonstrating its worth among women, as the greatest of all remedies for female ills, and the tremendous volume of letters on file in the Pinkham laboratory, at Lynn, Mass., from grateful women in all parts of the United States and Canada, are ample proof of its merits.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a good, old fashioned remedy and enormous quantities of roots and herbs are used every year in making it the standard remedy for female ills.

THE EVENING STORY

Cornelia's Customer

By Harriet Lummis Smith.

"It really isn't anything to get excited about, Aunt Nancy," Cornelia said soothingly. Cornelia herself was not at all excited. Her serenity was in most agreeable contrast to Aunt Nancy's fluttering perturbation. To be sure, it was Aunt Nancy's silver closet to which Cornelia had lost the key.

"If it falls into the hands of a dishonest person," observed Aunt Nancy, on the point of tears, "then goodby to the silver including the loving cup from which Gen. Washington drank and the tablespoon on which your great grandfather Bennett cut his teeth."

"Dear Aunt Nancy," Cornelia reasoned kindly, "unless the dishonest person were a mind reader, too, he could not possibly know that this particularly key fitted your silver closet." She was about to continue her argument when Aunt Nancy executed one of her illogical flops.

"It will be necessary to cancel our invitation for Friday," remarked Aunt Nancy. "With the silver locked up and only half a dozen spoons and three forks available it is out of the question to entertain a dinner party."

Cornelia looked at her watch. "I will get a locksmith at once," she replied. "The key can be ready by tomorrow night and Mary can clean the silver in the morning." She went to put on her street things, wondering that Aunt Nancy could not see how much better it was to be calm and philosophical in case of some trifling annoyance like losing the key of the silver closet.

Cornelia is an observing young woman. Weeks before, when nothing was further from her expectation than the need of such services, she had noticed the sign "Locksmith" in a window of a little hardware store near where she was waiting for the car. In the direction of this hardware store she now bent her steps. A bell clanged loudly as she opened the door, and a wizened, elderly person swooped out from a back room and asked what was wanted. Cornelia explained. "I should like to have you see to the matter at once, if you please," she said, "for my aunt is in a hurry for the key."

"Can't do a thing before Saturday," snapped the locksmith seemingly offended because she had not wished to purchase a range for the kitchen.

"But you must, you know," Cornelia answered him kindly. "I must have the key tonight. My aunt entertains at dinner tomorrow."

"I won't have nobody to leave the store before Saturday," persisted the locksmith obstinately. "Then my grandson 'll be out of school and if he feels like it, he'll stay here while I get the impression of your lock. Them jobs is more trouble than they are worth."

"Yes, but you see I can't wait for your grandson," she explained. "You will have to go at once. I will stay and take care of the things until you are back."

She seated herself on a stool behind the counter as an evidence of good faith. "Anybody in charge of this here store has got to be on the job," the owner exclaimed. "Only last week a rake was stolen out front while I was waiting on a customer. There's an ice cream freezer by the steps now that's worth three fifty. If somebody was to come along and snatch that up——"

"Nobody will snatch anything while I'm here," said Cornelia. "The address is on this card, and please say to the servant that you are the locksmith. Miss Hawes was to send." She folded her arms and gave her attention to a shelf of cooking utensils several feet above the locksmith's head. That individual, after several half hearted attempts to distract her attention, put on his coat and departed on his errand.

The echo of his footsteps had hardly died away when the customer appeared. "Good morning," said Cornelia, rising. "Can I do anything for you today?" Then with sudden dismay she realized that out of the stock in the hardware store, she knew the price of but one article. It happened, however, that Cornelia is a young woman of resources. "Perhaps I can interest you in ice cream freezers" she said with her most business like air. Oddly enough this was exactly what the young man was looking for. "Oh, yes," he exclaimed, with seeming relief. "I should like to look at something first class." Cornelia led the way to the door. "This is our best freezer," she said, indicating by a gesture the article in question. "If you'll just set it inside, please—its quite heavy."

"It a trifle large for the average family, isn't it?" asked the man. Cornelia took alarm. She would have had no objection to selling a smaller freezer had she known the price of the others in stock.

"I shouldn't advise you to get a small size," she said firmly. "It is much better to have a freezer large enough to meet an emergency. Your wife might wish to entertain several at luncheon, you know. And there is nothing to prevent making a small amount of cream in a large freezer." The man was impressed. "That's a good idea," he exclaimed. "Perhaps a still larger one would be even better in case we wanted to give a regular party."

It was necessary to head him off again. "No," said Cornelia with decision. "If you give a party you will need a caterer. A freezer larger than this would be in the way."

"That's right," agreed the customer, who for tractability left nothing to be desired. "I'll take it; what's the price?" Cornelia had no idea that business success was so simple a matter. It occurred to her that the ability of the men who made fortunes had been greatly overestimated. Then a sudden startling thought broke in on her self-congratulation. In her efforts to ensnare the customer, she had forgotten the price the locksmith had made. "Tr-four-fifty and a half," she said uncertainly.

The customer made no protest. He drew a $5 bill from his pocket and Cornelia made change from her own little purse. "Now, I'll have this sent, please," he was beginning.

"Oh," Cornelia looked at him in blank dismay. "I'm afraid I can't send it. Not before Saturday, anyway," she added, remembering the grandson. "I suppose it would be too heavy for you to carry, would it?"

There was appeal in the gaze she lifted to his. She could not bear the thought of losing a sale for so trifling a reason. Luckily the customer was still accommodating. He protested hastily that the freezer was not at all heavy, and looked about him with the air of a man about to make purchases with a view of setting up housekeeping. Cornelia felt it was time to assume a distant manner and she did so with immediate effect. The customer left the store carrying his single purchase in his hand.

When the locksmith returned grumbling, Cornelia announced her sale, and he looked at her with reluctant admiration. "You done him out of a dollar," he observed. "That freezer wasn't worth but $3.50. His sudden accession of respect for Cornelia received an immediate check from the dismay with which she received the news. "Don't you think he will come back?" she asked anxiously. "He has such a polite manner about him. I can't bear to think I cheated him out of a dollar."

The locksmith grudgingly assented that he might return. He added darkly: "It would have been a different thing if you'd sold it a dollar under price. We'd never see hair or hide of him again." The customer did return within a few days. He came in looking about him, in the same manner which had characterized him on his previous visit, and yet he did not look to be a young man lacking of determination. After he had purchased a screwdriver and a pound of nails he came to the point. "The young lady who waited on me, before, your daughter, perhaps——"

"She ain't no daughter or mine," said the locksmith. "Nor a clerk. She was asking about you this very day," he added calmly.

The young man spun about. "What?" he shouted.

"She lives with her aunt at the Rutherford apartments. She wanted a key made for a lock, and she stayed in the store while I went to get the impression, she overcharged you a dollar for that freezer," explained the locksmith, reluctantly, opening his cash drawer, "and she asked if you had been back to complain." It seemed that the young man did not care about the dollar.

"See here," the locksmith said. "The young woman came down this morning to bring the key. It stuck a little you know. I've filed it off and it's ready to take back, if you'd like the job. I promised her I'd send my grandson when he returned from school."

The young man thought it would be a pity to trouble the grandson. He said, with feeling, that growing boys need all the playtime they could get. At the entrance to the Rutherford apartments he met Cornelia coming out.

"Oh," cried Cornelia, dropping her purse in her excitement, "have you come about that dollar."

"I've come to bring your key," said he, and gave it to her.

Explanations followed and then came argument. Cornelia was not sure that selling an ice cream freezer to a stranger constituted an introduction. The young man, on the other hand, was positive about it.

"But your wife," Cornelia hinted, delicately.

The young man blushed. "You invented the wife and I held my tongue. I was afraid that if I explained that I was a bachelor you'd wonder what I wanted with an ice cream freezer."

"What did you want with it?" she was indiscreet enough to ask.

The young man's reply was not verbal, but such as it was it was responsible for a marked increase in his questioner's color.

"Oh, well," said Cornelia, swinging the key on her forefinger, "it may come in handy some time," and sure enough it did.

SCHOOL FOR GARDENERS

First Session of 1912 School Is Held at the Y. M. C. A.

Pupils Are Long on Enthusiasm and Short on Experience.

The first session of the 1912 garden school which will be conducted under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A., and the Commercial club, was held this afternoon at the Y. M. C. A.

With afternoon and evening sessions, the school will last a week. The school for poultry raisers will begin on April 22 and last until April 27.

"We have been rather surprised at the class of entries in the garden school," said an official of the Y. M. C. A., this morning. "Many men of means, who wish this year to start a backyard garden, but who have never done any of the work before and are short on experience, have enrolled with us.

"Never has there seemed to be greater interest in gardening and this, we believe, is the direct result of gardening departments established in local newspapers. Everybody seems interested in making a garden this year and it is surprising how little they seem to know about it. All they do know is that they are determined to have a garden and want to enlist with others just as anxious to have the knowlege that will be imparted at the spring school.

"The garden idea is one that is interesting people from one end of the city to the other. From the list of inquiries it seems that every one in the city is this year planning on a garden."

The cost of the course is but $2. This includes the text books as well as the lessons. The price is placed at this low figure that every one may avail themselves of the opportunity.

The couse includes special instruction in preparing the soil, laying out the garden, planning the position of the plant, the buying of seeds, tools and appliances, hot beds, greenhouses, cold frames, indoor cultivation of plants to be later set out in the garden, outdoor cultivation and tricks of gardening.

It also includes planting, cultivating, weeds and how to control them, insects and how to treat them, diseases of the garden crop, harvesting, picking and marketing, fruits and much other information that will be valuable to those who are about to have a backyard garden or raise produce on a more extensive scale.

The poultry school will begin on April 22, shortly after the garden school closes and many have already made application to take the course.

Ninth District Convention.

Thief River Falls, Minn., April 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Republican convention for the Ninth district will be held here in the Auditorium to elect two delegates and two alternates to the Republican national convention. The county conventions to elect delegates to this district convention will be held in the respective counties on May 13 at places designated by the county committees.

PROBE OF WESTERN RATES IS STARTED

Commerce Commission Looking Into Advance in Freight Charges.

Washington, April 15.—An investigation of the proposed new classification of freight by Western railroads was begun today by the interstate commerce commission.

The advance in rates under the new classification was so considerable that the commission suspended them from Feb. 15 until June 14, in order to obtain time in which to inquire into the provisions. While the classification affects directly the Middle West, if it should become effective it would change the rates of Eastern railroads both to and from the Western territory.

OIL INSPECTORS OF WISCONSIN TO CONFER.

Madison, Wis., April 15.—State Oil Inspector Louis F. Meyer has called a conference of his deputies to be held in the assembly chamber of the state capitol here on Monday, April 22, for the purpose of issuing new instructions regarding the testing of kerosene or gasoline and demonstrating the methods of making such tests.

"If the oil inspection law is properly enforced it will result in the saving of many lives and much property," says the inspector.

WILSON, DIX AND GAYNOR

Tariff Reform and Wise Business Regulation the Paramount Issue.

New York, April 15.—"What Would Jefferson Do?" was the subject of Governor Woodrow Wilson's address at a dinner given on Saturday night by the National Democratic club at the Waldorf Astoria in celebration of the 169th birthday of Thomas Jefferson. "As regards the economic policy of the country," said Governor Wilson, "it is perfectly plain that Mr. Jefferson would have insisted upon a tariff fitted to actual conditions; by which he would have meant, not the interests of the few men who find access to the hearings of the ways and means committee of the house and the finance committee of the senate, but the interests of the business men and manufacturers and farmers and workers and professional men of every kind and class. He would have insisted that the schedules should be turned wrong side out and every item of their contents subjected to the general scrutiny of all concerned. It is plain, also, that he would have insisted upon a currency system elastic indeed and suited to the varying circumstances of the money market in a great industrial and trading nation, but absolutely fortified and secured against a central control, the influence of coteries and leagues of banks to which it is now in constant danger of being subjected. He would have known that the currency question is not only an economic question, but a political question, and that, above all things else, control must be in the hands of those who represent the general interest and not in the hands of those who represent the things we are seeking to guard against.

"In the general field of business his thought would, of course, have gone about to establish freedom, to throw business opportunity open at every point to new men, to destroy the processes of monopoly, to exclude the poison of special favors, to see that whether big or little, business was not dominated by anything but the law itself, and that that law was made in the interest of plain, unprivileged men everywhere."

Tariff Is Paramount Issue.

"As we enter upon the presidential contest of 1912," said Governor John A. Dix of New York, "it is evident that the paramount issue is to be the reform of the tariff and the wise regulation of business on sane business lines. In the coming campaign the underlying ideas of the two great political parties will be definitely and clearly revealed. It will be seen and understood that Republicanism stands for a system of extreme protection that is destructive and demoralizing to every right and interest of the American people, while Democracy stands unequivocally for a program of tariff reform and reduction which is essential to the prosperity and happiness of the people and to the growth and expansion of American commerce and industry.

"To charge that Democratic tariff reform will be detrimental to American wealth producers and wage earners, whether on the farm or in the factory, is to talk cant and hypocrisy. Democratic leaders who have unfalteringly fought the heresy that a tariff tax levied not for revenue, but to increase and augment profits, ever was or ever can be beneficial to the people, who must pay the tax.

"The existing tariff brings into the treasury of the United States about $333,000,000 a year. For every dollar that goes into the treasury it is estimated that at least $5 go into the pockets of the tariff beneficiaries. The people of this country are every year paying to a favored class tribute money amounting to a billion and a half dollars. Is it possible to imagine a greater or more cruel outrage upon the toilers and consumers who pay the enormous sum?

"Causes economic as well as causes political, are operating to make the tariff the paramount issue in the pending campaign. For years past the consuming masses have been increasingly and justly resentful of the high cost of living. Various proposed remedies have proven utterly without efficacy, because they failed to address themselves to the great central cause, which is monopoly begotten and fostered under the protecting wing of extortionate tariff rates."

Obstructive Court Decisions.

"What Would Jefferson Say?" was the toast given Mayor William J. Gaynor. "There is a provision in all our constitutions, national and state," said Mayor Gaynor, "that no one shall be deprived of life, liberty and property without due process of law, or except by the law of the land, as it is sometimes expressed. This safeguard is not new with us. We derived it from England. It is expressed in Magna Charta. Nor is it peculiar to English-speaking countries. It is common in one form or another to every civilized government. No one ever thought of giving it anything but its plain meaning until in recent years, since 1870, in this country. Then some court attributed an indirect meaning to these words liberty and property. And this constitutional exegesis has deeveloped so rapidly that necessary social and economic progress is being blocked by court decisions. What would Jefferson say? We know what he would say. He opposed all forced constitutional interpretations by the courts while he was living, and said that if allowed to run their course the Constitution and our form of government would be sapped and mined by the courts in their natural tendency to aggrandize themselves with power over the legislative and executive branches of government.

"What would Jefferson say to having the Constitution of the United States amended so that every twenty years there would have to be a new constitutional convention to report amendments to the Constitution to be submitted to the vote of the people? No one doubts that Constitutions should not be changed in a hurry or rashly, but all the same as time goes on, and conditions change, Constitutions of government need to be changed. Lincoln said that a Constitution should not outlast a generation. He did not mean that at the end of that time the whole instrument should go by the board. He meant that it would probably need to be amended by that time. Our states have very generally recognized this by putting requirements in their Constitutions that constitutional conventions be held at stated intervals. It is now very cumbersome and difficult to amend the Federal Constitution. Should we not have it amended so as to call for constitutional conventions at stated periods? Would not Jefferson say yea?"

Other speakers were William J. Bryan and Senator James O'Gorman. Col. Bryan was received with much applause when he came into the banquet hall. Both Governor Wilson and Mayor Gaynor were greeted as "our next president." Thomas F. Donnelly, president of the National Democratic club read a letter from Speaker Clark regretting that his official duties prevented his presence at the banquet and prophesying a Deemocratic victory next November.

BRYAN, AT NEW YORK BANQUET, DECLARES HE IS NOT A CANDIDATE

New York, April 15.—Beginning a speech which many of his hearers characterized as the greatest effort of his life, just before Saturday midnight, Col. William Jennings Bryan swept the diners at the Jefferson day dinner of the Democratic club off their feet and for more than an hour discussed the developments of the present campaign with a fervor that resulted in the most unprecedented demonstration ever seen in the organization, heretofore known so far as Bryanites are concerned, as the "enemy's country." Bryan followed Woodrow Wilson, who caught a great cheer when he was introduced as the man "who had just carried Pennsylvania." But the Jersey governor's utterances were soon forgotten when Bryan launched into a declaration of his legislative principles and declared that today the Democracy of the nation was the only real party of progress.

"I am surprised at the depth of the feeling here in conservative New York for progressive principles," said Bryan. "And I am pleased when I recall that these are the very doctrines that I proclaimed here and which were repudiated right here."

Bryan also paid his respects to both Col. Roosevelt and President Taft. "It makes no difference which of them the Republicans nominate," he said, "each has killed off the other."

Bryan protested emphatically that he was not presidential timber this year. "When I was a candidate, I believed that I could poll more votes than any other Democrat. Now I believe that there are other Democrats who can poll more votes than I could. You thought that I fought hard for myself. Just give me a progressive candidate to fight for in the coming campaign and see what I will do for him."

Bryan assailed the newspaper owners who fight in the dark and declared that the country must demand publicity of the ownership of newspapers.

"There is no greater menace to this country than the newspapers owned by the vested interests," he said. "They chloroform their readers while their owners pick their pockets. Who can defend the man who stabs reputations in the dark and flatters in the open?"

UNITARIANISM IS OUTLINED

Secretary of Western Conference Speaks to Duluth Congregation.

Rev. Ernest C. Smith of Chicago, secretary of the Western Unitarian conference, spoke at the Unitarian church, yesterday morning, on "What Is Distinctive in Unitarianism."

"The Unitarian church has this in common with all other churches, that it seeks to beget a spirit of trust and to energize the souls of men," he said. "It further has back of it the common Christian heritage, the assimilated results of the spiritual experience of many generations of men. Yet, as a church, its position in Christendom is so unique that many people think of it as a foe to Christianity.

"For many people this uniqueness lies in its conception of human nature as 'not ruined but incomplete' and in its insistence upon the humanity of Jesus. In the realm of doctrine these ideas certainly are characteristic of the Unitarian church and differentiate it from the other churches of our time. Partly growing out of these doctrines and partly the source of them is what is even more characteristic and distinctive. This is what I shall call the method of Unitarianism, which covers its whole attitude towards the matter of belief. When this is once understood and accepted the doctrines which vary from traditional Christian teaching follow almost inevitably. But the doctrines express the letter of our faith and are subject to unceasing change, while our method expresses its unchanging spirit."

WORK IS PROCEEDING ON CALM LAKE GOLD CLAIMS

Seine River Gold Fields Called Second to None in Canada.

Lake of the Woods Mines Showing Signs of Renewed Life.

Mine Center, Ont., April 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—"The Seine river goldfields are second to none in Canada. I saw them for the first time in 1895 and was the locator of the Mayflower mine. My personal prospecting ranged mostly between Mine Center and Tti-ko-kan. I left the Porcupine camp to come back here and I propose to spend most of my summer around Mine Center to line up a number of fine properties on which I have my eyes."

The foregoing remarks were made by Charles R. Gehl on his way back to La Seine station after a visit to his home at Pine City, Minn. At present, Mr. Gehl is exploring a property east of La Seine station and west of Calm lake, close to the Canadian Northern railway.

"Our work on the claims belonging to the Calm Lake Gold Mining company is going smoothly and steadily," continued Mr. Gehl. "Our shaft is down eighty-five feet. At the depth of seventy-five feet, we have in a crosscut over fifty feet for the purpose of cutting a system of veins. We have through vein No. 2, finding it twenty feet wide, showing some free gold but not entirely clean quartz Vein No. 3 shows splendidly on the surface and is strong and wide. I have great hopes that it will show up well when we tap it with the crosscut for that will encourage my company to put in money very heavily.

"We built camps there last season and we have been working there all winter. We have a steam hoisting plant and everything in good shape for exploration work."

Mr. Gehl was in the Port Arthur silver mines before the decline in silver and made much money. After the slump in silver he went to Minnesota but, after the Hinckley fire, came over to the Seine river region of the Rainy river district. His Mayflower claim was sold to an English company, headed by Mr. Grant of Liverpool. A good fund was raised for exploration and big operations were about to be started when Mr. Grant suddenly died. The company's money was not wisely expended, debts accumulated and, finally, the heavy acreage was sold at sheriff's sale for an extreemely small indebtedness.

The Elizabeth.

Some years ago, Alan Sullivan, a mining engineer and son of Bishop Sullivan, took hold of a property near Harold lake which he named the Elizabeth. Considerable work was done and a ten-stamp mill installed. Commodious camp buildings were erected and Mr. Sullivan's quarters were made of peeled logs, finely finished in the interior. Oriental rugs covered the floor and paintings by the old masters hung on the walls. There was a fireplace of the kind you read about and a wine cellar second to none west of Toronto.

In the end, Mr. Sullivan failed to make his proposition pay and an unlucky Canadian bank took the property in satisfaction of an extremely heavy loan.

Some months ago A. McKinnon secured the property from the bank and has been working it all winter. About 15 men now are employed there and it is reported that some extremely fine ore is being hoisted. There also is a report that five stamps are dropping, but that has not been verified.

Thomas Rawn and associates are doing diamond drill work on a group of iron properties near Steeprock lake and reports have it that some very good results are accompanying this exploration work. There is iron in this region as well as gold.

The Foley.

Out at the Foley mine preparations are under way for a season of heavy work. It is hoped that the government will make an adequate appropriation for the Foley wagon road and that the work will be started as soon as the snow leaves and the mud dries up. Improvement of this road will greatly facilitate heavy hauling from the station to the mine. Just at present there is considerable snow and it is very soft, which makes travel unpleasant. Work planned for the season embraces the painting of the big stamp mill and the final overhauling of the heavy machinery in it. A new engine house will be erected at the south shaft and a new boiler bought to replace the one ruined by the terrible forest fires a year ago last July. A shaft will be sunk on the Galena vein and the Lucky Joe shaft will be unwatered and deepened, as well as considerable drifting done.

At the south shaft much dead work has been done. At a depth of 200 feet a cross-cut, driven 325 feet eastward, cut four veins from five to eight feet in width and a fifth vein, very rich, 17 inches wide. All those veins now are ready for drifting. An enormous tonnage of pay ore can be blocked out at a minimum expense of time and money.

Poles for a telephone line from the Foley mine to Mine Center station are being secured. A big garden will be planted and considerable clearing of second growth done on some very fertile ground. A very profitable farm could be made on the Foley mine. Vegetables grown there last year would have been prize winners at any agricultural exhibit.

It is stated that the Foley management is figuring on a commodious gasoline boat to ply between Fort Frances and the Foley mine. If the government does not do sufficient road work, coal will be barged from Ranier to the stamp mill for fuel instead of hauling it out from Mine Center station.

At Kenora.

The first gold discovered in the Rainy river district was near Kenora (then called Rat Portage) in the Lake of the Woods region. The past year saw a great revival in interest and activity over there. The Mikado was purchased from the English company and put in order. The enterprise now awaits the installation of an adequate cyaniding plant, as well as ample capital for opening up a huge ore tonnage. Capt. H. A. C. Machin, who has done so much for the district, is sponser for the successful outcome of matters.

It is reported that the pioneer Sultana mine is about to undergo a reorganization and resumption of activity. This mine is equipped with a 40-stamp mill and a complete accessory equipment of mining machinery. The Sultana is credited with the production of $1,250,000 worth of bullion.

A company with a capitalization of $2,000,000 now owns the noted Ophir mine about eight miles from Kenora. Some big and heavy operations are exptcted there this season. Judge Fishback of Chicago is said to be heavily interested in that enterprise.

Out at the old Scramble mine, in the slate belt tributary to Black Sturgeon lake, Charles Brent is hustling as hard as conditions will permit. The main working shaft has been retimbered to a depth of seventy-five feet. Steam power will be used for a couple of months yet, but after that electrical energy will make the wheels revolve. Mr. Brent has a contract with the municipality of Kenora for 1,500-horse power at the unusually low rate of $12 per horse power per annum.

A telephone runs from Kenora to the Scramble mine. It also is accessible over a good wagon road only five miles long. The Canadian Pacific railway has a station close at hand.

Cameron Island.

The Cameron Island syndicate will operate the Cameron Island property in Lake of the Woods this season. C. B. Routledge recently arrived at Kenora and left at once for the mine where he will remain until navigation opens. Cordwood has been cut and the complete mining plant, including a ten-stamp mill will be put in perfect order. Fred Pfau will continue as mine manager. This property formerly belonged to a pill and patent medicine maker in Buffalo, but was purchased by the Cameron Island syndicate a couple of years ago. Hamilton and Toronto men control the syndicate.

The Dryden belt is the liveliest place in the entire region between Port Arthur and the Manitoba boundary at the present time. A dozen properties are being opened up and many visitors are looking over the belt. Very recently L. B. Howey, an expert from Cobalt and Porcupine, who is widely and favorably known, inspected the Dryden area. Concerning his examination and opinions, he said:

"This is the best gold field in Ontario for the investor and prospector. Gold claims with favorable showings can be had at fair prices under favorable working conditions. A continuation of this state of affairs will bring prosperous times in gold mining in this district.

"Outside of the Hollinger and Dome mines at Porcupine, the Dryden area ranks equally with the gold districts in Northern and Eastern Ontario. It would be hard to find properties of greater merit than the Good Luck group now being developed by the Bewick-Moreing company of London.

Good for Prospectors.

"Out in this part of the province of Ontario, the prospector has an opportunity unequalled after the boom and wildcat rushes in Cobalt and Porcupine during the past five years, which conditions have kept the prospector from following his legitimate vocation. The grabbing of acreage has been the fashion in New Ontario and the 'valuable discovery' clause of the mining act has been a dead letter.

"Today, an unprospected and unstaked country is sought. You have it here. Much of the region is burned over. There are outcrops easily seen and examined. There are no muskegs to conceal the formations. Since Porcupine was discovered, schistose rocks have increased in favor and there are such areas here.

"I expect that on my report being favorable, a fair amount of capital now seeking investment in Porcupine can be diverted to this part of Ontario. I have a number of friends in Cobalt, Porcupine and Gowganda, who anxiously await my opinion of this district."

This expression strongly bears out The Herald's prediction, over a year ago, that there would be a heavy overflow from Porcupine to the old Rainy River district.

The outlook is for a very active season in the Manitou belt. Nearness of the spring break-up will make news scarce and infrequent for a few weeks directly from that locality.

BOYS MAKE PRIZE CATCH

Youthful Anglers Find Good Fishing in Lester Creek.

One Boy Lands Twenty-Four Speckled Trout Before Breakfast.

About the time the sun was rising behind the clouds over the lake this morning, the amateur fishermen began to arrive at Lester creek.

Every year Lester park is a favorite resort for Duluth fishermen on the opening day of the season, and some remarkable catches have been reported.

This morning James Wharton, jr., and his little brother, Robley, broke all records for Lester creek. The two boys started out early this morning and returned in time for breakfast with a creel full of speckled beauties. James hooked twenty-four fish ranging in size from eight to fourteen inches, and his brother caught five more, of about the same size. They were all speckled trout, not so-called "sharks" or "steel heads."

The two boys were fishing under the railroad bridge.

George Rhodes, another Lakeside boy, caught seven good sized fish, and there were a number of older anglers from Duluth who made fair catches, running from three or four to a dozen fish.

EASTON IS HELD BACK BY THE ICE

North Shore Boat Prevented From Making Her First Trip.

The steamer Easton did not leave on her first trip of the season for north shore points yesterday as it would have been impossible for her to get through the field of ice at this end of the lake.

The stiff wind of the past three days has driven the ice in and packed it solid. A strong wind from the southwest would probably take it out into the lake as it is now pretty well broken up.

The Easton will leave as soon as the weather conditions permit. A change in the wind is expected and as soon as the ice is blown away from the shore, the little boat will head down the lake.

If the boat can go through the ice, outside the harbor, it is thought that she will have no trouble in making the remainder of the trip.

"PEEPING TOM" CAUGHT AFTER EXCITING CHASE.

Max H. Yahrmatter was caught by the police last Saturday night after an exciting chase, during which three shots were fired at him by the pursuing policeman, who claims that he caught him in the act of peeping through the windows of the residence of Mrs. L. Koehler at 218 Second avenue west.

Earlier in the evening Mrs. Koehler complained at headquarters that some man was annoying and frightening her by his "Peeping Tom" activities. Patrolman Steffin was stationed there at 10 o'clock to wait for him.

It appears that about 11 o'clock the officer saw a man's face at the window of the room in which he was sitting. He threw up the window and made a grab for the owner of the face, but did not succeed in getting him. The man took to his heels, with the policeman hard after him.

The fugitive ran along Second street to First avenue west, where he turned into First alley. Patrolman Steffin fired three shots over his head without any result except to make him run a trifle faster. Patrolman Callahan's attention had been attracted by the shots and he started up First avenue. Seeing the racing man, he stepped into the shadows of the alley. As Yahrmatter ran past, Callahan stepped out and gathered him in.

At the police station Yahrmatter gave his occupation as a telegraph operator and said that he lived at Hibbing. Mrs. Koehler said she thought the man who had been annoying her was taller than Yahrmatter. The prisoner claimed that he was on his way to a Fourth street grocery. In police court today he pleaded guilty to trespass, and the case was set over until this afternoon.

been necessary to amputate both limbs.

Running from his bed to the apparatus, Capt. Solheim would have been a block or two away before the awful burning sensation would have been noticed by him. With the team galloping ahead at full speed he would have been in no position to take care of himself. Even should it have been possible to stop the headlong progress of the team he would have been without medicine or facilities to dress the terrible burns. He would have been practically helpless to help himself or relieve the excruciating agony which would have beset him.

Powerful Acid.

The terrible power of the acid was shown some time ago when a carboy of acid on one of the chemicals broke in an accident running to a fire. One of the horses was thrown to the pavement and the acid ran over his haunch. Before the animal could be extricated a ghastly hole had been burned in his flesh. Prompt attention saved its life, and fortunately blood poisoning did not set in.

The perpetrator of the cowardly plot is unknown. "There is no evidence to show who did it," said Capt. Solheim this morning.

There is a general feeling at the hall that the contemptible attempt upon the two officers was made by some man inside the hall. The men in the hall and the two intended victims dislike to think that such is the case, but they can arrive at scarcely any other supposition. Chief Randall said that the matter had been reported to him but that he is at sea as to the identity of the person responsible. Assistant Chief Wilson said that he had heard of the attempt but that the investigation is in other hands.

Lieut. Larson found the acid in his boots when preparing to "roll in" Friday night. He ran his hands along the tops of them to spread the tops so that they would not hamper him in getting into them in case he should be called out. He felt a damp foreign substance on the side of one of them. Calling one of the other men he told him about it and together they carried the boots into the wash room, where the bottoms of both boots were found to be filled with the chemical. The acid is said to act very slowly on rubber but examination showed that the leather interior of the boots had been eaten away.

Reported Saturday.

He did not make any report of his discovery until Saturday. Then he told Capt. Solheim of what he had found. He believed that he was the only man in the hall against whom the plot had been framed. A general investigation was started and it was learned that the same thing had happened to the boots of Capt. Solheim.

The boots of the other men in the station were found intact.

Through good fortune, which seems miraculous, no alarm was sent in from any part of the downtown district Friday night or Saturday morning.

The entire fire department is greatly aroused over the fiendish effort to cripple the two officers at No. 3 hall. They declare that no stone should be left unturned to discover the identity of the perpetrator and prosecute him to the limit of the law.

The men stationed at No. 3 are very much aroused. All of them are taking unusual precautions, and especially Capt. Solheim and Lieut. Larson. They feel that none of them are entirely safe so long as the affair remains a mystery.

have to be planted to oats and corn.

Too Early, Say Bears.

On the other hand, the bears pointed out that at Liverpool and elsewhere prices had not risen in anything like the degree recorded in Chicago, and that according to standards it was too early to determine the damage to the winter crop.

Under the sway of such radically opposite ideas, May wheat spun in astonishing fashion over a limit of price bounded by $1.07½ for low and $1.10½ for top. In less than a single quarter of an hour both these levels were reached, but there was no stability at either, nor at any point between. The greater persistency was shown perhaps in the return of the market to the upper plane.

Rows of Brown Stubble.

Statements which attracted much notice were to the effect that there was not one good field from Plymouth, Ind., to Logansport, and where drill rows showed at all it was only as brown stubble. In Lapreble, Montgomery and Clark counties, Ohio, it was asserted that out of fifty-two farms examined, thirty-four were entirely dead, eight that might make seed back and ten that would grade 60 per cent. Numerous damage reports were received also from Nebraska.

In consequence of such specific details of ruin, the market veered more strongly to the bull side, and hit as high as $1.11½ for May and $1.07¾ @ 1.07⅞ for July, gains of more than 1½c above the topmost figures of Saturday.

the national committeeman. At present Senator Penrose holds both positions.

It was said by a prominent member of the state committee last night that some of the Roosevelt delegates elected to the state convention are regular organization men who, while voting for Roosevelt delegates, will stand by the state organization on other questions.

Some of the organization leaders refrained from personally entering the primary as candidates for district delegates, as it had been expected they would be selected as delegates-at-large. Among those understood to have been looked upon as the likely delegates were Senators Penrose and Oliver, Governor Tener, Secretary of State Robert McAfee and State Senator James P. McNichol, leader of the party organization in Philadelphia.

Light Vote Polled.

The vote polled was light. In some districts it did not go much over 50 per cent of the vote at the last general election. Col. Roosevelt is said to have received his heaviest vote from the reform element represented by the Keystone party, which succeeded in electing a reform mayor in Philadelphia last year in the person of Rudolph Blankenburg for a term of four years.

Another element of strength of the Roosevelt forces was the 170,000 idle anthracite miners, among whom the former president ran strong.

S. S. TITANIC OF WHITE STAR LINE HITS ICEBERG; WIRELESS BRINGS RESCUE

lutely unsinkable, and although she may have sunk at the bow, we know that the boat would remain afloat. We do not attach any significance to the fact that there are no Marconi messages being received from the boat. We think it denotes nothing but the fact that the boat is in communication with other steamers, for she may have gotten off all the messages she wanted to send.

Officials "Not Worried."

"We are not at all worried about the loss of the ship, but we are extremely sorry for the annoyance and inconvenience to our passengers and the travelling public. You can make our views as forceful as you like regarding the capabilities of the ship to withstand any exterior damage. We figure the Virshian of the Allan line will be alongside the Titanic by 10 o'clock and we figure the Olympic of the White Star line will be with the Titanic at 3 p. m. and the Baltic an hour later."

Mr. Franklin also said, after giving out the formal statement, that they figured the boat 1,080 miles from New York and 600 miles from Halifax. He added that no direct communication had been received from the liner.

Struck at 10:25 Last Night.

A wireless message from the Titanic received shortly after midnight announced the liner had struck an iceberg off the banks of Newfoundland and was in a sinking condition. The accident occurred at 10:25 o'clock last night. Two hours later the ship's wireless apparatus, which had been working so badly as to permit of only intermittent and fragmentary messages, failed completely.

The last words sent by the operators told that the vessel was apparently doomed, "sinking by the head," and that the women passengers were being rushed into the lifeboats. A reassurring feature was that the weather was calm and clear and help only a few hours away.

The Titanic's first S. O. S. message was received by the Allan liner, Virginian, which, according to the position given by the Titanic's operator was not more than 170 miles away. The captain of the Virginian at once started his boat at full speed for the scene of the disaster, announcing to his brother officer on the bridge of the Titanic that the Virginian should reach him by 10 o'clock this morning.

About 1,150 Miles From New York.

The Titanic's accident happened in latitude 41.46 north, longitude 50.14 west, or about 1,150 miles due east of New York city and 450 miles south of Cape Race, Newfoundland, wireless station. All the messages from the ship were relayed to the Cape Race wireless station by the Virginian, and forwarded by the Marconi company to New York city.

The Titanic's twin ship, Olympic, which left New York last week, was also in direct communication with the sinking boat from a point about 300 miles away and started at once for the scene.

The Titanic, which is on her maiden trip, is in charge of Capt. E. S. Smith who was on the bridge of the big Olympic when that boat collided with the British cruiser Hawke last September.

Prominent People Aboard.

The Titanic carries 1,470 passengers, of whom 318 are in the first cabin and 262 in the second cabin, and a crew of 860 men. A large percentage, if not a majority of the passengers are Americans.

Steamship men here today characterized the disaster as "the most startling news which has come in from the sea since the advent of wireless telegraphy."

The first heard of the accident was about 1 o'clock this morning, when a bulletin from Montreal stated that the Allan line office there had received a wireless from Capt. Gambell of the steamer Virginian, stating that the Titanic was calling for assistance after a collision with an iceberg. The Virginian's captain added he was heading his boat for the Titanic.

Many Icebergs Reported.

The presence of an unusually large number of icebergs in the path of trans-Atlantic liners was indicated by wireless last week. Twelve hours before the news of the Titanic's accident reached the world, the serious menace of the icebergs was pointed out by the arrival here of the Cunard line steamer Carmania, which reported having dodged twenty-five big bergs, some of them more then 250 feet high.

The Carmania reported that the French steamship Niagara had had a worse experience, having bumped into two small bergs which punched holes in her hull. The Niagara had this experience on Thursday, and unless she has greatly reduced speed, she should reach port some time today. The Titanic undoubtedly ran into this same icebank.

FLANDERS TWENTY

STUDEBAKER AUTOMOBILES

E-M-F THIRTY

A Timely Tip to Tardy Buyers

FLANDERS "20" TOURING CAR, $800.

WE HAD HOPED that this season the usual spring scramble for automobiles would be averted in the case of Studebaker cars at least—but alas for well laid plans!

NOT THAT WE ARE COMPLAINING—not in the least. So far as we ourselves are concerned. Far from being unpleasant the condition that confronts the Studebaker Corporation this Spring of 1912 is well nigh ideal.

THAT IS SPEAKING from a manufacturer's point of view.

BUT FROM YOUR STANDPOINT—it is different. That's what we wanted to talk about—and to advise you how best to go about it to meet the conditions that obtain and ward off disappointment.

HERETOFORE AS YOU KNOW there has always been a tremendous—one might almost say a hopeless—shortage of Flanders "20" and E-M-F "30" cars in the Spring months—the rush season.

ONE OR TWO OTHER MAKES that were popular with buyers shared with us to an extent this pleasurable over-demand. Pleasurable, but disheartening at that. For one dislikes to disappoint so many good friends. Then too, when you know you make the best automobiles for the money you hate to see good friends forced to accept second bests.

THAT HAS ALWAYS BEEN THE CASE. We were powerless to remedy it. The E-M-F Company was young. Had made tremendous progress, but there was a limit to financial resources. And, anyway, factories can be equipped only about so fast. Machine tools can't be wished into form.

BUT THIS YEAR it was different. This big forty-five million dollar Corporation felt equal to the task of supplying the full demand for its two models—herculean tho it was.

WITH UNLIMITED CAPITAL at its command; with the largest and best equipped plants in the world; with an engineering and manufacturing organization second to none; contracts for material placed and deliveries assured; it seemed as if even our splendid sales force would be unable to keep ahead of the production department.

AND WE HAVE DONE ALL we set out to do. That is to say, we estimated that 50,000 cars (divided into 30,000 Flanders "20's" and 20,000 E-M-F "30's"), would surely supply the demand.

WE FELT SURE WE HAD NOT under-estimated the demand. We knew the unparalleled popularity of these famous cars not only throughout the length and breadth of America, but in all other civilized countries, but

WE THOUGHT 50,000 CARS would do. Some of our competitors warned us it was too many—the rest of them didn't believe we would or could make that many.

WELL, WE'RE UP to schedule—a few cars ahead of it on April 1st and we carried over from March to April orders for 4722 cars. Most of them Flanders "20's."

LOOK AT THIS RECORD—it's almost unbelievable. In December, when would-be competitors were subsisting on snow balls and waiting for "the season" to open up, the Studebaker plants shipped 3600 cars. In January (inventory month), 4000.

IN FEBRUARY 4200; in March 4601, and the schedule for April is 6000—and, as we have said, we are a little ahead of the schedule.

IN THE WICKEDEST WINTER in fifty years, you'll recall. You'd have thought that would help us by retarding demand—it did leave other makers' cars on their floors. But seems as if the harder the conditions of roads and weather the more careful people are about selecting their automobiles.

6000 A MONTH IS THE SCHEDULE for April, May, June, July and August, and we'll make them, but as the little boy said, that's our almighty darndest.

WORKING OVER-TIME NOW—and men can stand only about so much of that. We don't like overtime at all. But we're doing our utmost to keep up with the demand—and we are still in sight of it, tho breathless.

THERE'S THE CONDITION as it stands today. It is up to you. What are you going to do about it?

ANALYZE IT: It means that a lot of people are going to have to wait for deliveries and a lot more will be disappointed—compelled to accept some other car—second best value—for all will not be able to get Flanders "20" or E-M-F "30" cars.

IT ISN'T SO BAD as it looks, in a way. The shortage of Flanders "20's" is more apparent than real—for our capacity is 50 more 20's per day than 30's. But it's bad enough. And it shows we have again fallen short of our ambition, hard as we have tried to realize it.

WE ARE TELLING YOU THIS because we have repeatedly asserted to dealers and the public that we would surely avert the Spring scramble. Now that we know that we have failed we feel that we owe you a frank statement of the facts.

OF COURSE IN TELLING YOU we cannot help telling our competitors also—and very naturally they will use it against us—try to persuade you to buy their cars on the same grounds as former years, "You can't get Studebaker Cars—either model." And that'll be true—unless you beat some other buyer to it.

WE FELT SURE we would be able to supply every possible customer with a Flanders "20"—but remember

THE ENGINEERS WHO BUILT the levee along the Mississippi were eminent and honest men and they were equally certain they would hold any floods that might ever come. But this has been an exceptional season—and the dykes have given way in places.

WE WERE EQUALLY CERTAIN we had gauged demand aright—thought we might be over-sanguine, in fact. But we under-estimated the flood of orders that have poured in increasing volume on us thru our big branches and dealers and our thousands of smaller, but no less alert representatives. We are swamped, despite our elaborate precautions!

IT'S MOST GRATIFYING to see how Flanders "20" has gained impetus with the years. It is the story of E-M-F "30" over again—and we have ceased to marvel at the way that car grows in demand, selling itself as fast as we can turn them out. And with scarcely any effort on our part.

IT'S THE ENDLESS CHAIN principle at work on mammoth scale. When we make a good car we start it. Every satisfied buyer tells three more—and each of the three tell three others—and it grows at a wonderful rate.

FLANDERS "20" ENJOYS that happy state today to an extent greater than any other car. And because there is more value—more automobile, more quality of performance, and better looks, than in any other 20 or 25-horse power car in the whole world at the price.

AND IT ISN'T CHEAP at any point. Better steel is not used in any automobile on earth. Get that—any—regardless of price. We use the best the science of metallurgy and of automobile engineering can specify.

IN APPEARANCE—it is just what you have been looking for, a smaller edition of a high-powered, high-priced car. It looks $3,000—it sells for $800.

FIRST: DISCRIMINATING FOLK who will not have—will not be seen in—a poorly-made, noisy, under-powered and cheap looking car at any price.

THESE HAVE WAITED for years for the arrival of a car the man of pride but moderate means could buy and drive with pleasure. They found it in Flanders "20" as in no other light car. But these people are conservative too—they don't care to take risks or to experiment with new models.

SO THEY WATCHED Flanders "20" thru three seasons. The first, the usual discovery and corrective stage, was like most other new models. Then she struck her gait and for two seasons past, she has been steadily forging ahead till now she leads undisputed.

THERE ARE TWO WAYS to buy an automobile. One is to buy a cheap car because it is cheap in price and then pay in installments the difference between that and the value of a good car—in repairs and replacements of inferior parts—and then find you have nothing.

THE BETTER WAY is to determine just what is the lowest price at which a really first class 20 horsepower car can be made. Decide which car is backed by the best reputation for quality and service afterward. Then pay that different in the first place and have not only quality but a car that in appearance as well as performance will be one your family will be proud to ride in.

THAT'S FLANDERS "20"—if you search the world over you will decide that way.

WHY, FRANCE BUYS Flanders "20's" to an extent greater than any other car made outside France. Germany also; Belgium, Italy, England. We exported 4,000 Flanders "20's" last year. Of what other American car can this be said?

EVEN THE GREAT E-M-F "30" does not enjoy the demand abroad that Flanders "20" does. The "30" is essentially an American product—made for American roads. The "20" accurately conforms to European ideals and engineering standards—and in competition with their own it sells as fast as we can supply them.

APPEARANCE is worth while—is worth all it costs. Beauty is more than skin deep in a motor car. Has to be made good to look good. A "tin car" cannot but look "tinny."

YOU'LL FIND IT'S CHEAPER by the end of the first year to pay the $150 to $200 more and own a Flanders "20" that looks the part as well as performs it—a car in which the repair and maintenance bills are practically nil—than to pay less and get so much less. And have everybody know it too.

BUT YOU'LL HAVE TO HURRY if you expect to get a Flanders "20" this Spring. There isn't an hour to loose. You may be too late now—your local dealer may be sold up to his full allotment. If so, we can't help him. Only way is to see him at once and get your order in.

AND DON'T EXPECT the dealer, just because you have known him so long, to take a verbal statement as an order. He can't. We won't permit him for one thing. If he hasn't bonafide orders for every car he has been alloted by a certain date, we insist on shipping such cars elsewhere to dealers who are heavily oversold.

FIRST SEE THEM ALL—hear all the salesmen's stories. Else you won't fully appreciate your Flanders "20" after you have gotten it. And you will never know how nearly you came to buying the wrong car! See them all. Then decide, and having decided delay no longer—else you will surely be disappointed, as more than 10,000 persons were a year ago.

REMEMBER THE STUDEBAKER GUARANTEE and Studebaker reputation and service goes with every car carrying the Studebaker name.

Of course you are coming to Detroit for Cadillaqua, the great water carnival, the fourth week in July. While here you will visit Detroit's famous automobile factories. We invite you to visit the Studebaker plants, the largest in the world.

THE MAY CITY ELECTION.

There will be a special election in Duluth May 7 when the voters will be called upon to decide whether or not they wish to amend the city charter so as to include in it provisions for the initiative, the referendum and the recall.

Without regard to individual opinion about the circumstances which brought about this special election, or the purposes back of the movement at this time, these amendments should be adopted, and The Herald has little doubt that they will be adopted.

These three provisions, which simply constitute democratic machinery for keeping the city government closely in the control of the people, who own it and for whom alone it is operated, are essential parts of the commission plan of city government, and it had been hoped that the rest of the commission plan features could have been voted in along with these. However, that is not to be at this time, so the voters will doubtless accept what they can get and hope for the rest later.

If there are any people left who do not understand the nature of these tools of popular government, they should have plenty of chance to learn about them between now and election day.

Briefly, the proposed amendments put into the hands of the people the power of control over the acts of the city council, and the power of control over their elected officers throughout the terms for which they are elected.

Under the initiative, the people may propose any ordinance by petition. If ten per cent of the voters sign the petition, the council is required either to enact the proposed ordinance or submit it to the people at the next general city election. If twenty per cent of the voters sign the petition, the council must either pass the ordinance or submit it promptly at a special election.

Under the referendum provision, any ordinance passed by the council can be held up until the people pass upon it if twenty per cent of the voters sign a petition to that effect. The council has the alternative of repealing the objectionable ordinance, thus saving the expense of an election.

The recall makes it possible for twenty-five per cent of the voters—in the ward for an alderman and in the entire city for mayor or other general city officer—to bring before the voters the question whether any officer whose conduct in office has apparently not been satisfactory shall be recalled and another elected in his place. The reasons for which the recall is asked must be stated in the petition, and they will be printed on the ballot, together with the attacked officer's defense if he desires. Candidates may file by petition for the office involved, and the officer concerned will go on the ballot as a candidate unless he withdraws.

Duluth needs these provisions—every city needs them—and the voters should not have the slightest hesitancy in ratifying the proposed charter amendments.

And while thinking about the Pennsylvania primary, don't let's forget that Woodrow Wilson was there, and he didn't "also run."

ELECT DELEGATES, TOO.

The possibilities shown by the discussion in Illinois following the presidential primary makes one thing very clear: that each presidential primary should provide not only that the people shall express their preference for presidential nominees, but that they shall elect delegates required by law to carry out their will.

The Illinois law simply provides for the preference primary, but leaves the selection of delegates to the old convention system. Already the Republican machine in Illinois is planning on getting away from the mandate of the people so far as possible. At the best, if the Republican machine leaders have their way, Roosevelt will get only a perfunctory first ballot vote. If no nomination is made on the first ballot they plan to break immediately to Taft or whoever the national machine picks as the nominee. This in spite of Roosevelt's overwhelming majority at the primary.

There is even talk to the effect that if there is danger that a vote for Roosevelt on the first ballot might nominate him, the boss-picked delegates will reject the mandate of the party and vote for Taft or the choice of the machine from the start.

The presidential preference primary is a new thing, and it is to be expected that defects will develop in the experimental laws. None of them appear to be perfect. The worst of them, however, is infinitely better than the convention system.

It should be the work of legislatures to study the results of the various plans adopted this year, and to profit by obvious mistakes in these plans in order that a completely workable plan may be adopted and put in effect in each state.

The second choice element in the situation opens up an interesting field of discussion on the Democratic side in Illinois, also. Where would the Illinois delegates to the Baltimore convention, picked by a state convention and pledged for their first vote to Champ Clark, go on a second ballot?

On the whole the outlook is that the Illinois delegates will hardly be a "thick-or-thin" Clark following. Clark's victory in Illinois was due, more than to any other one thing, to the vicious hammering of the Hearst-Harrison combination. Yet the Hearst-Harrison combination seems to have been pretty well cleaned out of the Democratic state organization. Roger Sullivan, who threw his support to Wilson at the last moment, seems to have quietly gathered up the strings and to be in control of the situation. Sullivan isn't a man who would naturally be for Wilson, but he is so thoroughly against the Hearst-Harrison combination that he is not at all for Clark, and the exigencies of faction warfare may make him an ardent Wilson champion.

It is not at all improbable that unless Clark can win on the first ballot—which isn't within the possibilities—the Illinois delegation at Baltimore may yet land in the Wilson column.

THE SPRING CLEAN-UP.

Mayor Cullum used annually to fix a spring cleaning day, when everybody was supposed to get out and fix up the yard and surroundings so that the city might enter its summer tourist season in its best bib and tucker—not for the benefit of visitors alone, but for the benefit too of those who have to live in Duluth and look at it every day.

Mayor McCuen has not yet issued such a proclamation, but doubtless he will soon. Being a doctor, he knows better than most the importance of the sanitary side of this matter. Having just set up business as mayor, and having many things to straighten out before he gets everything in smooth working order, it is not surprising that he should have overlooked this item. And at that, he may not have overlooked it, and may have his spring cleaning campaign plans well matured.

But what we started out to say was that there isn't any reason on earth why anybody should wait for any suggestion from the mayor or anybody else before beginning the spring cleaning process.

It is a fine time to begin right now, if you haven't already; and after you get the yard raked and the ashes and tin cans cleaned out, it will be an excellent idea to have a space in the back yard spaded up and start a back yard garden along with your neighbors who started last year and got a lot of good food, good exercise, good health and good fun out of it.

Don't forget May 7—Initiative and referendum day.

GOOD FOR PENNSYLVANIA.

Pennsylvania showed a desire to be free Saturday when it returned, out of its seventy-six delegates to the national conventions, sixty-five for Roosevelt against eleven for Taft, and seventy-four for Wilson against two for Harmon. Taft practically is a beaten man, and Wilson's gain makes him more formidable than he was before the Illinois primary.

The returns from Pennsylvania indicate that steamships aren't the only things that get into disastrous collisions.

YOUNG MEN AND POLITICS.

After fifty-nine years of public life, Senator Shelby M. Cullom of Illinois will retire to private life next March, when he will be more than 83 years old. He has just been beaten for renomination at a popular primary, largely because he voted to whitewash his colleague, the unspeakable Lorimer.

From the viewpoint of advanced age and enforced retirement, Senator Cullom has issued some advice to young men.

"Do not seek public office," he says. "Keep out of politics entirely, unless a public service is clearly demanded of you, and then render it to the best of your ability. In politics one becomes either a pauper or a thief.

"You cannot devote your attention entirely to politics and not become poor, unless you happen to be lucky on the outside, earn money through investments, or have some source of revenue left you.

"I do not think any public office should be sought; the people and the office should seek you. And I believe a man should give the best that is in him to serving the people when the demand for him and the need for him is apparent.

"The young men should amply prepare themselves for life in an educational way and should take an interest in the welfare of their government, but they should avoid office-hunting and making of themselves practical politicians."

This advice is sound, though the viewpoint which gives it soundness is that of the period when politics was a stench, largely because it was made so by the rotten money of special interests seeking by corruption and chicanery to control the processes of government.

Is it too much to hope that when the people at last get the control of their public affairs into their own hands, and when the corrupting special interests shall have been made to keep their place, politics may be a purer and a nobler calling, worthy of the ambition of the flower of the nation's youth?

And what would more quickly make it pure and noble than to have it sought by the sons of the people, qualified by education and free from the instincts of a generation so purely commercial that it was no surprise that its governments should have been commercial and corrupt?

And somebody must hold public office. Somebody must be president. Somebody must take the cabinet portfolio. Somebody must go to the senate. Somebody must go to the house of representatives. Somebody must be governor of the state, and somebody must go to the state senate and house. Somebody must fill the elective and appointive positions in nation, state, county and city. Is it so good advice, then, from a viewpoint of public good, that young men should be advised to keep out of politics?

If politics were to be always as it has been, then the best possible advice to the individual young man would be to keep out of it. But politics is not always going to be as it has been. It is better even now that it has been during Senator Cullom's fifty-nine years of public life; and it is going to grow better constantly.

To become a chronic office-seeker, to become a political wirepuller fattening on the corrupt campaign funds of special interests—to do these things is to fail in life.

But to have public spirit, to take an active part in politics and public affairs, to accept office when the opportunity comes and to grasp the chance to serve your kind with patriotic purpose and the inspiration of devotion to the common good—surely the youth of the nation could do no better.

The way Woodrow Wilson accepted the result in Illinois just goes to prove what his worst enemies have been shouting all along—that he's no professional politician.

Postmaster General Hitchcock denies he intends to resigns to go into business. He'd be foolish if he did, unless the business demands his personal attention before March 4, 1913.

Governor Eberhart is as insistent as ever that nobody wants an extra session for anything. Josh Billings is given credit for the aphorism that "you can't make a whistle out of a pig's tail."

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

COMES TO DEFENSE OF FLORIDA LANDS.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Reading an article in The Herald about Mr. Cochran, in which he gives Southern Florida a gentle "roast," I desire to call attention to a serious mistake in regard to the location of his so-called "sand hill." The article states that his place was at Fort McCoy. By consulting the map it will be seen that Fort McCoy is hundreds of miles from Southern Florida. It is not even in Central Florida, but decidedly away up in Northern Florida. That is not the best section of the state, and cannot be compared in any way to Southern Florida; but there are thousands of men, even there, who are making a better living than Mr. Cochran can make in Duluth, and if he cannot do it, it is his own fault.

I am interested in Southern Florida, and I do not like to see that section blamed for Mr. Cochran's failure in Northern Florida. This shows how much credence can be placed in these newspaper roasts, and this one is about as near the truth as most of them.

FAIR PLAY.

Duluth, April 13.

THE MINIMUM WAGE.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Regarding the minimum wage, which is the latest fad, no one ought to bid adieu to common sense, as is frequently done in such cases. Evidently the perfect state of things is to give value for value; a just wage for just labor in quantity and quality, and that in each individual case. So near as you approach that condition, so near have you any reign of justice. As in any other bargain, the state has no right to interfere. I mean it has no right to force a man to work for lower wages than is just (or to work at all, for that matter), nor, on the other hand, to force an employer to give more wages than labor is worth, irrespective of such employer being millionaire or pauper. The rights of wage-bargaining is an inalienable individual right. Capital as well as labor ought to be made, I maintain, to observe that fundamental right. Herein comes the duty of the state, which is protective rather than constructive. It cannot remake the law of nature.

There are in every country of the globe two beastly monsters tearing society asunder, cruel capital, haughty, selfish, and labor, ungovernable, misguided and insatiable. If the latter wins, the public foots the bill of expense; if the former, it likewise pays the lost cause in charitable institutions, law costs and crimes. Finally, the state fixes a minimum wage. From a moral point of view, such action is unjust, because it deprives one party of the right to bargain, as in the case of a man selling a horse if the buyer would be by law compelled to give him a fixed minimum price.

From an economic point of view it is ruinous. Suppose in France a man got $2 a day for coal mining, and in Germany, across the line, there is a minimum wage law of $3 per day. Can you explain to me how, in justice to humanity, can the German mine owner compete with the French company? No use to say one is richer than another. Then you say, use the tariff, but that is worse. He must continue or fail. If he continues, he mulcts his own people per ton of coal—a slaughter of the innocents—and at the same time tries to undersell his French neighbor. If he fails, the Frenchman, mulcts his German neighbors with genuine complacency. Then coal affects mills, trains, electric works and all their products. The result is a poor Germany and a rich France. I cannot see any business insight, even, in causing such a state of things. There ought to be perfect liberty on both sides. Anything else is cursed slavery. If a man is an excellent painter, he ought to get four or five times as much as a dauber. So with the machinist, the gardener, the lawyer, the doctor. Where is the justice of forcing any party to a bargain? I cannot see it.

In 1773 a minimum wage act was passed in a certain district of England and was hailed by the weavers—an act which, interdicting work at reduced rates, caused 4,000 looms to stand idle, letting trade go elsewhere. The present bill passed there will increase the price of coal, and thence the cost of products, and will hurt the steel industry, which exists by constant competition with foreign manufacturers all over the world.

I conclude that there ought to be no restraint on either party to the wage bargain. The law should see that no unlawful restraint exists, whereas at present so-called justice seems to help both parties in an unjust combination to attack one another, with consequent dire calamity to countless innocent millions.

VERITAS.

International Falls, Minn., April 12.

The Future of Duluth.

Cuyuna Range Miner: Duluth is destined to become one of the greatest industrial centers of the twentieth century. Evolution from present methods of converting high and low grade iron ore into pig iron and the finished product will accomplish it. The Great Lakes freighters and the railroads, only a few years hence, will be laden with th product of the most extensive steel manufacturing plants known in the world. The lake and rail tonnage on coal and iron will be so great that to try and make an estimate upon it now would seem foolish. Not one hundred thousandth part of the ore on the Cuyuna range, or in the Mesaba and other ore fields has been located. If this ore is so valuable now, that it can be shipped at a profit to Eastern smelters, dirt, rock, sand, gravel and all, it certainly can be smelted in Duluth at a profit.

One hundred or 500 years hence digging iron will be one of the leading industries. This being indisputable, what must be the effect upon Duluth's advancement to the greatest iron and steel center extant? But this is only one of the foundation stones upon which rests commercial stability for the city at the Head of the Lakes.

There are hundreds of thousands of acres of virgin soil within 100 miles of Duluth upon which the finest grain, grasses and vegetables can be successfully raised.

Undeveloped, these acres mean nothing; developed, they certainly mean one or two hundred thousand increase in Duluth's population. This, too, is incontrovertible. To make it possible, is simply to populate the land, and city building will steadily progress thereafter.

Duluth's future looks bright and it seems to the writer that she has neglected many opportunities to expand her trade and get in closer touch with this section of Minnesota, particularly in regard to railway facilities.

Time Limits.

San Francisco Examiner: Throughout his career as a newspaper reporter, the young man's assignments had taken him into demonstrative crowds whose periods of noisy demonstration it was his duty to time.

"Mr. A. finally appearing, the audience cheered for fifteen minutes." "Senator X. finished his second joke amid laughter that lasted ten minutes" or "At the close of the speech the audience applauded wildly for thirteen minutes."

These and similar records of the public pulse plentifully adorned nearly every story the young man wrote.

One day he was sent to attend the funeral of a rich and crusty-tempered old gentleman whose young wife had notoriously repented her choice.

The young man wound up his story of the funeral thus:

"In the silence that ensued the widow wept for sixteen seconds."

DULUTH AND THE HERALD.

Beautiful Tribute.

Cass Lake Times: The beautiful tribute paid to Governor Woodrow Wilson by Arthur H. Gleason in the New York Evening Post is a masterpiece in rhetoric. Unaware of the object of Mr. Gleason's encomium, we would easily believe he was giving a character sketch of Lincoln. The Duluth Herald of March 20 published the tribute in full. We advise our readers to secure this diamond lettered panegyric.

It Will Have That Too.

St. Cloud Journal-Press: Duluth has decided to have a lighting plant of its own. It should have a commission form of government, and then the idea would be an excellent one.

Not a Bad Disease.

Little Falls Transcript: The city of Duluth is said to have the backyard garden fever as never before in its history. Other communities should be inoculated with its germs.

Sure! All Gone.

Stillwater Gazette: We judge the snow has melted and run off the streets at Duluth, as a man riding in a machine declares the dealers should do a fine business in goggles. This man is authority for the statement that the dust is "fierce."

He Has More Now.

Gorwich Banner: The only state that Roosevelt has won to himself so far is a high state of indignation.—Duluth Herald.

Yes, but he's got the seven wise governors behind him who told him to throw his hat in the ring to cheer him on in his lonely lot. That's a little better than nothing.

Hard on Teddy.

Brainerd Tribune: The Duluth Herald, an ardent admirer of Roosevelt, frankly admits that the colonel's candidacy is causing a revulsion of feeling in favor of Taft among Republican voters. That would appear to be a perfectly natural and logical result, after reading Roosevelt's demagogic appeals for support of his candidacy. Roosevelt will not get 200 votes in the national convention, and may be third man in the race. His candidacy is no longer taken seriously by well informed men—there never was anything to it but "hot air."

Really, Now, Are You?

Luverne Journal: The Journal rises to inquire if The Duluth Herald is satisfied with Col. Roosevelt's attitude on the tariff as expressed in his Albert Lea speech.

He May Reign Longer.

Cass Lake Times: When the governor dies or resigns or otherwise vacates his office, the lieutenant governor becomes governor.—Duluth Herald.

We shall always believe that Gordon passed up the golden opportunity of his life when he refused to be "governor for a day."

SALVAGE.

Chicago, April 7.—Burglars with undeniable political affiliations today raided the room of Governor Woodrow Wilson in the Sherman house during his absence at St. Mary's rectory and stole all his private correspondence, vouchers and other documents. The governor's dress suit and extra underclothing were included in the plunder.—Sun dispatch.

New York World: Charles F. Murphy, Joseph B. Foraker and John D. Archbold were more fortunate than the governor of New Jersey. They saved their clothes.

Governor Wilson in Buffalo.

Woodrow Wilson has climbed an unusual stairway to eminence as a presidential possibility. Only a little time ago he was Prof. Wilson, a little later President Wilson of Princeton. All that time he was one of "them literary fellers" for whom practical politicians have little use and no concern.

When Col. Harvey suggested President Wilson for the Democratic nomination the proposition was received as the colonel's merry jest. But Col. Harvey kept pegging away until he developed the "why not?" stage in a good deal of the Democratic mind.

Then the Democratic machine needed somebody "respectable" to redeem New Jersey, somebody with friends and without enemies, whose character and reputation promised a better era in a state that needed it. Machines reach that stage when they have fallen into disrepute from which only a change of appearance can save them.

Woodrow Wilson appeared to be just the man to carry the white plume at the head of the gang.

Of course, the gang expected to "get" Wilson afterward. That is always part of the game when machines send reformers to the front. So the machine enthusiast and light-heartedly nominated Woodrow Wilson for governor, and the people elected him by a majority so big, the first Democratic victory in New Jersey in the memory of the prematurely bald, that the gang nearly perished of breathlessness and anticipation.

What Governor Wilson did to that New Jersey machine was seven times worse than what happened to the dog that came to town.

He broke the hold of the bosses on the legislature.

He flung off the grip of the interests.

He redeemed the great promises of the Democratic platform.

"Rippers" and "jokers" got the ax.

A Strike to Protect Girl's Honor.

Raymond Robins in the Survey: In a certain town on the Atlantic seaboard were two hat factories, about a block apart. One was a non-union factory, the other was organized. In the unorganized factory, about three years ago on the culminating floor, the foreman insulted one of the working girls. This little girl protested vigorously, there was a scene and she was dismissed for insubordination. The man did it to protect himself. She was a little foreign girl. She was out of work for three weeks before she got a job in a shirt-waist factory. Will she, the next time, be so ready to protect her honor and run the danger of three weeks of idleness?

In the union factory about six months after this, a similar incident occurred. This child went back to her machine and was sitting there crying when the shop steward came along. The child told her what the trouble was. This little girl walked down to where this man was and said to him: "Now, Bill, you cut that out." He said he would see her in a warmer place first. At that the little woman clapped her hands and 172 girls laid down their tools, formed in line and went down on the street. About that time the superintendent of the factory called the foreman, the shop steward and the little girl to his office and the foreman was discharged.

There were two great universities and splendid churches in that town, yet from neither university nor church was there any influence that reached out far enough to protect those little foreign girls, but the United Hatters of North America was there with power to protect the virtue of that little girl.

No Relief in Sight.

Oh, poetry is hard to write, but harder yet to sell,
And when it's sold, returns are pretty small;
And he who would some money make by writing would do well
To stick to prose and not attempt the rhythmic art at all.

But, still, so long as kiss will rhyme with bliss and June with moon,
And you with true and roams with homes and tomes,
And Adelaide with "charming maid" and boon with "summer noon,"
So long the ever-hopeful bards will keep on writing pomes.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

•••The discovery has been made that the contract for building the Lake avenue viaduct, which was awarded some time ago to Fredin & Wilson, is invalid under the provisions of the city charter. Charles W. Wilson, the junior member of the firm, holds the office of fire commissioner, and the charter explicitly provides that no alderman or other officer or employe of the city shall be a party to or interested in any jobs or contracts with the city, and any contract in which they are interested shall be void. The law is very plain, and it will not help matters any for Mr. Wilson to resign his office now. The contract will undoubtedly have to be readvertised. Fredin & Wilson have already done about $400 worth of work on the viaduct, and under the charter they cannot collect for this.

•••Don Palmer, superintendent of the Duluth & Superior Telephone company, has been confined to his room for several days with a sprained leg.

•••Miss Josie Lundberg is recovering from a two weeks' illness.

•••The Elk Mining company, with a capital of $3,000,000, has been organized. The officers and incorporators are: President, D. D. Merrill, Jr.; vice president, Charles K. Groff; secretary, Willis B. Richards; treasurer, J. L. Stack.

•••Hon. M. E. Powell of Redwood Falls, grand commander of the Knights Templar of Minnesota, who has been in Duluth for several days in consultation with T. W. Hugo regarding the grand conclave to be held at Denver, left for home last night.

•••A directors' meeting of the Duluth & Iron Range road was held at St. Paul yesterday to consider the proposed extension to the Mesaba range. The meeting was attended by Marshall Field, M. J. Carpenter, H. H. Porter, J. H. Chandler, N. B. Ream, C. W. Hilliard, and Messrs. Greatsinger and Viele from Duluth.

Twomey; treasurer, Mrs. Fanny Smith.

•••W. M. Holbrook of St. Paul is in West Duluth and will probably start his bank, the Iron National, in the room formerly occupied by the West Duluth bank.

OUR STRAW GOVERNOR.

Northfield News: In defeating the will of the people by throttling the Caswell presidential primary, the Republican state central committee inadvertently performed a great service for the people of this state.

It demonstrated beyond a reasonable doubt that Adolph O. Eberhart is not the real governor of the state. Upon his own admission, Governor (?) Eberhart declares that he pleaded with certain members of the committee to indorse the presidential primary. Senator George Sullivan was one of the members whom Governor (?) Eberhart with tears in his eyes implored to support the primary.

Governor (?) Eberhart sat through almost the entire session of the committee meeting and never once raised his voice in the interests of the measure.

His own personal committee, selected by him almost to a man, turned down the measure for which he "pleaded," by a vote of 28 to 7.

But this is not all.

E. E. Smith, his appointed chairman, voted against it. J. A. O. Preus, the chief executive's choice for insurance commissioner, voted against it. Andrew E. Fritz, the man Governor (?) Eberhart selected to play politics in the public examiner's office, voted against it. Alex Janne, the political assistant attorney general, member from Pipestone county, voted against it. Yet Governor (?) Eberhart "pleaded" with them to vote for the measure.

Repudiated by the last legislature, Governor (?) Eberhart stood out as the weakest executive Minnesota ever raised to that high office. It makes very little difference whether we believe Governor (?) Eberhart "pleaded" with the members as he says he did. We are inclined to believe that he did not plead.

But we are convined that agencies other than Governor (?) Eberhart, dictate the actions of his political machine. That he has no influence with the members of the committee was demonstrated by the vote of last Tuesday. Powerful interests pull the strings and Governor (?) Eberhart and his henchmen dance like so many marionettes.

Discounted by his own committee, he is the puppet of those who uphold him because they can use him. His administration is akin to the policy he followed when lieutenant governor. There is the stench of the brewery about it.

We have as governor today a negative quantity; the man who when lieutenant governor appointed Senator W. W. Dunn, attorney of Hamm's brewery, chairman of the senate temperance committee. That is a matter of record.

That Governor (?) Eberhart is only a figurehead, is on record in that vote of 28 to 7.

Child Laborers.

"Let them not droop within the house of toil,
The little children! Make them to go free,
Give them their heritage of sun and soil,
Kinship with racing wind and cloud and sea!
They are too frail, too glad, to learn of pain,
Their eyes have not forgot, for all the gray
Of leaden hours, the sky's star-blossomed plain;
Give them again the wealth of idle day!"

So do we speak, wise in our years, yet slow,
As they, to lift the age-worn, bitter weight
We toil beneath in heart and body throe,
Ourselves but children with a task too great.
Help us, then, Father, shape the work aright,
Child laborers, we, blind in the dawnless night.

"The Public Must Pay."

New York World: No surprise will be occasioned by President Baer's announcement that if the coal operators grant a wage increase to the miners, "in the long run the public must pay."

Who else was expected to pay? No one has supposed that if the miners' wages are raised, the higher cost of mining coal will be borne by the companies or that dividends will be reduced to offset the difference.

The lesson of the last adjustment of miners' wages in the Pennsylvania anthracite field has not been forgotten.

In this case the public will pay for the higher wages in dearer coal, just as it will pay for the wage advances to textile operatives in dearer cotton and woolen goods.

It would have paid for the increase of railway employes' wages if the roads had not been prevented by the interstate commerce commission from making up their loss through higher freight rates.

"The public must pay" has become so much an axiom of the new industrial economics that its restatement is superfluous.

But while that point is clear enough, some enlightenment may well be desired on the question whether the public will be required to pay only the wage increase—whether, in passing on the higher wage cost to the consumer, something will not be added for extra profit.

For Justice Sake.

One of the historic documents of the Lawrence strike was an address delivered by Prof. Vida D. Scudder at a Lawrence meeting. On the basis of garbled reports published in the Boston newspapers, the Boston "Evening Transcript" called for Miss Scudder's resignation from the faculty of Wellesley. Afterward it refused to print the address in full. In it, after pointing out that if it were true that the strike leader was illegally refused bail, then persecution of a fairly plain type has not been unknown at Lawrence, she said:

"Back of these unfortunate sporadic acts for which responsibility will probably never be fixed, acts which have broken out like an eruption on a deceased body, lies the whole situation of the textile industry. And the country is becoming aware that this condition is not one which Americans like to contemplate.

"How wise is Victor Berger when he reminds congress that schedule K was passed on the plea of protecting American labor with a high tariff—and then bids them listen to the life stories of the Lawrence workers! Estimates given by our most trustworthy and untrammeled journals, by The Survey, the Outlook, the Boston Commons, show that decent manhood and womanhood are impossible on the earnings of an appreciable proportion of the mill people here. That is what lies back of this strike.

"What is the way out? That is not for me to tell. One obvious way is that for which able and wise men and women, quite outside the ranks of labor, are fighting this season; the establishment by law of a minimum wage for the state of Massachusetts. If such a bill should pass it would be the first step in a reform which would render impossible just what has caused this strike.

"And I speak for the New England of our fathers when I say that if such wages are (even for the least skilled of the workers) below the standard necessary to maintain men and women in decency and health, then the problem industry has not a present right to exist in Massachusetts. For the first point in any industry is that it shall be competent to support its workers in honor. So my master, Ruskin, said long ago. So we are gradually learning."

Our National Intoxicant.

Life: "I hear he drinks like a fish!"

"I think that is untrue. I believe he drinks very moderately and no spirits at all. But suppose he did drink, would whisky intoxicate him? No, I tell you; he would intoxicate whisky. He is a much more powerful intoxicant than whisky. Don't bother with these tales of what he drinks—they aren't true—but watch over yourself and push him from your lips, for he is the Intoxicating Bowl. The danger is not that he will fall into intemperance, but that he will intoxicate the country."

Not All.

National Monthly: "Thomas," said the mother, severely, "some one has taken a big piece of gingerbread out of the pantry."

Tommy blushed guiltily.

"Oh, Thomas," she exclaimed, "I didn't think it was in you."

"It ain't all," replied Tommy; "part of it's in Elsie."

Dress.

Life: There is one important difference between man and woman.

A man can always tell when he is dressed up.

He can take a given amount of money, select a tailor almost at random and secure the precise thing which will make him feel thoroughly at ease on any occasion.

Not so with a woman. No matter how much she spends, no matter how many fashion journals she takes, no matter how well recommended her modiste may be, no matter what she may select in the way of materials, trimmings and style, no matter how she has planned for the perfection of every detail, no matter how plethoric her wardrobe is, she is never quite sure.

No sooner does she arrive at a function than she sees something entirely different and she is immediately enveloped with sundry, divers and variegated misgivings.

LAW REACTS ON AUTHORS

North Dakota Progressives Hit By Anti-Political Slate Enactment.

June Primary Campaign Plans Are to Be Materially Changed.

Bismarck, N. D., April 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The opinion rendered by Attorney General Miller for Alfred Blaisdel of Minot to the effect that the corrupt practice act passed by the last legislature placing political slates under the ban, will materially change the plans of the Progressive Republicans, who, by the way, are the authors of the very law that is reacting on them.

The June primary plans will have to be changed. The Progressives have in the past formed a combination or slate of candidates. A pool has been formed for the carrying on of the campaign and headquarters have been established.

That plan had already been proposed for the 1912 campaign, and a meeting of the executive committee of the Progressive Republican league was to be called very shortly for planning the work along that line

Progressive Gives Opinion.

Andy Miller, himself a Progressive, and two years ago a member of the Progressive ticket, says, in his opinion, such procedure is illegal and not in accord with the law. He gives his opinion of the provision as intending to prohibit candidates from banding together and forming a slate.

The law does not prevent one candidate from assisting another, but a promise, direct or indirect to do so, in the expectation of receiving support in return, is made illegal.

Just what steps the Progressives will take in view of this opinion is uncertain. They have hardly had time to give the matter consideration. Already steps had been taken towards the creating of such a ticket, several candidates being in the field as recognized members of the Progressive slate.

A. T. Kraabel of Traill county may be the choice of the Progressives to succeed H. L. Burdick, who will not be a candidate for re-election. Mr. Kraabel, who is a former member of the state senate, has been suggested upon several occasions as a probable candidate for the second place, but he has declined to enter the race.

Doyle for Congressman.

Democrats in the Second district have selected S. J. Doyle of Carrington as a candidate for congress. This selection was made at a meeting held in Jamestown with eight or ten of the southern counties of the district represented. Already A. J. Minkler of Knox, Benson county, has been in the field as a candidate, and Mr. Doyle's entrance in the race means a fight.

Several prominent members of the state senate will drop out as a result of other activities H. J. Bessesen of Wells county is not a candidate for re-election, being out for congress in the Second district.

F. Lowz, formerly a member of the senate from Morton county, is a candidate for his seat again this year, seeking to be elected from the district that was created by the last legislative assembly out of the western part of Morton.

It is better than porridges for children because they have to chew it. The crispness of the shreds induces thorough mastication which develops sound teeth and makes digestion perfect. FARM DEVELOPMENT IN NORTHERN WISCONSIN

Splendid Progress Being Made By Settlers in This Fertile Region.

Bumper Crops of Potatoes, Corn, Oats, Hay and Roots of All Kinds.

Fine for Dairying---Good Farmers Make First Crop Pay for the Land.

BY GEORGE REID.

Tributary to Duluth a fine farming country is being developed in Northern Wisconsin along the line of the South Shore railroad. Only forty miles from this city, surrounding a town which was a lumber camp ten years ago, there are between 500 and 600 farmers. Other sections along the South Shore in Northern Wisconsin are being developed nearly as fast.

This region is ideal for the dairy farmer. Diversified farming pays well and truck gardening close to the high-priced markets at the Head of the Lakes yields handsome returns. Good agriculturists with whom I talked during a week spent in Northern Wisconsin assured me that intelligent farmers can earn enough from the first year's crop to pay for the land and the cost of clearing it.

The facts which follow were obtained from the farmers themselves and must therefore make a powerful appeal to the land hungry everywhere. Good land is to be had from $7 to $15 per acre. The cost of clearing is from $15 to $20 per acre, where dynamite is used intelligently. This cost can be reduced materially by turning a flock of sheep loose to clean up the brush. And the sheep themselves will yield a profit.

Men who want to go back to the soil are not interested in generalities and glowing descriptions. They want the facts. These I have been to some pains to obtain at first hands—from the settlers themselves. They are prospering. They want more neighbors, for more neighbors mean more and better roads, and more schools. Newcomers are received hospitably and made to feel at home. While Finns and Scandinavians constitute a large majority of the settlers, there are some Germans and quite a few English speaking people.

Iron River holds the record for rapid agricultural development in Northern Wisconsin. Ten years ago farmers in the neighborhood were unknown. It was a great lumber camp, with a monster sawmill. The sawmill is still there, but in a few more years will have exhausted the timber supply. Meanwhile farming has made wonderful strides. Today, between 500 and 600 farmers are tributary to Iron River and do their trading in the town. Agriculture is doing more today to build up Iron River than lumbering has ever done.

HARVESTING SIXTY BUSHELS OF OATS TO THE ACRE IN BAYFIELD COUNTY.

Iron River, which is in Bayfield county, has a creamery, and there is another ten miles away. A co-operative potato storage is being built. For ten miles north of Iron River there is a farmer on practically every forty, and farmers are thick to the south of the town. They are engaged in dairying, sheep raising and diversified farming. Sheep raising pays handsomely and besides the sheep help the settler to clear off the land. Peter Petersen, a Dane six miles from town, began five years ago with nine sheep. He told me that he expects to ship a carload to market this fall.

Kalle Kamarainen, a Finn, cleared up and put five acres, four miles west of Iron River, into hay last year. His first year's crop was three tons to the acre, which he sold for $16 per ton. His land cost him $12.50 per acre. He has bought a lot of dynamite and will have five acres more ready for crops this spring. His clearing cost has been less than $20 per acre. His first year's crop has paid for the land and the cost of clearing, and has given him 50 per cent additional profit. In winter, Kamarainen goes out and brings in other Finn settlers.

George Vester, in the town of Oulu, seven miles north of Iron River, raised seventy bushels of flint corn to the acre last season. It was not an unusually large crop for this section and matured well before the frost came. Charles Townsend broke up new clay soil north of town one year and the next raised sixty bushels of oats to the acre. His Japanese millet grew to a height of eight feet, six inches, and yielded six to eight tons to the acre.

James Meisbauer, three miles north of town, has 180 acres cleared and has a fine dairy farm. He marketed 100 tons of hay last season at $17 a ton and kept enough to winter fifty head of stock. He raised sixteen bushels of flax to the acre and sold considerable other grain. He has a silo holding 100 tons, which he fills each year from ten acres of fodder corn. Mr. Meisbauer has a flowing well and his house and barns are lighted by electricity. He will milk sixteen or eighteen cows this summer.

J. A. Pettingill, on the edge of town, has raised ninety bushels of flint and amber dent corn to the acre on six acres, and averaged eighty bushels on another six acres. Mr. Pettingill has cleared seventy-five acres at a cost, he told me, of $12 to $15 an acre. He was the first white man to settle in this section, twenty-five years ago.

Henry Ellerman cleared two and one-half acres and seeded it down in the spring with an earth crop of wheat. The following summer he cut two crops of timothy and clover mixed, which after sweating gave twenty tons, eight tons to the acre. This seems very big, but Mr. Ellerman assured me he could produce witnesses to prove it. Year before last he had ten acres in oats and threshed over 600 bushels. He has raised twenty-six bushels of wheat to the acre. Last year five acres of corn yielded seventy bushels to the acre. Seven acres of potatoes yielded 1,300 bushels.

Mr. Ellerman was raised in a good farming community in Southern Wisconsin. He says that under the same conditions he can raise more here than he did there. Mr. Ellerman has been president of the county fair and has been farming for fourteen years in Bayfield county.

George S. Barnes, one of the largest farmers in the county, sixteen miles south of Iron River, ripened seventy acres of corn and seventy of rye last year, besides large quantities of other grains and hay. Timothy Lane sold $500 worth of produce from his ten-acre tract near town and had about as much left. Charles Chramosta, three miles north of town, exhibited timothy hay at the county fair last year which cut three and one-half tons on the first crop and two and one-half tons on the second crop, the hay standing four and one-half feet on the first cutting and three and one-half feet on the second.

W. B. Clubine, general manager of the Iron River Lumber company, is developing a 2,200-acre farm. Of this 115 acres are under cultivation and 300 acres will be plowed this spring. He is establishing a great herd of Ayrshire cattle and is building a barn for 100 milking cows. His pure bred calves he will sell at low prices to farmers to improve the grade of dairy cattle. Mr. Clubine has been in Northern Wisconsin off and on for seventeen years and is greatly impressed with its agricultural possibilities. He is satisfied that when people are advised of the conditions and the crops that it is possible to raise here the country will be settled up at an astonishing rate.

Potatoes in the Iron river district last year ran from 160 to 240 bushels to the acre, depending upon the variety and the soil. The average crop was close to 200 bushels, which brought 50 to 55 cents a bushel last fall and $1 and better this spring.

Small fruits do well in this section. J. A. Pettingill sold strawberries for $300 from three-quarters of an acre. Other farmers did well with strawberries and this year a much larger acreage will be in the luscious fruit. Raspberries do well, and plums, grapes, apples and cherries are being raised.

A state experimental farm has been established near Iron River and has been instrumental in bringing agriculture up to a high standard in this section. A picture of second growth clover on this farm appears on this page. The Bayfield county fair is the best in Northern Wisconsin and has the best grounds and buildings, about a mile from Iron River. Last year there were more than 3,000 exhibits. The soil in this section varies from black muck to clay loam, sand loam and clay.

The Hines lumber interests have about closed a deal for the sale of 80,000 acres along the line of the South Shore railroad south of Iron River and it is expected that this vast tract will be thrown open to settlement this spring. The railroad company will establish a demonstration farm on its line in Northern Wisconsin, which will aid materially in the development of this rich agricultural region.

Ten miles nearer Duluth—30 miles to be exact—is the Lake Nebagamon farming district, in Douglas county, which has about 150 settlers, all of whom are flourishing. Truck gardening pays exceptionally well here, as does dairying and diversified farming. The summer colony at Lake Nebagamon furnishes a ready market for garden truck, with the big markets of Duluth and Superior close by.

Joseph Knoll, a Hollander by birth, worked in sawmills until four years ago, when he took up a small farm on the outskirts of the village. His cabbages are famous in his section. He told me that with average prices he can raise $250 worth of cabbage to the acre. He raises an average of 200 bushels of potatoes to the acre and has raised as many as 400 bushels. He has cleared $300 from the produce of two acres, in addition to what his family used. Last year he had three acres under intensive cultivation. This year he will have ten acres. Last year he raised fodder corn ten feet tall. He said corn will mature here and make a good crop from native seed. Mr. Knoll added: "I can conscientiously recommend this section to farmers The first year's crop will practically pay for the land and the cost of clearing it."

Continuing, Mr. Knoll told me he was confident that in a few more years he will have a large stone bank barn, a fine house and a model farm. He assured me that any man farming intelligently in the Lake Nebagamon section can make a good living for his family on ten acres of land by combining truck farming and dairying and raising roots and fodder for his cows.

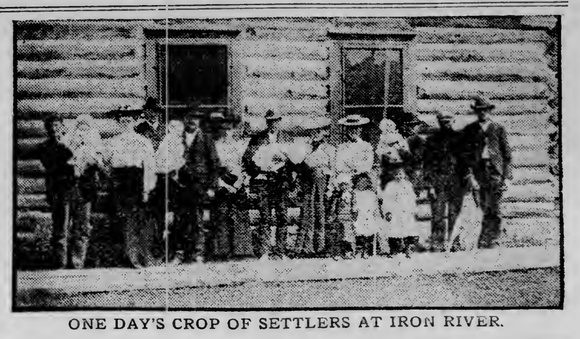
Seven years ago ten families of Bohemians settled about five miles southwest of Lake Nebagamon. They put up log shacks and cleared off the stumps without dynamite or powder. Today they are all living in nice frame houses and have large frame barns. John Bauchner, one of the Bohemians, has 100 acres cleared. He is raising potatoes and vegetables and is engaged in dairying. He is raising all he feeds his stock. These farmers are raising 150 to 200 bushels of potatoes to the acre. Land in older settled communities that will do this is worth $100 an acre. It can be bought in this section for from $7 to $15 and cleared for about $15 an acre.

Frank Swearingen has 200 acres under the plow six miles south of Lake Nebagamon and wintered 170 head of sheep. He raises potatoes, hay and ensilage corn. He raises all he feeds. Warren Howard has 640 acres, wire fenced, and about 250 acres under cultivation. He has ten Holstein cows and raises all his own feed. He has two fine farm houses, one of them for his help. He bought this land 14 years ago for $1 an acre. It is a sort of scrub prairie and cost him less than $15 an acre to clear. He winters 200 head of sheep, which have helped him to clear his land. He used to have 100 head of goats to help in clearing.

John Koe raised 200 bushels of potatoes to the acre last year, forty bushels of corn, which ripened nicely, and thirty-five bushels of oats to the acre. John Lindquest has thirty acres under cultivation. His oats last year threshed sixty bushels to the acre. He had good crops of corn and wheat. John Roe came from Duluth three years ago and settled southeast of Lake Nebagamon. He has twenty acres cleared and is prosperous. A cabbage in this section last fall weighed thirty-three pounds, and a rutabaga twenty-two and one-half pounds. Six potatoes weighed nine pounds. In the town limits of Lake Nebagamon are fifty farmers and twice as many more within a few miles of town.

The soil in the Lake Nebagamon district is a clay and sand mixture, which raises as much as seven tons of hay to the acre at two cuttings.

The farming sections close to Superior in Northern Wisconsin have been settled longest and are therefore better known. Farm lands in Douglas county close to Superior, are still to be had at very low prices. Much dairying is carried on. E. H. Hatch, of Bennett, states that his cows net him $55 per head a year. J. W. Habernicht, of Hines, reports that his cows net him $50 each. A. N. Young, county superintendent of schools, netted $40 on each of his cows, when buying all his grain. He will install a silo this year and figures on an additional profit of $10 per cow.



Mr. Terry, of South Range, went on to a farm several years ago without a cow, a horse or tools or money. He began in a very humble way, growing vegetables. He has a farm of eighty acres and has a fine house. T. M. Ferguson rented the farm he now owns twelve years ago. He was in debt. He began growing vegetables and today owns a 160-acre farm. J. L. Morris paid $40, all the money he had, on forty acres five years ago. He now hauls butter, eggs, vegetables and honey to Superior and is making money.

The land of the clover is the home of the bee. Twenty farmers near Hines are engaged in bee culture. There is a honey flow from wild flowers from spring until late in September. A. K. Ferris of Chaffee began in 1910 with five double swarms and one single swarm of bees costing $55. Last season he had twenty-eight double swarms, valued at $180 and had sold 1,800 pounds of honey at 10 cents a pound—$360 profit on $55 in six months. When John Vaughn went to Hawthorne six years

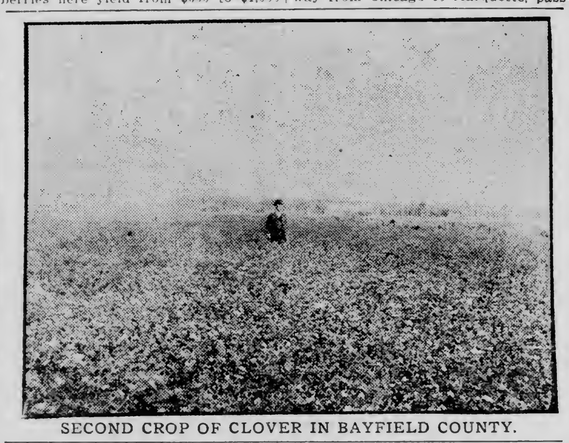
Wisconsin of cut-over lands along the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railroad, which only await the settler and his plow to produce big crops close to high priced markets, with low freight rates. Nowhere else can good farm lands be bought more cheaply. Cleared and stumped these lands will cost the settlers, ready for crops, only $22 to $30 an acre, and on just such land Joseph Knoll, a typical Dutch farmer, is clearing $1,50 an acre each year.

The new management of the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railroad has adopted a far-seeing policy. It will do all in its power to help the farmers along its lines in order to settle up its territory and add to its traffic.

Fifty-one carloads of strawberries were shipped from this district last year and double as many carloads will be shipped this summer. It is estimated that 1,000 barrels of apples will be shipped this season. When the apple trees now planted are matured they will produce 100,000 barrels a year. Cherries, currants and gooseberries also yield big profits. Strawberries here yield from $600 to $1,000 per acre; apples, $200 to $2,000 per acre, and cherries from $300 to $800 per acre. The growers are organized in an association with a membership of 150. They have their own building for storage.

Several thousands of acres of the choicest of these fruit lands are for sale by G. A. Knippenberg, 300-301 Alworth building, Duluth, who will furnish further particulars on application or by mail.

FRUIT RAISING ON LAKE SHORE



Bayfield Peninsula Unsurpassed for Apples and Strawberries.

Stretching along Lake Superior, only a few hours' ride from Duluth, in Bayfield county, Wis., is a frostproof strip of land several miles in width, tapped by three railroads, in which fruit raising is being attended with marvelous success. Here the finest of apples, strawberries and other fruits are being marketed at profits to the growers which are almost incredible.

This strip of land extends from Washburn to Port Wing and during the last six months of last year the average low temperature here was 6 deg. higher than at Sioux City, Iowa, more than 100 miles further south. The most favored portion is the Bayfield peninsula. Here the moisture blanket provided by Lake Superior is always to be depended on to prevent the killing frosts of early spring. In reality there is no spring, winter practically changing into summer. This prevents the starting of plant growth until any danger of frost is past.

Fruits grown in this district are faultless in flavor and color. The soil is impregnated with iron, which is responsible for the rich coloring. Andrews seedling and Peter apples, raised here by C. T. Andreas, took the first prize last fall at the interstate fair at La Crosse, Wis. Apples and cherries grown here will keep three times as long as Southern fruit. Berries and cherries, as well as apples, go to the high-priced markets of Duluth and Superior, close by, in perfect condition, and it is a very short haul to Minneapolis and St. Paul. Growers of summer and fall apples have no competition, and so the growing of winter apples has not yet been begun.

The average of the last killing frost in the spring is three weeks before the time of blossom on the peninsula, while at points in Iowa, much farther south, blossom time is two weeks before the last blighting frost. The soil is sandy clay loam, ideal for fruit cultures. Nourse brothers had thirteen acres in strawberries last year and got $9,000 for their crop. These results were from land costing $15 to $25 an acre and $25 to $30 per acre to clear, which will produce as much, selling at higher prices, as irrigated lands in Washington and Oregon costing $500 and $1,000 an acre.

Mr. Ellerman has a fine farm near town and raises his own vegetables.

MARQUETTE HAS A FINE HOTEL

It Is Famous With Traveling Men and Tourists—Newly Furnished.

Marquette is becoming more and more a resort in the summer for people of means who are attracted by its cool climate and the surpassing scenery in its neighborhood. Another reason for its popularity is that it possesses one of the best hotels in Northern Michigan, the Hotel Marquette, situated on an eminence overlooking Lake Superior and separated from the lake only by the width of a city park, which affords an unobstructed view of the lake.

The Hotel Marquette, which is steam heated and with other modern improvements, is kept open all the year, much to the gratification of commercial travelers, who time their work so as to spend the night or stay over Sunday in Marquette whenever possible. J. H. Lewis, the proprietor, is a hotel man of twenty years' experience, who thoroughly understands the importance of comfort, good food and perfect service.

Mr. Lewis has just refurnished and redecorated the hotel throughout, in handsome and comfortable style so that it will compare favorably with metropolitan hostelries. Many of the rooms have private baths. He is preparing for the inrush of summer guests through some of the most picturesque portions of this country.

The Anchor line of steamships plies between Buffalo and Marquette and there is splendid railroad service. Fishing in the neighborhood is very good.

Rates at the Hotel Marquette are $2.50 to $4 per day.

LAKE NEBAGAMON, THE BEAUTIFUL

Growing Summer Resort Famous for Boating, Bathing and Fishing.

With an improved train service over the Duluth, South Shore & Atlantic railway, Lake Nebagamon, one of the most beautiful spots in this far-famed lake region, will add to its popularity and the number of its summer guests this year. Lake Nebagamon has the finest of boating and bathing, and only a few miles away, reached by boat, is the Brule river, the best known trout stream in the Northwest.

This delightful summer resort is only thirty miles from Duluth and its picturesque shores are dotted with handsome summer homes. It has a good hotel and good boarding houses. The streets are lighted and the town itself has cement sidewalks.

Lake Nebagamon has twenty-seven miles of shore line and some very big fish lurk in its depths. Round about are many farmers who supply the best of fresh vegetables, milk, cream and strawberries.

Hay fever germs cannot live at Lake Nebagamon, which is becoming widely known throughout the country for its cures of that distressing complaint.

HELP FOR THE FARMERS.

Splendid Work Being Done at Iron River By Kopplin & Kopplin.

In the last ten years Kopplin & Kopplin have sold farms surrounding Iron River to between 300 and 400 settlers, all of whom are doing well. This firm has done more than any other factor for the settlement of this section. It will not sell to speculators, and today is charging no more for land that it did four years ago.

Until recently farmers had to pay 16 cents a pound for dynamite. Kopplin & Kopplin are now bringing the explosive in by the carload and selling it at 13 cents. At the Kopplin sawmill, in Iron River, settlers find a ready market for all kinds of timber, and they are given credit for building materials and helped in every way to succeed.

Kopplin & Kopplin have sold farms to Finns, Danes, Norwegians, Swedes and Germans. Most of these are on forty and eighty-acre tracts, which Kopplin & Kopplin consider the ideal-sized farms for this section unless a man wants to raise sheep. In ten years this firm has turned Iron River from a lumber camp into a prosperous agricultural town.

On the preceding page are details concerning farming around Iron River. Kopplin & Kopplin still have about 4,000 acres of good lands to dispose of to actual settlers at reasonable prices and on easy terms. The firm deals in building materials of all kinds and will contract to erect any sort of a building from a settler's cabin to a fine home anywhere in Northern Wisconsin.

THE WEEK IN THE HOME GARDEN

In another week or ten days if weather conditions are favorable, it will be time to do some out of door planting.

To have a successful garden, it is necessary that the ground be worked up to a rich, mellow condition. No part of the work connected with a garden is more important than that of preparing the ground for planting.

If the ground has been worked before, it is an easy matter for it spades up easily and if the gardener has been careful the first year there are but few stones to pick.

Should the garden be located in a newer section of the city and is to be worked for the first time, the gardener will find that there will be roots and stones to hinder his progress. Stones once picked up will never bother the gardener again, although new ones will be turned up with the spade each year, perhaps. "They seem to grow just like weeds," is the remark one man made in speaking of his garden. He picks the new crop each year, however, and some day he hopes to have a stoneless garden.

If the garden has been used for several years, a load of well rotted horse manure will greatly enrich the soil. Even if the ground has never been worked, the manure will help it. If this was neglected last year, now is the time to have it drawn to the garden patch and spread over it. When the soil is spaded or plowed, the manure can be turned over with it.

All the soil in the garden is useful. Some make the mistake of throwing away that which does not seem to work up easily, but forms into lumps. Where the patch is small these lumps should be broken up with a small mallet or hammer.

After spading up the soil in the patch, it should be gone over with a rake, breaking it up and spreading it out. From six to eight inches deep is considered about the right depth for spading. The rake serves as a harrow, spreading the soil, filling the low places and evening up the garden generally.

Drainage Important.

The drainage of the patch should not be neglected. There should be no catch basins for water in the garden for too much water will rot the seed. The slope should be such that an over supply of water would be carried quickly off the plot used for the garden.

If your neighbor has chickens, you must devise some way to keep them out of your garden for chickens delight in scratching up the seed that has been so carefully planted. They also like to pluck the green shoots as they come up out of the ground. Many a backyard garden was ruined last year because the man next door had chickens and neglected to keep them at home.

Some of those who had gardens last year, tried the experiment of planting radishes last fall so as to have them for early use this spring. It will be interesting to know what luck these people had with them. Mr. Hostetter of the Commercial club was one of those to try it. This plan is customary in older farming communities and it is claimed that in this way the earliest radishes are grown.

The tomato and cabbage plants which are being grown in the house to be later set out in the garden may be made to do better by transplanting them from time to time. When transplanted a number of times in different pots they do much better than when left to grow as they will in the pot in which they are first planted.

Those who are raising plants in hot beds for the first time must remember at this period of the year, when the plants are just coming up, it is necessary to open the top of the hot bed each day, taking care to raise the side opposite to the direction from which the wind is blowing. The plants need air that they cannot get if the top is allowed to remain closed.

If you haven't already ordered your seeds, it is well to do so now, for seeds of certain kinds are scarce this year and the supply may soon be exhausted. Garden peas are said to be very scarce this year, the crop having failed in the country south which is considered the pea country.

Those who are planning to have a portion of their garden in strawberries should send to the different nurseries for the plants for they will not be delivered until it is time to set them out and if ordered now the nursery will be better able to supply you when the time comes.

The weather has not been extremely favorable of late for the beginning of a garden, but as soon as the change for the warmer comes, it will be time to begin preparing the ground.

The earlier stuff should go in by the last of the present month and the planting season extends from this time up to an including the middle of May. There are some plants, like the tomatoes which are growing indoors, that should not be set out until the first of June.

Perhaps you had some seeds left over from last season and wish to try them out before placing them in the ground. A good way to do this is to dampen a rectangular piece of flannel, folding it so as to fit on a plate. Place the seeds, about ten in number on the flannel, and cover the plate with another one, laying them edge to edge so as to make the inside as nearly air tight as possible. If the seeds were good last season, at least nine-tenths of them should sprout. By fixing a number of these plates, a number of kinds of seeds can be tried out before they are put in the ground. In this way the gardener knows what to expect of the older seeds. The experiment is an interesting one and many are in the habit of doing it each year with seeds left over from the previous season.

OLD FASHIONED GARDEN FLOWERS

(By J. J. LeBorious.)

Of all the flowers grown, none are so interesting as the old-fashioned ones that used to grow in mother's garden back on the farm.

They can be grown just as well today in the city if you will give them a sunny spot, good soil and keep the weeds down.

Give them a good open border, backed by a hedge or fence. Such tall-growing flowers as holly hock, sunflower, rudbeckias (golden glow) and boltomas may be planted throughout a shrubbery border and will give you flowers in the fall.

Planting and cultivating hardy plants is very simple. Begin with a good garden soil, enriched with manure, well dug and pulverized. The best time to plant hardy plants is just when they are starting in to grow in the spring. (About May in Duluth.)

Plant most hardy plants about twelve inches apart except the stronger growing ones. Also try to get plants that bloom at different times as it will prolong your flowering season.

The weeds should be kept out and the soil be given frequent stirrings which allows the air to move freely through the soil. Keep the taller growing varieties staked up or when we have a wind storm they will be broken and the flowers spoiled.

Plants that are hardy in Duluth are: Peony, dielytra (bleeding hearts), lily of the valley, phlox, sweet William, larkspur, Oriental poppy, Iceland poppy, shasta daisy, German iris, golden glow and many others.

NORTHERN MINNESOTA ATTRACTING ATTENTION AS POTATO CENTER

Northern Minnesota is destined to become the greatest potato producing center in the United States.

Mr. McGuire says the community around Grand Rapids has shipped 100,000 bushels of potatoes during the past year, while the community in the vicinity of Cloquet has shipped 40,000 bushels. There are at the present time two large warehouses at Grand Rapids and the prospects are so good for the immediate increase of the potato industry that two large firms of St. Paul, Ryan & Co., and Famishawn & Co., are at the present time negotiating for the construction of two warehouses.

Bushels and bushels of seed potatoes have been shipped out from the state experimental farm at Grand Rapids, with the result, says Mr. McGuire of increasing materially the raising of potatoes in this part of the state.

"Northern Minnesota and Northern Wisconsin are in my opinion the two greatest potato raising sections in the United States," declared Mr. McGuire. "Northern Minnesota is even better than Northern Wisconsin as the soil of this part of the state is Superior, and I don't mean any pun, either.

"There is a great future for the raisers of potatoes in this section of Minnesota. The outside world is just beginning to realize that this section of Minnesota is raising the greatest potato crop in the world and it will not be long before we will begin to realize a decided commercial advantage from this fact."

Mr. McGuire says the co-operative creamery at Grand Rapids is doing splendidly at the present time and that the farmers of Cloquet have raised $5,000 for the construction of a creamery. Mr. McGuire is one of the firm believers in the agricultural future of the Northern part of Minnesota and he is one of the pioneers in the movement for its betterment.

IRON AND STEEL REVIEW

New York, April 15.—The most encouraging feature in the steel industry is the evidence that the enormous shipments of finished products are going into consumption, few jobbers of manufacturers increasing stocks to any extent. Since the first of April several large individual contracts brought the average bookings of the United States Steel corporation interests to 50,000 tons daily. In the last week export contracts including billets, structural shapes, rails and steel pipe have aggregated over 100,000 tons and other important business is pending.

The railroad companies have made satisfactory financial arrangements and being stimulated by the advancing tendency of prices, have come into the market for equipment.

Last week orders placed included 67,000 tons of rails, 5,000 cars, 52 locomotives and 5,000 tons of bridge material. The Harriman lines have closed for about 40,000 tons of rails and are about to close for 60,000 tons more and for 9,400 cars.

There was greater activity in fabricated structural steel for building and manufacturing plants, the contracts aggregating 26,000 tons.

The output of finished steel products in March was the heaviest in the history of the industry. The United States Steel corporation turned out steel ingots at the rate of 16,696,000 tons annually and today is producing at the rate of 17,800,000 tons annually, or with 6 per cent to 7 per cent of its total capacity. The largest independent steel companies are also operating about 93 per cent of capacity. Prices are advancing with steel sheet from $1 to $2 per ton higher and a further rise of $1 per ton is imminent on bars, plates and shapes.

Activity continued in pig iron sales in all districts aggregating 200,000 tons.

SOCIAL MEETINGS PLANNED BY GROCERS.

A social session, the first of a series to be held for the purpose of forming plans for the upbuilding of the community and the general betterment of local conditions, will be held next Tuesday evening at the Spalding hotel under the auspices of the Duluth Retail Grocers' association. Invitations have been issued to all the retailers and wholesalers of the city, without regard to the lines of goods in which they deal, to attend these functions. The meetings are to be held monthly.

At Tuesday's affair the principal speakers will be Judge M. D. Purdy of Minneapolis, attorney of the National Federation of Retailers of America, and W. G. Hollis, also of Minneapolis, secretary of the same organization.

There are four committees handling these functions, the chairmen being as follows: J. E. Roos, committee on arrangements; George E. Schulenberg, entertainment; John Logan, publicity and attendance; R. E. Burbridge, general committee. George M. Peterson is secretary of the general committee.

TIDE TURNED TO ITASCA

Five Times as Many Settlers This Spring as in Any Previous Year.

E. L. Buck Gives Actual Cost of Clearing Minnesota Cutover Lands.

The advertising that has been done of Northern Minnesota during the past year has resulted in the heaviest tide of immigration to this section this spring that has ever been known. E. L. Buck of Cohasset, who is at the new St. Louis hotel, said today that Itasca county is getting five times as many settlers this spring as it has had in any preceding year. He says that the same is true to a certain degree of St. Louis county and others sections of Northern Minnesota.

Mr. Buck is a good barometer to go by as to settlement. Some years ago he bought 30,000 acres of wild land at what is now Hill City, Aitkin county, twenty-five miles from the nearest railroad. There is a small city there today with a great hardwood factory and a railroad, with much farm settlement. Then Mr. Buck went to Cohasset and with others established a big woodenware factory and during the six years he has been there has seen the town double in population.

Speaking of Northern Minnesota and its agricultural growth, Mr. Buck said: "It is conceded that there is no more productive land in the West. The settler here pays the greater part of the cost of his farm in labor, which he cannot do elsewhere, and when his land is cleared it equals in productivity land which he must pay $75 to $125 an acre elsewhere. With the same capital he can do more on the soil here than anywhere else.

Cost of Clearing.

"Some of the statements about clearing land being made by contributors to the discussion now going on in the Open Court of The Herald are ridiculous to men like me who are clearing land. Each year for the last six years I have been clearing from forty to eighty acres in Aitkin and Itasca counties. I have cleared land as cheaply as from $5 to $7 an acre where it has been principally brush. The cost to me of clearing the heaviest stump land has been from $20 to $25 an acre. I first have the stumps blasted by an experienced man, using light charges of dynamite to split the stumps. Then a team follows up and with a chain removes the fragments. Of course, a settler should understand something about the use of dynamite. This he can learn from the pamphlets issued by the powder companies free.

"Settlers coming in around Cohasset this spring are mostly from Iowa, good farmers with stock, household goods and money. We have quite a number of farmers from Iowa and they wrote back and told their relatives and friends of the splendid land to be had here at low prices. Some of the farmers settling near Grand Rapids are from Nebaska.

"Last fall and this spring we shipped our first potatoes from Cohasset—two carloads of them. Big buyers have come this winter from the South for our almost perfect Carmens and Burbanks for seed. Northern Minnesota's potatoes are becoming famous all over the country. No more will our Northern Minnesota markets be glutted at digging time with potatoes. Buyers from elsewhere are now ready to snap them up. The farmers around Cohasset will double their acreage in potatoes this year. Last year they averaged better than 200 bushels to the acre and in exceptional cases raised as high as 500 bushels to the acre. I know no land at $100 or $125 an acre in older states which will produce such crops at such good prices as our farmers obtain. They get twelve to fifteen tons of fodder corn to the acre and twelve to fifteen tons of rutabagas. I raised sixty-five bushels of corn to the acre on thirty acres on one of my farms, located in the Mississippi river valley, four miles above Cohasset, last year, planting No. 13 and Minnesota white dent. I have been testing my corn for seed. Out of sixty kernels planted I got fifty-four stocks of corn.

Buying Too Much Land.

"The tendency of the average man coming to Northern Minnesota is to buy too much land. He had better buy forty to eighty acres, fifteen acres of which will give him a splendid living living, and use the rest of his money in clearing his land for crops. In clearing cut-over lands in this section considerable is realized from the timber taken off. This is particularly so where there are wood-working factories, sawmills and pulp mills, all of which we have, as well as a lath factory. In exceptional cases the timber that is left will pay for the cost of clearing. There is plenty of good land left in Itasca and St. Louis counties. A man can get his pick today. Some of this land is clearable at a low cost. He can get the best of the lands at $15 to $20 an acre and on easy terms.

"The surest way to financial success is to put money into land. The interest on the investment piles up steadily in the increasing value of the land. It might be said that when the cost of clearing these lands is taken into consideration it would be cheaper in the end to buy improved land elsewhere that is ready for crop and to pay $50 to $100 an acre for it. Of course, a man with capital and ability as a farmer might do that, but the homeseeker of average ability and means would often have to figure differently, if he is to get a home of his own.

"Supposing the cost of clearing these Northern Minnesota lands will average $25 an acre, and that the land originally costs $15 per acre, making a total cost of $40 per acre when ready for the plow, the greater part of the cost of the farm represents labor, but the settler has more than doubled the value of his land by the operation, for in this way $15 an acre land becomes $40 an acre land. Such of the land as he cannot clear at first can be used for the pasture of stock, or it may yield more or less revenue from the timber on it and as a market for his own labor in the work of clearing more of it and thus increasing its value.

"At the price paid on the average an acre of potatoes will bring $100; an acre of rutabagas, $100; and cabbage and carrots as much or more. According to the last census reports of the United States an acre of wheat will produce an average of $7 per acre, and an acre of corn $8, but an acre of truck produce yields about $40 per acre. No other part of the country can beat Northern Minnesota for vegetables and few sections can equal it."

Mr. Buck said that a potato storage would be built at Cohasset in time for this year's crop and that the matter of establishing a creamery will also be taken up.

Webster's Tonic

Renews Nerve Energy

CONTINUOUS brain and nerve activity often burns up so much of one's energy that nervous troubles of one form or another result—brain fag, sleeplessness, loss of memory, melancholy, nervous prostration, etc. The digestive and other body organs are robbed of the energy necessary to perform their functions properly. Thus dyspepsia, indigestion, constipation, etc., usually accompany nervous disorders.

Webster's Tonic supplies the elements that feed nerves and build nerve energy—the iron that makes rich, red blood; and the body salts that build up bone and tissues, all in a predigested form so the weakest system has only to absorb them without any digestive effort. It contains the well-known tonic bitters—dandelion and gentian—which stimulate the appetite and the digestive processes. You will relish food and digest it with comfort; you soon feel stronger and happier; your irritableness passes away; you sleep well, and awaken refreshed and invigorated. In serious nervous diseases—brain fag, nervous prostration, etc.—by all means consult a physician.

Formulated After Years of Research

Webster s Tonic contains no quinine or harmful drug of any kind. It has a pleasant taste. Its ingredients are selected with exacting carefulness as to their purity and strength. It is analyzed and tested by expert chemists to see that it is properly balanced and prepared. Get the complete formula from your druggist (he has it); then ask your doctor what he thinks of it.

Our forty years' experience as manufacturing chemists has taught us how to make Webster's Tonic and all other Webster preparations so good that we can absolutely guarantee them. Webster's Tonic is sold in two sizes, 50c. and $1.00. Six bottles of the large size for $5.00. Your money refunded if you are not satisfied with results after a fair trial.

Under the Webster trade-mark and guaranty are sold sixty different articles, including most effective remedies for all such human ailments as do not require a doctor—household remedies that should be in the medicine cabinet of every family—also pure toilet preparations.

News and Views of Minnesota Politics

Lee on Economy.

If Governor Eberhart would add to what he calls administrative expenses, the expenses listed as judicial and legal, for public health, for publicity and research and for the protection of life, he would have a per capita expense of 93 mills in Minnesota, against 36 in Iowa, 61 in Wisconsin 47 in Michigan, according to William E. Lee of Long Prairie, candidate for the Republican nomination for governor.

Mr. Lee, who was in Duluth Saturday and part of yesterday, went into the state tax figures to refute the governor's statements made at Mankato. Governor Eberhart stated at that time that the administrative expense in Minnesota was 24 mills, against 23 mills in Iowa, 32 in Wisconsin and 30 in Michigan. Mr. Lee says that the governor's figures do not include everything that should be included in administrative expenses.

The figures that he would include in addition to the so-called "edministrative expenses" are: Judicial and legal—Minnesota, .12; Iowa, .11; Wisconsin, .16; Michigan, .08; public health—Minnesota, .25; Iowa, .02; Wisconsin, .05; Michigan, .01; publicity and research—Minnesota, .14; Iowa, 0; Wisconsin, .08; Michigan, 0; protection of life—Minnesota, .18; Iowa, 0; Wisconsin, .06; Michigan, .08.

Mr. Lee said that he quite agreed with the statement by Representative Congdon published in The Herald recently and declared that Mr. Congdon's figures are irrefutable.

Mr. Lee is making his campaign for governor on a platform that declares for a business administration. He would make the immigration bureau, the highway commission and the state drainage board bureaus of the state agricultural school and take them out of politics altogether. He would also put the reclamation work, if it is continued and the forestry bureau under the agricultural college.

Mr. Lee would institute a civil service for all employes of the state under the heads of departments. He would have a corrupt practices act with a proper penalty extending not only to candidates, but to all contributors to campaign funds. He would have the primary system extend to all officers. "In fact, I believe in majority rule," said Mr. Lee. "That sums up my platform."

Mr. Lee was in the hands of members of the La Follette club during his stay in Duluth. He was a guest of the club at luncheon at the Spalding Saturday evening.

Mr. Lee is committed to the candidacy of Senator La Follette for president. "I am for La Follette for president and Lee for governor," he said.

Mr. Lee has been campaigning almost continuously since he announced his candidacy. He declares that under the primary system he would have no fear and believes that he would be elected. As to his chances under the present system he says that he is hopeful but he is not sure that he can get away from the machine steamroller.

Roosevelt in the Race.

The Roosevelt victory in Pennsylvania Saturday, following on the results in Illinois, Vermont and Maine, indicate that the colonel is far from a negligible factor in the presidential race. The sixty-five delegates he will have from Pennsylvania will go a long way in the national convention. Pennsylvania is generally considered a reactionary state. The victory of the colonel is inexplicable in the light of past performances of that state in national politics, but he has the delegates and delegates will count at Chicago.

Col. Roosevelt has a late start. Over half of the delegates to the Chicago convention have been selected. President Taft has a comfortable start. That Roosevelt can catch up now is doubtful, but at least he has made Taft's nomination still more doubtful.

Koll Pulls Out.

M. N. Koll of Cass Lake is an ardent member of the Northern Minnesota Development association. The next meeting of the association will be held June 20 and 21. The Republican national convention will open at Chicago June 18. Mr. Koll has been prominent as a prospective delegate from the Sixth district. In Koll's Kolumn in the Cass Lake Times, Mr. Koll announces that on account of the conflict in dates, he withdraws as a candidate for delegate. He considers the meeting of the development association of more importance to him than the Republican convention and will not allow politics to interfere with his attendance at International Falls.

Lindberg for Senator.

A story is going the rounds that Senator Knute Nelson will not be a candidate for re-election and that a group of Progressives has settled upon Congressman C. A. Lindberg as a candidate for the senate. If the prediction holds good, James A. Peterson of Minneapolis will be grievously disappointed, as he has been marking out the lines for his candidacy for the senate. The prediction that Senator Nelson will not be a candidate for re-election may be taken with a grain of salt. The man from Alexandria is not ready to retire from public life yet.

Leaders of Men and Religion Forward Movement Will Meet.

Local leaders of the Men and Religion Forward Movement to the number of about 150 will gather this evening at a banquet in the assembly room of the Y. M. C. A., and will decide on plans to make permanent the work that was accomplished by the recent series of revival meetings at the Armory. The supper will begin at 6:15, and after that the business meeting will be held.

The gathering will include the eighteen members of the conservation committee, and the minister and six delegates from each of the Duluth Protestant churches. These six delegates will be the chairmen of the six divisions of religious work that the various congregations have undertaken, namely, boys' work, Bible study, evangelism, missionaries, social service and community extension.

The delegates will be organized into one body, which will be a unified force to carry on systematic work along the same lines which were followed by the eminent revivalists who recently visited Duluth.

At this evening's meeting the six delegates may be chosen to represent Duluth at the Christian congress, which is to be held in New York from April 19 to 24.

NEW LAWS ADVOCATED

State Hotel Inspector Axel Crozier Would Add to Present Laws.

Abolition of Roller Towel One of the Measures Favored.

More stringent sanitary restrictions for hotels, boarding and rooming houses, and legislation reframing the hotel laws of the state, are urged by Axel Crozier of St. Paul, state hotel inspector.

Mr. Crozier spoke on the subject at an open meeting of Zenith council, United Commercial Travelers, Saturday evening at the Knights of Pythias hall. The meeting was held in honor of W. B. Clarkson, district grand councilor of the order.

Among other things, Mr. Crozier declared that 525 out of 800 hotels in the state had complied with the laws as fully as the state department was authorized to enforce them.

Mr. Crozier advocated the abolition of the roller towel, the displacement of sheets under nine feet in length, and the placing of iron fire escapes on buildings of three stories and higher instead of four, as is now required.

At a business session George M. Peterson, J. D. Sattler, J. E. Lawrence, O. C. Rellan and Bert Holcolm were chosen as delegates to attend the annual state convention of the U. C. T. at Red Wing, June 8, 9 and 10. The local council also made further arrangements for the presentation of a minstrel show at the Lyceum theater on April 27.

During the evening Grand Councilor Clarkson made a few remarks, touching upon the benefits of the ordsr. Other talks were given by Bentley P. Neff, F. X. Gravel and W. B. Bratenbery.

After the meeting Grand Councilar Clarkson entertained at a dinner for the officers of the local council at the St. Louis hotel. Those present were: J. E. Lawrence, George M. Peterson, Frank Dwyer, Ed Chalk, J. Lindbeck, C. W. Sutton, L. Culbertson, Frank Taite and George A. Spires.

"THE ODYSSEY" AT THE LYCEUM

An entertainment that gives a vivid conception of ancient Greek mythology and art, even to those who have never studied or even read along that line, is being presented at the Lyceum theater this week. Homer's immortal Greek poem, "The Odyssey," a story of the wanderings of Ulysses, king of Ithaca, after the fall of Troy, is given in the form of a moving picture series, accompanied by a lecture by Mr. Irving of the Irving Art school.

The entire narrative of the marvelous adventures of this mythical hero, from the time of his parting with his queen, Penelope, to take part in the Trojan war, until his return, twenty years later, in the guise of an aged beggar, is presented in a splendid series of pictures, belonging to the Monopol Film company of New York. The experiences of Ulysses and his companions in the cave with the giant, Polyphemus, and when attacked by the monster, Scylla, are vividly given, in a manner to excite wonder as to how the mechanical difficulties in obtaining the films could have been overcome. In addition to the story of Ulysses, the program includes a series of views of the most famous productions of Greek and Roman sculpture, together with some similar works of art, belonging to modern times.

The opening performance was given yesterday afternoon. The entertainment will be repeated through the entire week. It is well worth seeing and should interest many who never attend an ordinary moving picture performance.

LIVELY BILL AT THE ORPHEUM

Two Remarkable Women Gymnasts Feature Entertaining Vaudeville Offering.

It's a rapid and lively little show that holds the boards at the Orpheum this week.

While there is no act that stands out as a big and widely heralded feature act, it is hard to find a weak spot on the bill, and it runs with the snap and life that stamp it as a first class attraction. There have been many bills at the Orpheum with some widely advertised attraction as a headliner that have been less entertaining than the present week's offering.

Manager Billings was given a hard half hour yesterday afternoon on account of the late arrival of two acts from Omaha, but when the curtain finally rose about half an hour late, the show moved off at a rapid pace.

The headline act this week is presented by two of the most remarkable acrobats the Orpheum has seen since it opened its doors. They are the Lietzel Sisters, who were brought to this country to appear on the opening week's bill at Martin Beck's new Palace theater in Chicago. Their act is so much out of the ordinary that they deserve the position of headliners. One of the sisters works on the flying rings and the other on a trapeze, and the feature of the act is the manner in which one of the sisters does what gymnasts call "one arms." She performs this feat forty times in rapid succession.

Curiously enough another athletic act shares the honors of the bill with the two sisters. It is presented by the Kremka Brothers, and is just as entertaining and just as unusual as the headline act, although differing widely from it. The Kremka Brothers are two very small and very agile gymnasts, who have built up a little pantomime sketch in which tumbling and acrobatic work are featured. The average act of this type is a "filler," and vaudeville audiences usually shy at them, but both the sisters and the brothers aroused genuine enthusiasm yesterday afternoon.

There are two very lively and entertaining dancing acts on the bill. One is presented by John Boyle and Walter Brazil. They have some very strenuous dance steps, including a good imitation of Primrose and West. Coogan and Parks, who present the other dance offering, call themselves "The Two Eccentrics." Their comedy is broad, but amusing, and Coogan's eccentric dancing is one of the best things on the entire bill.

Wilfred Clarke, who has been a vaudeville favorite for a dozen years or more, is presenting a lively little farce this week which he calls "The Dear Departed." He is assisted by a company of five. The little company takes the playlet on the run. If rapid action is one of the requsites of a good farce, "The Dear Departed" in a winner. It certainly does not lack action. The lines are also good and the situations amusing, so the sketch fared well yesterday.

Carl Demarest, the dancing violinist, has an engaging smile and plays ragtime in a manner that sets the body swaying. That combination made it difficult for him to get away from yesterday's audience. He als introduces a little clog dance which he gives while fiddling his own accompaniment.

The opening act is a novelty. It is presented by Charles Herrera, who calls himself "The Sailor on the Pole." He does some interesting tricks on a pole suspended by one end.

The motion pictures this week show Champ Clark and Roosevelt, and both were given a reception yesterday afternoon.

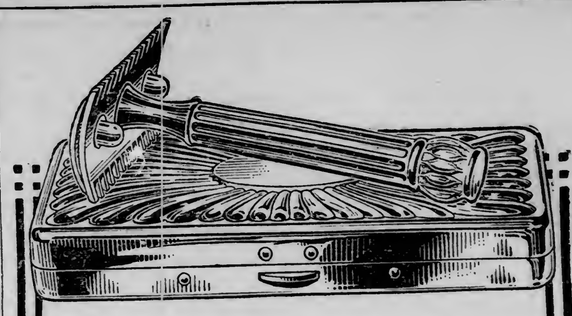
The orchestra overture completes a first class bill, which will continue all week with a daily matinee.

NOVEL HEADLINE AT THE EMPRESS

Sa-Hera Introduces Most Interesting Mind Reading Act Seen Here.

"Thought transference" is the art practiced by Sa-Hera, who presents at the Empress this week what is probably the most marvelous mindreading act that has ever appeared here.

Sa-Hera does not depend on paper pads or written question to answer her auditors, but apparently has the wonderful ability to read the mind of the questioner and then give a simple, logical answer. A committee of the audience was on the stage during her performance and watched for any outside assistance. The performance is clean throughout and prevents a novel entertainment for fifteen minutes. Sa-Hera can event tell a person what he is going to ask and then give him the answer before the question has even left his lips. This part of the performance afforded considerable amusement to the audience last evening. The act is as mystifying as it could be and a real treat for theatergoers this week.



Major O'Loughlin could easily make his mark in the army, should he care to join. He is most versed in gun drill and introduces a novel gun spinning feature that has never been seen here before. Major O'Loughlin throws the gun with the pointed saber all over the stage and his work is sensational at times. He closes his act with a rapid twirling of a gun capped with fire brands.

Babe Mason and Edith McClaire are a pair of dainty young misses, who sing, dance and please an audience. They are bothe clever entertainers and scored a hit with the audience last evening. Miss Mason introduced a delightful child song and Miss McClaire established herself as a Swiss yodeler of no mean ability.

Terry and Elmer introduce "The Doctor and the Show Girl" as the sketch for the week. The pair are both good entertainers and introduce a pot-pourri of jokes, dances and songs, which thoroughly pleased.

Bob Van Horn and Jack Jackson are ragtime singers and piano players, such as seldom appear in this city. They are both above the ordinary and are the real hit of the show this week. Bobbie Van Horn, the tall lanky youth, who needs only two steps to get across the stage, immediately won the audience last evening. He is a comedian of a rare type and he plays the piano as well as he acts and sings. Mr. Jackson is also a piano player and he introduces several ragtime songs, which scored an immediate hit. The pair are the real contenders for the headline position this week.

The motion pictures showed the poultry and cat show at New York during the past winter. The various prize cats and chickens on exhibit from all parts of the world are especially interesting. The performance will continue for the rest of the week with daily matinee and two evening performances.

Wisconsin Senator Postpones His Minnesota Visit Until Next Month.

Senator Robert M. La Follette, who was to have visited Minnesota from April 21 to 25, has postponed his visit and will not come to the state until after May 1.

Senator La Follette will speak in Duluth during his Minnesota campaign, and the La Follette club has been counting on his appearance here the latter part of this month. The Republican caucuses will be held about May 13, and the La Follette supporters hope that the senator will be able to come to the city before that date.

Lake Forest, Ill., April 15.—Clayton Mark's Lake Forest residence, said to have cost $50,000, was almost completely destroyed by fire Sunday. The fire was caused by a bolt of lightning. Members of the Mark family, including four children, escaped from the burning residence without injury. A number of valuable paintings were saved by servants. Mrs. Marks jewels were lost.

S.S.S. MAKES A LASTING CURE

Not only its proven ability to cure, but its absolute safety as a remedy, has made S. S. S. the most extensively used of all medicines in the treatment of Contagious Blood Poison. Unlike the strong mineral mixtures, which temporarily remove the outward symptoms and shut the disease up in the system, there to carry on its destructive work on the delicate and vital organs, S. S. S. strikes directly at the root, and by purifying the blood of every trace of the virus, completely and permanently cures the trouble. S. S. S. is Nature's blood purifier, harmless in its action and certain in its good results. It is made from a combination of roots and herbs, each of which has a definite and specific action in purifying the blood. Years were spent in selecting and proportioning the different ingredients, but when S. S. S. was perfected it soon demonstrated its superiority over all other blood medicines, and now, after 40 years, it is still the one and only certain cure for Contagious Blood Poison. While driving out the poison from the circulation S. S. S. builds up and strengthens the system by its fine vegetable tonic effects. If you are suffering with Contagious Blood Poison S. S. S. is your most certain reliance, and because of its freedom from mercury, potash or any other mineral, it is absolutely safe for every one. BRUCE'S COLUMN

COMMENT AND DIVERS DISCUSSION OF THE MERRY WORLD OF SPORT.

JUDGING from some of the facts recited by the semi-baseball autobiography of Connie Mack, published in the latest issue of one of the current weeklies, the lean Irishman of Philadelphia outlines a system of his own that has been prodigally productive of the very best results in the baseball vineyard. This wizard of the modern business game, if you are minded to put it that way, heartily realizing that it is well nigh impossible to purchase one of the finished stars in these days of baseball competition, some time ago hit upon the plan of developing the young players, and the net result of this scheme has been the setting before the eyes of the baseball world the greatest infield since the halcyon days of the great first defense of the Chicago Cubs.

Somewhere in history or one of the school books there is an instructive piece of advice telling the sluggard that he can learn much from the ant and perforce the busy bee. The same advice is carried over and applies to the baseball player of this day and generation. The game is one big and keen competition; a struggle just as much as the business that the average young man enters and strives for the goal at the top. Mack looks for brains and speed and ambition; and so it is with the other managers—the old methods have passed.

That the star players of today, the finished product, that is, are practically unavailable, is proven by the failure of Charley Murphy of the Cubs to land Nap Rucker of the Brooklyn team. Murphy, parsimonious as he may be, is willing to part with a small fortune for the purchase of Rucker and Daubert, but should Charley Ebbetts part with the two greatest stars of the Brooklyn team, it is very likely that the fans of Brooklyn would be so disgusted that the attendance records of Brooklyn would show a woeful shrinkage.

ALONG with the coming today of Jim Flynn, the fighting fireman from Pueblo, is also pegged the arrival of Alex Jarvinen, the young Finnish giant. The aspirant to the undisputed championship of his race at the modern style of catch-as-catch-can wrestling is confident of being able to wrest the title from the possession of Karl Lehto, the former Duluthian, who has been training hard and earnestly in the Copper Country for the forthcoming contest. Since leaving Duluth Lehto has had the valuable experience of working with some of the best men in the mat game. Heavier, faster and possessing more knowledge of the modern style of wrestling than was the case when he was in Duluth, Lehto remains confident that he will come out of the tilt with colors flying.

For the past two weeks Jarvinen has been working daily in a Chicago gymnasium with Ilia Vincent, the Cuban heavyweight wrestler, and this instruction and heavy work has, according to the statement issued by Manager Frilund, put his man in the very best condition for the fray.

GET Bob Fitzsimmons off in a corner and he will tell you in venomous language just what he thinks of James J. Corbett. "Gentleman Jim" is more politic in the language he uses in conveying his opinion of the man who robbed him of the coveted belt, and yet he lets you in on the secret. Just the other day the twain were snapped by the camera man at St. Louis, in one of those cooing and let-us-love-one another attitudes. This Damon and Pythias pose made a nice layout for the sporting page, but getting down to the true facts in the case there will always be a smouldering hate between the two ex-gladiators. The Green's hotel incident of Philadelphia is one that neither of the former fighters will ever forget.

JACK CURLEY, the manager of Flynn, is one of the richest cards of the sporting world. He started out as a fighter and after getting several trimmings the shrewd head of the future promoter decided that the wisest men were outside the ropes and in the vicinity of the box office instead of listening to the count of the referee.

One of the reasons why Curley is one of the biggest men in the promoting game, being the Hugh McIntosh of this country, is that he is always ready to take a chance and a big one at that. Once Curley gets a hunch he will back it with all the money he can raise.

Jack made a large amount of money out of the different sports he has promoted, and he says he will be willing to risk all of this on the chances of Flynn against Johnson, playing the short end for a fortune. Like Tex Rickard, Curley has risked several fortunes in the past, and like the picturesque cow puncher of Texas, he has had his ups and downs in the world. Should Flynn happen to defeat Johnson in the coming fight Curley will probably have enough money to retire from the game with.

SPEAKING further of promoters, it might be remarked that three men of picturesque methods have been mixed up with some of the biggest athletic contests of this country. The late Dan A. Stuart of Texas was the kind of a man who was willing to take a chance any time he believed there was a fighting chance to make some money.

It was Stuart who promoted the Fitzsimmons-Maher fight, the stern exigencies of the case compelling him to stage the battle across the Mexican line. This fight was the one that led up to the matching of Corbett and Fitzsimmons and it was Stuart who went to the length of having the state legislature of Nevada pass a special law authorizing the holding of the battle in that state.

Tex Rickard followed with the promoting of the never-to-be-forgotten Gans-Nelson that first turned the eyes of the people of this country on the camp at Goldfield and did much to set the passing of the border West before the eyes of many of the tourists and sporting men who journeyed half way across the continent to witness the greatest fight between little men that has been staged in the last decade.

Rickard was the man behind the push in the Jeffries-Johnson fight, and he did much to show his nerve and resource in finally holding this battle, after the California authorities decided that a finish battle could not be held within the confines of the Golden state.

If Curley promotes the battle between Flynn and Johnson, he will take his place with these two men, although at the present time the big Chicagoan holds the distinction of promoting the biggest wrestling match in the history of the world.

AFTER STATE TITLE.

Little Falls High School Baseball Team Looks Very Strong.

Little Falls, Minn., April 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Chester (Bay) Longley, guardian of the third sack of last year's high school team, state champions in 1911, was unanimously elected captain by the members of last year's team for the 1912 season. Last year the locals went through the season without a single defeat, defeating Minneapolis South high by a 4 to 2 score for the state championship. Gerhart Bundlie, faculty manager, is endeavoring to schedule games with the fastest teams in the state in an effort to again land the undisputed state high school championship. For a nucleus for this year's team there remains seven veterans, who are all in fine condition with the exception of Brannen, last year's reliable catcher, who has just recovered from a severe case of typhoid fever. Captain Longley will again be at his old position at the dizzy corner. Fearing at first, Dunphy at second and Hall at short, art out for their old position in the infield. Diedrich will again be the mainstay in the box, while Brannen is still an uncertainty, but is expected to be behind the plate before many games have been played. Southpaw Gordon, the only veteran outfielder, is out for his old place in the center garden and Turner, last year's substitute outfielder, is after the right garden. Blake, last year's reliable left fielder, who is still in bed with a severe case of typhoid fever, is lost to the team for the season. Of the new men who show promise are Clark, Meyers, Sutliff, Graham and R. Brannen.

PROSPECTS GOOD FOR STRONG PENN CREW.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 15.—Coach Jimmy Ward of the University of Pennsylvania's crews, has at last been able to get his men outdoors on the water, and predicts as a result of the initial workouts that Pennsylvania will have winning combinations in all the boats this year. The four-oared varsity and the freshman eight particularly will be strong, in the opinion of the veteran rowing mentor.

Pennsylvania has made entry of her varsity four, freshman eight and junior varsity eight in the tenth annual regatta of the American Rowing association on the Schuylkill river, May 25, in which the best oarsmen of the country will compete. Several individual scullers also may represent Pennsylvania in the event.

The Red and Blue did not have much success in the intercollegiate events last year, but a wealth of good new material has reported this season and, with many of the 1911 men back again, prospects are usually roseate.

PUEBLO FIREMAN WILL BE SEEN IN EXHIBITION

Jim Flynn Will Make Bow to Duluth Fans at the Auditorium—Jack Curley Has Big Sum at Stake.

With Jack Curley, the famous international sport promoter and the power behind the pending Johnson-Flynn fight for the world's heavyweight championship, and Jim Flynn, the man who confidently expects to lift the crown from the shaven pate of the present champion, to arrive in the city early this afternoon, interest in the first appearance of the famous boxer of Pueblo in Duluth is at a high notch.

This evening at the Auditorium Flynn will give an exhibition with Al Williams, one of the promising heavyweight boxers of the East, in connection with some high class wrestling bouts that have been arranged for the big athletic show.

This will be the first time Flynn has ever been in Duluth and it will also be one of the last places the fireman will show the present season, for according to the word of Curley he is going to remain in active training for at least two months, which will mean that Flynn will take to the training camp routine shortly after the first of May.

Both Flynn and Curley claim increased weight for the Pueblo man, and to prove this statement show a weight of 200 pounds, scaled in the chief of police's office at Cincinnati. Curley says that the increased poundage of the Colorado cyclone is the result of systematic training and that Flynn will enter the ring with Johnson weighing fully 190 pounds and that he will be in the very best condition of his career.

Each fighter has a forfeit of $5,000 in the hands of Alderman Al Tearney of Chicago, who, by the way, is the president of the Three C league. In addition to this Curley has $10,000 of the cold mintage of Uncle Sam that he will put off the Fourth of July battle. If either of the principals refuses to fight it will cost him the $5,000 that is in the pot. In the event that the big Chicago promoter is unable to pull the battle, he will be out his $10,000. Under these circumstances it does look that Curley cannot afford to let any obstacles, no matter how grave they might be, stand in his way of bringing off the next world's championship battle.

JIM FLYNN.

In addition to the sparring of Flynn and Al Williams, who is one of the cleverest boxers in the ranks of the big men, there will be two wrestling matches, one between Martin Johnson and Sailor Jack, and the other between Nesota, the stocky little Pole, and Walter Diehm.

The show will start on the usual time and is expected to be one of the banner athletic exhibitions of the season, coming as it does, as next to the last show of this season.

FINANCIAL AID IS REQUESTED BY CLUB

Whether Duluth is to have league baseball this season seems to be put right up to the business men of the city. Mayor John A. McCuen, president of the local club, presumably tired of carrying the burdens of the team alone, has prepared a circular letter addressed to the business men of the city, in which they are asked to subscribe for an interest in the stock of the holding company.

Under the plan outlined in the letter there will be 1,000 shares of the stock of the baseball company offered at $25 per share. With the officials of the club taking over a part of this stock, the public is asked to come in and help raise the funds for placing a strong team here and stimulating interest in the game.

With the growth of Duluth, which never looked more certain than it does at the present time, the local franchise will be worth considerable money. But the problem at the present time is to place the team on a solid financial footing, and this is the object in the plan proposed in the letter of Dr. McCuen.

It is stated that Grand Forks and Fargo are ready to come into the new league, according to the information that has been received at Superior. With all of the other towns seemingly ready to take the plunge into organized baseball, it would appear that the initiative was up to Duluth and Superior.

Time has dragged along nimbly since the first statement in The Herald of the rumored lineup of the new league. But there has really been little accomplished since that time, and unless something tangible is accomplished during the present week, it would appear that the league is more of a myth than a stern living and breathing reality.

ESTABLISHES A NEW RECORD

San Jose, Cal., April 15. — Lewis Disbrow, driving a 90-horse power Simplex plex established new world's record for 15, 20 and 25 miles on a circular dirt track at the San Jose driving park. The meeting was sanctioned by the American Automobile association, P. J. Walker, member of the contest board, refereeing.

Barney Oldfield previously held all three of the records, having made them at Milwaukee Sept. 27, 1910.

Disbrow made 15 miles in 13:30; 20 miles in 17:57 2-5; 25 miles in 22:26 3-5. Oldfield's time in the same event was 13:40:30, 18:15 and 22:47.

Disbrow's feat was accomplished on a track that because of rain last week was not in the best condition.

WISCONSIN BOWS TO CONFERENCE

Badger University Does Not Complain of Action Barring Ehler.

Madison, Wis., April 15.—The University of Wisconsin will cheerfully acquiesce in the conference board's action disbarring its athletic director from membership. Under the rule adopted both Director Ehler of Wisconsin and Coach Stagg of Chicago are ineligible to represent their institutions. Both are salaried members of the faculty. This was ostensibly the excuse for the board's action.

The Wisconsin Athletic bulletin, official organ of the athletic department, says:

"We are not going to be childish enough to threaten to leave the conference unless we have our own way. We believe firmly in the conference and do not want to see it abandoned under any circumstances. We realize that it is practically impossible to get all the universities to agree to one line of action. We appreciate the necessity of compromise and we stand ready to meet the other institutions on any reasonable ground."

THE OLYMPIC STEAMER TO CARRY BIG LIST.

New York, April 15.—The steamship Finland, which will bear America's athletes to the Olympic games at Stockholm this summer will leave port with every stateroom occupied when the historic journey begins, according to the declaration of Secretary James E. Sullivan of the executive committee of the American Olympic committee today.

The Finland will carry many besides the members of the team and almost sufficient applications from the general public have been received already, according to Mr. Sullivan, to fill all the available room on the big liner. Next Wednesday has been designated by the executive committee as the day on which applications for reservations will begin to be officially considered. Applications from members of the American Olympic committee and their families, contributors to the Olympic fund and friends will be given preference.

The executive committee, in its announcement asking for applications, says: "No worry about hotel accommodations; only direct route to Stockholm without change; forty-six days for $400 and upward, admission to the stadium included."

John D. Contributes.

Chicago, April 15. — John D. Rockefeller has contributed $500 to the fund to defray the expenses of the American athletes to the Olympic games, according to an announcement made tonight by E. C. Brown, chairman of the Chicago finance committee of the Olympic games. The games are to be held in Stockholm in July.

Outbatted But Win Easily.

Baltimore, Md., April 15. — Although outbatted, the Philadelphia Americans' hits were more opportune and the Baltimore Internationals were defeated by a score of 9 to 7.

SCHARR LEADS IN THE SINGLES

St. Paul Man Rolls High Score of Bowling Tourney.

W. Scharr of St. Paul is the leader in the singles of the bowling tournament. The St. Paul man, despite the fact that he played in hard luck, hung up a score of 598 for his three games. His rolling was the feature of the play yesterday afternoon. Paul Sturm of Duluth is in second place. After getting away badly in his first game the local man came strong in the next two games, scoring heavily in the second and third contests, piling up a score of 594.

Most of yesterday was taken up with the singles and doubles. Today the singles and doubles is also the program, bringing the tourney to a close.

STEPHEN JONES HEADS CURLERS

President Re-elected and Plans for New Home Discussed at Meeting.

Stephen H. Jones was re-elected president of the Duluth Curling club at the business meeting of the organization, held at the Spalding hotel Saturday evening. D. B. McDonald was elected vice president, H. S. MacGregor, secretary and W. H. Kilchil, treasurer. Frank Crassweller and E. A. Forsythe were elected to the board of directors.

There will be a meeting of the building committee of the club this evening, when final plans will be made for the advertising for bids for the construction of the new home of the club on the Craig property.

The new home will cost about $75,000 and in every way will be the most modern and commodious curling house in the United States. Work on the building will be rushed this summer as the contract will call for the completion of the house early next fall.

I. Pitblado and Donald Morrison of Winnipeg were appointed as Duluth's representatives to the Caledonian Curling association.

To Discuss Conference.

Chicago, April 15. — Coach Stagg of the University of Chicago will take up consideration of the Big Eight amateur problem in a conference with the deans and members of the athletic board at that institution. Stagg will co-operate with faculty members during the week in an effort to decide on a policy regarding the constitution of intercollegiate sports and also regarding protests lodged against Chicago baseball players.

Chicago, April 15. — Although Walsh held St. Louis to four hits, Chicago lost the final game of the opening series, 4 to 1. St. Louis scored three runs in the third on Hallinan's double, a fielder's choice, a base on balls and Stovall's drive to center. DIDN'T HAVE ANY MONEY WITH HIM

Champion Jack, Arrested for Speeding, Searches Pockets in Vain.

Evanston Ill., April 15.—When Jack Johnson, champion pugilist, was arrested here for violation of the automobile speed laws, he didn't have a dollar with him to deposit for bond taces with Justice Boyer.

When asked for the bond fee Johnson searched his pockets and then began to smile broadly.

"I haven't that much money on me," said Johnson to the justice, "but I can write you a personal check."

"That's all right, Jack," replied the justice, "I'll trust you until Thursday, the date for your hearing on this charge."

Johnson was driving with his wife when arrested. Both he and Mrs. Johnson protested at being taken to the police station. The champion fighter attempted to arrange the matter with the motorcycle policeman who arrested him, but without success.

THE ANGLER'S DREAM

Come on with me, my four ounce rods,
We'll have a time fit for the gods!
And you, my reels and flies and nets,
And lines and creel—you're are my pets!

Just think, old pals! Three miles from here
There flows a trout brook, cool and clear,
With overhanging banks and pools
Where speckled beauties swarm in schools!

Through winding paths, through wood and glen
We'll wend our way, forgetting men
And business cares and just be gay.
We'll be Dame Nature's guests today!

These woods with balsam laden air,
These fragile ferns of maidenhair
Make us forget the steep ascent,
And fill our hearts with sweet content.

Hark! Hear the mountain stream below,
As on the rushing waters flow!
And see that pool so deep and clear?
Go quietly! Don't get too near!

Come here, my rod and reel and fly,
The time for action now is nigh.
Our dreams are coming true at last,
We're ready, here she goes! Good cast!

By Jove, you beauty, how you struck!
You've got the fly! Well, this is luck!
Just watch that speckled beauty fight!

And now my creel is bulging out.
It could not hold another trout,
I hate to leave this spot, 'tis true,
But I am hungry, pals, aren't you?

And say! I surely did omit
To use part of my fishing kit.
What was it slipped my mind, you ask?
I'll tell you. 'Twas my half pint flask!

WILL SHIP ON TUESDAY

Missabe Road Expected to Begin Sending Ore to Duluth Soon.

Hibbing, Minn., April 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—The 1912 ore shipping season from this district will begin tomorrow, when the Great Northern railroad will start ore cars towards its docks at Allouez. The ore is being loaded from stockpiles at the Grace, Stevenson A and B shafts, Scranton, Laura and Agnew mines.

Missabe Soon to Ship.

President McGonagle of the Missabe road is due here tomorrow to look over the situation and it is expected that railroad will begin shipping ore to the Missabe docks at Duluth the latter part of the week or early next week.

Some ore has already been loaded at the Shenango mine and the cars are expected to be started towards the docks in a few days. Just when the Oliver Mining company will begin open pit mining here is not stated, but it is expected to start soon, providing lake navigation is not too late in opening up.

MAKING PROGRESS WITH THE RECALL

Many Signatures Already Secured to Petitions to Recall Aldermen.

Virginia, Minn., April 15.—(Special to The Herald.) — Carl Johnson, the president of the Progessive league that has started a campaign to recall the five aldermen who voted for George F. Shea for city attorney, reported today that in less than a day sufficient signatures to one of the petitions had been secured in one of the wards.

The petitions will be filed with the city clerk who has ten days to verify the names thereon, then if a sufficient number is found all right, the matter will be laid before the city council.

Boylan Is Standing Pat.

President Michael Boylan of the city council says he stands ready for vindication or disapproval of his action and that the other four who are attacked with him for the same reason also. The charge in the petition is that these aldermen have favored the Virginia Electric Power & Water company to the prejudice and detriment of the people of the city. Another meeting of the city council, the third under the administration of Mayor M. A. Murphy, will be held Tuesday evening and it is believed the audience section of the council chamber will be filled. Mayor Murphy, prior to his election recently, had never held a public office. Even his closet friends and business associates for years never saw him aroused nor suspected he had the combative qualities he has developed since he has met obstacles in the administration of city affairs. Until the people have spoken again, the opinion is that there will be two hostile elements in the council.

EVELETH FANS MAKING PLANS

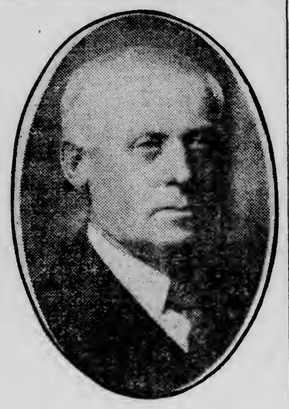
Range City Will Have Plenty Doing This Year in Baseball.

Eveleth, Minn., April 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Baseball interest is awakening here to a greater extent than any year since 1908 when the city fans maintained a paid team.

No paid players will be used this year, the plan being to recruit the material at present lacking by securing positions here for some good ball players. Besides the city team, which will be managed by H. C. Barton, the Elks will come out with a team and will have several games during the season with Manager McCormick's Virginia players. This nine will be under the management of Ray Marty again this season, who will also camp on the first bag.

Senator Boyle to Pitch.

Senator James Boyle, whose baseball spirit has not been dampened by his political successes, will do the twirling, P. E. Cartright will catch, Pat Boyle will play shortstop, Frank McNeal will occupy third and Harald Krause second. New men will be selected for the balance of the positions. The first game will be with Virginia. Two games were played last year with Virginia, each winning one.



The first ball game of the season was played Saturday afternoon between the high school team and Casey's Colts, the former winning 11 to 3.

AN INVITATION TO PHYSICIANS

We invite you to inspect a recovery that is now in process on Clay street, in a case of chronic Parenchymatous Nephritis involving chronic albuminuria and general dropsy.

This case will interest you because it was carefully diagnosed by specialists at one of our best hospitals. Patient had been tapped twice and parents notified that recovery was impossible. An operation (decapsulating the kidney) was advised, but as no assurance could be given that any results could be hoped for the parents accepted the inevitable and took the patient home to die. Before leaving the city they decided to make one more effort.

A physician was called in who put the patient on Fulton's Renal Compound, aiding it with heart, tonic and eliminative treatment. The sixth day results began to show. At this writing, 60 days later, the albumen is nearly gone, the dropsy completely so the patient is playing about the room and the attending physician believes he will be ready to be taken home in another month.

This case having been carefully diagnosed by some of the best professional talent in this city and in one of the best hospitals and recovery being theoretically impossible, the actual recovery that is now in process should interest those who still believe in the incurability of chronic Bright's disease and particularly physicans and hospitals who have patients slowly succumbing under the old methods. The physician in charge will make an appointment with and meet physicians who may be interested.

WOMAN DIES IN BLIZZARD.

Son May Have Perished Too in Terrific Storm in Nebraska.

Hemingford, Neb., April 15.—A blizzard which raged in Northwestern Nebraska Saturday afternoon and through the night claimed at least one victim and probably two. Mrs. Richard Path, who with her little son started out at the beginning of the storm to bring the stock to shelter, was lost in the blinding snow, and her body was found Sunday morning not far from her home. The child has not been found, but it is feared he perished. Richard Path, the husband, was at Alliance proving up on a homestead. The Paths lived ten miles from here.

The blizzard was the worst ever experienced in this section so late in spring, and ranchmen were entirely unprepared for it. The wind was of almost hurricane force, driving the heavy snow before it, making it impossible to see but a few feet ahead. Many houses were unroofed and buildings damaged. Reports come in of stock in the open perishing.

The storm extended as far west as Sheridan, Wyo., and easterly nearly 100 miles, but of less severity. Snow fell throughout the Black Hills, but there was an absence of the high wind. Ranchmen fear the stock losses will be heavy, as cattle were turned out several weeks ago for forage and were without shelter.

Chicago, April 15.—Representatives of the bar associations of forty states will meet in Chicago April 26 and 27, at the annual meeting of the Illinois State Bar association, to discuss judicial recall and reform in court procedure.

To date acceptances have been received from members of forty state associations.

The opening address of the convention will be made by Horace Kent Tenney, formerly of Madison, Wis., president of the Illinois association. Stephen S. Gregory, president of the American Bar association, also will address this meeting.

MEDICINE HAS LOST VALUE

Medical Fetishism Gets Setback by New Scientific Method of Electro Medicine—Most of Incurable Diseases Are Cured With It.

Mrs. Amelia Shaver of Superior Had Tried in Vain to Get Cured and Lost Faith in Doctors.

There was a time in the history of every nation where savage ancestors mumbled prayers to sticks and stones in order to heal disease. You see his civilized ancestor wear an iron ring for gout, but his highly trained medical doctor is not much better if he probably gives calomel "to act on the liver," and colchicum for gout, besides a score of other things, which at least one eminent medical author assures us, do not have any more real effect on diseases than so much brick dust. "Of course," he says, "we will have to keep on giving drugs which we know to be absolutely worthless in the cure of diseases. However, we must give them because patients demand drugs and these may act by suggestion, if not otherwise."

These are the methods practiced today in nearly every city by many who claim to watch over the public health. There probably is not one among honest doctors who will admit that our present method of medicine is almost completely empirical and that it has proven to be very unsatisfactory, especially so in cases where help was needed mostly. Physicians of today are prescribing medicines of the same sort as has been done 50 years ago. Olive oil to dissolve gallstones, Valerian in Hysteria, tanic acid for internal hemorrhages, Chlorate of Potasium for sore mouth, lead and opium wash in sprains, etc. How many so-called "incurable cases" have been benefited by that method? The Electro Medical Doctors, who lately came to this city, have brought to Duluth a method which has proven to effect a cure where all other Methods and Medicines failed, like that in Mrs. Shaver's case, who says:

"I have had pain in my bowels of the worst kind for many years past, my stomach was weak, and no one of the doctors seemed to be able to make out what was the cause of all this, nor could they help me. A bad bronchial trouble complicated my condition greatly and I had to raise much matter, and no one was able to help me. I have been sick and weak for many years and finally broke down completely. Medicine did not help me any more, nor could I take it any longer, so weak I was. As the last resort I went to the Electro Medical Doctors in Duluth and by their Natural Method I have been benefited so much that I feel quite well. Though I have been treated only two weeks, I feel that I am getting back my health, which I have been trying to get for many years.

"MRS. AMELIA SHAVER.
"1422 Tower Ave., Superior, Wis."

Cases like this, and a great many others, which puzzled the public as well as the medical profession, have since been cured. People afflicted with diseases of all descriptions have been cured with this new method of Natural Healing, and those who have tried everything and failed to get a cure are welcomed to a free consultation. The doctors declared themselves willing to prove to everybody the superior healing power of their method. The Electro Medical Doctors are permanently located at No. 26 West Superior street (next to Gidding's store).

VENUS AND THE MOON GETTING FLIRTATIOUS.

Washington, April 15.—Venus and the moon will be close tonight, almost to what the astronomer sharps call an occultation, but it will be visible only in parts of Florida and Georgia. If the weather is clear enough on a line drawn through Texas, Arkansas, Ohio and New York, however, Venus may be seen about eight minutes from the edge of the moon. Astronomers at the naval observatory here say there will not be an absolute occultation.

On Wednesday there will be an eclipse of the sun, visible only in the Eastern part of the United States. The New England states, except a part of Connecticut and a portion of New York will be the only part of the United States in which the eclipse will be visible completely; that is to say, in which the beginning, middle and end will all take place after sunrise.

FORMER NORTH DAKOTAN KILLS SELF IN MONTANA.

Hettinger, N. D., April 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—Thomas Masterson, for three years engaged in the draying business here, shot and killed himself at Lewistown, Mont. He is supposed that he was insane when he committed suicide. Ill health and the fact that he was unable to secure employment brought about the condition.

Masterson was here several days ago seeking employment, and failing to obtain any, returned to Lewistown.

NORTH DAKOTAN IS KILLED BY RUNAWAY.

Velva, N. D., April 15.—(Special to The Herald.)—George Bronsak of Ruso was thrown from a heavy wagon, both legs being broken, and he also sustained internal injuries in a runaway and died within ten hours.

When Bronsak was found he was lying under the load, the wagon having been loaded with potatoes.

Fights $4.38 Tax.
The International Lumber company today filed with the clerk of the district court an answer in the 1911 personal property tax proceedings, in which its tax is $4.38 on an assessment of $160 on personal property, which the state claims is owned by the lumber company in the Township of Morcom, this county. In its answer, the company denies the ownership of any property in this township and asks that the court declare the tax null and void.

Torrence Case Progressing.
Little of interest transpired at today's sessions of the Torrence larceny trial, except that the state made good progress with its witnesses. This morning, Detective Terry of the police department finished his testimony both on the direct and cross examination. Detective Bradley will be on the stand this afternoon. The state probably will not rest its case until tomorrow.

ICE IS THICK IN ST. MARY'S RIVER

Reports State That Whitefish Bay Will Be Late in Opening.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., April 15.—A review of the ice situation in St. Mary's river at this date shows but little favorable progress. The ice at Grand Marais is reported to have moved out from the shore and open water is visible about a half mile distant. At Whitefish point the ice fields have shifted about a half mile, but no open water is sighted from the lighthouse. The ice is solid in Whitefish bay and heavily windrowed down to Parisian island. Up to a few days ago fishermen were still at work on the ice in Iroquois bay, but it is said that it is now honeycombed and unsafe. Open water extends from Cedar reef above the Soo to Six-Mile point in Hay lake, below the locks.

Hay lake ice is softening, as also is that in Mud lake, but heavy ice still extends from Lime island to the frying pan in the lower St. Mary's river. From that point to Lake Huron is open water. From all indications Whitefish bay will be the last to give way. It was here that a few years ago a similar condition was met after the big fleet had successfully made its way through the river. There are no hopes of securing an open passage before April 25, and probably not until May 1, unless exceptionally warm weather continues without interruption.

ERIE FISHERMEN AND TUGMEN MAKE TERMS.

Cleveland, O., April 15.—A threatening split of Lake Erie fishermen and tugmen was averted here when a wage agreement for the 1912 season was signed. The fishing season, which has been delayed by the contention of the fishermen that fish must not be dressed aboard the boats, now will get under way, as the men agreed to waive the contention. Seventy-five lake tugs and 500 men were agected.

TITANIC INSURED FOR $7,250,000

Cost Was $10,000,000 Aside From Other Expenses and Liabilities.

London, April 15.—A member of a prominent firm of underwriters, when informed of the disaster to the Titanic, said:

"Even if the Titanic reaches port, her owners will have to calculate on a loss of at least $750,000; but if she becomes a total loss it will be an extremely serious matter. The vessel cost $10,000,000 to build. Her hull is valued for insurance purposes at $5,000,000. There are all sorts of miscellaneous matters to be taken into account for disbursements and for passage money and freights paid in advance, as well as for stores, baggage and other things. I do not suppose the owners are covered to the extent of more than $7,250,000 or at the utmost $7,500,000."

BRING SUIT TO QUIET TITLE

More Than 150 Defendants in Action Filed in District Court.

A suit to quiet title to the deserted townsite of Merritt, a mile east of Biwabik, begun in district court today by Eby G. Gridley and Chester A. Congdon, through Attorney A. L. Agatin.

More than 150 people, and corporations, supposed to have adverse claims are named as defendants in the action. The complaint states that the plaintiffs are owners in fee simple of the property which formerly comprised the townsite of Merritt and that Mr. Gridley owns a three-fourths and Mr. Congdon a one-fourth interest.

The old town of Merritt was deserted after having been swept with a forest fire years ago. A new town, afterwards known as Biwabik, sprung up about one mile away.

BOY HELD FOR GRAND LARCENY

Allan Peck, 20 years old, waived examination and was bound over to the grand jury when arraigned in municipal court this afternoon on a charge of grand larceny.

It is claimed that he entered the offices of Dr. P. O. Peterson, a dentist in the Oak Hall building, and took a razor and gold, used for filling, valued at $20.

The young man is now out on parole from the district court. It is claimed that he visited the rooms of the doctor and made away with the razor and the gold on April 6.

JAILED FOR SENDING THREATENING LETTER.

Charged with making wrongful use of the United States mails, Jaakko of the United States mails, Jaakko Leina was arraigned before United States Court Commissioner Pressnell Saturday afternoon. He was ordered taken to the county jail to await the action of the federal grand jury, which meets in July. Bonds were fixed at $1,000, which he was unable to furnish.

Jaakko is said to have written a threatening letter to his cousin, Victor Leino, Kettle River, Minn., demanding $1,000, which the Kettle River man has in a banking institution. It is claimed that he threatened the life of his cousin unless the money was given to him.

The letter was written in the Finnish language and was turned over to the postoffice authorities by the man who received it.

ARGUMENTS ON DEMURRER

Legality of Certificates of Indebtedness Tested in Court.

Arguments to the demurrer in the test case brought by H. J. Grannis against the city of Duluth to establish the legal right of the municipality to issue and sell certificates of indebtedness of $150,000 against the permanent improvement revolving fund were made before Judges Ensign, Cant and Dancer of the district court Saturday afternoon.

The demurrer was made by City Attorney Carmichael to the complaint on the grounds that there was not sufficient evidence to constitute a case. If the demurrer is over-ruled, the case will probably go to the supreme court on appeal from the judgment of the lower court, rather than being brought to trial.

The issue is whether or not the legislature in granting Duluth a charter did not also give the municipality the right to govern itself and its finances without resorting to legislative enactments.

OBJECTIONS TO DETENTION SCHOOL

Some objections have been raised by Duluth citizens to the plan to use the Washington grade school building for a detention school for girls.

It is claimed that its proximity to the high school makes it undesirable for such a purpose, not only on account of the influence on the high school pupils, but also on the girls in the detention school.

It is suggested that a building in the outskirts of the city, where the girls would be removed from the gaze of a curious public, would be much preferable. The matter will come before the council this evening.

COMPLAINED OF BEING "TOUCHED."

In municipal court this morning Ethel Morrel and George Cummings were fined $50 each with the option of sixty days in jail, the Morrel woman for being an inmate of a resort on lower Lake avenue and Cummings for visiting an immoral resort.

Louis Mackler complained to the police that he had been robbed in the resort operated by Ella Wilson and in whose house the Morrel woman was living.

He stated that Cummings held him while the woman went through his pockets and took $155.

COMMISSION DISPLACES OLD WARD GOVERNMENT.

McRae was the first mayor Superior ever had. F. R. Crumpton was the last mayor under the old ward government, and Joseph S. Konkel is the first mayor under the commission rule.

Makes Dire Prophesy.

Prophesying the overthrow of unionism and the coming of other calamitous conditions, unless the working men rally and respond to the cry of their fellows, "Mother" Jones thrilled a large audience at the Sons of Norway hall Saturday evening. "Mother" Jones spoke sarcastically of the suffrage movement, the boy scouts, temperance workers and Sunday school teachers. The address was given under the auspices of the Superior machinists' union.

Boulevard Survey.

Within the next few weeks an engineering crew will commence surveying the proposed boulevard route, which, when completed, will make one of the best drives in the county. The drive will begin at the Amnicon river and will run to Black River Falls, parallel with the brow of the range at this point.

W. A. McGonagle of Duluth will speak at the Superior Commercial club this evening on subjects most vital and important to the welfare of the Twin Ports. Every member of the club is expected to attend the meeting, which will open with a luncheon in honor of Mr. McGonagle.

Superior educators took a prominent part in the annual convention of the Northern Wisconsin Teachers' association held at Ashland Friday and Saturday. Prof. A. M. Royce of the normal school was elected president of the association for the coming year. Superior failed to land the convention for 1913.

FIXES ROOSEVELT'S NEBRASKA ROUTE

Omaha, Neb., April 15.—Former President Roosevelt's itinerary in Nebraska was made public today by Medill McCormick of Chicago, who recently opened Roosevelt headquarters here. Col. Roosevelt will begin his two days' speaking tour Wednesday, April 17, at Hastings. His first day's program will include Grand Island, Central City, Clarke, Columbus, Schuyler, North Bend and Fremont. Late in the afternoon Omaha will be reached and an address given at the Auditorium.

During the night Col. Roosevelt's private car will proceed to Nebraska City, where the second day's program will be opened. Nearly a dozen towns in the southern part of the state will be visited, including Beatrice and Falls City. Lincoln is last on the list. Col. Roosevelt will go from Nebraska to Kansas.

MEXICANS WILL DROP AMERICANS.

Laredo, Tex., April 15.—A lockout of American engineers and conductors on the national lines in Mexico will begin tomorrow, it was announced today. Mexican locomotive engineers will reach here tonight to take the American runs into Mexico tomorrow.

Will Arm Americans.

Washington, April 15.—In a response to an appeal from the American consul at Guadalajara, Mexico, President Taft has authorized the exportation of 150 rifles and 50,000 rounds of ammunition for arming the citizens of the United States in that district.

TWO FAMOUS BLIND POETESSES MEET

FANNY CROSBY.

Two blind poetesses met the other day in Jersey City. One was Fanny Crosby, who has just celebrated her ninty-second birthday, and the other was Alice Holmes, who is 91. They have been friends for many years. Neither was born blind. Miss Crosby lost her sight when an infant and Miss Holmes became blind when she was 9 years old. Miss Crosby has gained fame by writing many hymns. Miss Holmes is known as "the blind poetess of New Jersey." Miss Crosby seems in excellent health and she has always been of a happy disposition, so old age sits lightly on her. She lives in Bridgeport, Conn.

PATCHING UP THE SHOW.

Manufacturing a Musical Comedy Is Considerable of a Task—Why Plot Is Lost—Everybody Takes a Hack at the Original Until It Is Gone.

According to the best information on the subject, a considerable number of repentant souls are saved at the eleventh hour. In an even greater degree the same thing applies to theatrical productions, says the Saturday Evening Post. Especially does it apply to the variety known as musical comedies, which are so called because it is customary to kill out the comedy to make room for the music, and then kill out the music to make room to put the comedy back. Practically all musical comedies are saved at the eleventh hour.

Any musical show almost will do for an example. This show has passed through all the early preliminary stages. It has been written and rewritten, composed and decomposed. It has been taken apart, put back again, pulled out, shoved in, done over, twisted, turned inside out, altered, amended, shortened, expanded, beheaded, dehorned, trimmed, pruned and grafted.

The stage manager has been changed; the lines have been changed until their author has to be reintroduced to his own work at each rehearsal; and the chorus, which never changes, but like Tennyson's brook goes babbling on forever, has been drilled until the tongues of its members hang out on their chests and look like pink blush badges of their calling. New musical numbers have been interpolated and disinterred with great rapidity. Costumes have been made, tried on, thrown away and new ones ordered. Scenery has been painted, looked at and put into the discard.

And so finally, after 9,000 small items have been forgotten and then remembered and then forgotten again, the piece is ready to be played and it is taken by train to be tried on the patient theatrical Towser at Providence, Peoria or Painted Post. After the first performance it is remade all over. Slabs of dialogue are chopped out and songs that didn't seem to go are beaten to death with a club. The poor thing is hacked and haggled and hamstrung in twenty places; the cast is changed some more; new finales are tried and found guilty. By now the plot has practically disappeared, only coming up about every ten minutes to breathe and then going back to the bottom.

By these signs it is made evident that the stage manager is whipping the production into shape. Still, he isn't quite satisfied; he knows something is still lacking—he may not know what it is, but he know it is. As for the owner, he cannot make up his mind whether he ought to put out a number two company or take a running jump off the nearest dock. However, it is decided to keep the show out a few weeks and work on it, meanwhile, offering it evenings to small town audiences who will stand for almost anything—and what they won't stand for they'll sit through. After a month or so of this fevered existence they take it into New York or Chicago, since every musical show must have a metropolitan run before it can expect to draw on the road. Back it comes, then, to the big city, and then there is a layoff of a week or two weeks in order that it may be tuned up and freshened up and brightened up.

The owner now calls in a wrecking crew of those talented gentlemen who hang out in New York and Chicago and make a living by doing over the dramatic works of other men. In this instance the salvage corps will probably include a funny man to rewrite the book, a song writer to do some jingles and a composer to provide new music. This is the usual number, though there is nothing to prevent the producer from hiring as many of these chaps as he can afford, so long as he keeps on paying the customary and specified royalties to the original authors.

There is one recent and notable instance of a piece that started out to be a straight comedy, but was made over into a farce and wound up as a sort of musical hodgepodge, with singing and dancing and a chorus.

When, in the third and final reincarnation, this piece reached Broadway, it had been tinkered at by so many collaborators and dramatic specialists that the producers billed it as a new piece, which was indeed a modest way of putting it, since, first and last, there were said to have been twelve of them—or maybe it was thirteen.

On the opening night the practiced eye roving over the house could distinguish an author at a glance—he being one who remained quiet most of the time yet at rare and remote intervals burst into hearty laughter. This would stamp him as an author—he laughed when he recognized one of his own wheezes.

Despite the weight of literary talent, however, the play did not succeed—perhaps it had too many fond fathers for one brain child to support. It anguished, as the word is. On the second night the audience was small—mainly authors and their wives. On the third night the attendance fell off nearly 50 per cent—the wives stayed away. And at the end of a few more nights the owners called up the storehouse and ordered suitable head and footstones. The interment, though private and without flowers, was largely attended—all the authors came.

However, getting back to the musical show that returns to town to be touched up to a fare-you-well. The producer rents a hall or borrows a stage from a brother manager and starts rehearsals all over again. It is highly probable that he also engages another star comedian, another man to mount and remount the dances. This is not the invariable rule, but it is customary to do something of the sort.

The new star drops in and looks the situation over, meanwhile maintaining the air of haughty aloofness which a popular comedian always maintains on such an occasion. He goes through his first rehearsal and at the end of it he calmly annexes for his own every line, by whomsoever spoken, that sounds as though it might get a laugh. This naturally necessitates more alterations in the book. The chances are that he also brings along a hack dramatist of his own selection who will write into the show those favorite scenes, situations and passages by means of which he has heretofore pleased his public. These are slapped in anywhere—regardless. They may not match the rest of the material, but nobody objects. To object would not be etiquette; and besides, the comedian would take his foot in his hand and walk out. He'll walk out several times, anyhow, as time passes.

THEY LOOKED IT UP.

The Argonaut: Once, after exposing the ridiculous blunders of the editor of certain old plays, James Russell Lowell concluded with the remark, "In point of fact, we must apply to this gentleman the name of the first king of Sparta." No one remembered, of course, what this was, but when they looked it up they found it was Eudamidas.

Don't worry. A Herald ad will do it.

Notice is hereby given, That on May 15, 1912, at 10 o'clock A. M., in the office of the County Auditor, at Duluth, St. Louis County, in the State of Minnesota, I will offer for sale certain unsold state lands, and also those state lands which have reverted to the state by reason of the non-payment of interest.

Terms: Fifteen per cent of the purchase price and interest on the unpaid balance from date of sale to June 1, 1913, must be paid at the time of sale. The balance of purchase money is payable in whole or in part on or before forty years from date of sale. The rate of interest on the unpaid balance is four per cent per annum, payable in advance on June 1st of each year, provided the principal remains unpaid for ten years; but if the principal is paid within ten years from the date of sale, the rate of interest will be computed at five per cent per annum.

Appraised value of timber, if any, must also be paid at time of sale.

Lands on which the interest is delinquent may be redeemed at any time up to the hour of sale, or before resale to an actual purchaser.

All mineral rights are reserved by the laws of the state.

Not more than 320 acres can be sold or contracted to be sold to any one purchaser. Agents acting for purchasers must furnish affidavits of authority. Appraisers' reports, showing quality and kind of soil, are on file in this office.

Lists of lands to be offered may be obtained of the State Auditor or the State Commissioner of Immigration at St. Paul, and of the County Auditor at above address.

CHICAGO NOT FOLLOWED

Windy City in Lonely Grandeur on the Bull Side of Wheat.

Duluth, Winnipeg and Minneapolis Report Losses From Saturday.

Duluth Board of Trade, April 15.—Chicago was left alone in its bullishness today by the other wheat markets of North America. The situation was very peculiar. Chicago May wheat made another bulge, closing at an advance of 1¼c. At the same time there were lower closes at Duluth, Minneapolis and Winnipeg. These markets simply refused to follow Chicago today. Duluth held most of its Saturday advance, the May option closing unchanged to ¼c off. The low primary receipts and the continued bad reports from the winter wheat country prevented a slump. But there was quite a sagging by way of reaction in May wheat on the Minneapolis market and there was also some loss at Winnipeg. Minneapolis May closed ⅞c down and Winnipeg ⅜c down.

Duluth cash wheat closed 1c over the May price. Durum and rye closed ½c up, oats ¼c up and barley unchanged. Duluth May flaxseed closed ⅜c up and July ½c higher.

The bulls had things very much in their own way in the wheat markets of the United States this morning. There were more reports of heavy damage to winter wheat by adverse weather conditions and the bullish feeling was made the more intense by the reports of American primary receipts, which were away below those of a year ago.

Duluth May wheat, which closed Saturday at $1.09¼@1.09⅜ asked, opened today at $1.09½ bid, and at noon was quoted at $1.10 asked. There were bullish figures at the same time from Minneapolis and Chicago. Winnipeg wheat at noon today was at the same price as it was at the close on Saturday. The bullish news from the United States was offset in that market by bearish reports from Liverpool, with which the Winnipeg market is closely associated.

Wheat on the Liverpool market closed unchanged to ⅛d lower. On that market the bullish American news was to some extent offset by the reports of the increased world shipments.

Flaxseed Is Steady.

Trading on the Duluth flaxseed market was fairly steady this morning, but there was not much business. The price held very firm. The news from Winnipeg did not affect the Duluth market as the Winnipeg price was itself steady. At noon Winnipeg May wheat was unchanged at $1.94. Duluth May at noon was ⅛c off at $2.16. July was unchanged at $2.12¾. There were larger receipts reported at Duluth, Minneapolis and Winnipeg, but this influence was offset by bullish news from both Buenos Ayres and London. Buenos Ayres April flaxseed closed Saturday at $1.73¾ or 2¼c up and opened this morning 1⅛c higher. London April flaxseed today closed 4¼c higher at $2.16¾.

FLAXSEED.

Duluth flaxseed has been very steady during the week ending last Saturday. The price has fluctuated very little. The volume of the seed handled on the market has increased. The receipts and shipments were much greater than they were during the previous week, as the tables below show. Farmers have been hauling more flaxseed to the country elevators, as the roads have been drying up. Moreover, a great deal of flaxseed in the western part of North Dakota is now being thrashed after being allowed to stand in the fields all winter. It is estimated that about 10 per cent of the North Dakota crop was snow-covered all winter and is being thrashed this spring. This, of course, is quite a bearish factor. A great deal of this flaxseed is being sold on the Duluth market and is being shipped directly from the North Dakota country elevators to Minneapolis, where it is handed over to the crushing factories. Thus the offers of flaxseed on the Duluth market have been increasing, but, for all that, the price has fluctuated very little. Crushers have been equal to the situation and have kept up their game of holding up the price of Duluth flaxseed as a basis on which to sell oil, while doing the bulk of their buying in the Winnipeg market. But, of course, such manipulation is more expensive than it was when the Duluth flaxseed market was narrower and there was not so much of the American flaxseed on hand to buy in order to keep up the price. The average of the closing prices of cash flaxseed on the Duluth market for the week ending last Saturday is a tiny fraction over $2.16, whereas the average for the week before was $2.16½.

There is a vast amount of flaxseed still in the fields of Saskatchewan waiting to be thrashed. It has lain there all winter protected by the snow. It is believed that this amounts to fully a third of the flaxseed crop of the entire province. This thrashing will probably be proceeding at a fair rate after about a week, and the result will be that large quantities of the seed will be offered for sale on the Winnipeg market. This will probably have a depressing effect on the Winnipeg price, and may pull down the Duluth price. It will not do for the crushers to allow the difference in the price of the same kind of flaxseed on the Winnipeg and Duluth markets to exceed 25c for any great length of time, for that is a condition that is bound to cause an influx of the Canadian seed upon the American markets, to be mixed with American seed, and the whole quantity sold to the crushers as American seed.

The price of the seed at Winnipeg, like that at Duluth, held pretty steady last week. The price at Buenos Ayres, however, has been declining. If it were not for the fact that the Buenos Ayres seed is so poor in quality, it would be making quite an invasion of the eastern American markets. But most American crushers do not want it, except when they can get it very cheap, indeed, and there has not been enough of it imported to pull down the price at Winnipeg, cheap as the Argentine seed it.

During the latter part of last week the Argentine seed was selling at Buenos Ayres as low as $1.70 and when to this is added 12 cents for transportation, and 18 cents for the net duty, the seed can be laid down in New York, duty paid, at $2. Its poor quality alone is all that keeps it from driving the Canadian seed westward, perhaps away beyond Buffalo. The Canadian seed, selling at Winnipeg for $1.94, must pay 15 cents for all rail transportation to New York, besides the net duty of 18 cents, making the price of $2.27 necessary to make it pay to sell that seed in New York.

American flaxseed brokers are taking more interest in the movements of the price of Calcutta seed on the London market than in the Buenos Ayres quotations, for the Indian seed is of very fine quality and it is very likely that a great deal of it will be imported later in the season. It is too early for any such movement yet. The general tendency of the London flaxseed market has been downward. On Saturday it closed at $2.12½. If it goes much lower it will be on an American importation basis, as American crushers are willing to pay a higher price for it that for any other seed, on account of its superior quality.

J. A. Rankin is quoted as follows in a Chicago telegram: "I was out in Northern Indiana yesterday and I found that reports of damage to winter wheat had not been exaggerated. The conditions are the worst I ever saw. The soft winter wheat crop in the territory I covered is almost a total loss."

Toledo crop reports are very bad. Though there is an occasional good report there is no improvement in the general situation.

Le Count wires Finley-Barrell from Decatur, Ill.: "In the southern part of this state there is a great deal of thin, spotted wheat, but with favorable weather, it will make a fair crop. Going north from Greyville, wheat grows poorer, until at Mattoon most of the wheat is dead. From Champaign here most of the fields are perfectly bare and will have to be planted with corn or oats."

John Inglis writes from Indianapolis: "I motored through Lake, Jasper, White and Carroll counties, where I found wheat looking dead. Only a few fields were showing color. Through Clinton, Boone, Marion and Shelby counties, although a large percentage of the wheat will be abandoned, yet in these counties, there is some good wheat. While it looks poor, it is much better when I go into the fields. On present showing I would estimate that 50 per cent of the acreage in the last named counties will make some wheat."

Shreiner wired from St. Louis: "I was out in the country yesterday. There is no farm work so far. Wheat was only fair and the season was almost three weeks late. We are getting good reports from West and Central Missouri. Some improvement is noted in Kentucky and Southern Illinois."

G. P. McLaughlin wired from Coffeyville, Kan.: "There is only scattered wheat crop damage by winter killing in Kansas. Generally through the state wheat is looking very fine, and the weather for the past ten days has been very favorable, and helped generally. Farmers are rushing the spring crops."

T. W. Lewis wired from Columbus, Ohio: "On the Panhandle from Chicago to Columbus 40 per cent of the fields are absolutely dead, with no prospect of ever returning anything. The outcome of the remaining 60 per cent is very doubtful, and its condition at present is not over 50. Farmers are busy drilling it to oats and preparing abandoned fields for corn. It is about as near a failure as it is possible to have."

The following is from B. W. Snow at Columbus, Ohio: "I drove across Hancock, Henry and Wayne counties, Ind., and examined 79 wheat fields, of which 29 are absolutely destroyed and are being plowed up. On 20 more half the crop is absolutely dead and the other half will be little more than to make the seed back."

Houston of Kansas City wired that he had private information from Rushville, Ill., that the wheat is a total failure there.

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Pit Goes Wild and Both Sides Get Severely Whipsawed.

Chicago, April 15.—It was a wilder day in the wheat pit today than ever during the worst of the crop scare stampede last week. Fluctuations today were more violent, and punished not merely one side but both.

Excitement started with the first rap of the gong, and kept at boiling point, while transactions ran into an aggregate of millions of bushels. Countless reports of crop damage gave fire to speculators who believed that the market was going higher despite the 10c advance which other traders, no less confident, thought had fully discounted the injury however great.

Difference of opinion was so wide that the market at the outset varied from ⅞c lower to 1¼c higher as compared with Saturday night. The sharpest price changes showed in the May option. That month started at $1.10 to $1.11, an upward burst of ¼c to 1¼c, touched $1.11⅛, dropped to $1.07½ and then whizzed back to $1.10½. Meanwhile July twirled in bewildering fashion from $1.05½ to $1.07, snapping from ½c below to more than 1c above the final figures of the previous session.

A subsequent rush swept May up to $1.11¾ and July to $1.08. The reason was found in detailed confirmatory telegrams concerning destruction of soft winter wheat in territory as far apart as Nebraska and Ohio. Soon, however, the market swung back again on advices from Nebraska that the loss was only 5 to 10 per cent. The close was unsettled with May at $1.11, a gain of 1¼c over Saturday and July 1⅛c up at $1.06@1.06⅛.

A spasm of weakness seized the corn market at the beginning but the market soon wheeled into line with the advancing tendency which at the moment promised to rule in wheat. The leading bulls had apparently given their attention at first to the more expensive grain, and had been caught napping, the benefit going to commission houses that had been heavy sellers. July opened ⅜@½c to ⅞@1c down at 78c to 78½c, declined to 77⅞c and then rallied to 78½c.

After a further upturn country offerings became larger and the market receded sharply. The close was weak with July 1⅜@1¾c net lower at 77¼c.

Free unloading carried oats lower, but the offerings were promptly gobbled up, and the market soon recovered. July started ⅛@¼c to ⅜@½c cheaper at 54¾c to 55c and then turned upward to 55⅛@55¼c.

Activity and strength prevailed in the provision trade. Realizing of profits by longs, however, checked the rise, which was due to firmness at the yards and to dear corn. Initial sales ran from Saturday night's level to 7½c higher, with September delivery $18.37½ for pork, $10.62½ for lard and $10.42½ for ribs.

LOSSES ARE RECOVERED

Stocks Decline During Morning, But Buying Proves Effective.

Close Is Strong With Prices at Top Point of Session.

New York, April 15.—Acute weakness was shown by the stock market at today's opening. The 4½ per cent bonds of the International Mercantile Marine company declined 2 points with a fall of 4 points in the preferred stock presumably on account of the accident to the Titanic. There were losses of a point or more in the Harriman and Anaconda coppers, Lehigh Valley, United States Steel, Utah and Anaconda coppers, American Car and Foundry, American Locomotive, General Electric and other issues. The one exception to the market's weakness was Canadian Pacific, which rose over a point.

The decline was checked soon after the opening on buying of a supporting character. In some cases the recoveries extended beyond last Saturday's closing prices. International Mercantile Marine preferred made up much of its loss, with a better tone to the bonds. Amalgamated Copper gained a full point and St. Paul and Rock Island preferred were strong, while Canadian Pacific added to its initial rise.

Before midday all adverse considerations seemed to be forgotten and the market continued its forward march, with especial strength in the standard issues, foremost among which was United States Steel. Reports that the company had not earned its dividend requirements for the preceding quarter were offset by others that today's annual meeting of the shareholders would bring out developments of an encouraging nature. Numerous specialties participated in today's movements, including Sears-Roebuck, North American, American Linseed common and preferred and American Beet Sugar, which rose 1½@5 points, while American Cans extended their gains of the first hour. One of the obscure tobacco issues was conspicuous for its rise of almost 10 points. Bonds were easy.

Although dealings shrank greatly, the advances were not interfered with. Prices rose steadily so that many of the important stocks turned their early losses of a point or more into similar gains. Among these were Union Pacific and United States Steel. A long list of other issues were up from 1 to 6 points. Later buying was particularly effective in Amalgamated Copper, Louisville & Nashville, Pittsburg Coal preferred and American Can.

The market closed strong. The last hour brought no diminution of interest and prices of some issues, notably United States Steel, New York Central, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, St. Paul, Great Northern preferred and Northern Pacific and other standard shares, were at the top.

COPPER STOCKS CLOSE STRONG

Copper stocks for the most part made strong closes today. Amalgamated made an exceptionally strong move, closing nearly $2.50 higher than on Saturday. Shattuck, Calumet & Arizona, Giroux, Greene Cananea and Chief Consolidated were all higher at today's close than at Saturday's. Butte & Superior, Red Warrior and Hancock were down a little. The general stock market of New York was fairly strong at the close. The news from the London copper metal market had little effect on the coppers. Spot copper closed unchanged from Saturday and futures closed 1s 3d off.

Paine, Webber & Co. today received from Foster at Boston the following closing letter: "The local market was very strong and active today. A dispatch from the mine stated that the cross-cut from the Indiana shaft was in the lode and this was responsible for good buying of the stock up to 18. Shannon advanced easily to 15½ and should sell materially higher on present earnings. The whole market opened dull, and the local traders were a little apprehensive that the Roosevelt success in Pennsylvania might bring in some liquidation. Sentiment soon changed, however, and as the day went on the buying power increased and the close showed the highest prices of the day, with all classes of stocks in good demand. We are very bullish on Amalgamated, and believe that any further advance in this stock will bring about the biggest bull market in the local coppers we have had for ten years."

Gay & Sturgis today received from Boston the following closing letter: "The general impression that market prices would suffer today was not realized except for the first few minutes of the session. Either the large holders of stocks are not afraid of the political outlook or else they are anxious to bring about such a furore of speculation now, when sentiment is so optimistic, as to permit of their unloading. In any event prices closed at or near the boiling point and further advances are very clearly foreshadowed. Locally very good news from Indiana helped a great deal. Tomorrow promises to be a day when almost every one interested can take a profit if he chooses."

WISCONSIN SETTLERS WANT TAX ADJUSTED.

Madison, Wis., April 15.—That some legislation looking to more equitable taxation of settlers in the state forest reserves will probably be proposed at the next regular session of the legislature, is Governor McGovern's belief. Taxpayers of the town of Hazelhurst, Oneida county, have petitioned the state authorities for relief. It was set forth that the state's reserves are exempt from taxation, making taxes on private lands adjacent thereto proportionately higher.

MINERALS IN THE HUMAN BODY.

Harper's Weekly: The human body contains, among other constituents, about two pounds of phosphorus, which is essential to the health of the bones and the vigor of the brain. This phosphorus, if extracted and put to another use, would make up about 4,000 packages of friction matches.

Besides phosphorus, the body contains a few ounces of sodium and half an ounce of potassium. The quantity of the latter would be sufficient for many experiments in a class in chemistry.

In addition to sodium and potassium, there are a few grains of magnesium, enough to make the "silver rain" for a family's stock of rockets on a Fourth of July evening or to create a brilliant light visible at a considerable distance.

MADSEN TO BE SPEAKER

Former Duluth Pastor Will Attend Norwegian Celebration Here.

Norway's Independence Day Will Be Observed May 17.

Final arrangements for the ninety-eighth anniversary celebration of the independence of Norway, May 17, were made Saturday afternoon at a meeting of the joint committee, representing the Normanna male chorus, the Varde club and the Sons of Norway. The day will be celebrated at the Central high school.

Rev. Hans K. Madsen, presiding elder of the Chicago district of Norwegian-Danish M. E. churches and former pastor of the First Norwegian-Danish M. E. church of the West end, has accepted the invitation of the committee to be the principal speaker of the day. A program for the day is now being arranged by the committee in charge.

REV. H. K. MADSEN.

Besides the address of Rev. Mr. Madsen, a short talk will be given by Mayor McCuen. Flaaten's orchestra will furnish the music for the day and the Normanna male chorus will render a number of selections. A vocal solo will be given by Mrs. A. Flaaten and a violin solo by Miss Valborg Gundersen. Following is the general committee in charge of the affair:

Normanna Singing society, S. Haug, S. Sodahl and R. Saude; the Sons of Norway, Thorwald Hanson, C. Grotting and J. Thoreson; Varde club, J. Jacobson, L. Fossum and S. Jacobson.

TAKES RAP AT COUNCIL.

West End Pastor Declares Patrol Limits Should Not Be Extended.

Rev. George E. Silloway of the Grace M. E. church, Twenty-second avenue west and Third street, preached on "Renewing the Mind" at the regular morning services yesterday. During the evening service Rev. Mr. Silloway scored the city council for extending the patrol limits to Twenty-fourth avenue west against the wishes of the West end residents and the adverse vote of Aldermen Bernard and Gibson.

"Because the saloon is a prolific source of moral disorder and crime," said Rev. Mr. Silloway, "it is against the best interests of the community that the number of saloons should be increased or the patrol limits be extended. When the city council at its meeting last Monday night voted to extend those limits westerly to 200 feet beyond Twenty-fourth avenue it took an action that has met with strong protest from a large number of the best citizens; and I wish tonight to add my protesst to those that have already been made.

"It is to the credit of this ward that the two aldermen representing it, Aldermen Gibson and Bernard, voted against the extension."

"SABBATH OBSERVANCE" IS PASTOR'S THEME.

Rev. J. A. McGaughey of the Second Presbyterian church, 1515 West Superior street, preached on "Sabbath Observance" at the regular services yesterday morning. He said in part:

"The Old Testament emphasizes the fact that the Sabbath day was for rest and worship. And Christ in His New Testament indorses the Old Testament idea, and even adds another idea to the observance of Sabbath day. He has and that the doing of a kind deed and being merciful to fellow-men is fulfilling the idea of Sabbath.

"In this way, then, there is a three-fold duty attached to the observance of the Sabbath day. It is not only the day of rest and worship, but is the day when the doing of good deeds is especially urged. I do not believe in giving a list of don'ts for the observance of the Sabbath day, but do ask you to do things for the development of man and his surroundings."

Last evening the second of the series of men's meetings was held in the church. Norman MacLeod, secretary of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A., was the principal speaker, and he advocated a higher recognition of the boy in the church. He urged a separate department in the church for the boy, where he could be alone and conduct his own exercises. Charles Diers read a paper on the boys' work.

The Rosary society of St. Clement's Catholic church, Twenty-first avenue west and Third street, was entertained in the church parlors Saturday afternoon by the Mesdames J. J. Schiltz and Mrs. W. J. LIFT SYSTEM ADVOCATED

Says Septic Tanks Under Gravity System Might Become Nuisance.

City Engineer John Wilson has recommended to the board of public works that the Park Point sewer system should be a lift system, operated by centrifugally driven electric pumps.

The city engineer reports that the lift system would be cheaper than the gravity system by $3,000, and states that in any event it would only be a matter of time before the lift system would have to be installed.

He states that the water department gives 25,000 gallons as the average daily consumption of water across the canal. On the theory that this would be doubled by the installation of the sewer he figures that the cost of maintaing the pumps would be $720 annually, as against $350 a year for keeping up the gravity system. Under the latter he says that the septic tanks might become nuisances.

The estimated cost of the sewer with the lift system is $20,239.45 and that of the gravity system, with a dozen septic tanks, is $23,831.61. The sewage under the lift system would be discharged at the canal beneath the surface and the engineer thinks that it would be so diluted that it would not become a nuisance or a menace.

Part of the pipes of the lift system would have to be laid below the surface of the water and the engineer calls attention to the fact by stating that a special preparation would be necessary at the joints to prevent leaks.

Henry C. Ash was today appointed a member of the engineering department. He will have general charge of outside construction work. Mr. Ash is well known in the city as an engineer and before the appointment was announced his name was mentioned as a possibility for the position of city engineer.

REAL ESTATE MEN OFFER THEIR AID

Vacant Lot Garden Plan Will Be Taken Up in Duluth.

The real estate exchange will cooperate with garden enthusiasts in the establishment of vacant lot gardens in Duluth.

Members of the exchange held a conference today with Prof. K. A. Kirkpatrick of the state agricultural college and A. B. Hostetter of the Duluth Commercial club and promised their co-operation in garden school work.

There are any number of vacant lots in Duluth and any number of people willing to take them up. The real estate exchange has many vacant lots listed and the co-operation of that organization is a valuable asset to those who are trying to get people interested in the cultivation of vacant land.

TALKS ABOUT BRINGING CANADIAN WHEAT FREE.

Chicago, Ill., April 15.—The possibility of importing wheat from Canada without the payment of duty was discussed by Joseph H. Allen of New York at the closing session of the Millers' National federation held here. Mr. Allen urged that congress be asked to consider the question. He explained that at present Canadian wheat may be shipped into the United States free of duty under bond, providing that the flour made from it is sold for export. The federation decided to hold a conference of 1,000 millers in Kansas City May 28, 29 and 30.

IMPERFECT REPORT OF RESCUED SENT BY WIRELESS MESSAGE

Lists of Names of Those on Board the Carpathia Are Not Complete.

Women and Children Largely in Majority Among Survivors.

Interruptions of Service Add Suspense to Anxiety of Waiting Relatives.

New York, April 16.—As if the natural anxiety of relatives over the fate of passengers aboard the White Star line steamer Titanic were not enough, the vagaries of the wireless telegraph today entered into the tragedy and the most tireless efforts to get news of the survivors of the sinking of the palatial monster met with only imperfect results.

Only two points have been definitely established—that the Carpathia has on board the only survivors of the ocean horror, and that the number of passengers and members of the crew of the Titanic who were saved totals only 868.

The fact that a large majority of these refugees are women and children is evidence that these were favored in the removal of passengers from the doomed steamship. Of the 201 first cabin passengers aboard the Carpathia, as they have been thus far accounted for at the White Star office in this city, 132 are women, 63 men and 6 children. Of the 116 second cabin passengers, 88 are women, 16 men and 10 children.

Will Reach Port Thursday.

It is certain that no positive list of the rescued will be available until the Carpathia reaches this port, which she is expected to do some time Thursday afternoon.

The partial list of names of refugees carried by the wireless telegraph shows that there are among them 553 persons whose names were not included in the list of passengers of the Titanic cabled here from London.

AMATEURS HINDER WIRELESS REPORT

Interfere With Sending of Names of Wreck Survivors.

New York, April 16.—Interference on the part of amateur wireless operators made it difficult for the stations here to get the list of names of survivors of the Titanic correctly. In several instances the names as picked up have no counterpart in the list of passengers as given out by the White Star line officials and in other cases the operators were not able to get the full names.

DREADS VOYAGE; AMONG MISSING

Wisconsin Woman's Premonition of Disaster May Have Been True.

Racine, Wis., April 16.—"I dread taking this trip to Denmark, for I have a feeling that I will never return alive. I just know that the boat will sink or something awful happen to me, and if you ever find my body—"

With these words to her brother, Thomas Ilurd, Mrs. Peter C. Hanson, numbered among the passengers on the ill fated liner Titanic, went on to tell the kind of funeral she wanted, what clothes she wanted to be buried in and what kind of flowers she wished on her casket. This she followed by a farewell kiss, and she was off to New York en route to Denmark.

Mrs. Hanson, accompanied by her husband, sailed last February on a visit to his old home in Denmark. They were on their return voyage on the Titanic. Their names do not appear among the list of those rescued.

THREE COLUMBUS, OHIO, PEOPLE ARE RESCUED.

Columbus, Ohio, April 16.—Three Columbus people, Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Beckwith and Mrs. Beckwith's daughter, Miss Helen Newsome, were passengers on the Titanic. They are rated as being very wealthy and are prominent in society in this city. They are reported as being rescued.

Cleveland Men Lost.

Cleveland, Ohio, April 16.—Ernest Crease and Roland Stanley, returning to this city after an absence of several years abroad, were among those aboard the Titanic not accounted for.

MRS. CHAFFEE IS REPORTED SAFE

Husband of North Dakota Woman May Be Wreck Victim.

Fargo, N. D., April 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Relatives here fear Herbert F. Chaffee of Amenia has been lost in the Titanic wreck. Word was received this morning that Mrs. Chaffee was safe among those rescued, but that no trace of Mr. Chaffee has been found and he is thought to have been among the victims.

Mr. Chaffee owns 34,000 acres of Cass county land and a line of elevators, stores and other property in this county. He is the man involved in a "gold brick" deal in Minneapolis two years ago when he was victimized to the extent of $25,000.

ST. LOUIS HEIRESS AMONG THE RESCUED.

St. Louis, Mo., April 16.—Miss Georgette Madill, reported among the saved in the Titanic disaster, is one of this city's youngest heiresses. She is 15 years old. By an order of court a year ago she was awarded an annual "pin money" allowance of $7,500 to pay for her clothing and education until she became of age.

Miss Madill is the principal heir of Judge George A. Madill, who was for several years president of the Union Trust company of this city.

CARGO WORTH $12,500,000

Underwriters at Lloyds Are Staggered at Titanic's Sinking.

Loss So Evenly Distributed That No Trouble Is Expected.

London, April 16.—The underwriters at Lloyds were staggered at the news of the loss of the Titanic, but it is declared that the insurance on the lost vessel is so evenly distributed that none of the underwriters is likely to be hard hit. The reassuring cable dispatches yesterday had sent the reinsurance rate down to 25 guineas per cent and the underwriters closed up at night hopeful that all was well. When they reopened this morning a little business was done at 90 guineas, but the rate was quickly raised to 95, which is known as a "total loss" rate.

Cargo Worth $12,500,000.

The exact amount of property loss was hard to ascertain today. Underwriters stated that they could not say accurately what securities were on board the ship as yet. It was generally estimated, however, that with the cargo the Titanic would represent a valuation of approximately $12,500,000. Of this total, $750,000 was retained by the White Star company at its own risk and the balance was placed on the insurance market, in London, Liverpool, Hamburg and elsewhere.

The officials of the White Star company say that so far as they know every passenger whose name appeared on the lists cabled to New York yesterday sailed on board the Titanic. There may, they say, have been a few who changed their minds at the last moment, but at the offices up to the present no cancellations from or additions to the passenger list have been heard from. As a matter of fact these would be known only to the purser of the Titanic.

FOUR WISCONSIN TOURISTS SAFE

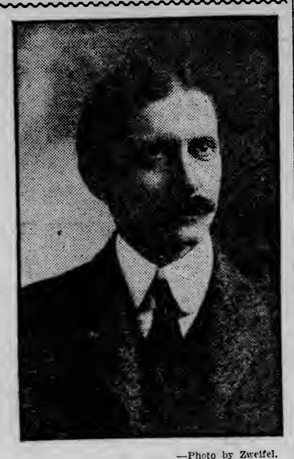
Two Men Not Accounted for in the Wreck of the Titanic.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 16—Out of six Wisconsin people aboard the steamer Titanic, five women are included among the saved as follows: Mrs. E. G. Crosby and Miss Harriet Crosby, Milwaukee; Mrs. W. E. Minahan, Fond du Lac; Miss Daisy Minahan, Green Bay.

Capt. E. G. Crosby, Milwaukee, and Dr. W. E. Minahan, Fond du Lac, are yet to be accounted for.

CANADIANS ON BOARD TITANIC

Prominent Winnipeg People Among Those in Sea Accident.



London, April 16.—A number of prominent Canadians were on board the Titanic at the time of the disaster. Among them were Mark Fortune, a capitalist of Winnipeg, who had been spending the winter on the Riviera. Hugo Ross, son of the late A. W. Ross of Winnipeg, a politician, and T. O. C. Caffry, the Western superintendent of the Union Bank of Vancouver. All these are known definitely to have sailed. Mrs. Mark Fortune and Misses Alice and Mabel Fortune are among the saved.

NO WORD OF CAPT. SMITH

Uneventful Career of Forty Years Culminates in Disaster.

New York, April 16.—As far as can be learned from wireless messages, Capt. Smith of the Titanic went to his death when the vessel foundered. No report mentioning him has been received here or at Cape Race.

Capt. Smith, into whose hands the passengers on the Titanic entrusted themselves on the voyage which will never be forgotten in the list of great sea disasters, followed the sea from his boyhood, beginning his service as an apprentice seaman. For forty years it was his proud boast that he had had an uneventful life. That is why he was promoted to the highest post in the gift of the White Star line. Events came crowding upon him only in the winter of his life, and with events came misfortune.

Apprentice in 1869.

He rose from the ranks. As a boy in 1869 he went on the Senator Weber, an American clipper, serving as an apprentice. In 1876 he shipped with the square-rigger Lizzie Fennel as fourth officer, and in 1880 he had risen to the rank of fourth officer of the old White Star line steamship Celtic—the nominal ancester of the present vessel of that name. In 1887 he went to the Republic as captain, and later to the Baltic. Thus he saw service and held command on the old vessels for which the present giants of the White Star line are named.

Later Capt. Smith took command of the freighter Cufic and then the Runic. Then he went to the old Adriatic, the Celtic, Britannic, Coptic, in the Aus-

MINNEAPOLIS PEOPLE ABOARD

Walter D. Douglas and Wife and J. P. Snyder and Wife on the Titanic.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Walter D. Douglas of Minneapolis, who with his wife was aboard the steamer Titanic, is a multi-millionaire, and with his brother is owner of what is said to be one of the largest starch manufactories in the world at Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. John Pillsbury Snyder, prominent in Minneapolis, who left here in January on their honeymoon trip to Europe, also were returning on the Titanic.

ONLY 868 ARE RESCUED FROM DEATH IN SEA

ALL SURVIVORS ON STEAMER CARPATHIA

Maj. A. W. Butt and Col. J. J. Astor Among Those Not Reported Safe.

Wireless Tells Fragmentary Story of Terror, Suffering and Death.

St. Johns, Nfld., April 16.—All hope that any of the passengers or members of the crew of the Titanic, other than those on the Carpathia, are alive, was abandoned this afternoon. All of the steamers which have been cruising in the vicinity of the disaster have continued on their voyages.

The appalling magnitude of the wreck of the giant liner Titanic has been but little mitigated by the fragmentary information which has filtered in today.

The rescuing steamer Carpathia has 868 survivors on board, according to the latest news received at the offices of the White Star line in New York. This increases the list of saved by about 200 from the number first reported. But except for this the favorable details are insignificant compared with the supreme fact that the Titanic is at the bottom of the Atlantic, and that the shattered wreck took with her about 1,350 victims to their death.

ONLY 868 SURVIVORS.

The first reports giving the total survivors at 675 were varied by more favorable news early today, first from Capt. Roston of the Carpathia, who gave the number at about 800, and later by the positive announcement of the White Star line that there are 868 survivors of the Titanic on board the Carpathia.

But with these revised figures there remain 1,341 persons, passengers and crew of the Titanic, who are today unaccounted for.

Hope clung desperately this morning to the belief that the steamers Virginian and Parisian of the Allan line might have picked up survivors in additon to those on board the Carpathia, but this practically was dispelled at 11 o'clock when the Sable Island wireless reported that the Parisian had no survivors on board, and then the officers of the Allan line in Montreal issued a statement that the captain of the Virginian had sent them a wireless message saying he had "arrived at the scene of the disaster too late to be of service."

The Virginian has proceeded on her way for Europe.

SURVIVORS ON CARPATHIA.

The Carpathia, having on board the only survivors accounted for, is coming slowly to New York. All hope for details of the tragedy and its effects are centered on this ship. She will be in wireless

TOOK TO BOATS PARTLY CLOTHED

New York, April 16.—The brief wireless dispatches received so far show that the passengers and crew of the Titanic passed through thrilling experiences from the very moment that the monster crashed into the iceberg in the dead of night until the Carpathia, several hours later, reached the scene and rescued the survivors from lifeboats floating in a sea of ice.

The collision occurred when most of the passengers had retired or were about to go to bed. The shock of the collision sent many of the passengers to the decks partly dressed.

A wireless dispatch came through Camperdown, N. S., saying that the passengers were ordered to the lifeboats at once, and that many were scantily clad as they took their places in the boats. This would indicate that the Titanic's condition was such that no time could be spared to return to staterooms for additional clothes.

IN DANGER FROM ICE.

Danger still confronted even those who were so fortunate as to be put aboard the lifeboats. Huge quantities of field ice covered the ocean, a wireless dispatch says, and in the darkness the crews had to guide their boats with the greatest care to prevent being jammed and overturned.

The ice was so heavy that the lifeboats could not force their way through it, and as a result the boats became widely separated. The air was biting cold and the chill that rose from the ice floes caused the passengers to hover close together to keep warm.

All through the night the lifeboats bobbed helplessly between the shifting cakes of ice, while the survivors prayed for dawn to come.

IS GRAVEYARD OF DOZEN BIG ATLANTIC LINERS

New York, April 16.—Icebergs such as the one that spelled disaster for the Titanic are one of three sources of gravest peril to vessels navigating the North Atlantic. The other two are fog and derelicts. The iceberg menace has been greater this spring than in any recent year.

In the last fifty years there have been an even dozen disasters to big liners for which icebergs were responsible. A majority of these occurred off Newfoundland and the Grand Banks, in the general vicinity of the Titanic's grave. The disaster column includes:

Lost.	Place.	Year.	Lives.

The drift of ice this spring has been farther south than for year. Vessels arriving here and abroad have reported ice fields extending far down into the southern track and skippers have told of being shut in by ice as far as they could see on every side of the horizon.

The size of the bergs which have been encountered recently varies greatly but according to reliable reports, bergs reaching from sixty to 100 feet to the top of its walls, with pinnacles and spires extending to a height of 250 feet or more, have not been unusual. Below the water some of these giant bergs extend probably 800 feet.

EXPLAINING HORSE-POWER.

Railway and Locomotive Engineer: In connection with steamship propulsion the average man is apt to speak very glibly of so many hundred or thousand horse-power. But it is extremely doubtful if one person in a hundred really has a due appreciation of what the phrase actually means. On this point some very interesting remarks were made by John Heck, the Glasgow engineer surveyor.

He said that calculating the strength of twelve men to be equal to one horse-power, it would require 840,000 men to produce as much energy as the 70,000 horse-power, developed by the turbine machinery of the express Cunarder Lusitania. Then if the men were to work on the eight-hour-day system those figures would give a total of 2,520,000, that being the number of men whose strength would be necessary to drive the vessel across the Atlantic Ocean. So it would take all the men in Scotland to supply the energy produced all the day round by the wonderful trubine machinery of this great ship.

A NAUTICAL CHRISTENING.

London Telegraph: Some years ago a slow-sailing vessel, when some 600 miles out from Liverpool, picked up a lusty youngster of 5 years lashed to a mast.

The captain took a great liking to him, called him his son and decided that the little chap must be christened —one of the few things which he knew must be attended to in the case of children.

Of course there was no chaplain aboard, so the captain himself undertook the ceremony. He gathered the men about him, and with a mixed knowledge of his duties, he glared about him and asked whether any one knew just cause why the boy should not be christened.

"If there is," he roared, "speak up like a man or forever hold your tongue."

Then he suddenly cracked a bottle of wine above his head and christened him.

The ocean waif is now settled down —a steady longshoreman, but he still relates with satisfaction the story of his christening.

BROADWAY ACTRESS CONQUERS WRINKLES

Green Rooms and the Boudoirs of Fashionable Society Women Hum With Gossip About Amazing New Wrinkle Remover.

Society women and actresses all over the United States are deeply interested in a marvelous new wrinkle remover which has but recently been introduced into the United States by the Princess Yoe Tokio Company of Denver, Colo. The new process of eliminating wrinkles, crow's feet, seamed skins and blemishes of the complexion is said to have created a veritable sensation. Women who have experimented with the numerous nostrums on the market and disliked the process will be interested to know that the new treatment is said to do away with cupping, plasters, greasy creams, steaming, subcutaneous injections and all the old methods which have been used in the past.

One of the best known actresses in the United States, who is no longer in the first flush of youth, is said to have been the member of the profession to introduce the new discovery to stageland. She appeared one day on Broadway, goes the story, with a skin like a child's and all signs of the ravages of time completely obliterated. She was literally besieged by her friends and finally told the secret of having learned of the Princess Yoe Tokio. She is said to have written for particulars and her face tells of the success of the experiment. Every New York train going West that day is said to have had letters to Princess Yoe Tokio from theatrical people on it. Most of them, it is said, wrote under assumed names, but they all wrote and it is declared the Rialto never looked more youthful than it does this spring. The lead of the theatrical beauties was soon followed by Eastern society women and the success of the treatment is now the most discussed thing in fashionable circles.

Much mystery attaches to the personality of the Princess Yoe Tokio and to the treatment itself but its results speak loud enough for anyone who needs such remedies and so the Denver postoffice is said to be flooded with mail for the mysterious Oriental.

NOT ENOUGH BOATS TO ACCOMMODATE ALL ON BOARD TITANIC?

Apparent Lack Is Causing Much Discussion in London.

Trans-Atlantic Lines Agree to Change Course Across Ocean.

London, April 16.—Alex Carlisle, lately chief designer for Harland & Wolff, the shipbuilders, and the designer of both the Titanic and Olympic, in the course of an interview today said:

"When the news first came that the Titanic was sinking by the head, I thought it likely that she would reach port. The fact that she sank within four hours after the impact with the ice indicates that her side was torn out."

The apparent fact that the Titanic's boats were not sufficient to accommodate the ship's personnel is causing much comment here, although the papers are chary of discussing the subject. The law does not provide the number of boats the largest ships shall carry. It only applies to those vessels displacing up to 10,000 tons, as it was passed before the present big ships had been designed or built.

Changed Their Minds.

One of the best known London representatives of the Standard Oil company, W. H. Harrison, failed to sail on the Titanic as he had intended. He is the father of the former second secretary of the United States embassy in London, Leland Harrison, now secretary of the embassy at Bogota, Columbia.

Mr. and Mrs. Isador Straus had not intended to sail on the Titanic, but reached a sudden determination to take the new liner and caught the boat train at the last minute.

A message received by the parents of J. A. Philipps, the wireless operator on the Titanic, last night stating "making slowly for Halifax. Practically unsinkable. Don't worry," was sent by an uncle of the operator in London to Godalming, where the father lives, and the parents assumed that it had come from their son, as it was signed "Philipps."

The trans-Atlantic lines have agreed in consequence of the reports as to ice in the Atlantic, to cross longitude 47 in latitude 40.10 eastbound, beginning today and longitude 47, latitude 41 westbound beginning April 25.

ANOTHER HOPE OF SAVING OF LIVES IS GONE

Halifax, April 16.—The Sable Island cableship Minia reported this afternoon through the wireless station here that she had sighted a great mass of wreckage, but no boats or rafts from the Titanic. This disposes of the hope that the Minia, which was anchored off Cape Race, when the Titanic first called for help, might have picked up some of the Titanic's passengers.

GLEANED ALONG THE POLICE RUN

So good a story did Mark H. M. Yarlmatter tell in police court yesterday afternoon that he was given his liberty after he had pleaded guilty to trespass.

Yarlmatter was arrested after a chase late last Saturday night on suspicion of being a "Peeping Tom" who had been annoying school teachers who board at the home of Mrs. L. Koehler at 218 Second avenue west. While he was in full flight the policeman who had been stationed there fired three shots over his head and he was caught by a second patrolman who was attracted by the shooting.

The prisoner was a one-armed man and stated that he is a telegraph operator. He has a wife and three children living in a range town. As evidence of his steadiness it was shown that he had worked steadily for seven years without a layoff.

Saturday it appears that he came to Duluth on a short business trip. While here it seems that he met a few friends with whom he took several "social drinks." But he was aparently too sociable for his own good. On the way up the hill he states that he began to feel sick and stepped between the two buildings. As he passed the window the cop threw up the sash and made a grab for him. Nearly "scared out of his wits" he took to his heels, and when the bullets went whistling over his head he lengthened his stride, only to be gathered into the arms of another bluecoat just as he was about to make good his escape down a dark alley.

Yarlmatter had several friends in the city whom he called upon to testify in his behalf. They were men of excellent standing and they gave the operator an excellent character, substantiating his assertions to the court.

The court accepted his version of the affair and continued his case, allowing him to return to his home.

Some man has been making himself obnoxious about the Koehler residence. Many women boarders stop there, the majority of them school teachers, and the "Peeping Tom" has been seen on different occasions hanging about the house and pressing his face against the window panes.

Cutlery and glassware flew thick and fast through the already heated atmosphere of the kitchen of a local hotel about 10 o'clock last night.

No, a juggler wasn't giving an exhibition and the accompaniment wasn't musical, although decidedly vocal. The cutlery and glassware were missiles and it is claimed that part of them, at least, landed on the anatomies at which they were hurled. Edward McClellan, a waiter, and Peter Bertarilli, an assistant cook, became angry at one another. The waiter wanted an order hurried up for an impatient guest and the cook couldn't see it just that way. Whereupon words were followed by a more strenuous argument. It is claimed that the cook fired a volley of forks at the waiter and that the waiter reciprocated with a broadside of water bottles. One of the forks is alleged to have caught the waiter in the hand and one of the water bottles is said to have raised a big bump on the cook's cranium.

The upshot of the fray was that McClellan was arraigned in police court this morning on a charge of third degree assault. He denied that he had battered the cook without just provocation and his trial was set for 2 o'clock this afternoon. McClellan is out on $100 bail.

"Old Pete knew the game from the cut to the drive; he always ran away from trouble but could defend himself if it was forced on him; he was honest and his word was as good as his bond; he was quiet and temperate and saved a stake for a rainy day."

In words similar to those John Stewart eulogized his late friend and companion, Peter McDougall, who died suddenly one night last week in the Denver lodging house. The post-mortem showed death to have been due to tubercular pneumonia.

Stewart is a woodsman well along in years and was a boon chum of McDougall, who was another of the old-time lumberjacks who followed the pine forests from Michigan into Minnesota. Stewart states that although McDougall was nearly 70 years old he was always able to commnd the top wages because of his thorough knowledge of the business, the "game," as he terms it. Until a few months ago he remained rugged and healthy, but since the first of the year he did not do much because of illness.

Stewart is no slouch himself. He wrote out a notice of his friend's death which would be a credit to any average man with an average education. At the bottom he tacked a request "please correct," but it could be run verbatim without causing criticism.

McDougall's body was removed to the undertaking rooms of Flood & Horgan. Thus far no relatives have been located.

The authorities who are investigating the dastardly attempt to maim Capt. Solheim and Lieut. Larson of fire hall No. 3 by pouring chemical acid into their boots have made no further progress in their investigation. No evidence has been discovered which will establish the identity of the culprit. It was one of the most contemptible and most cowardly tricks which has ever come to the attention of Duluth officials. A long trip to Stillwater would be almost too good for him, say the police.

But such are the ways of politics, and to be perfectly frank about it Attorney Dacey had planned to leave, regardless of the election. He felt that he had had an excellent experience and one which will be of great value to him, but that he could no longer afford to neglect his private practice.

Iver Backe pleaded guilty to having stolen a valuable watch from Jacob Hanson at the Nicollet hotel several days ago. He asked for clemency on the ground that he was drunk. He got $75 and costs or sixty days in the county jail. He went over the hill.

Ethel Morrell, arrested yesterday on a charge of residing in a house of ill fame, was told, after her case had been disposed of in court, that her room would be much more welcome than her company. It was reported that she and a male companion had robbed a visitor of $155 in the resort of Ella Wilson at 231 St. Croix alley. Ethel or Ada Cummings, in which name she had her bank account, left $104 with the authorities to settle the fines assessed against her and George Cummings, who was arrested with her. But despite that reef Ethel will not leave "broke." Her bank book showed that she had over $350 to her credit.

Harry Bolot was arrested last night on a charge of tresspass. It appears that his daughter was afraid to stay in the same house with him, claiming that he was under the influence of liquor, and went to a neighbor. Bolot is alleged to have broken down the door of the house where she was staying, determined to have her go back home. The police were notified and Bolot was takn to headquarters. He pleaded not guilty this morning and will be tried tomorrow afternoon.

SOCIALISTS DROP MILWAUKEE REINS

Mayor Bading's Inaugural Is Plea for Civic Improvements.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 16.—The Socialist administration in Milwaukee which extended over a period of two years ended this afternoon, when Dr. Gerhard A. Bading, recently elected mayor on a non-partisan ticket, took the oath of office.

"Our platform constitutes a binding contract with the public, and our first duty must be to do the things we have obligated ourselves to do before we permit our attention to be drawn in other directions."

That statement sounded the keynote of Mayor Bading's inaugural message before the new non-partisan council.

"We are pledged to disregard politics and consider each municipal question purely on its merits," continued the mayor. "We are pledged to be economical, which means that we should not appropriate the public funds for unnecessary purposes, but also that every man in the city employ shall be fitted for his duties."

Wants Election Reform.

The mayor recommended that the council take some action toward petitioning the legislature to enact at the coming special session a law providing for non-partisan elections and majority vote in cities of the first class.

Purification of the water supply, improved street car service, non-exclusive franchise, improvement in housing conditions in the line of eliminating unsanitary conditios, and improvement of harbor conditions are among his recommendations.

In conclusion the mayor said that unnecessary taxation is unjust taxation.

"The extravagance and inefficiency which have characterized the city government during the last two years are responsible for the high taxes levied last year," he said.

Cornelius Corcoran was elected president of the council and Peter Leuch city clerk. Fred G. Simmons was appointed commissioner of public works.

PROGRESS IN PALESTINE.

No new colonies were founded in Palestine this year with the exception of Kinereth, a large farm founded by the Palestine Land Development company with the assistance of the National fund, which employs many Jewish laborers. It is hoped that these laborers will become independent colonists by and by.

Work has also begun preparing the land for the cooperative colony of Dr. Oppenheimer, which was named Merchabiah. A large number of new olive trees were planted this year in the Herzel Forest, says the Maccabaen. The Agudath Netaim obtained its charter from the Turkish government and is continuing to cover new land with all kinds of plants. Thus more and more of the arid Palestinian soil is being reclaimed to new life.

Jewish immigration into the cities of Palestine is more and more evident. Wealthy Jews from Russia are visiting Palestine in large numbers. It is true that not all of them find the possibilities in Palestine which they anticipated, but many of them, who are more enthusiastic and whose desire to settle there is strong, succeed in finding various activities and they settle there.

These Jews, who have been used to a life of comfort in Europe, have joined some of the old settlers and have founded a new suburb, a new town really, near Jaffa which they named Tel-Abib. This town, built on the American style, inasmuch as it sprang out as if by magic within one year of the sand of the seashore, is very beautiful. It is well planned, has wide paved streets lined with trees, every house is fitted up with water pipes and bathrooms, and they are built in a specified Oriental style, surrounded by a garden.

It is in all something of which the Jews in Palestine are justly proud. The Arabs and the European Christians were astonished at the remarkable achievements of the Jews, and their envy is genuine. All the residents of Jaffa, Christians as well as Mohammedans, take their holiday walks in Tel-Abib.

The gates of this suburb are closed on Saturdays to prevent the entrance of vehicles, although the majority of its inhabitants are not religious, but the Jewish Sabbath is accepted by all as a holy day of rest. The atmosphere in Tel-Abib is naturally entirely Jewish, and the Hebrew language in its beautiful Oriental accent is heard on every side.

On the main street, the Herzl street, that leads to the sea, was built the Gymnasia Ibrith (the Hebrew high school) of Jaffa, a fine building in Oriental style. A cornerstone was recently laid in the same suburb for a large synagogue, which will be owned by the Jewish community of Jaffa. Tel-Abib was built through the assistance of our National furd, which granted a loan for this purpose of about 250,000 francs, to be repaid with interest in instalments.

A similar suburb is now being built, with the help of the National fund, in close proximity to Tel-Abib. Jerusalem too has a few new Jewish suburbs around the old town built mainly by Jewish teachers for their personal use with the help of the "Hilfsverein" of Germany. In Haiffa also lots are being acquired by Jews for building purposes around the site of the Jewish Technical Institute and a suburb on the plan of Tel-Abib is projected there.

A REMNANT OF THE ACADIANS.

Rosary Magazine: Up in the center of the Gulf of St. Lawrence the small group of Magdalen Islands are populated by three or four thousand lineal descendants of the Acadians under Champlain and De Monts, who were driven out of New France, Nova Scotia, by the English.

Since the first settlement in 1763 generations of the same families have raised scanty crops in the valleys and fed sheep and cattle on the high, conical hills which constitute a prominent feature of an insular landscape.

Year after year men have gone out on the waters of the gulf in search of the cod, mackerel and lobsters on which a livelihood depends. They are a simple, primitive people these natives of the Magdalens, laboring all the while under circumstances, that are most discouraging.

The archipelago contains twelve or thirteen distinct islands, including several grim rocks which are not inhabited and never will be. But the remarkable feature about the physical formation of the whole group is the way in which one island is in some instances connected with another by a long stretch of sandy beach, enabling a person, if he desires to do so, to go for a score of miles or more along the most barren shore in the world, one that is uninhabited and unrelieved by vegetation of any kind, and the only animal life being the thousands of gulls, terns, gannets and other sea fowl which are extremely numerous in all this region.

FOUR-FLEA POWER OF A WATCH.

Few pieces of machinery show more wonderful features than that of the watch. As a general proposition it may be stated that a watch is the smallest, most delicate instrument of the same number of parts that has ever been devised.

About 175 different pieces of material enter into its construction and upward of 2,000 separate operations are comprised in its manufacture. Certain of the facts connected with its performance are almost incredible when considered as a whole.

A blacksmith strikes several hundred blows on his anvil in a day and as a matter of course is glad when Sunday comes, but the roller jewel of a watch makes every day—and day after day—432,000 impacts against the fork, or 157,680,000 blows during the course of a year without stop or rest —or some 3,153,600,000 blows during the space of twenty years, the period for which a watch is usually guaranteed to keep good time.

But the wonder of it does not cease here says the Michigan Manufacturer. It has been calculated that the power that moves the watch is equivalent to only four times the force used in a flea's jump. The watch power is therefore what might be termed the equivalent of a flea-power. One-horse power would suffice to operate 270,000,000 watches.

Furthermore the balance wheel of a watch is moved by this four flea-power 1.43 inches with each vibration, or 3,55833 miles continuously in one year. Not much oil is required to lubricate the little machine on its 3,500-mile run. It takes only one-tenth of a drop of oil to oil the entire machinery for a year's service.

SHOPPING DAY IN COURTROOM

Court Delves Deeply Into the Costs of Women's Finery.

Department Store Buyer as Expert Witness in Torrence Trial.

Scenes, shifting in swift succession from the fashionable style shop to the average ladies' aid rummage sale, and the opinion of a price expert as to values of articles alleged to have been pilfered from the Breckenridge boudoir last November by Mrs. Eleanor Torrence, not only occupied the attention of the court and jury in Judge Dancer's room this morning, but also furnished a fertile subject for the feminine curiosity squad to ruminate on.

Without a doubt, today was "shopping day" at the trial and the women who could be counted among the ranks of the spectators seemed to take an unusual interest in what was going of Miss Jennie Dahl, a buyer for the Glass Block store, was on the stand all morning to testify for the state as to the value of the articles alleged to have been stolen from Mrs. Lila W. Breckenridge by Mrs. Torrence, the defendant.

Prosecutor Warren E. Greene at times appeared in the role of a clerk, as he helped the witness measure the number of yards of lace, trimming or silk on a particular piece which had been introduced in evidence. The yards were computed in this manner and Miss Dahl was called upon by Mr. Greene to give the marketable value of the various exhibits in the dry goods line.

At one time, when Prsecutor Greene was measuring off a strip of lace and had announced that he had found it to be four yeards, he was interrupted by Attorney Nelson, who interposed the suggestion that perhaps the assistant county attorney was "giving short yards."

"I'm not trying to cheat you," said Mr. Greene, "If you don't think that there is four yards there, measure it yourself." The lace was then handed to Miss Dahl, who remeasured it after her own fashion and announced that Mr. Greene's figures were substantially correct—in fact there was a little more than four yards, she said.

The cross-examination of Miss Dahl, the expert put on by the state, had just started this morning when the court took the noon recess. Miss Dahl is on the stand again this afternoon.

Attorney "Called."

When Mr. Nelson attempted to find a certain white waist belonging to Mrs. Breckenridge among about 100 other articles which are in the court room for exhibits, the proceedings were interrupted by Mrs. Breckenridge.

"Mr. Nelson" she exclaimed, "I rolled that up in a table cloth so that it wouldn't get soiled. You're throwing my things around like a ball." At this point the court announced that there would be an adjournment until afternoon.

Yesterday afternoon, a mild sensation was sprung by States' attorney Greene when he attempted to get a statement from Detective Terry of the police department as to the reasons why detectives im searching a house where articles had been stolen sometimes purposely overlooked certain things at the time of the search.

Testifying as to the reason why Detective Bradley and himself had not thoroughly searched the Torrence house on their first visit, Detective Terry said, "The reason why was this: We had got most of the stuff we we were looking for that were on the search warrant and as a rule where we have recovered the majority of the stuff—"

Terry was broken off here with an objection from Mr. Nelson. The court sustained the objection and instructed the witness not to deal in generalities, but to confine his testimony to what was said or done in the Torrence case. Terry finally finished his answer with: "I expected that we would get the rest through Mrs. Torrence."

M. Haverty, a driver for the Duluth Van & Storage company who helped move the goods from the Breckenridge apartments in the Torrence home to the storage house, testified that while engaged in his work at the Torrence home, he suggested to Mrs. Breckenridge that she "set up the drinks."

According to Haverty's story, Mrs. Breckenridge did not have the liquid refreshment for the parched drayman, and it was Mrs. Torrence who came to the rescue with a bottle of whisky.

The state has two or three more witnesses to put on before it rests its case, according to Mr. Greene.

BUTTERMAKERS WILL SEE DAIRIES

Byron Farmer Appends Autobiography to Letter to Winkjer.

St. Paul, Minn., April 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—In response to a circular sent out by J. G. Winkjer, state dairy and food commissioner, fifty-four butter makers at different points throughout the state have agreed personally to inspect the dairies of their patrons to learn of the sanitary condition. Two hundred and twenty-four creamery operators have expressed their willingness to bring their establishments fully up to standard requirements. One farmer, writing from Byron, Minn., deviated from the question of sanitary measures enough to say:

"I was born on a dairy farm up in the mountains, in Voss, Norway, 1837. Rode on all di roads in di world (except a short peace in England); came on steamer Bunker Hill to Chicago and lived dar in Chicago 1844 and 1845 when Chicago river was running east. Now it runs west. U e, dat Yankee trick again. Please send stamp next time you write."

Announcement Extraordinary!

A Great Purchase of Women's Tailored Suits

$35.00 Suits at $19.75

One of the occasions of Mr. Silberstein's trip to New York last week was to reinforce our depleted suit stocks, due to heavy pre-Easter selling. One of our own high-class manufacturers offered us 200 beautiful suits, in a variety of styles and fabrics, identical with suits we have heretofore been selling for $35, at a price which will enable us to offer them at the unheard of price of $19.75.

Now Don't Labor Under Any Misapprehension—There is no profit to speak of in this transaction for us, it being merely a form of advertising we have chosen to direct attention to the possibilities of this store for popular priced merchandise.

Furthermore—These are all perfect suits, of excellent fit and fabric, and in enough styles to satisfy and be appropriate for any figure.

In the lot are sizes 16, 18, 36, 38, 40 and 42. The colors are mostly navy, black and white, and the fabrics beautiful whipcords, serges, tweeds and mixtures.

No suit will be sent on approval, nor can it be exchanged or returned.
See Special Window Display.

P. S.—When we say we have all sizes and fabrics, we cannot promise how long assortments will remain complete. If this sale is responded to as our Suit Sales usually are, we will have a badly shattered stock by tomorrow night. Therefore we urge an early selection, in the morning, if possible.

RAIN SWELLS RIVER FLOOD

Conditions in Louisiana Are Steadily Growing Worse.

Senate Appropriates Another $300,000 for Levee Work.

Tallulah, La., April 16.—Heavy rains, almost of cloudburst proportions, which have fallen here during the last two days, have intensified the already terrible conditions of the flood sufferers, many of whom have been without shelter and in some instances without food since water from the Mississippi invaded this territory Saturday and Sunday.

Freight cars, attics, upper stories, the courthouse and even the jail are occupied by unfortunates driven from their homes.

Passes New Appropriation.

Washington, April 16.—The senate today passed the house bill to appropriate $300,000 in addition to the $350,000 already provided to maintain and protect the levees on the Mississippi river against the impending flood. The bill now goes to the president, who urged this action in a special message.

CROWDS AT DEER RIVER

Farmers' Institute Being Held There Is Proving Big Success.

Many Farmers Attending, School Cooking Class Furnishing Dinners.

Deer River, Minn., April 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The farmers' institute which opened here yesterday is proving a splendid success. The attendance is large, there being over 100 at the forenoon session, 200 at the afternoon session and considerably over that at the evening session. In the morning the program started with a talk by C. E. Brown, expert in charge of the demonstration farms, on the subject of "Your Opportunities as I See Them." Mr. Brown depicted in glowing terms the prospects of this section and characterized it as among the best in the country.

Then followed discussions of the talk, in which local people took part. The dinner was served free of charge by the schools of Deer River, the domestic science class under Miss Strong cooking and serving the dinner. The meal the young ladies presented proved that their instruction along domestic science lines is not in vain. Over 100 were served.

Poultry Expert Talks.

The main talk of the afternoon session was by N. L. Chapman, poultry expert of the division of agricultural extension of the University of Minnesota on "Specializing in Poultry Culture." This was followed by an address on "Seed and Sod Buying," by Dr. A. C. McGee, "Value of Crop Rotation," by C. E. Brown, and "The Farm Garden," by D. B. Jewell, agriculture instructor of Deer River high school. Supper was served by the Ladies' Aid of the M. E. church and they report that over 200 of the free tickets distributed by the Deer River Commercial club were to visiting farmers. After supper there was an address by George B. Alton, state high school inspector on "Rural Education." The program this morning opened with a talk on potatoes by C. E. Brown while Henry Treumpler, a local farmer spoke on "Sheep in the Small Clearing," and N. E. Chapman spoke on "Incubating and Brooding Chicks." There is an exhibit of poultry in the old Deer River school building which shows that there is much interest taken in that line of activity. There are no prizes offered on the chicken exhibits but there will be given a practical demonstration of judging chickens.

Deer River Enterprise.

The dinner again today was served by the domestic science class of the high school. Few towns have gone to the trouble that Deer River has for this institute. The entire affair is being looked after by the business men of the village and the local high school. A special train was chartered by the citizens and the farmers up the M. & R. railroad were transported free of charge to Deer River. Some seventy-five took advantage of the train to attend the institute.

BIRTH OF SON FOLLOWS LITTLE DAUGHTER'S FUNERAL

Within one hour after her 7-year-old daughter was buried, Mrs. John Burke of 4821 Grand avenue gave birth to a boy about 10 o'clock yesterday morning. The little girl died Friday evening after a short illness and was buried at the Calvary cemetery yesterday morning. The birth of the son followed immediately after.

Another odd incident was connected with the arrival of Mrs. Burke's sister from St. Paul to attend the funeral. Just as she reached the station in Duluth, she received a telegram from St. Paul informing her of the sudden illness of her husband. A sudden paralytic stroke had affected him and he was not expected to live. She returned to St. Paul early yesterday afternoon.

OVER HILL TO POOR HOUSE

Aged Father and Aged Son Taken in Charge By County.

Were Living in Little Shack Without Food or Heat.

Dominico and John Foleno, father and son, were taken over the hill to the poor house last evening.

Dominico is 93 years old—a withered and wizened little man, while his son John is nearly 62.

Both are natives of Italy, but they have been residents of Duluth for the past twenty-five years. They last made their home in a dingy shack at the rear of 410 East Fourth street.

John, the son, is also a father. His son resides in Duluth and is 31. Foleno, No. 3, is employed by a local furniture concern and is married.

Up to a few weeks ago, the Folenos—grandfather, father and son—all resided at 410 East Fourth street, but according to the story which John tells, the youngest Foleno stripped the little two-room shack of its furniture and moved out.

When the poor authorities found Dominico and John they were in bad straits. The elder Foleno's infirmities had not permitted him to leave his bed for the past two months. Poor Agent Shogran found him half dressed and wrapped up in an old quilt. The surroundings were most filthy, according to Mr. Shogran.

There was no stove in the shack and its only furnishings were an old bed, two broken chairs and two small trunks. The glass in the window panes had been broken or removed in some manner and filthy rags were stuffed in the frames, excluding nearly all the light.

Both men were suffering from the cold and hunger when a policeman found them in the place yesterday and notified the poor authorities. When Mr. Shogran visited the place he found that they had nothing to eat on hand.

Both men were taken to the poor farm in an ambulance last evening. The older man was immediately introduced to water and soap and after much scrubbing and scouring he was cleaned by the attendants and put away in a clean bed.

John, the junior Foleno at the farm, may go back to work this week. He has figured out that without the burden of his aged father on his hands, that perhaps he can shift for himself for a year or two yet. John has a wife and family in Italy.

In the meantime, it is expected that the senior Foleno will spend the rest of his natural life at the county almshouse.

TO HAVE AGENCY IN ZENITH CITY

Stoddard-Dayton Representative in City to Arrange for Opening.

H. B. Groff, traveling representative of the Stoddard-Dayton Motor Car company of Cleveland, Ohio, is in the city today trying to arrange for a branch of the Stoddard-Dayton company in Duluth.

That Duluth is to have an agency is assured. All that is hanging fire is the matter of a location. Mr. Groff has several locations in mind and it is quite possible that he will close with one of them before the end of the week.

As soon as the agency is established the Stoddard-Dayton company will send five cars to the Zenith City for show room and demonstrating purposes. The product of this well known factory is too well known to need much description.

The Stoddard-Dayton has been for a number of years a popular make of automobiles. Many Duluthians have Stoddard-Daytons and would have no other.

All the progressive companies are now establishing agencies in Duluth, and the Stoddard-Dayton people have no intention of being left out of it.

Who will be in charge of the Duluth branch is as yet unknown, but the company hopes to have its first shipment of cars on the way and the agency in running order by the first of next week.

RABBIS OPPOSED TO SOCIALISM

Deplore Growth of That Sentiment Among Jewish People.

Baltimore, Md., April 16.—The inroads of Socialism among the working class of Jews was deplored in reports and speeches made at the Conference of American Rabbis here today.

A committee which has made an investigation of this subject for the last year, made a report in which the prediction was made that the tendency to break from the synagogue and all form of religion was growing less among the working classes than some time ago, although Rabbi R. J. Coffee of Pittsburg, Pa., said he was convinced that more than ever before, Socialism is being embraced as a creed by Jewish working men who are dissatisfied with exciting conditions.

The committee suggested that open conferences be held to study the relation of laboring people to the synagogue so that the problem could be met and dealt with by the congregations.

The establishment of an industrial commission, recommended by President Taft was indorsed by the conference.

ANCILLARY BILL IN CHALMERS CASE

W. J. Chalmers May Resist Receivership Petition in Chicago.

Chicago, April 16.—An ancillary bill for receivership against the Allis-Chalmers company was filed in the United States district court today and may be opposed by William J. Chalmers, one of the largest stockholders of the corporation. The original receivership proceedings were begun in Milwaukee several weeks ago, when Otto H. Falk and D. W. Call were named as receivers.

Counsel for Mr. Chalmers declare that the petition for ancillary receivers in Illinois was filed without due notice being given his client. The Allis-Chalmers company has some of its largest possessions in Chicago, including its general sales offices and two manufacturing plants, the Fraser & Chalmers plant and the Gates Iron works.

DEFECTIVE PAGE

communication with Sable Island tonight, with Nantucket on Thursday, and she will reach New York some time Thursday night.

London, Paris and New York are overwhelmed by the news of the disaster. Tearful crowds of relatives and frineds of passengers on board the Titanic thronged the steamship offices in all three cities, waiting hour after hour for news that more often than not when it does come, means bereavement and sorrow.

People in Paris and London went to bed last night in the belief that all the passengers on board the Titanic had been saved; this morning brought them the appalling truth.

WOMEN AND CHILDREN SAVED.

Of the survivors on board the Carpathia, by far the larger number are women and children.

Many men of great prominence on two continents are among the missing. No word has been received of Col. John Jacob Astor; his wife, however, has been saved.

Alfred G. Vanderbilt was not on board the Titanic, as first reported; he is in London.

Isidor Straus, the New York millionaire merchant and philanthropist, who was on board, has not been reported among the survivors.

Maj. Archibald W. Butt, personal aide to President Taft, also is unaccounted for, and it is believed he went down with the ill-fated vessel.

Shortly after 2 o'clock the sinking Titanic made her great dive into the sea, carrying hundreds of persons to death.

ONLY FLOATING LIFEBOATS.

Daylight came, and with it arrived the Cunarder Carpathia, which found only the score of lifeboats filled with crew and passengers floating helplessly about the vicinity where the Titanic had passed under the waves.

Capt. Smith, commander of the Titanic, probably went to his grave with his ill-fated vessel without once being able to communicate direct with the agents of his line.

Aside from the call for help sent by his wireless operator, not one word from him was received up to the time the Titanic sunk. The presumption is that he met his death at his post as a gallant skipper should.

That he and his crew enforced rigidly the unwritten law of the sea—women and children first—is plainly indicated by the preponderance of women among the partial list of survivors that the wireless has given.

Although rated as one of the most able commanders since the advent of the modern steamship, Capt. Smith's career had been recently marred with ill luck. He was in command of the Titanic's sister ship Olympic when that vessel was in collision with the British cruiser Hawke.

STARTED WITH ACCIDENT.

Exonerated of all blame for this occurrence, he was placed in charge of the Titanic only to graze disaster when his new charge fouled the steamship New York in the Solent, after leaving Southampton on her maiden voyage, which has ended so disastrously. He had been in the line's employ for more than thirty years, and his first important command was the Majestic.

Although 868 souls are reported to be on the Carpathia, it is apparent that all of them are not passengers, for it was necessary for members of the crew to man the lifeboats which set out from the sinking liner. How many of the crew were assigned to each boat is a matter of conjecture.

A similarly unsettled matter is the percentage of first-class passengers, among those saved. While the names of survivors obtained are largely those of saloon passengers, the rule "women first" should apply equally to the second cabin and steerage, a regulation which may have cost the life of many prominent men above decks. It is natural also that the names of the more obscure survivors would be slower in reaching land.

False news and false hopes and an international belief that the Titanic was practically unsinkable followed the slowly unfolding accounts of her loss in a way without precedent. Eager crowds in a dozen cities in the United States besieged bulletin boards when it became known that the giant liner had really sunk.

SPEED NOT YET KNOWN.

The speed at which the vessel was traveling when she struck the iceberg will perhaps not be known until the first of her survivors reach port.

Whatever her rate of progress, however, shipbuilders here and abroad must admit that while the modern steamship may defy wind and weather, ice and fog, remain an ever present element of danger. No ship, they point out, no matter how staunchly built, nor how many water-tight bulkheads protect her, may plunge headlong against a wall of ice without grave results.

The general opinion is that the Titanic's equipment was put to an extraordinary test which no vessel could have withstood.

"Under ordinary circumstances these water-tight compartments will preserve a ship from sinking," said A. L. Hopkins, vice president of the Newport News Shipbuilding & Drydock company in New York, "but smashing into an iceberg could produce shattering effects that would render a ship helpless beyond the protection of any design yet known. In fore and aft collisions, where the compartments are punctured, the lowering of either end of the ship produces an increased strain on the other compartments."

Granting that only the forward bulkhead of the Titanic had been crumpled by the impact with the iceberg, Mr. Hopkins was inclined to think that the relative buoyancy of the remaining compartments would have been sufficient to save the vessel. Inasmuch as he was not familiar with the relative division of the Titanic's compartments he could not estimate how many compartments must have given away under the impact of the collision.

RELIEVES VESSEL GROUNDED.

Robert Stocker, naval constructor of the Brooklyn Navy Yards, said:

"In the case of the Titanic, I am inclined to think that her sinking was due to the effect of grounding rather than to the impact of collision. Frequently a ship strikes what is known as a 'pinacle rock,' ripping open her keel. The iceberk against which the Titanic smashed her bow may have had some such submerged projection which did additional damage to her keel. If the forward bulkheads of the vessel had held after the impact which smashed the bow it certainly seems that the relative buoyancy of the remaining compartments would have been sufficient to keep the ship afloat. I am compelled to believe that a great many of her compartments must have been punctured or sprung."

Lewis Nixon, the eminent naval architect, is inclined to think the Titanic was either traveling at full speed or perhaps crashed into a berg so tremendous that there was practically no give.

"If the Titanic hit one of those great masses," said Mr. Nixon, "it is likely that she struck one that had no more give than a rock. Under these circumstances something had to give way, and as the iceberg did not, a great ship had to crumple up. It is conceivable that an impact of this sort might have buckled her longitudinal plates from end to end, shearing off and starting rivets and opening up the water-tight compartments throughout the length of the vessel."

LIST OF DULUTHIANS ON THE ILL-FATED TITANIC INCREASED

W. B. Silvey's name in the list of those saved. The list of those rescued does not mention Mr. Silvey or the other Duluthians known to have been aboard the boat.

Miss Constance Williard, who lived in Duluth until about six months ago, was on the Titanic, and her name does not appear among the list of survivors as yet. Miss Williard resided with her mother at Thirteenth avenue east and Eighth street, where they had a bungalow. Six months ago Miss Williard went abroad with her aunt, Mrs. MacKay of Minneapolis, and Mrs. Williard went to Riverside, Cal. Carl Williard, a brother of Miss Constance, is also in California, and his father, David Williard, is in Minneapolis. Miss Williard was formerly a soloist at Trinity procathedral.

John Hedberg, 48 years old, unmarried, who lives at 513 North Fifty-seventh avenue west, is known to have been on the boat. He had been on a visit to Sweden. He is a brother to Leonard Herberg of the same address, the brothers living together.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Chaffee of Amenia, N. D., cousins of R. N. Chaffee of Duluth, were also on the boat. Mr. Chaffee is at the head of the John Miller Grain company. Reports from St. Paul this morning were to the effect that Mrs. Chaffee was saved, and it was believed Mr. Chaffee was also among the rescued.

There may have been others who reside here, on the boat.

MR. SILVEY'S PARENTS AND DAUGHTER GRIEF STRICKEN.

Washington, April 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mr. and Mrs. William Beard Silvey of Duluth, son and daughter-in-law of Mrs. W. B. Silvey of this city, were passengers on board the Titanic when she sailed from Southampton last Wednesday. From Halifax this morning was flashed in the list of names of the persons rescued among them being Mrs. William B. Sibley. This information was given to Mrs. Silvey and her daughter, Mrs. Frances S. Despler this morning. Hopes for the safety of Mrs. Silvey were entertained. They immediately telegraphed the White Star line headquarters in New York for a repetition of the name which was flashed by wireless and they believe that they will find the name "Sibley" should be "Silvey."

Mr. Silvey was born in Washington, but for the last twenty years has been living in the West. He is a real estate operator.

"He was due in New York today," said his mother this morning. "And on his way back to Duluth was to have come by Washington to spend a day or so with me. They went over on board the Olympic, sister ship of the Titanic. The Olympic met with some trouble and my daughter, Mrs. Despler, feared all along that something would happen to the Titanic on their return."

Both Mrs. Silvey and Mrs. Despler are almost frantic with grief and worry over the safety of Mr. Silvey and wife. Mr. and Mrs. Silvey were to have been met in New York by their 18-year-old daughter, Miss Melville Silvey, who is attending a college at Farmington, Conn.

Mrs. Silvey is a sister of Mrs. Dwight E. Woodbridge and a daughter of R. S. Munger of Duluth. They were greatly relieved to hear of their daughter's safety, but are naturally suffering from anxiety over Mr. Silvey's fate. Telegrams were sent today to the office of the company, but no word was received up to 10 o'clock.

tralian trade; the Germanic, Majestic, Baltic and then the Adriatic.

In all this time he served the line quietly, and his name was seldom heard. His rise in rank and importance was commensurate with the safe, uneventfulness of his command.

"Never Saw a Wreck."

When, in 1907, he came to this port in command of the Adriatic on its maiden trip, he said:

"When any one asks me how I can best describe my experiences of nearly forty years at sea, I merely say, uneventful. Of course, there have been winter gales and storms and fog and the like, but in all my experience I have never been in an accident of any sort worth speaking about. I have seen but one vessel in distress in all my years at sea—a brig, the crew of which was taken off in a small boat in charge of my third officer. I never saw a wreck and have never been wrecked, nor was I ever in any predicament that threatened to end in disaster of any sort.

Loved the Ocean.

"The love of the ocean that took me to sea as a boy has never left me. In a way, a certain amount of wonder never leaves me, and especially as I observe from the bridge a vessel plunging up and down in the trough of the seas, fighting her way through and over great waves. A man never outgrows that.'

Capt. Smith maintained that shipbuilding was such a perfect art nowadays that disaster involving the passengers on a great modern liner was impossible. Whatever happened, he contended, there would be time before the vessel sank to save the lives of every person on board.

"I will go a bit further," he said. "I will say that I cannot imagine any condition which could cause a ship to founder. I cannot conceive of any vital disaster happening to this vessel. Modern shipbuilding has gone beyond that."

His First Misfortune.

The first misfortune came into Capt. Smith's life only recently. That was when the great Olympic, sister ship of the Titanic, was rammed by the British cruiser Hawke off the Isle of Wight on Sept. 20, 1911.

At the very start of his last trip, when he left England with the magnificent new floating palace, the Titanic, he narrowly escaped disaster when his vessel came within a hairsbreadth of colliding with an American vessel that was entering the harbor.

GUGGENHEIM AND STRAUS MISSING

Henry B. Harris Also Not Reported Among the Rescued.

New York, April 16.—Isador Straus and Benjamin Guggenheim are among the passengers on the Titantic regarding whom no report has been received as yet, and members of these two wealthy families have been besieging the newspaper offices here for hours in the hope of getting some reassuring word.

Henry B. Harris, the theatrical manager, also is among those not reported, though his wife's name is included in the list of those aboard the Carpathia.

DALZELL LOSES TO CLYDE KELLY

Congressman's Defeat in Primaries Shown in Official Count.

Pittsburg, Pa., April 16.—John Dalzell, congressman from the Thirtieth Pennsylvania district, has been defeated for the congressional nomination by M. Clyde Kelly, a Progressive in the last legislature. The result was definitely known only when the official count was being made. With but two small country districts missing Dalzell received 9,418; Kelly, 9,902.

The vote from the missing districts is not sufficient to overcome Kelly's lead.

REFUGEES WILL LAND THURSDAY

Customs Rules Will Be Waived for Titanic Survivors.

Washington, April 16.—The Carpathia, carrying the only survivors from the Titanic will arrive at New York Thursday afternoon, according to a wireless dispatch received by Collector Loeb. Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Curtis has directed that the customs regulations be waived and that the landing of everybody be facilitated.

NO HOPE FOR ANY ADRIFT IN BOATS

Storm Is Reported Heading Across the Atlantic Ocean.

Montreal, April 16.—The weather signal station on the Gulf of St. Lawrence reported today that heavy fogs lay off Nova Scotia and that a violent thunderstorm broke in that neighborhood last night and is traveling eastward. It was said that such conditions left little hope for the rescue of any survivors of the Titanic that might still be adrift in rafts or boats.

FAMILIES OF CREW BESIEGE OFFICES

Titanic's Disaster Is Worst Blow Ever Felt at Southampton.

Southampton, Eng., April 16.—Distressing scenes have been witnessed throughout the morning at the White Star office here, thronged by relatives of the crew of the Titanic. The town is stunned by the news of the disaster the greatest blow that Southampton has ever sustained. Every member of the crew has his home here and a large portion of them were natives of the town.

ROOSEVELT IS ON WAY TO THE WEST

Has No Reply to Charge of "Disrupting the Party.

Chicago, April 16.—Col. Roosevelt arrived in Chicago at 8:55 o'clock this morning and prepared to leave an hour later for a tour of Nebraska and Kansas. A special train over the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad has been chartered for the Western trip.

Dispatches criticizing Col. Roosevelt and charging him with attempting "to disrupt the party" were shown him.

Col Roosevelt smiled a big smile and said:

"I am feeling fine. I have nothing to say. Anything I have to say of political matters will be said in my speeches."

FOUR CHICAGOANS ON THE STEAMER TITANIC.

Chicago, April 16.—Four Chicagoans and two former residents of Chicago are said to have been on the Titanic. Those whose residences are here are Clarence Moore and wife and man servant, and Erwin Lewey. Mrs. Moore formerly was Miss Mabel Swift, daughter of E. C. Swift, the packer.

GEORGE D. WIDENER AND SON ARE MISSING.

New York, April 16.—Mrs. George D. Widener, prominent society woman, of Philadelphia, is among those safe aboard the Carpathia following the Titanic disaster, according to wireless messages. Her husband and son, Harry Elkins Widener, are not accounted for.

NEWS OF THE WEST END

TAKES RAP AT EVERYBODY

"Mother" Jones Flays Corporations and Religious Workers in Address.

Says Roosevelt Is a Sort of "Hot-Air-Monkey Chaser."

"Mother" Jones flayed corporations, certain religious workers, Boy Scouts and society women alike in an address before a large number of union labor men at the Lincoln park auditorium last evening.

"Mother" Jones, who terms herself the friend of the union man and who is appearing in every large city in the country under the auspices of labor unions, is a forceful speaker. She is also a student of modern conditions in factories, mills and mines. For selling out the interests of the miners in the Pennsylvania strike, "Mother" Jones called Former President Roosevelt a "hot-air monkey chaser." She flayed the government for sending troops to a strike, saying in part:

"There cannot be a more brutal government on earth than the one which exists under that flag," pointing to a United States flag flying in the hall. "Under it men are shipped in box cars and told never to come back. They are compelled to walk forty miles without a drink of water. Industries are in the hands of a few and the rest are worse than slaves.

"The avarice of the master class reaches out into the schools and playgrounds and takes the children to grind out profits for them. Then they turn around and give $20,000 banquets for poodle dogs.

"I have seen children of 7 years working fourteen hours a day grinding out the profits for these monsters. The babies are being slaughtered for profits. The Boy Scout movement is another field which the master class has provided to prepare the young to murder their fellow man under the cloak of Christianity.

"If this nation spent half the money or energy it now expends in chasing men into prison to uplift humanity, there would not be anywhere near the number of criminals. This country is manufacturing criminals by the hundreds every day. If a man cannot live without being robbed, he will rob to live."

"Mother Jones" also referred to the present Men and Religion Forward movement campaign throughout the country. She said that the entire move is a scheme of the moneyed rich to divert the attention of the laboring men from the bad conditions surrounding him. She also took a rap at the ministers in the various churches for following up the work of these leaders.

"Where is a more brutal act recorded than that in Pennsylvania, where under the guise of law and order eleven women were put into prison and with them three babes, none of whom were over 3 months of age?" she asked. "When a nation and its people will allow babies to be put into filthy jails, there is something wrong with the nation and its people. These women had tried to prevent 'scabs' from taking the places of their husbands. You will notice that I said women. The difference between women and ladies is that the blood-sucking creatures who belong to the upper class are ladies. God made women.

"The trouble with half of you union men is that you are union men in the pocket and corporation men in the skull. You carry your cards for the financial benefits they bring you. You have no fight in you, except when you are fighting each other."

"Mother Jones" is a gray-haired woman, 80 years of age, who lost her husband and sons in mine strikes in the East. She has become a national figure, and although well along in years, appears to be still active and energetic.

Her present tour across the country is to secure funds for the striking railroad men. She speaks in the various cities under the auspices of the Machinists' union.

Smoker and Social.

The S. H. & E. F. society will hold a smoker and social for its members at the Sloan hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street, tomorrow evening. An initiation of ten new members will be held the early part of the evening, following which refreshments will be served. A short program of addresses will be given during the evening.

CLUB WILL BE REORGANIZED

West End Men Want to See More Effective Public Work.

A New Commercial Organization Will Labor for That District.

Following the special meeting last week to meet two of the Soo Line officials, the West End Commercial club members have realized the value of a strong organization in this end of the city and the club will be entirely reorganized at a special meeting of the members Friday evening. The members will meet at Sloan's hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street at 7:30 o'clock.

The meeting last week of about twenty members of the club to meet the Soo officials with regard to the building of a freight depot in the West End, made the former realize the necessity of a large organization with a number of active members to continually push questions at hand. The handful of merchants who have always taken an active interest in the club have been too few ever to carry anything out effectively.

"From now on we shall be one of the strongest neighborhood organizations in the city," said one of the business men yesterday, speaking of the meeting Friday evening. "The trouble in the past has been because of the lack of proper spirit. The West End has been at a standstill because the business men have not worked together. Our plan now is to bring a closer feeling of fellowship among the merchants and to get them to work together on the most vital questions before the people and of vital importance to this end of the city.

"Without the banding together of the business men, it is almost impossible to secure any improvements for the West End. We have seen this in the past, but have never practically realized it until this year. The building of the postoffice branch fell through because the business men did not work together and one man can never do the work for all. The same condition is true in the present freight depot agitation and unless the business men get together and form a strong organization of active members, the latter project will also fall through.

A special canvass will be made during the week and every business man on Superior street urged to attend the reorganization meeting of the club on Friday evening. S. W. Hill, president of the club, will preside at the meeting and he has sent a special appeal to the business men for the backing of a commercial organization in this end of the city.

Mr. Hill has been an incessant worker for the interests of the West End and believes that a great deal can be accomplished in regard to civic improvements and additions, when a strong commercial club is in operation. He cited the West Duluth club yesterday afternoon in speaking of the value of a business and professional man's organization to a community.

A new set of officers will be elected and a number of committees appointed to begin a general membership campaign throughout the entire West End.

DULUTH MAN IS RE-ELECTED

About fifty candidates from Duluth and the ranges returned yesterday afternoon from the biennial convention of the Independent Order of Good Templars, held at Crosby, Minn., Saturday and Sunday. The convention was most successful and the reports of the various officers and committees showed that the local district is in a most flourishing condition.

During the past year the local district has grown from fourteen to thirty lodges and now has a membership of 1,600. The finances of the district order are all in good condition and the various features introduced during the past year have all proven successful.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: Peter Larson, Two Harbors, chief templar, re-elected; Charles G. Carlson, Chisholm, vice chief templar; Conrad Wicklund, Duluth, secretary, re-elected; Peter Nelson, Duluth, treasurer; and L. A. Simsonson, past vice chief templar, re-elected. August Brodine of Akeley was appointed district chancellor. Mrs. L. A. Simonson will have direct charge of the young people's work of the order in the local district.

Cloquet will be the next meeting place of the order. This meeting will take place in the latter part of August. The convention opened Saturday evening with a banquet in honor of the delegates and their wives. The business session was held Sunday afternoon and evening. Among those who attended from Duluth were: L. A. Simonson, past district chief templar; Conrad Wicklund, district secretary; P. A. Nelson, district treasurer. The delegates from the various lodges of the city are: Lysglimt lodge, Mrs. L. A. Simonson, Carl Peterson, Hans Kalland, Gunder Okstad, Miss Emma Hanson; North Star lodge, Gust Hjerpe, Gust Landin, Charles Erickson; Morning Star lodge of West Duluth, P. J. Borgstrom and Gust Bodin.

The following counties are represented in the local district: St. Louis, Lake, Wadena, Carlton, Crow Wing and Kanabec. One of the features of the plans for the year is the campaign to be waged for the enforcement of saloon laws.

CONRAD WICKLUND.

WOMEN'S AUXILIARY WILL HOLD MEETING.

The meeting tomorrow afternoon is the last of the series for this month. Following are the meetings announced for the month of May:

May 29—Mothers' meeting; leader, Mrs. E. E. Churchill.

The officers of the auxiliary, who are in charge of the organizations of the church and the various meetings hold each month, are as follows: Mrs. George Jewell, president; Mrs. Fred Hanson, chairman of the ladies' aid society; Mrs. J. D. McPhail, chairman of the Mission circle; Mrs. E. E. Churchill, chairman of the mothers' meetings; Mrs. Emma Hutchinson, recording secretary; Mrs. W. A. Berridge, corresponding secretary, and Mesdames Angus Campbell and A. Mentzer, treasurers.

CONTRACTORS SUED FOR $3,000

John A. Ostrom of 2224 West Sixth street, a copper and tinsmith, has instituted a suit in the district court for $3,000 damages. Ostrom claims that he was seriously injured on Nov. 23, last, when he was precipitated into an excavation for the present Modern Woodmen building on the corner of Twenty-first avenue west and First street. Duluth camp, No. 2341, M. W. A., and Jacobson Bros., contractors, are made defendants in the suit.

Ostrom filed the papers with the clerk of district court yesterday afternoon through his attorneys, Spencer & Marshall. In his complaint Ostrom claims that Jacobson Bros. were the contractors for the excavation of the building and the structure itself. He said that the contractors so obstructed the sidewalk about the excavation that it was dangerous for pedestrians. He also claims that he was walking along the sidewalk about 6 o'clock in the evening of Nov. 23 and that he fell in the hole, injuring himself seriously. He claims that his left collar bone was broken and that he dislocated his left shoulder. He also says that he was injured internally, disabling him for several months.

Ostrom claims that there were no danger lights about the excavation and that a pedestrian was not aware of the danger of the sidewalk. He gives his age as 35 years and his daily earning capacity from $5 to $8.

SODALITY TEAM WILL BE ORGANIZED.

The baseball nine of the Young Men's Sodality of St. Clement's Catholic church, Twenty-first avenue west and Third street, will be chosen some time this week. The members of the sodality who are interested in baseball have already organized for the season, and prospective candidates for the nine will be out to practice the latter part of this week.

The club is a member of the Duluth-Superior league and plays a prominent part in the amateur baseball circles during each season. W. A. Padden was elected baseball manager and Ben Owens will have entire charge of the coaching of the team. About thirty members of the sodality are expected to answer the first call for practice.

Club Will Give Dance.

The Nitche Social club of the West end will give a private dancing party Friday evening at the Columbia hall, Twentieth avenue west and Superior street. Blewett's orchestra will furnish the music for the evening. The following committees of the club are to be in charge of the affair: Arrangements, James Lamb, Luke Flood, George Ceass, Walter Emerson, John Garvey, M. McMahon; floor committee, Edward Gallagher, Charles Kremer, Al Baldue, Frank Bordeleau, Ben Owens, James Wawe and E. Robinson.

The Nitche club is an organization of West end young men for social purposes only. The members of the club have entertained at a number of private dancing and social affairs during the past few years of the existence of the organization. Following are the officers of the club for the present year: W. A. Padden, president; J. J. Miller, vice president; L. P. Frohan, treasurer; J. Rowland, secretary, and J. C. Schlitz, sergeant-at-arms.

EASTON IS ON HER WAY

Booth Line Steamer Breaks Through Ice Outside the Canal.

Carries Food, Supplies and Reading Matter for North Shore Settlers.

The Booth Line steamer Easton broke through the ice at the entrance to the ship canal this morning and slowly made her way through a broken field of ice, being at a point just opposite Lakeside at noon today.

The Easton had little difficulty in getting through the ice, which the stiff northeast wind of the past few days broke up to a great extent.

It is thought that if the boat gets through the fifteen miles of ice at this end of the lake that she will have but little further trouble. The lake from a point fifteen miles from the canal is said to be clear of ice.

The captain had orders to make every north shore point that he could. It is probable that many points will be made that have not been made on the first trip other years as the field of ice has broken away from the shore.

The first trip of the season is always looked forward to with keen anticipation by the settlers on the shore who have been cu off from the rest of the world during the winter season.

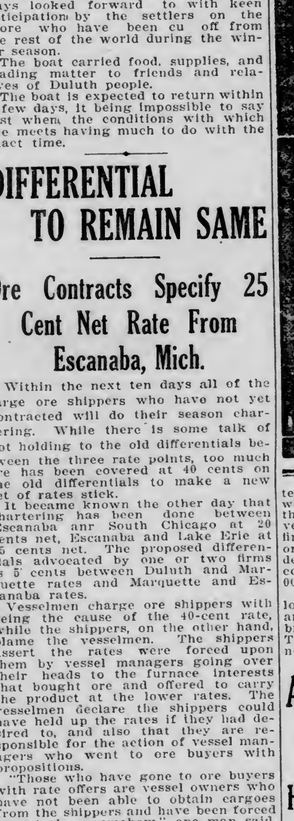
The boat carried food, supplies, and reading matter to friends and relatives of Duluth people.

The boat is expected to return within a few days, it being impossible to say just when the conditions with which she meets having much to do with the exact time.

DIFFERENTIAL TO REMAIN SAME

Ore Contracts Specify 25 Cent Net Rate From Escanaba, Mich.

Within the next ten days all of the large ore shippers who have not yet contracted will do their season chartering. While there is some talk of not holding to the old differentials between the three rate points, too much ore has been covered at 40 cents on the old differentials to make a new set of rates stick.



It became known the other day that chartering has been done between Escanaba anr South Chicago at 20 cents net, Escanaba and Lake Erie at 25 cents net. The proposed differentials advocated by one or two firms is 5 cents between Duluth and Marquette rates and Marquette and Escanaba rates.

Vesselmen charge ore shippers with being the cause of the 40-cent rate, while the shippers, on the other hand, blame the vesselmen. The shippers assert the rates were forced upon them by vessel managers going over their heads to the furnace interests that bought ore and offered to carry the product at the lower rates. The vesselmen declare the shippers could have held up the rates if they had desired to, and also that they are responsible for the action of vessel managers who went to ore buyers with propositions.

"Those who have gone to ore buyers with rate offers are vessel owners who have not been able to obtain cargoes from the shippers and have been forced to get them somehow," one man said. "Often they have got themselves disliked by the shippers, and for that reason have been ignored when the contracting was being done. If the shippers had forgotten their dislikes the vessel managers would have had no cause to go over their heads."

Large shipping interests that have not done their season contracting intend to come into the market next week. Several million tons of ore will then be allotted to the independent vessels. M. A. Hanna & Co. have finished up chartering 1,000,000 tons of ore they will give out now. Independent managers so far this season have covered in the neighborhood of 3,000,000 tons.

One wild cargo has been placed to load the last of the month at Escanaba and to go down as soon as the ice breaks up in the straits of Mackinac. The ship which will load this cargo is now on Lake Michigan.

APPEARANCE OF ACTIVITY

Harbor Is Open and Boats Are Being Shifted Each Day.

Now that the local harbor is open the docks and elevators have taken on their annual spring appearance of activity.

Boats are being moved either to load grain or unload coal and many of the crews are now going aboard to fit out the boats for the season's work.

Work began on the Pittsburg boats some time ago, but other lines and some of the independent boats have just begun spring operations.

The steamer Bope was towed to the Great Northern elevator this morning and the steamer Gratwick was towed to the same place by tugs of the Union Towing company this afternoon. Both boats will take on Canadian grain for export.

Coal is now being unloaded from several boats which have wintered here. The first coal cargo is expected from the lower lakes about May 15. The coal now being unloaded is expected to relieve the situation until the first of the spring supply is received.

It seems to the tug owners that every boat in the local harbor wants to be moved at once. The tugs, four in number, are kept busy from early morning until late at night each day, shifting boats.

HALF HOLIDAYS ARE FAVORED

Retail Merchants Will Close Stores on Wednesday Afternoons During Summer.

Wednesday half-holidays for the months of July and August and the closing of clothing stores at 10 o'clock instead of 11 on Saturday nights are recommended in resolutions which were passed at the annual meet of the Retail Merchants' association last evening at the St. Louis hotel.

A committee was appointed to agitate the Wednesday half-holiday observance among the merchants who are not affiliated with the association. The Woman's council will be asked to co-operate.

All officers and directors of the association were re-elected as follows: John J. Moe, president; Frank Williamson, vice president; Arthur Squire, secretary; Bentley F. Neff, I. Freimuth, George A. Gray, W. M. Hart and William Eillstein, directors.

During the evening, President John J. Moe gave his annual report of the year just closed, which showed that the association had been doing excellent work. The membership is now about fifty and is growing.

A dinner preceded the business session.

WERE BOOKED ON THE TITANIC

Big Party of Duluthians Planned to Sail on May 11.

The sinking of the steamer Titanic will force about sixty Duluthians to change their plans for a trip abroad.

A party is now being organized in Duluth to visit Sweden this coming summer and attend the Olympic games. There are more than sixty in the party already, and it is expected that the number will reach 100 before the date of sailing arrives. The members of this party planned to sail on the Titanic on May 11. They will probably sail on the Baltic, May 9.

INTERCHURCH COUNCIL FORMED

Will Endeavor to Conserve Results of Resent Religious Campaign

Local workers in the Men and Religion Forward Movement, numbering about 150, and representing all the Protestant churches in the city, met at the Y. M. C. A. last evening and formed what is to be known as the Interchurch council, which will have general direction of the work that is done through the city to make the results of the movement permanent. The meeting took place immediately after a banquet.

Officers were elected as follows: President, W. L. Smithies; first vice president, Judge Page Morris; second vice president, Dr. J. J. Eklund; secretary, Edward Ranke; treasurer, W. J. Hicken. These officers will name the chairman of nine committees through which the evangelistic work of the council will be carried on.

The new organization voted unanimously to start a movement to obtain a weekly half-holiday for the working people throughout the city. It was decided to select none other day than Saturday for the employes of the retail stores, as it was thought that if Saturday were chosen, there would be strenuous opposition on the part of the storekeepers.

A resolution declaring in favor of the proposed penal farm and against a new county jail was passed and a copy will be sent to the board of county commissioners.

The meeting also warmly indorsed the initiative, referendum and recall.

Expresses German Sympathy.

Berlin, April 13.—The speaker of the reichstag, Johannes Kaempf, at the reopening of the sessions today after the Easter vacation, made a speech expressing the sympathy and grief of the German empire over the loss of the Titanic with a large number of lives.

The Doctor's Advice

by Dr. Lewis Baker

The questions answered below are general in character, the symptoms or diseases are given and the answers will apply to any case of similar nature.

Those wishing further advice, free, may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Bldg., College-Ellwood Sts., Dayton, O., enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope for reply. Full name and address must be given, but only initials or fictitious name will be used in my answers. The prescriptions can be filled at any well-stocked drug store. Any druggist can order of wholesaler.

"Anxious M."—Give your children for bed-wetting 10 to 15 drops in water before meals, the following: Tincture cubebs, 1 dram; tincture rhus aromatic, 2 drams; comp. fluid balmwort 1 oz. Mix well. This should be given about one hour before meals in water.

Mrs. P. G.: The whitish discharge you mention is due to a disease called leucorrhea and which is very weakening. If neglected it frequently leads to more serious ills and I would advise you to obtain one ounce of tannic acid and two ounces of antiseptic vilane powder. Mix and use a teaspoonful to a quart of warm water and use as an injection with syringe. To increase your weight and as a tonic, take three grain hypo-nuclane tablets.

"X. Y. Z." writes: "My hair is harsh and dead looking and my scalp is covered with dandruff. Can you help me?"

Answer: Get a 4 oz. jar of plain yellow minyol and use it regularly and your hair will become soft and fluffy and it will bring back the intense natural color to the hair; your dandruff will be cured and you will be rewarded with a healthy growth of hair.

"Mrs. G." writes: "I want something to increase my weight about 15 or 20 pounds. My blood is thin, watery and I have a pale complexion. Doctors say I am aenemic."

Answer: Probably your assimilative functions are impaired and aenema is the result. I would advise that you begin taking three grain hypo-nuclane tablets at once and continue until your blood is re-vitalized with red and white corpuscles. These tablets aid digestion and cause the body to assimilate the fatty elements in food, thus giving color, weight and strength to the abnormally thin.

"Tom K." writes: "I have been unable to work for some weeks on account of rheumatism. What would you advise?"

Answer: Take the following and I am sure you will soon be back at your work again. Mix the following at home and take a teaspoonful at meal times and at bedtime: Iodide of potassium, 2 drams; sodium salicylate, 4 drams; wine of colchicum, ½ ounce; comp. essence cardiol, 1 oz.; fluid balmwort, 1 oz.; and syrup sarsaparilla, 5 ozs.

"Clara" writes: "I have had a cough for about a year and fear I shall never be rid of it, as it gets worse with every fresh cold I contract. Could you give me a remedy?"

Answer: I can give you a remedy that I am sure will cure you and one that is absolutely harmless and pleasant to take. Make a syrup with one pint of granulated sugar and one-half pint of boiling water, put on the fire and let it come to a boil, then cool and add the contents of a 2½ oz. bottle of essence mentho-laxene, which you can purchase at any drug store, and you will have a pint of the finest cough syrup on the market today. It is about eight times cheaper than ordinary labeled cough medicines and will last much longer.

"Mary" says: "I would like something for indigestion. I cannot eat and am cross and irritable all the time. I fear it will cause appendicitis."

Answer: Ask your druggist for tablets triopeptine and take according to the directions. These are pink, white and blue tablets, and are to be taken morning, noon and night respectively. This will cure your indigestion and prevent appendicitis.

"Nervous Dorothy" writes: "I have no appetite whatever. I cannot sleep at nights and my nerves are in a terrible condition. Can you tell what would help me?"

Answer: The following has helped thousands who suffer as you do. Get 5 ozs. syrup of hypophosphites comp. and 1 oz. of tincture cadomene (not cardamom) and take a teaspoonful before meals. This tonic will restore your nervous system and you will be strong and well within a very short time."

"Carl" writes: "Can you prescribe anything for one that is too fat. I have tried several remedies but they do not help."

Answer: I would not advise the use of the ordinary tablets and pills for reducing weight, but here is a safe, quick and sure remedy. Get 5 ozs. of aromatic elixir and 1 oz. of glycol arbolene. Mix by shaking well and take a teaspoonful after meals for the first three days and then double the dose. A reduction of a pound a day is not unusual after the first week or two.

"Q. R." writes: "Please advise something to take that will cure chronic constipation. I have suffered for years and have used many kinds of pills, but they do not cure."

Answer: I think most of the illness is caused by chronic constipation. If the following tablets are taken regularly they will gradually effect a cure as they stimulate the liver and bowels into healthy action. They are packed in sealed tubes and are called three grain sulpherb tablets (not sulphur tablets) with full directions for taking. They will also purify the blood and tone up the entire system. If you are dyspeptic, take tablets triopeptine. These two medicines you will find in any up-to-date drug store.

"GHOSTS" EXPLAINED.

Shown to Be Nothing But Freaks of Electricity.

Elwood, Ind., April 16.—Elwood's "haunted" house problem has been solved after five years, and the "ghost" proved to be electricity.

A ten-room house that was formerly owned by Frederick Hatman, and which was built for a boarding house in the boom days of the city, has been unoccupied for years owing to the strange and uncanny happenings at night.

Apparent hammering of the water and gas pipes aroused the sleepers at night. Gas jets would light themselves at intervals, one room in particular being flooded by light as soon as the door was opened. A rigid investigation failed to reveal the "spooks," but the house could not keep a tenant long, owing to the freak things going on within.

The property passed into new hands the other day, and in repairing it the workmen found that poor electric wiring was the cause of all the trouble. The wires came in contact with the gas pipes, the gas tips acted as spark plugs, lighting the gas at intervals. The hammering sounds were caused by the electric current contracting the pipes.

After removing the old gas fixtures and rewiring the building the freak happenings and noises disappeared.

WOMAN OF THE UNDER WORLD IS MURDERED.

Winnipeg, Man., April 16.—A woman of the under world, named Magnon Ducharme, aged 24, formerly of Montreal, was mysteriously murdered in her room here yesterday. She was found tied to a bedpost dead. Her money and jewels were missing.

News and Views of Minnesota Politics

Clapp For President.

Senator Moses E. Clapp is a dark horse candidate for the Republican nomination for president.

The name of the senator from Minnesota is broached in a circular letter being sent out by the Tariff Commission league, an organization committed to the commission plan of tariff making and having the slogan "Take the tariff out of politics."

The circular letter sent out by the league says:

"Are you prepared to face another panic, such as we had after the election of Cleveland in 1892, when over $60,000,000 worth of orders were cancelled in one week?

"About a month ago we sent out letters of inquiry to every congressional district in the country; and from the nature of the replies received, it is absolutely certain that neither Taft or Roosevelt can be elected, should either of them be nominated. The bitterness that has been created in the minds of the supporters of either candidate, will either bring about the nomination of a third ticket; or the 'knifing' at the polls of the nominee; either condition meaning sure defeat of the Republican ticket, and the putting the entire machinery of the government into the hands of the party more thoroughly united on the slaughter of our protective tariff than ever before.

It is therefore the duty of every voter to use all the influence he can to secure the nomination of a 'dark horse' in place of either Taft or Roosevelt. Don't think that because you are not an active member of some powerful organization that you can do nothing. The great reforms of the world have always been the work of one person; not of an organization, or even of a committee.

In looking for a proper person to present as a candidate for the nomination, no one stands out more prominently, or is better qualified for the honor than Moses E. Clapp, the senator from Minnesota. He is a 'progressive' in its broadest sense, without being encumbered with any of the radical ideas that would prove more dangerous to the welfare of our country than free trade. He is a firm believer in a tariff commission that means something and that would in reality take the question out of politics, as will be seen by the letter from him, a copy of which is herewith enclosed.

This is not the first mention of Senator Clapp for rpresident. The Minnesota man has been prominently in the public eye for some months and has figured in talk of compromise candidates. If it should happen that President Taft is unable to get the nomination on the first ballot, Justice Hughes certainly will be and Senator Clapp may be the most prominent dark-horse candidates considered at Chicago.

Thrift.

The length to which the Taft people are going in their fight to give the president the nomination again is evidenced by the fact that a political speech by Representative Julius Kahn of California is being sent out under Mr. Kahn's frank to the agricultural states of the Middle West. Local people have received copies with a St. Paul postmark. Mr. Kahn in his speech endavors to show that Col. Roosevelt was just as heartily in favor of the reciprocity treaty as was President Taft. The Taft unpopularity in Minnesota and North Dakota is due principally to the reciprocity act and Mr. Kahn's speech is intended to offset the president's action by showing Mr. Roosevelt to have the same attitude. The use of postal campaign literature saves postage expenses.

Caswell a Good Politician.

Irving A. Caswell, clerk of the supreme court and member for Minnesota of the Roosevelt national committee, is a unique character. He is one of the shrewdest, if not the shrewdest politician in Minnesota. The campaign he is conducting for the colonel in this state is attracting wide attention and is one of the best political campaigns ever seen in this state.

"The County Chairman," who writes St. Paul correspondence for a string of country papers, writes about Caswell in his current "string."

From what has been printed and what I have given here, it would appear that Frank Eddy and his claimed indiscreet remarks have been the disturbing fly in the ointment. In a measure he is, but if the truth must be told it is not so much poor Frank as I. A. Caswell of Anoka, clerk of the supreme court, who is at the head of the Roosevelt movement in Minnesota. Mr. Eddy probably would never have commented on the governor's position in the matter of the proposed primary and its consideration by the the state central committee had he known that he was going to be quoted, but with Caswell it is different. In the case of "Cas" it is malice aforethought all the time, and every move is calculated to embarrass the administration. In the opinion of yours truly the reported rent in the administration silver lining is traceable to Caswell more than any one else, for he has never overlooked a bet to annoy and harass. His gaff is always on duty when a vulnerable point in the administration is exposed and he seems to delight in twisting it around and making his victim squirm. He has bombarded the official family with letters and when the answers were not satisfactory he repeated the dose. "Put your cards on the table" has been his cry and at times the subjects of his darts have been driven to frenzy. If ever there is a chance to get the Anoka man and the administration can find it he will not last a minute, but at the present time he is pretty much on top. He will not come up for renomination this time, but he can look for trouble when it does arrive. The other side has sworn it.

Caswell is a unique character, for up to the present time he was never much in the public eye except as fate provided him with a clerkship in the office of the clerk of the supreme court and later offered him an opportunity to take on his chief's shoes, which he did following that official's resignation. Prior to that he ran a newspaper at Anoka, dabbled some in local politics and later broke into the affairs of the Eighth district. If there was a row you could find Caswell in the thick of it. There were probably progressives in those days, but any difference of opinion was known as a faction, and there was always a faction when Caswell was on duty. He trotted with Jim Martin of Collins-Dunn fame for a period and was next heard of in connection with the Jacobson campaign. Then came his connection with clerk of the supreme court and clerk itself Governor Eberhart will tell you that he never put an obstacle of any kkind in Caswell's way and he is undoubtedly correct, but the Anoka man says it is not what the governor did, but what his backers attempted. They undoubtedly did try to hamper him and he has been on the warpath since. Caswell could not make a speech if he wanted to, but he can make trouble and he seems to be able to secure lots of help. There has been some talk of trying to induce the supreme court to reprimand Mr. Caswell for devoting too much time to politics, but the report does not seem to worry him.

Day May Return.

Rumor says that Frank A. Day, who recently sold out the Missoula Sentinel, will return to Minnesota and resume the publication of the Fairmont Sentinel. Democratic politics in Minnesota do not languish when Mr. Day is in the state and many would welcome his return to active newspaper work and politics in Minnesota.

GEORGE D. M'CARTHY.

MONTHLY BULLETIN OF HEALTH DEPARTMENT DISCONTINUED

It's dead. It must be dead, for its death has been officially announced.

"What's dead?" The monthly bulletin of the health department, the little four-page pamphlet of the bureau which has charge of the physical well-being of the city.

It was a good little "rag" while it lasted. It was gotten out more or less regularly every thirty days, or thereabouts. Its four, and sometimes eight, 5x10-inch pages were crammed from top to bottom with statistics and figures and percentages and health hints and occasional "digs" at the powers that be. It told all about the value of fresh air, how to avoid pneumonia, how to dodge the typhoid germ and various and sundry other germs and a lot of things like that.

The bulletin was mailed to the physicians of the city and to other leading citizens who might take an interest in health matters. One lovely feature was that it was as free as the air of which it preached; that is, it was free for everybody except the taxpayers. For it was paid for out of the city funds, which, everybody knows, are supplied by the taxpayers. But they paid just about as much in taxes, anyway, and pro rata, the cost was so infinitesimal that nobody noticed it. Those who didn't think of this feature considered that it was free because no subscription bills accompanied the bulletin and no bothersome collector came around to get cash in exchange for the stacks of condensed information which it disseminated.

But under the new administration it will be no more. The new regime has stated that the bulletin will be discontinued. One reason given is that it costs money to get it out—money which can be better applied to other purposes. It is stated that it cost all of $20 or $30 per month to get it out. Besides that, the bulletin made quite a bit of work. It came in the nature of extra labor, as no additional help was hired to prepare the "dope."

With the discontinuance of the bulletin the neat little printing press which was purchased for stamping the addresses will have to be abandoned. By using the machine the wrappers could be stamped in a little while, saving the necessity of writing several hundred addresses with pen and ink, thus greatly expediting the mailing of them.

GARY CLASHES WITH MR. CABOT

Report on Conditions in Steel Mills. Is Basis of Controversy.

New York, April 16.—A controversy between Chairman E. H. Gary of the United States Steel corporation and Chairman Cabot of Boston at the annual stockholders' meeting of the corporation over a resolution providing for a three-shift system of labor at the mills instead of the present 12-hour shifts, and for a new investigation of labor conditions, ended with the withdrawal of the resolution by Mr. Cabot.

The resolution was introduced after Judge Gary had read a report of the committee of stockholders that had investigated labor conditions at the mills and had given the corporation a clean bill of health.

The report stated that over 54 per cent of the stockholders, to whom a circular by Cabot describing labor conditions at the mills had been sent, had given their approval of the management, and that only 13 per cent, chiefly women and children, had expressed disapproval.

Stuyvesant Fish, a member of the investigating committee, declared that conditions were not as represented in Mr. Cabot's circular, and Judge Gary said he did not think Cabot, "with only twenty-five shares of stock," had any right to represent other stockholders in the matter.

After taking exceptions to the report, Cabot withdrew his resolution.

The stockholders re-elected all the directors of the corporation who would retire this year.

CAPITALISTS VISIT INTERNATIONAL FALLS.

International Falls, Minn., April 16.—J. Bowhill of Edinburgh, Scotland, and A. S. Peabody of Chicago have been in the city as agents of President Backus of the Power company. These men represent the interests which have financed Mr. Backus' enterprises and their trip of inspection probably means the floating of bonds to establish additional enterprises.

BLOOD COOLS IN ILLINOIS

Two Meetings Are Finally Held and Each Names Delegates.

Chicago, April 16.—Conflict of court orders and the battering of sledges and axes on barred doors preceded the county Democratic convention.

For more than three hours 250 National Guardsmen unarmed and under the command of a captain of the Seventh regiment, Illinois National Guard held possession of the Seventh Regiment armory in Thirty-fourth street while the rival forces, termed the Hearst-Harrison faction, and the followers of Roger C. Sullivan, national Democratic committeeman, disputed the right to enter the armory. The Sullivan men insisted that the county judge had no right to order an election commissioner to open the convention, and the Hearst-Harrison men declared that his order alone would insure fairness.

Battalions of police, reinforced by more than 100 deputy sheriffs acting under the orders of County Judge John E. Owens, held control of the street outside the armory. Coroner Hoffman with twenty-five deputies was busy through the morning serving police officials and the sheriff's men with an injunction issued in the county superior court, restraining them from interfering. The injunction was waved aside and the coroner himself was summoned before County Judge Owens to answer a charge of contempt of court for conflicting with the orders of Judge Owens.

Police Broke in Doors.

Repeated demands were made by Election Commissioner Czarnecki, Republican delegated by Judge Owens to open the convention, that the door be unbarred. The militia defiantly refused and Judge Owens in person went to the armory and demanded admittance. He too was refused. Then the police were ordered by Judge Owens to break in the doors.

All morning rumors of bloodshed which would follow an active attack on the state armory had been circulated and as the police with axes and sledges struck the iron-bound door, the crowd surged back.

No shots came from the guardsmen. The outer door fell and then an inner door, barricaded with trunks and furniture, gave way. County Judge Owens and Commissioner Czarnecki entered. Capt. Octigan, who commanded the guardsmen, was arrested.

Sullivan Men Absent.

The Hearst-Harrison precinct committeemen who had been standing in line wearing badges inscribed "Harmony" entered the building. Commissioner Czarnecki called the roll and the machinery of the convention was turned over to the delegates. Not a man of the Sullivan force was present. Instead they and the Democrats known as Dunn men, remained outside and after along delay left the vicinity of the armory and held a convention at another hall.

As a result the state convention at Peoria Friday will be called on to decide between the two sets of delegates.

The work of organizing the convention at the armory proceeded slowly. On each roll call in the temporary organization each delegate was obliged to submit his credentials. The Sullivan men declared the delay was with deliberate intention to occupy the entire day so that the Sullivan men could not meet in the armory after the Hearst-Harrison convention.

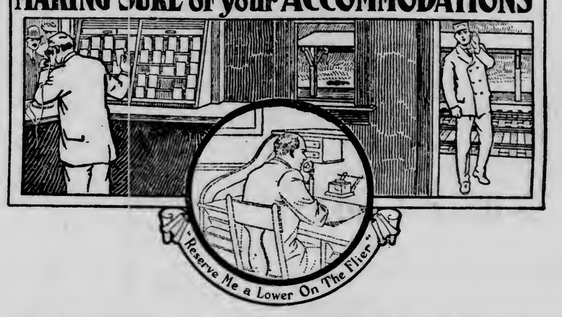
Capt. Octigan declared his men held the armory in the interests of the state and that he refused to permit the police to enter through fear that state property would be damaged.

At one time during the siege he declared from a second story window "nobody can enter this building except on authority of John McGillen, the lessee." McGillen is chairman of the Cook county Democratic central committee and leader of the Sullivan forces.

Some Work for Courts.

As an aftermath of the disturbance, the courts probably will wrestle with a series of contempt cases.

All the police officials, the sheriff, Election Commissioner Czarnecki and County Judge Owens are under charges of contempt of Superior Judge McKinley's injunction. Coroner Hoffman faces a charge of contempt of court before Judge Owens.



Capt. Octigan was taken to the county court and was quickly haled before Judge Cooper of another court on habeas corpus proceedings and released. The captain promptly filed suit for damages for "false arrest and imprisonment."

The convention in the armory elected Robert Redfield temporary chairman and claimed 840 delegates.

The Sullivan-Dunne convention in a Thirty-first street hall elected John McGillen temporary chairman and claimed 803 delegates. The full convention consists of 1,494 delegates.

BEING TRIED AT CARLTON

Former Depot Agent Krook of Cloquet on Trial in District Court.

Alleged to Have Embezzled Funds of Two Railroads and Express Company.

Carlton, Minn., April 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Edward G. Krook of Cloquet, former agent there for the Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroad companies and the Northern Express company who is alleged to have embezzled a large sum from the roads and the express company is being tried in district court here. The case began yesterday afternoon and was resumed this morning.

Krook was bound over last December on complaint of officers of the Northern Pacific Railway company for alleged embezzlement of funds entrusted to his charge while he was agent for the company at Cloquet.

Three Indictments Returned.

The grand jury in April returned three indictments against him. One of these was on complaint of the Northern Pacific Railway company and one for the Great Northern Railway company, and the other indictment is on complaint of the Northern Express company. In the indictment for the Northern Pacific Railway company it alleges that "on July 20, 1911, at Cloquet Krook, having in his possession, custody and control as agent the sum of $715.15, said money being the property of the said company, did willfully, wrongfully, unlawfully feloniously and fraudulently appropriate said property to his own use."

The indictment for the Great Northern Railway company is worded substantially the same and the amount is $664.63, while that of the Northern Express company names the sum of $861.97, or a total shortage of $2,241.77 on all three counts.

The jury was empaneled in the afternoon and the chief witness for the prosecution, Auditor White of the Northern Pacific company was on the stand at the close.

Duluth Lawyer Helping State.

County Attorney J. E. Diesen of Cloquet, assisted by J. A. Sinclair of Washburn, Bailey & Mitchell, Duluth, prosecuting the case, while Attorneys Walter L. Case and F. C. Fersinger of Cloquet have the defense.

MONTANA SLAYER IS QUICKLY TAKEN

Forsyth, Mont., April 16.—As a result of the quick action of Northern Pacific railway officials, Henry Hoesner, charged with killing Mrs. William Merrill at Joppa late yesterday afternoon, was lodged in the Rosebud county jail last night.

He was captured by a posse sent out on a special train, by order of Supt. Lantry of the Northern Pacific, not far from where the murder took place. When approached by the posse Hoesner showed fight, threatening his captors with a six-shooter, but was quickly overpowered. He was taken to Rosebud and brought from there by special train. On reaching Rosebud a mob gathered and threats of lynching were made, but the prisoner was hustled into a freight car and brought here.

But little is known of Hoesner at Joppa. It is said that two days ago he appeared at the Merrill home and asked for work, which was given him.

Joppa siding is on the Northern Pacific, five miles from Rosebud.

Victim's Son Reports Crime.

The killing of Mrs. Merrill became known yesterday afternoon when an 11-year-old boy came running up to Joppa siding to the cab of an engine standing there and wildly informed Engineer Regan that a man had just murdered his mother, Mrs. William Merrill, and the boy's investigation was made and the boy's story found to be true. The engineer telephoned the superintendent. He then uncoupled his engine and ran it to Rosebud, where the citizens were informed, and a posse set out in quest of the murderer.

ERUPTION CAUSED TERRIBLE SUFFERING

Baby's Body Covered with Large Sores. Seemed to Itch and Burn. Finger Nails Fell Off. Little or No Sleep. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. In 6 Weeks Cured.

Dodson, Mont. — "When my baby boy was six months old, his body was completely covered with large sores that seemed to itch and burn, and cause terrible suffering. The eruption began in pimples which would open and run, making large sores. His hair came out and finger nails fell off, and the sores were over the entire body, causing little or no sleep for baby or myself. Great scabs would come off when I removed his shirt. We tried a great many remedies, but nothing would help him, till a friend induced me to try the Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I used the Cuticura Soap and Ointment but a short time before I could see that he was improving, and in six weeks' time he was entirely cured. He had suffered about six weeks before we tried the Cuticura Soap and Ointment although we had tried several other things, and doctors too. I think the Cuticura Remedies will do all that is claimed for them, and a great deal more." (Signed) Mrs. Noble Tubman, January 28, 1911.

For red, rough, chapped and bleeding hands, itching, burning palms, and painful finger-ends, a one-night Cuticura treatment works wonders. Soak hands, on retiring, in hot water and Cuticura Soap. Dry, anoint with Cuticura Ointment, and wear old, loose gloves during the night. Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere. Sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. book. Address, "Cuticura," Dept. T, Boston. Tender-faced men should use Cuticura Soap Shaving Stick.

BELIEVE GIRL WAS LURED FROM HOME

Minot, N. D., April 16.—After having followed every clew which might lead to the finding of Ruth Malstrom, 17 years old, who mysteriously disappeared Saturday night, the authorities have announced they will proceed with the search on the theory that the girl has been lured to a resort in one of the larger cities.

The announcement was made by Alex Scarlett, president of the Minot Humane society, who has been taking part in the investigation of an alleged white slave "syndicate" with headquarters in Minneapolis.

WOMEN MUST TELL PARTY PREFERENCE

Otherwise They Cannot Vote in North Dakota School Office Primaries.

Bismarck, N. D., April 16.—(Special to The Herald.) — Holding that the primary election is a purely partisan affair, and that women, if they wish to participate in the nomination of candidates for superintendent of public instruction in the state, and county superintendents, must declare their party preference and become members of one or the other parties, Attorney General Andrew Miller has ruled that assessors of the state must register the women voters.

Court Ruling Not Applicable.

The attorney general declares that the ruling of the supreme court in a case tried a year ago, to the effect that women did not have to be registered for the regular election, does not cover the primary election, the latter being a party affair, pure and simple.

As a result the assessors must ask every woman in the state what her party preference is, and the women, if they wish to vote, must swear that they are either Republican or Democratic. Women are not franchised in North Dakota except for school elections, but the enrollment law, as interpreted by the attorney general, of necessity forces them into one or the other of the parties.

Joseph Meyers, who was unable to swim, drowned, while his companions gained the shore.

Bismarck, N. D., April 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Because she has not heard from her son, James Kennedy, since last January, and because he has failed to prove up on a homestead near Richardson, N. D., Mrs. Mary Kennedy of El Dorado, Ill., has made inquiry of Coroner E. G. Fields of this city. She fears that her son has met with foul play, and wants the official to make inquiry through this section.

WELL CAVES IN.

Reeder, N. D., April 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Warning her little girl back from the well to which she had gone for a pail of water, Mrs. Henry Sielar was drowned when the ground caved in. The children, a girl aged 2 years, and a boy 7 months, were but a few feet away when the accident happened.

Mr. Sielar was absent from the claim and when he returned several hours later he found the children crying and the mother dead in the well. The well had not been curbed up and was nearly filled with water. Mrs. Sielar was 22 years old and they had been married about three years.

NIMRODS DISAPPOINTED.

Cool Weather and High Water Spoil Wisconsin Trout Fishing.

Couderay, Wis., April 16.—(Special to The Herald.) — Several fishing parties who left here early Monday morning for nearby trout streams returned in the afternoon and reported no luck on account of high water in streams and weather too cold and raw for trout fishing. Judging from the present outlook trout fishing will not be good until May.

IGNORES WIFE'S APPEAL.

Even When She Sends Stamp to Write Her From Prison.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 16.—Learning that her husband had been arrested in Wilwaukee after she had not seen him for six years, Mrs. Michael J. Patton of Philadelphia sent Judge Backus a 2-cent postage stamp with a request that he give it to her husband. Even after the woman had sent the stamp in expectation that her husband would relent and send some words of kindness and remembrance to her, the woman's mute appeal was not to be gratified. After receiving a sentence of one year and three months in the house of correction for forgery, Patton declared that he did not desire to inform his wife of that fact and would not write.

RIFLE NOT FIREARM.

Milwaukeean, Who Fired at Too Liberal Free Lunch Patron, Freed.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 16.—"A victory for justice," exclaimed George Schultes, saloonkeeper, erstwhile president of the John F. Dietz, of Cameron Dam fame, defense fund.

"An outrage," exclaimed Charles Korn, 26 years old, a tailor, as he rubbed the seat of his trousers.

When Schultes was arraigned in district court yesterday for shooting Korn with an air rifle during a quarrel over the quantity of free lunch Korn had consumed in Schultes' saloon. The judge promptly disposed of the case by deciding that an air rifle was not a firearm and that Schultes was not guilty.

"I was luckier than Dietz," said Schultes in court, as he balanced the air rifle across his arm.

"I fought my own case and so did Dietz, and both cases were for a principles. No man should be allowed to gobble up all the free lunch without buying at least one glass of beer. That's my platform and I will fight to the last for it."

LINCOLN COUNTY TORN UP.

Former Representative Lauritsen Figures in Several Suits.

Tyler, Minn., April 16.—Lawsuits filed by Rev. D. T. Jenkins of Minneapolis and Dr. A. J. Cox of Tyler against Former Representative Marcus Lauritsen, one of the best known bankers in Southwestern Minnesota, are only one development in a political and business feud which had its beginning in Lincoln county years ago.

So bitter had been this feud that Lincoln county is divided into two factions, which are at swordspoints, and the rivalry has extended to the conduct of banks, newspapers and churches in this section of Minnesota. The governor of the state, the attorney general, county attorneys and judges have been involved more or less in the different incidents of the quarrel.

Mr. Jenkins and Dr. Cox assert in their suits for $10,000 and $20,000, respectively, that Mr. Lauritsen conspired with a detective agency to ruin their reputations. Another suit is pending against Mr. Lauritsen, in which H. Sykes, formerly editor of the Tyler Journal, asks $10,000 damages on the assertin that Mr. Lauritsen conspired to ruin his business.

Mill City Drummer Swallows One, Fatal Abscess Forming.

Three months ago while Mr. Dolan was on the road, he accidentally swallowed a toothpick. He thought nothing of it, but Monday, April 8, he was taken ill. Mr. Dolan ascribed his illness to oysters he had eaten, but a physician found that blood poisoning had set in from an abscess in the stomach.

An examination showed that the abscess had been caused by the toothpick swallowed months before. He is survived by his wife.

BURIED TREASURE IS FOUND IN VILLAGE RUINS.

Racine, Wis., April 16.—Digging among the ruins of a fire that devastated the village of Waterford fifteen years ago, Alfred Noll, a resident unearthed a gold ring. Subsequent digging brought to light two additional rings and a gold watch. Spurred on by his find, Noll came across a $20 gold piece. The pieces continued to be turned up until he had procured a total of $620.

The money, it is said, belonged to Noll's grandfather at the time of the fire and was believed to have been destroyed. The grandparent has since died.

EXPLOSION UNDER GROUND.

Large Amount of Dynamite Goes Off, Blinding Two Miners.

Negaunee, Mich., April 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Charles Vincent and Joseph Antonio, two miners employed in the Prince of Wales mine, may lose their eyesight as the result of the explosion of a large amount of dynamite in a car in the mine Saturday afternoon. They are being treated at a local hospital.

About 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon a powder man went to the top of a raise with a small quantity of powder to break up a chunk of ore. He placed his charge, then cried "fire," letting the men near him know where the explosion would be. Vincent and Antonino, who were loading the car below the raise, retreated to a safe distance.

Suddenly a little dirt fell to the car out of the chute and an explosion followed, which drove dirt and smoke into the eyes of the two men, who happened to be in range.

How the accident occurred is a mystery, but it is supposed that some loose small dirt dropped from the top of the raise and pushed the charge out of place, so that it fell into the chute. The jar of the fall, together with the friction set the dynamite off.

HYGIENIC MARRIAGES ARE FAVORED BY JUDGE.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 16.—A stand in favor of hygienic marriages was taken by Judge Backus in municipal court yesterday when the case of Knute Jensen of West Allis, charged with abandoning a wife and five children, came up.

County Physician A. J. Young informed the court that Jensen had but one lung and was incapacitated for heavy manual labor. Jensen, after pleading guilty, was placed on parole.

"This demonstrates to me that a physician's certificate of good health ought to have been obtained before the marriage license was granted," said Judge Backus. "The wisdom of a hygienic marriage is well exemplified in this case. If a physician's certificate was required, there would be many happier people today and fewer actions in court."

THE SEA'S CROWNING HORROR.

The greatest vessel that ever sailed the seas has spread over the world the horror of the greatest ocean disaster in the history of navigation.

The Titanic was equipped with marvelously delicate instruments that warn of approaching icebergs; yet it struck an iceberg.

It was built with collision bulkheads and other devices so that it was practically impossible to sink it, yet it sank, and twelve to fifteen hundred human beings died with it.

Why the Titanic struck an iceberg; why this practically unsinkable boat went to the bottom; why it was not possible, in the four hours that the vessel lived, to get passengers and crew off in the small boats: these are questions that can be answered only when the full story of this terrible disaster is told.

At this writing it is understood that some hundreds, nearly all women and children, were rescued; and it is a fine thing to know that in the dark hours when death brooded over the placid bosom of the ocean, the men in cabin, forecastle and engine room stood back while the women and children were saved.

What colossal folly, what stupid blunder, what error in marine architecture, what criminal carelessness did this thing—that, like the questions above, can be answered only when the completed story of this crowning horror of the sea is related.

That hundreds of lives were lost, some of them seekers for pleasure, health and interest, others hopeful immigrants seeking a new life on a hospitable shore, many of them of world-wide renown, is the tremendous fact that all but stuns comprehension and shoulders into the background the ugly inquiries that must be made.

All this talk of dark horses in the Republican ranks merely emphasizes the lack of team work.

THE WEDNESDAY HALF HOLIDAY.

The Retail Merchants' association has gone on record in favor of a half-holiday in all retail stores on Wednesday afternoons during the summer season.

This is an innovation that will be a vast relief to the employes, no inconvenience to the public, and no loss to the employers because a right use of these half-holidays will make every beneficiary of them capable of more work during the year than he is without them.

The success of the movement depends upon the number of retailers, not members of the association, that can be induced to join it.

Here is a chance for the public, working through organizations in sympathy with such movements, to do its share in making this a success. If each such organization will adopt resolutions favoring the plan, and will appoint committees to co-operate with the Retail Merchants' association in getting practically all the merchans of the community to join in it, there will be no question about the Wednesday half-holiday.

But it must be admitted that those "won, lost and per cent" columns do look sort of natural.

GETTING MAD.

Congressman McKinley, President Taft's manager, is letting his temper show. He shouldn't. It's a bad sign, and belies his pretenses of confidence and security. A man who is confident that he is winning his fight doesn't get angry, no matter what the opposition says or does.

Mr. McKinley swears that Col. Roosevelt is engaged in a "deliberate, reckless and mendacious" campaign to wreck the Republican party, and he trusts the people won't let him carry out his fell design.

Probably Mr. Roosevelt isn't either deliberately, recklessly or mendaciously trying anything of the kind. If he were he couldn't begin to accomplish so much toward that end as the bosses and prebendiaries of special privilege, from Mark Hanna to Penrose, Smoot and Tawney, have already done.

One year of Ballinger did more toward wrecking the party than all Roosevelt's utmost vehemence could do in a decade. Three years of Taft bring as their fruits a widespreading popular suspicion of the Republican party and its organization, and a revolt against its leadership. If the Republican party is wrecked it will not be those who oppose Taft that will do it. It will be those who opposed Taft four years ago, and who support him now.

It is unkind of the D. A. R. to have their convention just when everybody is so busy watching the politcal fights.

THE COURTS AND THE LAW.

Judge Hornblower, a leading conservative in the legal profession, in a recent address decrying the increase of statute law and defending judge-made law, endeavored to make clear the tremendous difficulty there is in interpreting statute law.

Said he: "Experience shows that when rules of law are reduced to statutory form the work of interpretation and construction begins. Each word in the statute assumes importance and calls for enforcement. A 'but' or an 'and' becomes as important as the subject or the predicate of the sentence, and sometimes even more important. * * * No matter how clear and simple the language may appear at first sight, doubts will arise, ambiguities will be disclosed, inconsistencies between different sections will present themselves, and a series of never-ending decisions will be inaugurated, construing and interpreting the statute, until each section becomes overlaid with a body of judge-made commentaries forming a new set of precedents and new jurisprudence. * * * The idea that codification is a remedy for uncertainty in the law and that when the law has been written in statutory form, the layman will be able to read and understand it, is a delusion and a snare."

And such preposterous talk as this is very illuminating as to the misconduct of lawyers and the courts which have brought the latter into disrepute and encouraged radical and perhaps destructive plans of court reform.

The law is the will of the people, expressed through the legislature. The function of the courts is to interpret that will in accordance with its plain spirit, not to entangle it in a mesh of judge-made precedents, the chief effects of which are to make fees for lawyers and protect vested interests which exist to the menace of humanity and free government.

The coil of legal hocus-pocus which Judge Hornblower has in mind is the very thing that needs cleaning out in order that the courts may be made servants of the people, not their masters or the allies of needy lawyers and greedy selfish interests.

Can you tell, offhand, how many years ago next Thursday the San Francisco earthquake occurred? Doesn't seem possible it was so long ago as that. And yet some people who prophesied then are pointing to Roosevelt's candidacy and saying "I told you so."

NEW YORK AND MINNESOTA.

The friends of the seven-senators proposition, which aims to limit the voting power of a man who lives in a city and to leave unlimited the voting power of the man who lives in the country, are fond of pointing to New York as a precedent for what they propose in Minnesota.

Now even admitting that the New York precedent can be justified by any theory consistent with free democratic government by and for all the people—which The Herald shall refuse to do—what is proposed in Minnesota is injustice even by comparison with what New York has done.

New York has provided that Greater New York shall never have more than half the membership of the senate. That is all. It was not until the last census that New York's population became half the state's population, but now it is a little more: the state's total is 9,113,279, and New York city's is 4,766,833.

But—and here is the difference between the Minnesota proposal and the New York plan—there is no limitation whatever upon the many other large cities in New York. Buffalo has 423,715 people, and there are seven other cities that are either in the hundred-thousand class now or likely to be by the next Federal census. The combined population of New York, Buffalo, Rochester, Albany, Syracuse, Schenectady, Troy, Utica and Yonkers is 5,950,111, or sixty per cent of the total population of the state.

New York has curbed the metropolis, which can never have more than half the membership of the senate; but if the theory which men are seeking to make the policy of Minnesota is correct, New York has left itself at the mercy of the cities by failing to curb these eight other communities.

If the theory of the authors of the seven-senators bill is sound, New York has made a fatal mistake in failing to preserve the supremacy of the rural districts by limiting the voting power of the people living in all the cities of New York.

But New York seems not to be alarmed about the menace of a control of its legislature by the sixty per cent of its population which lives in large cities.

Let us see what Minnesota is asked to become alarmed about—so alarmed that it will put its foot on the principle of government by and for all the people and adopt a policy that gives humanity in the cities less power in government than humanity in the country.

Minnesota has a population of 2,075,708 people, of whom 301,408 are in Minneapolis, 214,744 are in St. Paul and 78,446 are in Duluth—a total of 594,598 people living in cities of the first class. This amounts to a little more than twenty-eight per cent of the total population.

This formidable percentage of twenty-eight is the thing which is so alarming the authors of the seven-senators bill, who presume to speak for the seventy-two per cent; though New York, after limiting one city to half the senate membership, seems not alarmed at all about a city population sixty per cent of the total.

The proposal of the seven-senators bill is not only monstrously unjust, but ridiculously absurd.

McKinley insists Taft will be the nominee. Remember how you used to whistle all the way down that dark street when you were a kid and on the way home at night?

A ROSE BY ANY OTHER NAME.

This is a day of scientific classification, or polysyllabic epithet, or something. Just what it is is not quite clear, but certainly some strange names have been devised for many habits of mind and body that are so common that most people haven't thought it worth while to give them names.

However, according to President Taft the movement toward popular rule in this country is being led by "political neurotics."

Dr. Leonard Williams has diagnosed the moving spirit of the woman suffrage movement as "insurgent hysteria," which must surely be kin to the disease which, Taft thinks, afflicts La Follette, Roosevelt and most of the people.

Another famous London physician, Sir Ralph Bloomfield Bonington, says that the opponents of "political neurotics" are suffering from aggravated cases of "standpat neophobia."

Getting out of the realm of politics, a paper read at British congress on neurology dealt in formidable polysyllables that will be new to a majority of people.

According to this paper the lad who caresses the first soft shoots on his upper lip is a victim of a dreadful disease called "moustachiostrepsomania."

Retired military men and other jaunty old gentlemen who have a habit of twirling their canes are afflicted with "otodactylomania."

People who bite their nails are "onychophagomaniacs."

Nervous folk who drum their fingers on window panes or tables or chair arms are "harmoniomaniacs."

Other nervous folk who keep moving their legs from one position to another are "trepodomaniacs."

Pretty nearly everybody, evidently, has some sort of personal habit which is classified as a mania, and if the diseases were as formidable as the names, the world would be in a very distressing condition. But fortunately they are not.

THE FLAG, W. G. BRANTLEY, AND CANADA

By SAVOYARD.

Here is a press dispatch from San Diego laden with tidings revolting to every man with a spark of true patriotism, or a particle of genuine respect for the American flag:

"Nearly 100 Industrial Workers of the World, all of whom admitted that they were anarchists, knelt on the ground and kissed the folds of an American flag at early dawn today, near San Onofre, a small settlement a short distance this side of the Orange county boundary line.

"The ceremony, which was most unwillingly performed, was witnessed by forty-five deputy constables and a large body of armed citizens of San Diego. The men who were thus forced to show respect to the national emblem composed the party that left Santa Ana on a freight train the night before, and whose coming was awaited by the deputies and armed citizens who had gone out in automobiles to meet them and drive them back."

After that miserable performance, the "Workers" were marched out of the community while the band played "The Star-Spangled Banner."

I never before heard of "The Industrial Workers of the World." They may be all that is vile, base, iniquitous, and fit for nothing but the gallows. I know nothing about them, and am willing to concede that, in league with the devil, they are the enemies of mankind; but whatever they are, they cannot be more contemptible than those constables who forced them kneeling to kiss the flag. The act was a desecration of the flag. It degraded our glorious ensign and made it a fellow of Gessler's cap to which William Tell refused to bow, a dauntless act that enshrined the Swiss patriot and gave him room in Valhalla, there to mingle and commune with the elect of all climes and tongues and ages.

And then those miserable constables, not satisfied with degrading the flag, must needs profane the national anthem by forcing it to perform the office of "The Rogue's March." They were "constables," and therefore officers of the law; but their acts were those of a mob, and if it were possible to effect it, their conduct would have made anarchy respectable. That is not the way to combat anarchy. Let the law be serene, dignified, stately, august; but these made it violent, turbulent, fierce, an instrument of petty, low revenge.

Let us all honor the flag, and to do that we must ennoble it, not degrade it.

I would hold it a duty as I know it would be a pleasure to take my hat off to the flag if the occasion was opportune; but to do it under compulsion would be a desecration of it and a degradation to myself. But I want to take my hat off to a certain congressman from Georgia—Judge William Gordon Brantley of that ilk. Here is a man with the intellectual capacity, the moral fiber, the strong individuality a representative of a free people ought to have. He is the successor in the national councils of the late Henry G. Turner. Fortunate constituency to have for proxy in the American congress for a third of a century, less one year, two such men!

For purity of personal character I have long held Henry G. Turner as the first public man I ever met, and Judge Brantley was fit successor of even him. In 1896 Mr. Turner, after eight terms of brilliant service in congress, found himself out of accord with his party and declined a renomination, though he could have had it, and a re-election also, and now Judge Brantley, also serving his eighth term, finds himself in the same deplorable situation that confronted Mr. Turner, and he, too, has announced his retirement. Let us hope his constituents will say him nay and enforce their edict. I that write this am radically opposed to Mr. Brantley's view of the tariff, but men of his superb moral fiber are too few in congress to spare one of them if it be possible to retain him.

De Quincey says: "Rarer than the phoenix is the virtuous man who would consent to lose a prosperous anecdote because it was a lie." And that is so. And it is a mighty rare congressman who would voluntarily forfeit his seat in congress because he could not adjust his political conscience to the political exigencies of the the situation.

William Gordon Brantley is a man among a thousand. He refuses to sail under false colors though he would thus be continued in place. His retirement from congress will recall the absence of Cato's statue in the Roman forum. It is a mighty great big pity that congress—both houses of congress—is not full of men of the character of Judge Brantley.

Champ Clark has been making another speech about Canada, and it was just as foolish an oration as that by which he defeated the reciprocity convention with that country. It seems that many of our citizens are moving across the line and voluntarily becoming subjects of the British crown. That circumstance does great injury to the patriotism of Mr. Speaker, who ought to read Bolingbroke's famous and eloquent chapter on "Exile." Why do our farmers sell their high-priced land in the states and locate in the dominion, where they acquire just as good lands at very low prices? They do it for the same reason that Champ Clark left Kentucky and located in Missouri—to better themselves.

And besides that, it is to our national advantage that many of our citizens locate in Canada and become a part of that electorate, just as it has been to the advantage of the dominion that among our citizenship are many thousands of Canadians—some of them in our two houses of congress.

No, it is all a piece of cheap cant—this thing of bewailing the voluntary expatriation of an American citizen. We allow our people every right but one—morally we would refuse him the privilege to pick a home under any other flag. To get to the marrow of the thing it is nothing but demagoguery in politics and peanuttery in patriotism.

When we send a few additional thousands of farmers to Canada we will get the much-desired reciprocity that Champ Clark killed with his too ready and too indiscreet eloquence.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

BOWERY MERCHANTS AND THE WOODSMEN.

To the Editor of The Herald:

Much has been said about and against the Bowery and the Bowery merchants. Most of it has been said against them. Those who condemn the Bowery merchant, however, can be put into two classes, neither of which is competent to judge impartially; through sheer ignorance of American laws and customs and a deep-rooted foreign habit of underbidding and having things in general his own way on the part of one; the other through an anxiety to do what he considers his duty—"to see that the complainant gets his rights," those rights considered by both of them to be what their own imagination tells them they should be.

As a fellow who knows the Bowery remarked: "I'll bet I can go into any Bowery store, buy three handkerchiefs for 25 cents, tender $1 and receive 75 cents in change, then go out and tell the police that I gave the merchants a $5 bill, and I can make the merchant give me $4 more." He can get it, too. But is that justice?

Now come with me and spend a few days on the Bowery. See the lumberjack come to town. See the different processes, 75 per cent of them go through before they reach the merchant. The sack must first be deposited in the saloon where the check is usually cashed. Have you ever been able to go into a cigar store to use the telephone without feeling that you ought to buy a cigar especially if you wanted the cigar? Same with the "jack" who enters the saloon. One drink then another after being imprisoned in the woods for a few months. He is bound to meet old friends upon returning to civilization and when friends meet it's a good excuse for a drink, and by the time Mr. Lumberjack emerges from the saloon he has lost control over his proper senses—he is out for fun and that some times means trouble. Next scene is set among the tables or racks in the Bowery clothing store where Mr. Lumberjack is the main attraction. He wants a suit. No, that is not the kind he wants—so much the merchant infers because his customer hasn't approved of the try-on and has already reached out for his old coat meaning departure without buying. If, after trying on a few coats he finally admits by nodding his head that he would like this one, he'll reach again for his coat on being told the price. If the merchant makes no attempt to hold him he'll walk out without as much as "boo." If the merchant succeeds in holding him and if the price has been settled (too often lower than the same material can be bought elsewhere for) a pair of suspenders or a shirt must be thrown in, or a pair of sox if the article purchased was a pair of shoes, etc. If the customer is sober he is too often a foreigner born to one of a dozen countries' customs and he is usually accompanied by two or three others who must all be convinced that the article in question is right in price, etc. Have you ever sold anything? Then you know what it is to try to convince two men or more on the same thing at the same time. Of course if it took a half-hour or more to bring the man or coterie of men up to a price sufficient to allow the merchant a profit on his wares "Mr. Jack" may suddenly get an idea that because he has bought a suit, shoes and a hat the amount of the whole ought to be reduced a dollar or two more. He usually sticks to that. The fact that his previous offer was different makes no difference to him—he'll pay so much or leave the goods and usually he is half the way out before the merchant can realize it. How would you feel if you were the merchant? Can you imagine?

Why does the merchant ask more in the first place? Because of the prevalent customs of underbidding that he is already acquainted with. He must do it. Does he give them reliable merchandise? As much so as some of our larger stores. The merchant on the Bowery is condemned, looked down upon but not always justly. For the woodsman who keeps sober who'll act like the white man that his skin says he is, there is no danger in the Bowery—surely he is safer in the hands of the merchant there than in those of his "friends" who profess friendship and bum on him the while. To get him drunk at all hazards is the prevalent rule, and the "Jack" usually pays for it in hard earned dollars.

Remember this, dear reader—you are not competent to judge any case fairly until you hear both sides and unless you have cast away all prejudices that you may have to one or the other sides. Don't attempt it unless your mind is impartial. Very truly,

A. READER.

"FAR OFF HILLS."

To the Editor of The Herald:

In your issue of April 11, you have an article headed "Former Duluthian finds the distant hills are not always as green as they seem to be," which we will admit, in a great many cases, but, not all. The remarks made of Mr. Cochran and his contented return to Duluth were not correctly given in your issue. In the first place I had no interview with Mr. Cochran or any member of his family while in Florida. As to Mr. Cochran's prosperity I know nothing, but was given to understand that he was doing well and from what I saw of others in and around there do believe he is, as the soil is fine, climate good, and any one willing to work can make good. Florida has its drawbacks but not any more than any other state. One doesn't have to go outside of our own state to get soaked for swamp and road hills are plentiful in Minnesota. The falsifying of my remarks is no credit to the one who misquoted me, but the false, discouraging reports about the state of Florida accomplished little, for there is a good living there as well as anywhere else for one who is willing to work, whether on a farm or in a city. I am not in the land business, therefore no land shark, nor am I a knocker, but believe in fairness to everybody and everything be it state, nation, or human being.

"Friends of Cleveland."

New York Globe: Over in Jersey are men so devoted to the memory of Grover Cleveland that they have entered Champ Clark as a candidate against Woodrow Wilson in the presidential primaries. When citizens at Princeton together, Mr. Cleveland and Dr. Wilson had a difference of opinion over a question of unversity policy, and some heat was engendered. Because of this controversy the name of Cleveland has been dragged into the primary contest in behalf of the Clark candidacy.

Yet this Clark, whose preferment is asked in the name of Cleveland, is the same Clark that delivered a speech in congress from which the following extract is taken:

"There are but two men in the hoary registers of time that Cleveland's name ought to be associated with—Judas Iscariot and Benedict Arnold. Shades of Arnold! Forgive the profanation. He, at least did not have a substitute to do his fighting. * * * Upon reflection I think really I ought to beg the pardon of Judas Iscariot, because after his treason he (Cleveland) did not have the grace to go out and hang himself."

It is some motive other than devotion to Cleveland's memory that is inspiring the anti-Wilson Clark advocates of New Jersey and elsewhere. The question is again pertinent: "Why the meanness of the opposition to Wilson?"

To Spring.

Ah, Spring! I hear your welcome song,
I feel the soft thrill of your touch;
An yet, you stayed away so long,
I feared you didn't love us much.

But here you are; your joyful smile
Is warrant of your constancy.
Now stay with us a good long while,
And we your humble slaves shall be.

Oh! Winter had us on the run
To purchase wood and coal and clothes,
His work was greatly overdone
And we care not how soon he goes.

Do us this favor, gentle Spring!
Ensnare him with your grace and mirth;
And when he ne'er suspects a thing
Just push old Winter off the earth.

The Family Tree.

Galveston News: Personally we take a good deal more interest in a family tree when we see a peach on it.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

No work is being done on the Lake avenue viaduct today, but will be resumed as soon as Fredin & Wilson have decided to go ahead and test the validity of their contract in the courts. Ex-City Attorney Allen, whom they consulted yesterday, says the question whether the contract is valid is a very close one, but he believes the courts will hold that Mr. Fredin, as a member of the board of fire commissioners, is not debarred from sharing in general city contracts. Section 3 of the city charter provides that no officer of the city shall be interested in any city contract, but Mr. Allen thinks this refers only to officers of the main city government, while there is a separate chapter respecting the fire board which omits any reference to general city contracts. Fredin & Wilson were the lowest bidders and the city has not suffered any loss.

At a meeting of college men held last evening it was decided to banquet the glee club of the University of Michigan on their visit here, April 28. The affair is in charge of Charles A. Towne, F. A. Patrick, S. S. Bradley and Howard T. Abbott.

Miss Laura Dahl, formerly with Marshall Field, Chicago, is visiting her cousin, Mrs. O. H. Hogemso at West Duluth, and will start dressmaking parlors there soon.

The Rose Croix held its annual banquet on Maundy-Thursday at Masonic temple. Nearly 200 members and their wives were present. The following toasts were responded to: "The Government of the Country," Rev. W. M. Barber; "The Supreme Council," Judge I. E. West; "Ven Bro. J. C. Batchelor," Judge J. R. Carey; "The Grand Lodge of the State," W. B. Patton; "The Memory of the Brethern Whose Labors Here Below Have Ceased During the Present Masonic Year," Dr. C. L. Codding; "Our Domestic Guests, the Women," F. B. Lozier; "Our Foreign Guests," R. E. Denfell.

Thomas Gelley has arrived from Winnipeg to take up his permanent residence in Duluth. He is a member of the provisional parliament of Manitoba.

M. Heisler of the West End, formerly city commissioner and one of Duluth's pioneers, is seriously ill.

Achilles Nelson, who has been spending the winter in the South, has returned to Duluth and will take his old place as city ticket agent for the St. Paul & Duluth.

Mrs. Howard L. Marten has gone to Milwaukee to visit her parents.

The St. Paul German Fire Insurance company has made an assignment. Unprecedented losses are given as the cause. Its premiums last year amounted to $700,000.

MORE ECHOES OF HARMONY.

The People Don't Count.

Thief River Falls Press: Governor Eberhart has emphatically declared that he will not call an extra session of the legislature unless the demand becomes far greater than it has been so far. We do not doubt that statement in the least. When will the governor be convinced that the demand is strong enough? Will he be convinced or that only when the interests and their subsidized press will make such a demand? Or shall the people still have some little consideration? The people want the extra session. The only way the governor can square himself with the people is to grant what they demand.

Pease Is Disgusted.

Anoka Union: What the Hades is the trouble with the Republicans of this state? All sorts of schemes are being originated to weaken the party and make success at the polls an uncertainty.

Presumption.

Litchfield Independent: The Minneapolis Juornal recently hinted that Governor Eberhart was "afraid of the cars." We presume the inference is that our governor is afraid to antagonize the railroads in his public administration of the affairs of the state.

None in Minnesota.

Cambridge North Star: Governor Osborn of Michigan, a fortnight ago called a special session of the legislature to investigate the brewers' control of the saloons and their interference in politics. Can anyone here imagine such action being taken by Governor Eberhart?

Close Fight Is Coming.

St. Cloud Times: The Fergus Falls Journal says that it is reported that L. C. Spooner's candidacy for governor is almost primarily at Gordon and to assist Eberhart. There are still five candidates since Weaver has pulled out of Eberhart's home county. As long as Eberhart can get his home county the more candidates there are against him the better it will be for his chances for the nomination and the better will be the chances for the Democrats to beat him at the election. With Wilson and Hammond on the Democratic ticket in Minnesota opposed to Taft and Eberhart the outcome in this state will be the closest and most exciting that has ever taken place in a presidential year.

An Appeal.

Lake Crystal Union: Ain't it a most humiliating spectacle for the state of Minnesota to be in, to have the governors of Ohio, Nebraska and Missouri standing before the supreme court in Washington pleading for Minnesota in the rate case. Be one that Judge Sanborn decided in favor of the railroads. And Governor Eberhart of this state not present to help. He above all men should be there. The foremost leading the contest.

Where is he? At home, and ordered by the Big Interests—this includes the brewers—to keep quiet.

Voters wake up!

No Mourners.

Aitkin Age: The Republican state central committee last week turned down the proposition to allow the voters to express a preference for president by a vote of 28 to 7. And so the delegates to the national convention will be "chosen" by a state convention called for that purpose at Minneapolis May 16. The old organization dies hard—but it dies.

A New Issue.

Northfield News: The Fergus Falls Journal says that the governor is in favor of fine weather, good crops, consolidation of rural schools and Taft. An exciting campaign is predicted. Why not insist that he declare himself upon the question of paper bag cookery.

The Kind Clark Is.

New York Globe: The defeat of Woodrow Wilson and the success of Champ Clark is to be attributed principally to Hearst and to the fact that the old Sullivan gang lined up for Wilson in its effort to head off the Hearst-Harrison combination.

Woodrow Wilson is a new man in politics. Although he has spoken in Illinois he is known but to a fraction of his party's membership. When the Hearst newspapers loudly said he was a narrow-minded, bigoted, sneering, foreigner-hating reactionary a large number of persons believed the accusations.

It will be most unfortunate for the Democratic party if its nomination goes to Clark. It will show again the party's ability to blunder. Mr. Clark is a man of personal amiability, but he is as loose of mind as he has been of mouth. What he would do as president no one could fortell. As speaker he has been under the control of a group of younger men and he has been steered straight. In the White House it is probable he would be "easy" for the interests. Hearst would probably be among the first to repudiate and denounce him, although if Clark is nominated, it will be largely due to Hearst.

Woodrow Wilson's Democracy.

Collier's: The air is full of strange noises just now to the effect that Woodrow Wilson has acquired democratic sympathies at the psychological moment in order to encourage the masses of his party to force the politicians to make him their nominee for the presidency.

Our observant contemporary, the Globe of New York, remarks that it is "doubtful whether American political history, full as it is of reckless slander, furnishes an instance of character-assassination more contemptible than that of which Woodrow Wilson has been the victim," and intelligently proves its case by quoting from an article which Woodrow Wilson published in the Atlantic Monthly as long ago as 1894.

He is pointing out the limitations of Walter Bagehot, and he says:

"He has no sympathy with the voiceless body of the people, with the 'mass of unknown men.' He conceives the work of government to be a work which is possible only to the instructed few. He would have the masses served, and served with devotion, but he would not like to see them attempt to serve themselves. He has not the stout fiber and the unquestioning faith in the right and capacity of inorganic majorities which make the Democrat."

Perhaps the machines and their backers, who are so worried by the fact that the people want Wilson instead of the candidates chosen by the bosses, will now come out with an explanation that when Wilson wrote these words, eighteen years ago, he had in mind that he might eight years later become president of Princeton, and get in a row there over his attempt to make the university more democratic; and then become governor of New Jersey, and make an admirable record in a desperate fight with the organization; and then become the man who would be nominated by the Democratic party, if that party had much to say about its own affairs.

Foolish Questions.

Cleveland Plain Dealer: The husband and the wife were starting for the theater. As usual the husband was kicking because the wife spent such an awful time dressing.

"What delayed you this time?" he growled, as they left the house.

"Seeing the children to bed," she responded quietly.

"What's the nurse for?" snapped the man.

"The nurse is for our convenience—yours and mine, but especially mine," she answered, evenly. "But the boy certainly takes after you. He asked the same kind of a fool question, just as I was kissing him good night."

"Fool question, eh? Well, what was it?"

"I asked him if he had said his prayers. And he said no. And I asked him if he didn't want God to take care of him during the night. And he answered, 'What's the nurse for?'"

Difficulty in Transmission.

The steamship Carpathia, which has on board all the survivors of the Titanic disaster, started early today to send by wireless to this station the list of the Titanic's survivors. Great difficulty was experienced in getting many of the names correctly, and more than a score of names as made out here did not appear at all in the Titanic's original passenger list, but it is believed that many of these were passengers who had booked at the last moment.

MORE CRANBERRY BOGS.

Connecticut Farmer: Half a century ago the "cranberry industry" of Cape Cod consisted of the casual harvesting of an unimportant, unimproved native berry of very little importance either to the food supply or as an industry. Today the annual valuation of this crop, now consisting of over 300,000 barrels of superbly improved berries, is estimated at more than $2,000,000.

Massachusetts lays claim to some 6,000 acres of cranberry bog. New Jersey has 8,000 and Wisconsin 6,000. In point of area these states are followed in turn by Rhode Island, Connecticut and New York.

LOST $6,600 BY THE DELAY

West Enders Protest Against Extension of Patrol Limits in Vain.

Because the board of public works did not make the final assessment of a job completed in 1909 until April, 1912, the city is out $6,600, according to a communication sent to the city council last night by City Comptroller William S. McCormick.

Following this rather startling statement the council unanimously passed a resolution directing the board of public works to report all improvements completed in the last five years for which the final assessment has not been levied and to give the reasons for the delay.

The aldermen deprecated the loss which has heretofore been sustained by delay in making the final assessment and urged that all departments which have them in charge use the utmost diligence to perform their part of the work.

Comptroller McCormick stated that the first assessment on the Sixth and Vista street improvements, amounting to $19,195.60, was levied June 18, 1909; that the statement of the total cost was in the hands of the board in November, 1909, and that the final assessment, amounting to $1,727.13, was levied April 1, 1912.

The communication further avers that the contractor was paid $27,515.77, and that the difference, amounting to approximately $6,600, was charged against the street intersection and improvement fund. Had the final assessment been levied in the fall of 1909 the total cost of the improvement would have been charged against the property owners, as the work was finished before the street intersection and storm sewer fund was in existence.

The communication of the comptroller was referred to the city attorney on the recommendation of the finance committee being incorporated in the same resolution calling upon the board of public works for a statement of improvements made in the last five years on which the final assessments have not been levied. The council wants to find out if there has been any other material losses sustained by the city in the same way.

It is stated that under a recent court decision the assessment referred to by the comptroller will likely stand as it is at present.

A large delegation of women of the Scandinavian Temperance society of the West End appeared before the council last night to protest against the extension of the patrol limits 200 feet west of Twenty-fourth avenue west on Superior street. The extension was granted at the meeting a week ago by a vote of nine to seven. Aldermen Scott and Gibson, having voted against the extension, were unable to move a reconsideration, and as none of the aldermen who have voted affirmatively moved the reconsideration, the matter did not come before the council again for action. The application of T. Pinsonnault, who wants to put a saloon in the disputed territory, was receied, but it remained in the hands of the committee. The hopes of those who are against the establishment of the saloon there are now pinned to prevent the granting of the license.

Mrs. E. Gustafson made a strong plea to the council to keep the saloon from the corner of Twenty-fourth avenue west and Superior street. She said that it will be placing an added temptation before the working men who live in that locality and that the aldermen should consider the women and children, who are the worst sufferers. Referring to the argument that it is better to scatter the saloons, she declared that she would rather have them in one place, if they must be allowed to exist, as she would then know where they are.

Rev. John J. Daniels of the West end stated that two-thirds of the people of the ward are against having the saloon placed in that location and that it was only fair that the council should consider the will of the people.

Mrs. Daniels asserted that if there is to be any extension of the saloon limits more police protection should be given to the parks and amusement places. She said that enough saloons are now located in the West end and that the residents are opposed to any extension of the patrol limits.

Bert Wheeler of the Civic league said that it is a long while since the people of the Seventh ward had asked anything of the council and that he hoped that body would favor them in this instance by preventing the location of any saloon at that corner.

The committee on ordinances and resolutions reported unfavorably on the ordinance to extend the patrol limits on West First street from Third avenue west to Sixth avenue west, except for the two blocks on the upper side in which government property is located. This extension was wanted to enable the transfer of a saloon license to a building at Fourth avenue west and First street. The ordinance was later withdrawn.

Alderman Phillips, Socialist, had another resolution in last night, which passed without objection. Under it the city attorney is directed to prepare an ordinance requiring all ice wagons to carry scales so that the consumer may see how much ice he is getting. It will also require all coal wagons and sleds to have the weight of the wagon or sled printed on the side in letters at least two inches high.

The action of the board of county commissioners in paying but $6,244.56 of the expense of $38,361.36 reported by the city for caring for contagious diseases was submitted to the council. The city believes that it has a right to one-half of the total amount. The matter was referred to the city attorney. City Clerk H. W. Cheadle recommended that an appeal be taken to get a judicial determination as to what are the proper charges against the county. The appeal must be taken within ten days.

The council received an invitation to attend the review of the Duluth battalion, M. N. G., at the Armory next Thursday evening. After the parade and the review, the adjutant general will present the decorations and rifle trophies won in the last year.

The board of public works was directed to circulate a petition for the improvement of Seventh street from Fourteenth avenue east to approximately Fourth avenue west. The board was directed to require Third alley from Lake avenue to Third avenue west to be placed in its original condition by the contractor who left it obstructed with stones and boulders.

After laying on the table for a year the resolution directing the improvement of Second avenue east from Michigan street to Second street was passed. It was originally intended to extend the improvement to Fourth street, but those two blocks were omitted.

Sam Muscovitch was given a license to sell his own goods at auction at 519 West Superior street for a period not to exceed two weeks. It appears that the building is to be occupied by a saloon May 1 and that he has to vacate.

The contracts for sprinkling the coming season were approved as reported by the board of public works.

The board of public works was authorized to spend not to exceed $250 for repairing the East Duluth and Lester River road adjacent to the Snively farm.

The council approved the recommendations of the board of public works relative to the plans for proposed street car extension along the hillside of the Second ward. The board stated that Fifth avenue east between Fourth and Fifth streets and Fifth street between Fifth and Sixth avenues east should be widened at the expense of the street car company.

The Federated Trades assembly reported that it had passed a resolution favoring the abolition of licensed employment offices and the establishment of a municipal bureau. The same body asked the council that it recommend to the board of fire commissioners that expert mechanics and carpenters be employed to do the work which is now done by regular firemen.

The West Duluth Fourth of July committee was given the use of parts of Ramsey, Bristol, Nicollet, Main and Roosevelt streets from July 1 to July 6.

A petition was received protesting against vacating twenty feet on the upper side of Fourth street between Sixth and Fourteenth avenues east. The petitioners believe that this should be parked.

Chief of Police Troyer urged that the improvements to the jail should be started as soon as possible. He says that this work can be done to best advantage in the summer, when the lodgers are few and the quarters are not congested. He also asked for private telephones to his private office.

Oscar Thersteinson gave notice of a claim of $2,100 for personal injuries. He claims to have sustained a broken leg at Tenth avenue east and Eighth street through the city's negligence.

A petition was received for the improvement of Kent road from Woodland avenue to Cottage avenue and for the graveling of Wicklow street between Grand Forks and Winnipeg avenues.

A dance hall license was granted to the Auditorium at Third avenue east and First street. A number of motor vehicle licenses were also passed.

An amendment to the building ordinance allowing the construction of an outside entrance to a building at Sixth avenue west and Superior street was passed.

The contracts for annual supplies were approved as awarded by the city clerk.

The engineer submitted estimates of the cost of improving Twenty-first avenue west from Michigan street to the dock and for graveling or paving West Seventh street between Twenty-third and Twenty-fifth avenues.

A resolution was passed allowing the treasurer to accept the original assessments for the Woodland sewer if they are paid within fifteen days.

ODD FELLOWS' ANNIVERSARY

Duluth Lodges Will Journey to Proctor April 28 to Celebrate.

Duluth Odd Fellows will journey to Proctor in force Sunday, April 28, to commemorate the ninety-third anniversary of the founding of the order.

The exact date of the anniversary is April 26, but it has been the custom of the society to celebrate it on the nearest Sunday with appropriate services.

The Odd Fellows at Proctor have recently completed a handsome new hall and the exercises Sunday will be the first of importance to be held in it since its construction. The services will be elaborate and the members of the order at Proctor are making extensive preparations for the reception of their Duluth brethren.

Duluth lodge No. 28 takes a particular interest in the Proctor organization, as they installed the lodge when it was instituted about three years ago. Emil Hollander, a prominent local Odd Fellow, who was noble grand at that time, gave the candidates the first two degrees and the grand master of the state officiated for the third degree. Over 200 members went to the village on that occasion and it is expected that a greater number will attend the anniversary services April 28.

BRUCE'S COLUMN

COMMENT AND DIVERS DISCUSSION OF THE MERRY WORLD OF SPORT.

IF ANY one thinks it is a picnic to promote boxing matches, let him try it," was the statement made by Jack Curley, the fight impressario in his room at the St. Louis hotel yesterday. "In the last three months I have been twice around the continent and during that time I have slept all but a few nights in Pullman sleepers. My trouble is almost at an end now, for the fight site is just about decided. But it isn't the traveling and all that that is the worst part of it, though, for here are a thousand and one details to worry and harass you. Let any one try it; I can't explain it." While the promoter was talking he showed a letter just received from George Hackenschmidt, under the Paris date line. In this letter the man who lost to Frank Gotch last September stated that he had thrown out his game knee again and that his wrestling days were over for good and all.

"Speaking about this fight," continued Curley, "the public has no idea of the amount of money that it will mean to Flynn if he succeeds in beating Johnson. One of the biggest sporting writers in this country not so very long ago stated that the first white man to whip Jack Johnson could earn a million dollars. That statement was not in the least an exaggeration. Flynn expects to win, and I concur in this view. You can see that we are not going into this fight merely for the loser's end.

"Every champion has one good fight. I think that several years ago Johnson was better than he is at the present time. But that is not altogether the question. To be conservative we will say that he is nearly as good today as he was when he fought Jeffries. Well Flynn is better today than ever before and he will climb through the ropes with the idea of beating Johnson. At that Flynn doesn't expect to hardly hit Johnson for the first ten rounds.

"Flynn is not only awfully tough, but he is a terrific body puncher. After the fight has gone a ways Flynn expects to break through the negro's guard and begin hitting him on the stomach. If this program works out, we expect that there will bo a white champion of the world after the Fourth of July."

DR. J. A. McCUEN is an optimist on the prospect of the Central International league. He believes that the league will go through and that it will prove a success. The mayor points out that this season is going to be a very prosperous one from the standpoint of the national game and that the team of the new league will be placed on prosperous footing from the very start. Then, too, the doctor adds that Duluth is sure to have the best team in the league. According to the information that was turned loose yesterday, the second meeting of the league will be called for the latter part of this week, when something definite will be decided upon. Whether or not there will be a rough draft of the schedule submitted at that time is not known. It is stated that Grand Forks will be in the league and that all of the members will post a guarantee to remain in the circuit throughout the season.

WITH Frank Chance out of the game the chances (not meaning to be facetious) of the Cubs for the flag will be reduced by many notches. It was the fighting spirit of the gritty leader that kept the Cubs up to the mark that in the past characterized the play of the greatest aggregation of ball players that ever stepped on the field. With Chance out some of the aggressiveness will be missing. Some time ago the writer was talking to Bill Brennan, the national league umpire. Brennan stated that last spring in Cincinnati Chance looked the part of the grand ball player. He was hitting great, showing speed on the paths and was very fast. Then came the blow on the head and probably the passing of Frank Leroy Chance as one of the great players of the game.

There have been Charles Comiskey, Fred Tenny, Tommy Tucker, Hal Chase and Jake Daubert, but it is very doubtful if any of these great players had anything on Frank Chance. Not only was he one of the truly great players of the game, but he ranks with Fred Clarke, Connie Mack and Johnny McGraw as one of the shrewdest managers and one of the grandest leaders that the old game of baseball has ever produced.

SOME followers of baseball wonder why great baseball players are so scarce. The writer believes he can give an answer that in a measure is true and will carry some explanation of the apparent difficulty of developing stars. In the old days the standard of play, no matter what the arm chair veterans may prate of, was not so uniformly fast as is the case today. The great school of baseball requires a man to become very proficient in all of the fine parts of the game before he can even break into the majors. One glaring weakness and back to the minors he goes. What is the result? It requires the ability of a really marvelous player to stand out above all the excellent players that have shown ability enough to get even a trial in the fastest baseball of the age. There are many great baseball players today, but the absence of stars is only brought about by the general advance of the many in the all round points of play.

When there is demand there is always an increase of talent. This is an economic fact. There is the greatest demand for baseball players today that the world has ever known. Baseball is offering even serious young men means of earning a good living. It is a profession and the moral and physical, not to mention the mental standard, has increased immeasurably during the past decade.

No, it is not the decadence of the really great players; it is, rather, the fact that the standard of play had advanced so much that the individual does not stand out as was the case in the golden days of the game, as they call the years that have passed.

MIKE DONLIN HAS HAD A STRENUOUS CAREER

Pittsburg, Pa., April 16.—Mike Donlin, who figured in the baseball trade whereby he was traded by the Boston Nationals to Pittsburg for Vincent Campbell brings to mind the many escapades Mike has been in since his advent into major league ranks.

The fist day he joined the St. Louis club, fresh from the bushes, he had a run in with his manager, Pat Tebeau; a few days later in a row with Jess Burkett, he almost broke Burkett's jaw, then while with Cincinnati his trouble with Joe Kelley, then managing Cincinnati, started a three-cornered deal whereby Donlin went to New York. McCormick, who is now training with McGraw's squad at Marlin Springs, went to Pittsburg, and Pittsburg sent Jimmy Sebring to Cincinnati; this trade was not, as many fans supposed, an even exchange of players, for McGraw paid Cincinnati a large cash bonus for Donlin in addition to letting McCormick go to Pittsburg, as McGraw had Donlin with him while at Baltimore and was for two seasons using every method to again have the big left hander with him.

One of the most amusing of Donlin's adventures occurred while he was with McGraw at Baltimore. McGraw had his knee hurt so badly that his leg was put in a plaster cast and Wilbur Robinson, who was next in line to take charge of Muggsy's bunch, while McGraw was out of fighting condition, was laid up sick in bed, and as the Orioles were to leave the next day on a fourteen-day trip, McGraw empowered Donlin with the managerial duties.

It never feazed Donlin one bit, but oh, what a trip. To begin with, for McGinnity, the iron man, didn't like the umpire's decision on a called ball, and to let him know how much he relished his bad decision, he walked up to the arbitrator, and, to make sure that he couldn't get away from him, put his spiked shoe on the umpire's foot and then spit tobacco juice in his face, which almost caused McGinnity being expelled for life from organized ball.

Then, in a game at St. Louis, Donlin's bunch were in the lead one run up to the ninth inning, it being the only game; up to that time they had a chance of winning, and Donlin was feeling mightly pleased until one of the St. Louis players hit a hot liner to Keister, who was playing short for the Orioles. Keister fielded the ball cleanly, but threw it about ten feet over Donlin's head (Donlin was then playing first base), and two Browns scored, giving them the game.

Donlin, who never had any use for Keister, was like a maniac, and to show Keister how he liked him, wouldn't let him play next day, but put Harry Howell in at short. Howell always was considered some fielder as well as pitcher, and he put up a sensational game, making one-handed stops and wonderful throws. With Baltimore one to the good, Harry heaved one higher than Keister did the day before, and lost the game.

Donlin's rage was indescribable and to add to it Mike glanced at the Baltimore players' bench, and there was Keister holding his sides with laughter, tickled at seeing his substitute being the cause of the game being lost. Donlin couldn't restrain himself and he hot-footed to the Orioles' bench, but Keister divined his intentions and beat it for the gate with Mike in hot pursuit, being a second too late to catch Keister, who bolted through the exit.

Donlin stood at the gate and shaking his fist at the retreating Keister, yelled:

"If you come near the bus I'll knock that tin pan out of your head," (Keister having at one time an operation performed when a piece of his skull was removed and a silver plate inserted.) Keister never came near the bus after the game, riding alone on the street car, and keeping out of Mike's sight until he had calmed down shortly after.

Donlin returned with the team. McGraw jumped to the National league, talking McGinnity and Jack Dunn and others. Kelley jumped to Cincinnati, bringing Seymour and Donlin there.

If Pittsburg first base recruits fail to show class Fred Clarke will find that Donlin will come mighty close to filling that gap at the initial corner caused by Clarke getting rid of Kitty Bransfield to please Honus Wagner.

FLYNN MAKES GREAT IMPRESSION ON FANS

(BY BRUCE.)

Jim Flynn has come and gone. Before a small band of hopeful fight fans the Pueblo fireman showed at the Auditorium last night. Removing from the first impression the handicap of size, Flynn is a fighter from his head to the tips of his toes. Fight has been bred in the gent from Pueblo, which town is some rough burg. His debut was made with a gang, resembling somewhat the suspicious start of the late Stanley Ketchel, and until the day he retires from the ring Jim Flynn, no matter how battered he may be, will retain the primitive fighting instinct that marks the careers of those born to the tough pattern of the yard cloth of the ring.

Before the Flynn-Williams setto, an exhibition that caused comment from the seat holders in the ringside section two very excellent wrestling matches were offered for the edification of the select handful of fans.

Sailor Jack showed that he is one of the cleverest of the contenders for the crown of the middleweight championship by wrestling Martin Johnson on even terms for the twenty-five minutes that the two local stars were on the mat. Then Walter Nesgoda and Walter Diehm, two of the best of the local mat contingent, went to the canvas in one of the hottest and best contests of the present season, both of them using about everything known to the modern wrestling science in their efforts to win the match, which meant a chance to meet Louis Zorbas for the local chancery supremacy.

Coming back to Flynn, he has everything is his favor but size. He fights from a shell. Many of the blows that appear to land strike the locomotive engineer on the top of the head or the elbows. Like a tortoise, he sticks his obtuse points to the enemy or the world in general. Flynn today is a very much underrated man, and that mere statement contains a world of meaning.

Boring in is the meaning of conquering an opponent to the aggressive spirit of the man from Pueblo. It is his boast that he has never backed up an inch in his fighting career. Like Battling Nelson, he glories in his carrying of the fight to the other fellow.

Whether that wonderful left of Johnson and that well executed right upper cut will carry punishment to the face and body of the stocky fireman of Pueblo, is a question that the public will look forward to. Flynn is earnest; never was fighter more sincere in his belief of victory—and yet we must remember that Tommy Burns, Stanley Ketchel and Jim Jeffries were also of the faith of which successful burglars and devout water-wagon riders are made.

Thick through from wishbone to his sturdy spine, Flynn is in reality a larger man than he appears to be. The vital life clamors for strenuous expression in the stalwart body of the "little" wonder of Pueblo, if you will permit the expression. There is a relentless, restless movement that will never stop, never cease clamoring for supremacy until the valiant spirit of the natural demon of Flynn is either returned victor or crushed to the resin in total and complete defeat.

After watching and talking with Flynn one is impressed with the superb fighting spirit of the man. He knows not what the word fear means. He hates Johnson and all other negroes. His little eyes snap with the heat of battle, even when the name of his prospective opponent is mentioned. There is the air, the spirit of the Spartan about this compactly built man, that somehow impresses you with the belief that if Johnson wins it will be after they have carted a half-dead white man from the arena.

Last night he toyed with Al. Williams. Flynn doesn't dare to hit his sparring partner as hard as the inclination might burn, for there are always zealous officers of the law who are paid for duty. Williams gave the fans no adequate idea of what Flynn might do; the opinion of the vast jury of the fight fans of the United States will be reserved until the fourth of next July.

But winding up the account, it might be said that this man from the steel-wire product of humanity is a natural fighting human, with lust for battle in his being. He believes that he can beat Johnson, despite the former victory of the spade, despite the size of the cinder, despite the fact that fight critics have pronounced Johnson the greatest piece of fighting bulk in the history of the heavyweight brigade, and we have had Jackson, Sullivan, Corbett, Fitzsimmons—and—well, we are waiting for the next chapter.

Flynn is there, thirty-five ways from the pugilistic Jack, to change the ancient count some, and if this is sufficient to win over Johnson—well, you can answer as well as the rest of the fans.

BROOKLYN COULD NOT OVERCOME BIG LEAD.

Brooklyn, N. Y., April 16.—Philadelphia piled up eight runs off Barger and Kent in the first inning of the game, a lead the Brooklyn team could not overcome. An error of Downs, which broke up a double play, played a big part in the slaughter. Kent pitched well after the first and the visitors got only two more runs. Bout Was a Draw.

New York, April 16. — Knockout Brown, the East side lightweight, and Young Erne of Philadelphia fought a 10-round draw here last night.

BROWN IS AFTER SOUTHERN CRACK

Hibbing Boy on the Trail of Joe Mandot of Memphis.

Word from Hibbing, received from Neil Moynihan yesterday, is to the effect that negotiations have started for a meeting between Pal Brown of Hibbing and Joe Mandot, the sensational Southern lightweight fighter of Memphis.

If the negotiations result in a satisfactory arrangement, the fight will be held in New Orleans some time the coming month. Mandot and Rivers are considered the leading candidates for the privilege of meeting Wolgast. Brown is deadly anxious to get in the scramble, and his ambitions in the stairway line have led to the opening of the correspondence with the officials of the West Side Athletic club of New Orleans.

Moynihan believes that only the opportunity stands between Brown and the championship of the world. Pat also concurs in this opinion. The little Hibbing fighter is of the opinion that he can beat both Mandot and Rivers. The chance to prove this assertion remains in the long road of pugilistic possibilities.

JARVINEN IS DUE TO ARRIVE

With the arrival today of Alex Jarvinen and the expected arrival tomorrow of Karl Lehto, the interest of wrestling fans of a radius of 500 miles of Duluth in the coming Finnish battle for catch-as-catch-can honors has reached the fever heat.

With the odds, in the opinion of the local followers of the mat men, favoring Jarvinen, the contest is expected to be one of the most stubbornly fought wrestling contests ever staged in Duluth. Lehto comes here with a year of valuable mat experience behind him, and also the benefit of a year of age and about fifteen pounds of weight. He is today one of the toughest men in the heavyweight ranks. Jarvinen is one of the wonders of the heavyweight brigade today, and therefore the meeting of the two bitter rivals is expected to bring out the best wrestling that has been witnessed at the Auditorium the present season.

HOW I ENLARGED MY BUST SIX INCHES IN THIRTY DAYS

After I Had Tried Pills, Massage, Wooden Cups and Various Advertised Preparations Without the Slightest Results.

A SIMPLE, EASY METHOD WHICH ANY LADY CAN USE AT HOME AND QUICKLY OBTAIN A LARGE AND BEAUTIFUL BUST.

BY MARGARETTE MERLAIN.

Well do I know the horrors and intense humiliation of being flat-chested, of having the face of a woman set on the form of a man; and I cannot find words to tell you how good I felt, and what a terrible load was lifted off my mind when I first saw my bust had really grown six inches in size. I felt like a new being, for with no bust I realized I was neither a man or a woman, but just a sort of creature half way between.

With what pity must every man look at every woman who presents to him a flat chest—a chest like his own! Can such a woman inspire in a man those feelings and emotions which only can be inspired by a real and true woman, a woman with a beautiful, well-rounded bust? Most certainly not.

The very men who shunned me, and even the very women who passed me carelessly by when I was so horribly flat-chested and had no bust, became my most ardent admirers shortly after I obtained such a wonderful enlargement of my bust. I therefore determined that all women who were flat-chested should profit by my accidental discovery, and have a bust like my own. I had been imposed upon by charlatans and frauds, who sold me all sorts of pills and appliances for enlarging my bust, but which did me no good whatever. I therefore determined my unfortunate sisters should no longer be robbed by these "fakers" and frauds, and I wish to warn all women against them.

The discovery of the simple process with which I enlarged my bust six inches in thirty days was due solely to a lucky accident which I believe was brought about by Divine Providence; and as Providence was so good to give me the means to obtain a beautiful bust, I feel I should give my secret to all my sisters who need it. Merely enclose two 2-cent stamps for reply, and I will send you particulars free by return post.

I will positively guarantee that every lady can obtain a wonderful enlargement in her bust in thirty days' time, and that she can easily use this process in the privacy of her own house without the knowledge of anyone. CERTAIN RESULTS

Many a Duluth Citizen Knows How Sure They Are.

Nothing uncertain about the work of Doan's Kidney Pills in Duluth. There is plenty of positive proof of this in the testimony of citizens. Such evidence should convince the most skeptical doubter. Read the following statement:

Thomas G. Thompson, 624 W. Second St., Duluth, Minn., says: "I do not wish to withdraw anything from the statement I gave some years ago in which I told how effectively Doan's Kidney Pills had rid me of kidney complaint. For some months I was bothered by pain and soreness in my back. I had other troubles and they all showed that there was much uric acid in my system. When I was feeling poorly, I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills. I immediately got a box and they were just what I required. In a short time they cured me and about a year ago they quickly drove away a spell of backache that had come on me. My high opinion of this remedy has been formed by the way in which it has helped me."

MAY DROP ACTIONS AGAINST RAILROAD

Reported at Baudette Insurance Companies Will Abandon Fire Suits.

Baudette, Minn., April 16.—Reports here from Winnipeg are that the insurance companies have decided to abandon their suits against the Canadian Northern Railroad company for claims to several hundred thousand dollars for losses sustained in the great Baudette-Spooner fire. While this will come as welcome news to this section there is a suspicion that a settlement of some sort has been decided upon. It is expected local people will pool their issues and carry one of the cases to the highest courts.

AMUSEMENTS

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

LYCEUM—Homer's "Odyssey."
ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.
EMPRESS—Vaudeville.

Amusement Notes.

The Scotch comedy, "Bunty Pulls the Strings," is one of the few plays of the nationality in which Miss Maud Adams has never starred. It is being played at New York and Chicago indefinitely, with a "road" company playing all the largest cities, and the members of all these companies were imported direct from the Scotch theaters. It will be seen in Duluth for five days, commencing Tuesday, April 22.

The management of the Lyceum yesterday announced that the local engagement for the Western comedy drama success, "In Wyoming," has been set for next Sunday, matinee and night. The play is novel in that it gives a faithful picture of a phase of Western life known to most people by hearstay only. Most of the characters are of the type generally spoken of as "cowboys," and their schemes and plots in this particular drama lead to a series of episodes replete in dramtatic action.

Two of the most interesting performers who have appeared at the Duluth Orpheum in many a week are Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Clarke.

For Stage purposes Mrs. Clarke assumes the name of Grace Meinken, and playes the part of the friend's wife in the sketch, "The Dear Departed," which is on this week's bill.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Clarke are interesting because of the fact that they do not like to discuss themselves and their work, as so many actors do, and much prefer to discuss any other topic from sports to politics. In spite of his aversion to talking about himself, however, Mr. Clarke has a fund of stories and anecdotes regarding famous actors and actresses which are very entertaining. Mr. Clarke for several years was the principal comedian with the Augustin Daly Stock company, and has appeared with such famous stars as Julia Morrow and Ada Behan. Following these engagements he spent twelve years in vaudeville, playing his own sketches, and is now closing his vaudeville tour— a tour which he says will be his last in that branch of the profession. After a vacation in England this summer, Mr. and Mrs. Clarke plan to open the new Edwin Booth theater in New York for William A. Brady in a play by George Broadhurst, called "Just Like John," in which Mr. Clarke will be starred.

"I have had twelve years of knocking about in vaudeville," said Mr. Clarke, "and, while I have enjoyed every bit of it, both Mrs. Clarke and myself are naturally delighted with the prospect of a run on Broadway, with the chance of settling down in New York and seeing something of home life again. We have been living out of trunks and suit cases for twelve years."

It is doubtful if a program better calculated to attract and amuse the public than the one being presented this week has been seen at the Empress in months. Each of the attractions which compose this week's bill is a topnotcher in its respective line ,and no two conflict in any manner. Sa-Hera is headlining the bill with her wonderful experiments in mind reading. Working in a manner entirely different from that of any other exponent of the mind reading art, Sa-Hera is astounding her audiences this week. Her answers are given with a speed and accuracy that is unbelievable, and those who have seen her are unanimous in stating that she is the best they have ever seen in this line of entertainment. Sa-Hera answers no questions, whatever, that have been written on pads or paper, but answers the questions direct from the person seeking information. Sa-Hera's manager claims nothing supernatural or spiritualistic for this attraction, but those who have seen it are almost forced to believe that there is some wonderful power back of it. For the benefit of the ladies who wish to ask questions of a more private nature, on Friday afternoon Sa-Hera will give a special ladies' matinee; this, to allow all the members of her sex to obtain information of a more delicate nature.

Entertainers in every sense of the word are Van Horn & Jackson. They offer a combination of singing, piano playing and comedy which is right up to the minute and they bid fair to become favorites this week. Their songs are new, both are clever piano players and their comedy is really refreshing. One of the daintiest attractions on the bill is the offering of "Babe" Mason and Edith McClaire. These girls present an act which is somewhat different than the usual run of vaudeville attractions. Miss Mason offers some child impersonations that are really clever, while her partner, Miss McClaire, is a yodler of ability. Terry & Elmer present a turn replete with clever dancing and some brilliant comedy. Both members of the team are entertainers of ability and their offering is taking very well this week. The show is opened by Maj. O'Loughlin, who presents a novel gun spinning act. The major is an expert in his line and starts the show off in fine style.

SWOON LEADS TO HER DISCOVERY

Supposed Young Man Is Wife Looking for Her Husband.

Erie, Pa., April 16.—After working for two years at man's work, and masquerading as a man all that time, Alexandri Koziowska Zoloski, a 20-year-old Russian woman, fainted at her boarding house today, and women who went to the rescue of the supposed good looking young man and attempted to revive him made the discovery that the object of their solicitous attentions was a woman.

Upon regaining consciousness Alexandria said she had donned men's clothing so as to better enable her to get about the country in making her search for her husband, who disappeared from her three years ago at Gary, W. Va.

She says she has worked as a bellboy in New York, heated rivets in a boiler shop in Philadelphia, drove a mule in the soft coal regions, welded a pick with the miners in the bowels of the earth up the Monongahela valley, mined coal at Norwalk, Ohio, and after coming here worked for five months doing a man's work in one of the paper mills, after which she secured work running a drill press in a manufacturing plant here.

NO APPEAL FROM THE STATE COURTS.

Lincoln, Neb., April 16.—A holding that no right of removal to the federal courts existed in cases of appeals from the orders of the state railway commission was handed down by Judges T. C. Munger and W. H. Munger in the local district court. The decision was handed down in the case of F. A. Berry against the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha road, a suit where the railway commission had ordered the building of a new depot at Wayne, Neb.

The court holds that orders of the railway commission are not of a judicial nature. The state law provides for an appeal to the supreme court, but this does not make the case a suit within the meaning of the federal statutes on removal of cases.

OLD MARQUETTE RESIDENT.

Mrs. Manhard, Who Lived There Forty-Five Years, Is Dead.

Marquette, Mich., April 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. M. R. Manhard, aged 62, and for forty-five years a resident of this city, died Sunday evening at St. Luke's hospital. She is survived by her husband, a local merchant, and these brothers and sisters: Peter, August and John Devroy, Mrs. Victor Jenkins and Mrs. Tahlier, all of Green Bay; Mrs. George Harris, Seattle, Wash., and Mrs. Mary Saddler of this city, but now visiting in Canada. All of these, with the exception of Mrs. Harris of Seattle are expected here to attend the funeral, arrangements for which have not yet been made.

BUYERS RETURN FROM EASTERN TRIP

F. S. Kelly and Horace Brown, buyers for the F. S. Kelly company, have just returned from the East, where they went in search of the newest European and American fabrics for interior decoration.

They return enthusiastic over the line which they selected, stating that it contains some of the finest mtaerials ever brought to the city.

The drapery department of the Kelly store, of which Mr. Brown has long been manager, is one of the most complete in the Northwest, and the buyers say that they take pardonable pride in the line of goods which will be this year offered to house owners.

Finding something, the "average person" looks to the "Lost and Found" ads to trace the owner.

North Dakotan Dies Suddenly.

Cando, N. D., April 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—W. E. Coleman of this place was found dead on a road near here by his son. The elder Coleman was driving a grain tank, and when some distance ahead of his son, he stepped out of the rig and to the ground, where he toppled over, dead. His son reached the place a few minutes later. Mr. Coleman was well known throughout this section.

Every drinking man has heard the above at some time, and perhaps secretly envied the "liquor handler"—and he, the man who can stand up under so much, has heard it himself. He undoubtedly felt flattered by the remark.

—and liquor will do the same thing to you. You wouldn't touch the stuff unless there existed within you physical and nerve demand for it. This demand will become more and more pronounced—more and more alcohol will be required to take care of it until your normal condition will be—just plain drunk.

If you are a sensible man, and your reasoning capacity is yet intact, you will know this.

Why not stop—now?

The Neal Treatment will cleanse your system of all accumulated alcoholic poison, do away with the liquor appetite; it will strengthen your nerves and stomach—it will clear your brain that you may look upon liquor and liquor drinkers as they are looked upon—in disgust.

Council Decides Nothing Can Be Gained By Separating Positions.

Two Harbors, Minn., April 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—City Clerk Omtvedt will have to continue acting as water and light collector as well as city clerk, as the council last night decided not to separate the two positions. The auditing committee, to which was referred the matter of separating these two jobs, reported that after careful consideration of the matter, it decided that nothing could be gained by the separation of the offices and it recommended the one man hold both positions. In addition to this the committee recommended that the city clerk be required to keep a record of all city supplies and that he check them out and in when used by other parties. This will end, for the time, the controversy which has been going on over this question. The auditing committeee which decided the question consists of Aldermen Strand, Bergren and Christensen.

Duluth Lawyer's Bill Turned Down.

A bunch of bills were to be allowed, and among them was one from Attorney John A. Keyes of Duluth for $10 for an opinion concerning the recent coal question. Alderman Christensen took exception to this bill and referred it to the city attorney. In the discussion which followed it appeared that President Esse had contracted the bill when he had been summoned to Duluth to confer with Assistant Attorney General Hilton G. Clabaugh, who had come from Washington to make investigation of the alleged coal trust of Duluth. In the opinion of the city attorney the bill was not a correct one, if it was for a legal opinion not authorized by the council, but if the bill had been contracted for other legal services in a case of emergency, it would be all right. Mr. Esse stated that as far as he knew of, there had not been any opinions rendered. Therefore, it was decided to send the bill back for correction before it was allowed.

Contracts For Lamps.

A representative from the General Electric company gave the council a talk on lamps. The city is planning on going into the electric supply business and he wished to contract with the city for the purchase of a lot of incandescent bulbs. The council voted to draw up a contract with the General Electric company for the annual purchase of $600 worth of lamps. This was not done until it was made clear that the city was going into the retail business and did not wish to be restricted as in the case of the coal question.

Ordinance No. 92, providing for the abolishment of all minimum rates in the electric light tax was passed.

PAVING MATTERS TO BE DISCUSSED

Hibbing, Minn., April 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Commercial club will have a special meeting tomorrow night at the council chambers.

P. McDonnel of Duluth is expected to be present and discuss paving in connection with the report of the Commercial club's committee.

It is expected also that there will be a report from the committee on the site for the public market and on other matters of local interest in which the club has been active. President McGonagle is inspecting the properties of the Missabe today and it is expected something definite will be learned before their return to Duluth as to whether or not the site of the old Missabe yards and depot may be had for a public market.

WILL MANAGE HIBBING'S BASEBALL CLUB AGAIN

JUDGE THOMAS F. BRADY.

Hibbing, Minn., April 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Judge Thomas F. Brady will manage the Hibbing baseball team for the season of 1912. This was decided at a meeting of the members of the team and followers of the game last night. Until the past two seasons Judge Brady has for several years managed the team here and was one of the most successful heads it ever had. An effort will be made to get a game with the Virginia before the official league season starts. Considerable repairs are to be made to the park and grandstand, new uniforms have been ordered for the club and a subscription to finance the club is to be circulated within the present week.

STRIPPING WORK WILL BE STARTED

Operation at Mahoning to Begin Wednesday — First Ore Is Being Shipped.

Hibbing, Minn., April 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first ore to be shipped from the Mesaba range for the season of 1912 went to the docks at Allouez today from the Scranton mines. Loading is now in progress at the Croxton, Grace, Agnew, Stevenson A and B shafts and Laura mines, properties shipping over the Great Northern.

Steam shovels are being gotten in readiness for stripping at the Mahoning mine and will probably be started tomorrow or Thursday, while the Drake & Stratton company have started a small force of men working at the Morris and Dale, clearing up after last year's operations, preparatory to beginning work this season. It is not anticipated that the ore movement will be large until navigation on the lakes opens as the consignments now going forward are merely to get the docks in shape for the opening of the shipping season down the lakes.

EVELETH MAN IS GIVEN PROMOTION

Assistant Postmaster Ellsworth Will Become a Postoffice Inspector.

Eveleth, Minn., April 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Fergus Ellsworth, assistant postmaster, has resigned to accept the appointment of postoffice inspector, a position earned under the civil service rules in competitive examination. Mr. Ellsworth has been assigned to the St. Paul division and will live in that city and travel out from there.

He will leave Eveleth with his family within a few days. Mr. Ellsworth grew up from boyhood in Eveleth, his father in the early days, having been postmaster here. He is at present secretary of the library board, is prominent in church work, a foremost citizen, whose removal from the city is regretted.

AFTER RANGE SCHOOL.

Range Commercial Clubs to Cooperate on Proposition.

Virginia, Minn., April 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Commercial clubs of all the range cities will cooperate to obtain for the range section of the county a county agricultural school. This has been submitted to the voters before but it has failed to carry on account of the large number who did not fully understand the benefits of the farm. It is intended by the various clubs to get out literature and to have the people informed. The county school promoters believe with a campaign of education, the farm plan will carry this fall. The site most favored has been at Wolf but on account of the building of the trolley line over the range, some place may be selected that will be more acceptable to all interested.

BOY'S DARE COSTS HIM TWO FINGERS.

Chisholm, Minn., April 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—While two sons of Henry Maki, aged 3 and 5 years, were playing with an ax yesterday, the older dared the younger boy to chop off his finger. He placed his hand on a block and the younger boy dropped the ax, with the result that the little and ring fingers were completely severed from the hand. The boy was taken to the hospital and had the hand dressed.

MARINONE WILL BE TRIED FIRST

Italian Who Shot Eveleth Mining Captain to Face Jury This Week.

Virginia, Minn., April 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The first criminal case will probably be on for trial in district court Thursday. There are three alleged murderers here at the jail awaiting trial and twenty-one possible criminal trials in all. Some may plead guilty and others may go over to the next term of the court. It is expected the criminal work will continue for a month.

The first to go on trial will be Carmeno Marinone, charged with first degree assault. He shot and seriously wounded Joseph Wilson of Eveleth, captain of the Spruce mine.

Ely Case Second One.

Case No. 2 will be Gaspar Skendrovich, charged with an indecent assault. The chief witness against him is Barbara Braja. The offense is said to have been committed at Ely. The third case is likely to be that of John Drexler, who shot and killed Axel Pakkala in the latter's saloon the night before Christmas. At the same time Drexler shot John Koski and he died of the wounds later. Joe Putas was a victim, also, but he recovered. The shooting followed a brawl.

SEVERAL SITES NOW LOOKED FOR

Eveleth Council Expects More Offers for Site for the Library.

Eveleth, Minn., April 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mayor Saari will send in to the council tonight the names of his appointees on the newly created park board. He will also name two members for the library board to succeed Fergus Ellsworth, resigned, and J. C. Poole, whose term expires soon.

Bids will be opened again for a site for the public library. This is the second time bids have been advertised for. The preceding council, by resolution, decided to purchase a site at the corner of Pierce street and Adams avenue. The deal, however, was not consummated before that council retired and the new council, objecting to the price of the site, refused to carry out the resolution of their predecessors. It is expected that several sites will be offered. The most favored substitute for the corner first chosen is the block lying between Chandler and Roosevelt avenues and facing the Fayal road. This it is proposed to convert into a park and have the library building in the center. But this property is owned by the Oliver Iron Mining company, and it is possible that it cannot be secured by the city. Another site to be proposed that is favored by a number of citizens is the corner of Jones street and Adams avenue, four lots now occupied by the residence of J. S. Saari and a house belonging to Max Shapiro.

SEWAGE MUST BE POURED ELSEWHERE

Chisholm Notified Not to Longer Contaminate Longyear Lake.

Chisholm, Minn., April 16.—(Special to The Herald.) — The books of the village treasurer have been checked up by the American Bonding company which furnishes the bonds and found all right. The bond has been renewed.

The auditing board has completed its work and while it has not yet been given out to the public the statement contains the information that the outstanding debt of the city has been reduced from $154,000 last year to $72,700, and the bonded indebtedness entirely wiped out. The budget provides for $25,000 for a sewer disposal system as the state board of health has given notice that no more sewage can be dumped into Longyear lake.

A rich body of ore underlies the lake and the state lays claim to the ore and has instituted proceeding to gain control of it. A local mining company claims the ore body and it is expected a long drawn out law suit will result. It is difficult to understand the position of the state in stopping sewer disposal in the lake as the attorney general at one time served notice on a mining company to discontinue pumping water out of the lake as the state legal department saw in that an effort on the part of the mining company to lay claim to the land after the lake was dry. However, the city will proceed to supply a sewer disposal system and last year the budget contained the sum stated and it is expected that the work will be started during the summer. The sinking fund has been reduced from $40,0000 to $20,000 for the year and the present members expect to establish a mark for economy.

SPEAKS ABOUT "FACES."

Hibbing Minister Gives Another of His Sunday Evening Talks.

Hibbing, Minn., April 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—The second series of "Talks to the People and Congregational Singing" at the Mahoning Street Methodist church each Sunday evening was as popular as the first series. Rev. T. Stanley Oadams spoke to an audience last Sunday which packed the house despite other attractions, and some could not gain admission. His subject was "Faces," and his discourse was along the line of the influence of character and outlook in moulding the human face. Next Sunday evening the topic will be "Mr. Lot, the Mayor of Sodom." The officials of the church have the matter of enlarging the church building in hand, and a movement in this direction is taking shape for the near future.

A short time ago the leg was removed near the thigh and he is now in a serious condition and the attending physicians state there is no hope for his recovery. He is afflicted with surcoma and the disease has steadily worked up his side.

SEVEN YEARS OF MISERY

How Mrs. Bethune was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Sikeston, Mo. — "For seven years I suffered everything. I was in bed for four or five days at a time every month, and so weak I could hardly walk. I had cramps, backache and headache, and was so nervous and weak that I dreaded to see anyone or have anyone move in the room. The doctors gave me medicine to ease me at those times, and said that I ought to have an operation. I would not listen to that, and when a friend of my husband's told him about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it had done for his wife, I was willing to take it. Now I look the picture of health and feel like it, too. I can do all my own housework, work in the garden and entertain company and enjoy them, and can walk as far as any ordinary woman, any day in the week. I wish I could talk to every suffering woman and girl, and tell them what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."—Mrs. DEMA BETHUNE, Sikeston, Mo.

Remember, the remedy which did this was Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

It has helped thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing down feeling, indigestion, and nervous prostration, after all other means have failed. Why don't you try it?

ELY WILL PURIFY ITS CITY WATER

Ely, Minn., April 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Ely is planning to protect water users from any possible epidemic of typhoid or any other disease that might possibly result from an impure water supply. The water supply is secured from Long Lake, and is considered to be very pure and wholesome, but the city council decided to run no risks, so ordered the city engineer to ascertain what the cost would be to erect a purification plant in connection with the water and light plant authorizing him to secure data, plans, and specifications.

Takes Duluth Position.

J. J. Dann, who has filled the position of casualty clerk for the Oliver Mining company for some years, has resigned to accept a position with a wholesale firm in Duluth. Mr. Dann has been closely connected with the social and public life of the city, and a host of friends will regret seeing him go. He is the second young man from Ely, who has gone out within the last four weeks, to push the sales of products of the Zenith City, the other being H. Diers, who left about four weeks ago.

WORK FARM CASES.

Many Instances in Eveleth County Farm Idea Would Solve.

Eveleth, Minn., April 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—"What am I do with these cases," said Municipal Judge Moylan Monday when a haggard, beaten and frightened woman with five small children clinging to her skirts, rushed into the judge's office as though seeking shelter from a demon and complained that her husband had got drunk and beaten her again and had driven her and the little children out of the house.

"This is the fifth case of wife-beating to be brought before me within a week," continued the judge. "This man was up last month and at that time promised to be good to the family hereafter. If I send him to jail the mother and children will have no means of support whatever. I will be glad when the day comes that I can send such men to the work farm where they can at least earn for the county enough to feed and shelter their families. I believe then there will be fewer such distressful cases as this." A warrant was issued for Peo Tonisonia for the above offense and he will have to appear before the court Tuesday morning.

For Freckled, Rough or Spotty Complexions

(From The Dermatologist.)

The freckling, discoloring or roughening to which delicate skins are subject after exposure to wind or sun, often appearing in spring, may readily be gotten rid of. Mercolized wax, spread lightly over the face before retiring and removed in the morning with soap and water, completely peels off the disfigured skin. Get an ounce of the wax at any druggist's. There's no more effective way of banishing freckles or other cutaneous defects. Little skin particles come off each day, so the process doesn't even temporarily mar the complexion, and one soon acquires a brand new, spotless, girlishly beautiful face.

Wrinkles caused by weather, worry or illness are best treated by a simple solution of powdered saxolite, one ounce, dissolved in a half pint witch hazel. Bathing the face in this produces a truly marvelous transformation.

Woman's Realm

At a pretty home wedding this afternoon at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Prime, Miss Caroline Anna Prime became the bride of Harold A. Carmichael. Bishop J. D. Morrison read the beautiful Episcopal ceremony at 3:30 o'clock in the presence of intimate friends and relatives.

Just preceding the ceremony Miss Annie Hugo, one of the bridesmaids, sang "Calm as the Night," Mrs. E. F. Burg accompanying her on the piano, and to the strains of a wedding march played by La Brosse's orchestra the bridal party descended the stairs preceded by Miss Mary Rattray and Miss Annie Hugo, the bridesmaids and Robert Block and Arthur Block, who formed an aisle of white ribbons to the improvised altar in the living room where Mr. Carmichael and Arthur Burg, the best man, awaited the party. Little Miss Janet Lawson in a dainty little frock of white fillet over yellow satin was the ring bearer, carrying the ring in a calla lily.

The bride followed on the arm of her father. Her gown was of white satin made on Empire lines trimmed with a wide berth of white lace and passementery trimming of pearls. She wore a dainty little cap of white lace trimmed with pearls, and carried a bouquet of white roses and sweet peas.

Mrs. Prime's gown was of wisteria satin with an overdress of black chiffon trimmed with wisteria embroidery.

The rooms were artistically decorated with yellow and white roses effectively arranged against a background of southern smilax which covered walls and mantle. The mantle before which the ceremony was performed was a solid bank of green and flowers. The dining room was especially pretty with its flowers and the bridal cakes and Miss Alice Stewart presided at the punch bowl.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hoople of Minneapolis and J. B. Cooper also of that city were guests at the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Carmichael will leave this evening for Chicago, Philadelphia and Pittsburg and will be at home after June 1 at 1518½ Jefferson street.

Sensational Picture of New York Woman on Exhibition

—By Edmund Russell.

MRS. JACKSON GOURAUD.

Mrs. Jackson Gouraud (nee Crocker) has had this remarkable painting of herself by Edward Russell on exhibition in the window of a store in Fifth avenue, New York city, where it has attracted much attention. It represents her as a priestess dancing before a serpent altar. The frame is made up of little gold images of Buddah, and is studded with opals. Mrs. Gourand is planning to have an Oriental room fitted up in her Paris home, and will have the painting hung in that room.

ART EXHIBIT.

Committees Named at Meeting of Local Society.

Committees for the arrangement of details for the art exhibit which will be held in Duluth in June were appointed at the meeting of the Duluth Art association last evening at the Commercial club. Plans for the exhibit were also discussed. Bishop McGolrick presided and Maurice Flagg of St. Paul, director of the State Art society, spoke.

The latter said that the main idea of the exhibit is to show the bearing and development not alone of fine arts, as painting and sculpture, but also the practical crafts, as lace making, weaving and others arts of this nature. The exhibits which will be shown in June will be solely of modern arts; these will come from New York, Chicago and various other American centers of such activities.

Duluth will also be well represented for paintings by David Erieson, C. C. Rosencranz and other such artists will be shown and fine exhibits by Miss Frances Harrington, who has just completed a seven months' course at the Art institute in Chicago and who has won for her work prizes and honorable mention. One of her works is a design drawing for a lace collar done in white ink or black, showing the stitch. The others are a belt buckle, two sketches and a craft piece.

The following committee was named for executive work in Duluth publicity: Mr. Rosencranz, Josephine Carey, Mary McFadden, J. E. Rockwell; for hanging, Mrs. Barnes, Mr. Edwards, Fred Engels, Gertrude Carey, Mrs. Tuohy and Mrs. P. Kennedy; entertainment, Mrs. J. H. Crowley, Mrs. William Craig, Mrs. Gustav Flaaten, Miss Katherine King, Mrs. A. B. Siewert, Mrs. F. L. Kennedy, Mrs. H. S. Macgregor, Miss Palmer, Mrs. Henry Taylor, Mrs. M. S. Hirschfield, Mrs. J. C. H. Engel, Mrs. H. E. Mitchell, Mrs. F. W. DeVey and Mrs. L. K. Daugherty.

It was decided to educate the school children to an appreciation of art work and to this end the following were enlisted to present the subject at once in the city schools: Katherine King, Josephine Carey, Mrs. Diehl, Miss Birch, Miss Case and Mrs. E. L. Tuohy.

The committee on lighting is as follows: Mr. Young, Mr. Rosencranz and A. B. Siewert.

Gustav Flaaten offered to donate the services of the Flaaten orchestra. Other musical features are also being planned.

Reception at Church.

One of the social events of this evening will be the reception which will be held in the parlors of the First Methodist Episcopal church in compliment to Dr. and Mrs. M. S. Rice, to which all members of the congregation and friends of the honor guests are cordially invited. Dr. and Mrs. Rice will leave the last of the week for a trip abroad and this affair has been planned that their friends may all have an opportunity of wishing them a pleasant voyage.

Church Meetings.

The Central auxiliary of the First Presbyterian church will meet tomorrow afternoon in the church parlors. Mrs. J. A. Hanks and Mrs. A. McLeod will be the hostesses for the afternoon.

Mrs. J. A. Watterworth will entertain the members of the Ladies' Aid society of the First M. E. church at the regular monthly thimble bee tomorrow afternoon at her home, 2525 East Second street.

CHESTNUT LODGE

By A. Maria Crawford.

"I am so glad," said Polly Moore "that I came a day before your other guests, Aunt Pheoebe. It gives me an opportunity to have a comforatble visit with you. Bob Gaines is coming this afternoon for the same reason. If my headache doesn't get better, I will be compelled to leave you two to entertain the others."

"Bob Gaines of all people. I believe I will catch your headache," moaned Polly. "Isn't it too bad that we dislike each other when you love us both and want to pair us off like cooing doves?"

"There is one thing that puzzels me, Polly. You never have seen Bob, he has never caught a glimpse of you, yet you claim that hate boils in your hearts. It isn't reasonable—mere prejudice. Somebody carried tales yet neither of you will give the culprit away." Polly glanced up at Aunt Phoebe with mischief lurking in her eyes. "What will you give me to make this young person change his opinion of me? Chestnut lodge?"

"That's not fair, Polly. I have willed you everything I have except this house and grounds. I promised it to Bob when he was 30 and I can't go back on my promise. The fact of the matter is that I have had it attended to legally. Bob gets the place next year."

"This home is the only thing in the world that I actually want. Look at these high ceilings, this wainscoating, the beautiful old mahogany and rosewood furniture, the rugs—all to go to a man that I despise. Why do you love him so, Aunt Phoebe? He isn't related in any way and I am your sister's child." Aunt Phoebe sat looking pensively in the fire where the big logs were blazing. Her face, crowned with its soft white hair, appeared singularly youthful and there was a reminiscent tenderness in her eyes.

"Polly," she said, "I am going to tell you why I love Bob and why I expect to give him this house next year. He will be 30 then. Mis father courted me in this very room. I loved him, but I was a foolish young thing and flirted with everybody. You remind me of what I was in those days. He said that if I loved him I must give up all my other admirers. We quarreled about it and—and he married Bob's mother.'

"Oh, Aunt Phoebe, I didn't dream of anything like that. How often I must have hurt you. How true you have been all through these long lonely years—true just to a memory. That," said Polly softly, her arms tight about the straight, aristocratic old figure, "that is what I call love. Everything in this room is suddenly fragrant with romance.' Miss Phoebe smiled at the eager young face so near her own.

"Be kind to Bob when he comes. It is almost dark now and a good night's sleep is what I need. My headache is really severe." Polly changed her traveling dress for a flimy little gown that looked as if it had been made of moonlight. The diamonds on her gleamed like stars in a summer sky. Why did she feel so antagonistic to Bob? She sat musing in a great chair that Miss Phoebe always occupied when she was downstairs. It was all because of a chance remark of the man's made soon after the announcement that she was to get Aunt Phoebe's estate, that is, everything except Chestnut lodge, the beautiful stone house built on a farm. Edith Tyson had told Polly that Bob Gaines was reputed to have said at his club: "I suppose people will say that I ought to hunt up Polly Moore and marry her to get the rest of Miss Phoebes wealth, but no spoiler flirt for me."

"Well," Polly had answered when Edith had repeated the remark, "the next time you see that young man please say that I would rather be an old maid than to marry an idle, red-headed Dutchman. Aunt Phoebe told me his hair was red."

The message had been promptly delivered and Polly and Bob had thereafter avoided each other. When James switched on the lights in the hall Polly saw a good looking stranger standing there, a suitcase beside him. His hair, she noticed with a start of surprise, was brown, not red. When he had made himself presentable and entered the drawing room Polly extended her hand cordially. "At last we meet, Mr. Gaines. I am Polly Moore, as you probably know."

"One of the maids tells me that your aunt is indisposed. I am very sorry, and at the same time a little glad, for it gives me a nice long evening with you." Polly exerted all her efforts to charm the man. She remembered the sweet story of her Aunt Phoebe's romance and her heart was warm for this young fellow who might have been Miss Phoebe's own son. The man himself seemed strangely ill at ease, but Polly contributed it to the fact of their hitherto violent hatred. "The cabinet over there of curios is worth a small fortune," he said, indicating a quaint hand-carved piece of furniture. "That amethyst necklace that belonged to some queen, I believe, is valuable."

"Yes, indeed, are you interested in Aunt Phoebe's collection? I think that she is very foolish to leave such things here even if she does have a sort of double lock, don't you?"

"Yes, but I suppose she trusts her servants." Polly excused herself presently. She wanted to run upstairs and ask about Aunt Phoebe before dinner, she said. When she reached the landing she heard a strange noise and went quickly down again, thinking that a log had fallen from the fire and that she could help Bob put it back in place. What she saw fairly paralyzed her. For a woman, she thought very quickly, and reached up to get a loaded pistol that Aunt Phoebe always kept on a high stand in the hall. Then she covered the man where he knelt before the famous cabinet, slipping the jewelled necklace in his pocket. "Hands up, I think," she said, cooly, "that I can shoot pretty straight. To think you would steal from Aunt Phoebe." The man covered before the look in her face. "It's all a joke," he whispered just as the doorbell rang. When Polly heard James enter the hall she spoke to him quietly without taking her eyes from the burglar. "Hurry up, James, and see who is there. Be careful. Then come here."

"Well, hello, James. How's Aunt Phoebe? Tell her Bob's here," Polly heard a deep voice say. "What the devil does this mean?"

"Come and help me. I have caught a gentlemen thief." It took very little time for Bob and James to replace the valuables and tie their prisoner hand and foot and a big burly fellow from the stables stood guard over him in a locked room until the sheriff could arrive. Polly was shaking before when Bob went back to her. He handed her a glass of wine. "I—I can't hold it," sobbed she. "I am scared to death."

"After you have been so brave? Here, I'll hold it. Drink it all."

But Polly's coolness had gone. "I—I can't, I tell you. Why he could have murdered me and I—I talked to him about everything. Oh," wailed Polly. "I'll never get over this—never." Bob put his arms around her and held the wine to her mouth. "Poor little girl," he said soothingly. "Brace up. That was the bravest thing I ever saw a girl do. Nice scheme of that thief's. One of the maids was a confederate and she put him on to my coming and Aunt Phoebe's headache. He is certainly a bold, bad man. I admire you for what you did, even if you don't like red heads." Polly glanced up where the firelight showed on his hair.

"When, when I said that," she stammered. "I—I didn't know it was such a beautiful red." Two hours later, Miss Phoebe, feeling better, came into the room softly and saw two figures before the dancing flames. Polly's fair curls rested perilously near the auburn locks of her favorite. "This doesn't look exactly like hatred," she declared.

"It isn't," laughed Bob. "It's a case of old-fashioned love. Polly is going to marry me."

"You watch her, Bob," cautioned Miss Phoebe. "Polly is marrying you for this house."

"That's all right. I don't care how, why or what her reasons may be, just so she marries me."

Polly helped Aunt Phoebe to her big chair. "It had to be, Auntie," she whispered. "I am the spirit of your love. Bob is the spirit of his father's. The memories in this room just reached out and drew our hearts together."

LOSES FAT—WINS FORTUNE

The Amazing Story of How Marjorie Hamilton, Compelled to Reduce Her Weight or Lose Her Employment, Found a Drugless Treatment for Making Fat Vanish.

ACTRESSES AND SOCIETY WOMEN REJOICE OVER THEIR NEW SLENDER FIGURES

She Has Built NOT on the Tears of Disappointed Patrons, But on the Smiles and Joy of Those Who Came to Her Not in Vain.

MOST DISCUSSED BUSINESS WOMAN IN AMERICA TELLS SECRETS OF HER SUCCESS

BY ADA LEE

I have just met and talked to a REAL woman. When instructed to interview Marjorie Hamilton, who has won fame and fortune by teaching fat people how to grow slim by her drugless treatment, I didn't know just what kind of a person I expected to meet; but I do know that no matter what my expectations were, I was most agreeably disappointed.

I was ushered into her rooms and a slim, exquisite, girlish young creature, radiant with health and youthful beauty and with the most beautiful skin I have ever seen, came towards me with a genuine sure-fire smile beaming at me across her outstretched hand. I marveled to myself. Could this fresh, wholesome, buoyant slip of a girl be the most discussed beauty specialist in the world? Could this light-hearted picture of unspoiled young womanhood be the marvel of commercial acumen and enterprise whose success had startled business men by the originality and soundness of its methods? I was going to find out.

After we had passed safely over the shoals of conventionality, I put my first real question to her:

"How do you account for your great success, Miss Hamilton?" I asked.

Success Built on Smiles.

There was no hesitation in her answer, which shows that the secret is not the result of chance, but that it is the outcome of a firmly established business policy. "I owe my success to the fact that I have built, NOT ON THE TEARS OF DISAPPOINTED PATRONS, BUT ON THE SMILES AND JOY OF THOSE WHO CAME TO ME NOT IN VAIN. It is my proudest boast that the best advertising I get is not what I pay for to the newspapers and the magazines, but the free and unsolicited testimonials given by word of mouth to those who suffer from fat by those I have reduced to the slimness they desire. That is why I have succeeded where others have failed. I have really relieved people of their burdens of fat, and I have done it without drugs, without tearing the bodies of delicate women to pieces with strenuous and injurious exercises, without starving them.

"I suppose you know," she continued, "that I used to be a calendar model, posing for photographers. My pictures pleased so well that they were used by one big firm in Chicago on one entire issue of calendars one year, and won me my nickname 'The Calendar Girl.'

"The posing brought me big returns, and it was lazy work. The result was, that one day the photographer had a new model. My last sittings had been a failure—I was too fat. You can imagine how broken-hearted I was. My means of subsistence was vanishing, and I could see only a life of drudgery ahead. Then I rushed frantically to the files of a newspaper to look for a fat-reducing ad.

"I found it—I found dozens of them. I tried one, I tried ten; they none of them benefited me. The drug nostrums ruined my health and I grew sallow and ill. I couldn't eat, couldn't digest what food I forced myself to take. Some fat left me, but it left me haggard and ugly, and the pretty lines of my figure sagged and seemed to lose their symmetry. Then I tried exercises. I was always fond of sports and outdoor games, but the dreary monotony of these exercises grew every day more trying, as I followed out the courses laid down by the physical torture experts until every bone in my poor little body ached, and I decided even fat was better. I tried starving myself, but the result, while it took pounds off fast enough, left me hollow-cheeked and dim-eyed, and I felt my vitality slipping away from me.

"I was desperate. A story appeared about that time telling of a domestic tragedy. The wife had killed herself because her husband had ceased to love her. Pictures of the unfortunate woman were printed. AND SHE WAS VERY STOUT.

"That was the moving factor in my life. The thought that I, too, some day might fall in love with some man whose heart would remain closed to me because my ungainly, ugly fat body robbed me of that attractiveness that all men desire in the woman of their hearts, chilled me. I went to work to solve the problem of how to regain my slimness. I can't tell you all that I did—the experiments, the studying, the consultations with eminent experts, physicians, athletes, books on medicine, the theory of body building, and degeneration of the human system. It became a mania with me. I gave up my friends, my amusements, my diversions, my pursuits, and worked night and day, weighing and watching, analyzing and studying and trying to apply to what I learned the good plain horse sense with which nature and my ancestors had endowed me. When at last I saw what I thought was a way out, I decided to experiment on myself. I was my first patron. I think results speak for themselves!" and she stood up straight and slender as any nymph of the woodlands, a picture of incarnate health and beauty, the most glorious young creature I have gazed on in many long moons.

Marjorie Hamilton, Crowned by the loving hands of the tens of thousands of those she has restored to happiness and health by her Drugless Treatment for making fat vanish.

Teaches Others To Be Slim.

"And how did you happen to go into the business of exploiting your find?"

"Well, the fate of the unhappy wife led me to think a great deal, and I realized that she must not be the only wife whose happiness might be in danger from the same cause. That led me to thinking of the other people who suffer from a too solid flesh, as Shakespeare calls it. I had spent one summer of intense discomfort when I was fat. Slender people have no idea how fat people suffer in hot weather. It is torture to them. Then I knew of many men who are in business and who must be afflicted by the excess of fat they carry around. Lawyers, doctors, bankers, brokers, merchants—to all of whom the loss of fat would mean much in the way of comfort, as well as a more striking and attractive appearance. Women are not as fickle as men, but wives do not like to see their husbands grow coarse and gross from too much flesh. So I decided to let the world share my secret. I knew there were dozens of unsuccessful fat reducers on the market, so I thought to myself: If these people can make a living by selling an unsuccessful, harmful, drug, would-be, make-believe fat reducer remedy, why shouldn't I do well by selling one that it a genuine, drugless, delightful, home fat-reducer —one that really does the work? I began tentatively, in a small way, without capital or influence. I had no knowledge of how to merchandise my treatments. I wrote my first advertisement in fear and trembling, but I put into it all my sincere conviction of what I COULD do, and told what I had done for myself. That I had reduced myself at the rate of a pound a day after all other so-called cures had failed; that my treatment was drugless; that it did not entail a starvation diet and that it did not require backbreaking and body-racking exercises. When I had finished, I read it over, and said to myself: 'If that doesn't convince the most unbelieving, I'll give it up.'

Her Battle for Success.

"The funds for my first advertising were scraped together at such personal sacrifices of dearly beloved treasures as I never dreamed I should have the courage to make. Then I sat back and waited. I had no office, just desk room in some other office, and there I sat all day, watching the door for the coming of the postman. Day after day I waited, and then the answers began coming in, slowly and uncertainly at first, and then a little faster. They all wanted to know about my treatment. I sent particulars broadcast, free, and the rush was on, and it has never ceased. The public, which eventually winnows the chaff from the wheat of every proposition, was with me. I was able to increase my advertising appropriation and enlarge my office facilities, and I was soon equipped to take care of the growing tide of inquiries and demands for my treatment. Then the greatest influence for my success that I know of came to my assistance. There is between fat people a freemasonry without rites or ceremonial, even as there is between invalids afflicted in the same fashion.

Actresses Her Patrons.

"The results my treatments effected began to be discussed in the boudoirs of the women of fashion and in the green-rooms of theatres, for I found then, as now, that society women and actresses were my best customers. This word of mouth, this whispered name from fat woman to fat woman, has been my best friend and my greatest advertiser.

"My patrons are not women alone. Thousands of men owe their regained health and a reasonable waist-line to me. You would be surprised if I were to show you the names on my books—names of men famous in business, in politics, in the church, and in the professions. It is not always vanity that prompts them to take my treatment, but more often the desire to be rid of an incubus of flesh that worries and annoys them."

As I sat, spellbound, beside Miss Hamilton, a mere slip of a girl, apparently just out of her teens, listening to her story that sounded like a dream, but which is absolutely verified by the facts in the case, I marveled at this achievement, this all-conquering faith in her ideals that made her rise to this opportunity. Without money, without influence, without special business knowledge, she has built herself out of her own brain, a fortune and a place in the annals of fame. One phrase she used casually stuck in my brain. She said: "I would have quit a thousand times if my own personal interests alone were at stake, but I felt that I owed my sisters a duty. I felt as though this knowledge I had received had been given to me as a sacred trust for the benefit of humanity. My necessity has made it profitable to me, but I should like to be able to benefit all those who suffer from obesity, and my records will show that I have given my book, entitled 'Fat Reduction Without Drugs,' absolutely free to tens of thousands of people who have written to me asking for it."

Her Duty to Humanity.

Here was the thing that makes Miss Hamilton different from all others in the mail order business. She feels that she is performing a duty to humanity.

Denver is justly proud of Miss Hamilton and of her success. Her offices in the Bank Building are sumptuously fitted out, probably the handsomest offices in that great thriving city at the foot of the Rockies, where hundreds of women assist Miss Hamilton to send out each day tens of thousands of free copies of her great book entitled, "Fat Reduction Without Drugs," now in its 14th edition. As I stepped out of her offices into the glorious sunshine of this favored climate I could not help feeling that the world would be much better for more women like Marjorie Hamilton, more women with capability, with true hearts, with the faith that conquers. And as a woman, I read a lesson of encouragement to all women in her achievements, and I hope this rapid impression of the most discussed business woman in the United States may be the spur to other women to greater efforts for the benefit of their sex and for the attainment of that goal that is laid down as the right and privilege of every one who lives in this great land of ours, the free and untrammeled pursuit of health, wealth and happiness.

JAMES MYRON WILL BE NEXT CITY ASSESSOR OF DULUTH

James Myron, well known in Duluth, will be the next city assessor.

In addition to being a capable business man Mr. Myron has a wide reputation as a sportsman. He is deeply interested in all phases of outdoor life and during the cold winter months he is an ardent curler. To his intimates he is familiarly known as "Jamie."

Mr. Myron will take active charge of the assessor's office at the expiration of the term of the present assessor, J. Allyn Scott of West Duluth, which will be next September. Mr. Scott desired to retire some time ago, but he was prevailed upon to remain to finish the real estate assessment, having already finished a mass of the preliminary work.

The future assessor was at the office in the city hall today. He has "jumped" into the work now in progress to thoroughly familiarize himself with the duties of the office. He expects to be on hand constantly from now on and when he takes over the reins he will have an extensive knowledge of the situation.

JAMES MYRON.

SEES STRIFE IN FUTURE

"Mother" Jones Predicts Armed Conflict Between Capital and Labor.

Club Women Should Study Social Conditions Not Browning.

"Mother" Jones decries Theodore Roosevelt as a rogue and believes that armed strife will be the final settlement of the momentous question of capital versus labor.

"Why," she asks, "can a man be a well-established citizen of the community, a deacon or elder of the church and lauded in the newspapers, and yet at the same time grind girls to physical wrecks and moral outcasts through the medium of the wage scale that pays but a few pennies to the pound of toil of the producers?"

"Mother" Jones believes that we are swiftly coming to the final chapter of the bitter war that is being waged between capital and labor. Her barometer is the conventions of labor delegates who represent the unions.

Not so many years ago, within the present decade, most of the laboring men celebrated the gathering of the convention. Today the delegates, according to "Mother" Jones, are sober, well versed in legal rights, in constitutional privileges and thoroughly armed with statistics pertaining to the earning power of the laboring man.

"The great religion of the present time is humanity," say "Mother" Jones. She uses a polite but strong adjective in describing the minister who defends or condones the deeds of the man who brings to shame and degradation his fellow man and woman. "Club women of today do not give attention to the vital needs of the age. It is not drama, Browning or the study of the needs of ethical culture so much that we need to study, as it is the fact that mothers are starving to death, and that babies have not the barest necessities of life.

Great Problem of Age.

"The greatest problem of the age, is the problem of how the under people live. It is becoming keener and more acute day by day. Perhaps the breaking point will be reached soon; that we cannot say. The ballot of the working man is becoming more intelligent, more discriminating, and we are aligning our forces for the fight that must come to an issue."

"Mother" Jones has deep lines in her face. She is a motherly soul, wholesome and with one undeviating line of purpose that ever characterizes the person who rises from the groove of mediocrity. She says fallen girls confess to her that they have deliberately gone into the terrible business of selling their souls to keep from starving. Th answer is, according to "Mother" Jones, that the present industrial system is inadequate to afford food for the average industrial female worker.

One great overshadowing question looms pre-eminent in the mind of "Mother" Jones. That is how to return the product of the toil of the workers to the workers. A thousand times, she says, she would give her life to the solution of the problem. And this gray-haired old lady, gentle, if you will call love of children and humanity gentle, says she loves to fight, "would sooner fight than eat," for the industrial cause that she has taken under her wing.

She has walked the dark paths of mines, the dens of the sweat shops, the rooms where red-cheeked girls are subdud by industrial drudgery to pale machines with a feebly-beating human heart.

"Mother" Jones is an elderly woman, but she says that she hopes to live to behold the day when industry will give to its creators part of its divine right of inheritance.

McDougall of this city is in Chicago today to attend a special meeting of the supreme council of the Royal League, which has been called for the purpose of deciding whether or not women should be allowed membership in the order. MILITIAMEN GET TROPHIES

Dress Parade of Three Local Companies Will Be Held Thursday.

Trophies won during the year for the highest marksmenship averages will be officially presented to Companies "A" and "C" of the Minnesota National guard by General Fred B. Wood of St. Paul, who will review the Duluth battalion consisting of the three local companies, "A," "C" and "E" at dress parade Thursday evening at the armory.

Only three company trophies are awarded in the state this year and two go to Duluth companies. General Wood during the evening will present a number of individual decorations to various members of the three companies who have won distinction as being crack shots.

Following the review, dress parade and presentation of the trophies, there will be a dance. Mayor J. A. McCuen and the members of the common council have been invited to attend.

CITY WILL PAY FOR COW TESTING

Dairymen Will No Longer Be Forced to Bear Expense.

Henceforth local dairymen will not be obliged to pay for a veterinarian to inspect their cows.

In the past each dairyman has been charged 50 cents per head for each test, and in some instances this has been found to be quite a burden. Each herd has been inspected once or twice a year to guard against tuberculosis, and where infections have been discovered extra precautions have been taken.

In the future the city will pay the veterinarian who makes these tests. Dr. John McKay, who has been doing the work on the fee basis, has been retained by the city. He will be paid a straight salary of $75 per month to handle this branch of the health department's work. It has been felt by many that this expense should be borne by the municipality and that the change has been made will be welcome news to the dairymen in the city.

THE PERFECTED WONDERS OF THE X-RAY.

The intense popular interest that was aroused by the announcement of the discovery of the X-ray is vividly described by G. E. Chamberlain in the Popular Mechanics Magazine. "Not only," he says, "did the entire scientific world stop as it seemed, almost reluctantly do honor to this master workman (Roentgen), but the literary world, the commercial world, the laboring world, were each and all carried away with enthusiasm. Writers loosed their imaginations with the most weird and fanciful results, and it was a boon for the comic artists and joke-smiths.

"Every workingman held strong views on the matter. Few things before or since have so grasped and held the popular fancy. Cathodes, anodes, Crookes tubes, and a score of other scientific terms were in common use. One result of this was that practically every person who could read any language had a fairly accurate idea of how the X-ray was produced and what it had accomplished."

WANTS DIVORCE AFTER TWO YEARS

Mrs. Thelma Wyers Says Her Husband Has Deserted Her.

Thelma Wyers, a bride of two years, wants a divorce from Thomas Albert Wyers on the grounds of desertion. Papers were filed by Mrs. Wyers with the clerk of the district court today.

She is 22 and he is 31. They were married at Superior in September, 1910. She claims that a year had hardly elapsed before her husband left her. They have no children.

A summons were served on Wyers at Flint, Mich., but so far he has filed no answer to the divorce proceedings. An order of the court secured by John Heitman, attorney for Mrs. Wyers, limits the time in which Wyers may file an answer to April 22.

Besides asking for a separation, Mrs. Wyers seeks to have her maiden name, Thelma Sutherland, restored to her.

DON'T PULL OUT THE GRAY HAIRS

"Pull out one gray hair and a dozen will take its place" is an old saying, which is, to a great extent, true, if no steps are taken to stop the cause. When gray hairs appear it is a sign that Nature needs assistance. It is Nature's call for help. Gray hair, dull, lifeless hair, or hair that is falling out, is not necessarily a sign of advancing age, for there are thousands of elderly people with perfect heads of hair without a single streak of gray.

When gray hairs come, or when the hair seems to be lifeless or dead, some good, reliable hair-restoring treatment should be resorted to at once. Specialists say that one of the best preparations to use is the old-fashioned "sage tea" which our grandparents used. The best preparation of this kind is Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, a preparation of domestic sage and sulphur, scientifically compounded with later discovered hair tonics and stimulants, the whole mixture being carefully balanced and tested by experts.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is clean and wholesome and perfectly harmless. It refreshes dry, parched hair, removes dandruff and gradually restores faded or gray hair to its natural color.

Don't delay another minute. Start using Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur at once and see what a difference a few days' treatment will make in your hair.

This preparation is offered to the public at 50 cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

Sensible Women Know Foundation of Health

As health talks to women become more general, both in the newspapers and on the platform, the mass of women are beginning to realize what the more cultivated have always known, that good health cannot be found in a powder box. The externals of health may be obtained in that way, but the basis of health lies deeper, and yet is just as easily obtained.

The most important thing that a woman can do for herself, and about which she is often most neglectful, is to watch the condition of her stomach and bowels. The weary eyes, the bad breath, the frequent headaches, the pimples, the general air of lassitude is nine times out of ten the result of constipation or indigestion, or both. Many simple remedies can be obtained, but the best in the estimation of most women is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is mild, pleasant to the taste and exactly suited to her needs. It is far superior to salts, cathartic pills, waters, etc., which are entirely too violent.

Women should see to it that they have at least one movement of the bowels each day, and when showing any tendency to constipation should take Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in the small dose prescribed. A brief use of it will so train the stomach and bowel muscles that all forms of medicine can be dispensed with. These opinions are voiced by thousands of women, after personal experience, among them Edna H. Dickinson, Verndale, Minn., and Marie Yager, Marinette, Wis.

Anyone wishing to make a trial of this remedy before buying it in the regular way of a druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a large bottle (family size) can have a sample bottle sent to the home free of charge by simply addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 405 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Your name and address on a postal card will do.

MERCHANTS THE "GOATS"

Are Blamed for High Cost of Living, Says W. G. Hollis.

Wall Street Making Effort to Control Merchandising of Country.

"Retail merchants of America are tired of being the goats for all the agitation against the high cost of living" said W. G. Hollis of Minneapolis, national secretary of the newly organized National Federation of Retail Merchants, in addressing a small gathering of Duluth jobbers today at the Commercial club.

The jobbers were present at a little luncheon given for Mr. Hollis, who will speak again this evening at a meeting of the retail merchants at the Spalding hotel.

Mr. Hollis is the man described by Charles Edward Russell in a recent magazine article, as "the man who knows so much about the lumber business and tells so little." He was for many years secretary of the Northwestern Lumbermen's association, but has recently become associated with the new retail merchants' organization.

This organization was formed at a meeting in Chicago last October, at which there were 230 delegates from societies that represented 216,000 retail merchants. The organization will be made more permanent at a meeting in Chicago or St. Louis next November.

Must Fight.

"It has come to a stage where the retail merchants must fight for their existence," said Mr. Hollis in an interview today. "It is a well known fact among men of large business affairs, that an organized effort is being made in Wall Street to gain control of the distributing agencies of the country. Such a condition spells the death of the independent retail merchant. This agitation which blames the retail merchant for the high cost of living is part of this move. The public needs the retail merchant and the public is demanding more of the retail merchant than it ever did before. When I was a boy I was sent to the store for our groceries and meat and supplies. Today if the housewife wants a cake of yeast she telephones to have it delivered, and the grocer must send it out by a wagon or an automobile and send it quickly. Such service costs money, and yet the politicians tell you the retail merchant is responsible for the increased cost of living.

"If the day ever comes when the distributing of merchandise is handled by Wall Street, it will see the death of the thousands of prosperous small towns and villages through the West. For these reasons the retail merchants of America must organize and act as a unit. They cannot longer afford to be made the goats for all this agitation about the cost of living."

At the meeting this evening Judge Milton D. Purdy of Minneapolis will also speak to the retail merchants on legal problems which confront them.

RUNAWAY YOUTH MEETS OLDER BROTHER.

Carl Gill, 17 years old, of Ishpeming, Mich., did not think that he would meet his brother when he ran away from home. Carl left home early yesterday morning and got off at a small town in Michigan for several hours. He then took a late afternoon train, on which his brother, who was on his way to Duluth, was also riding. The latter met Carl as he steppe off the train in the Union depot.

After questioning Carl for a few minutes, the older brother learned the plans of the youth who was anxious to make his way in the world. Carl had it all planned out and was on his way to the range, he said, to work and earn some money. The older brother decided otherwise and Carl's father was immediately notified last evening of his son's whereabouts. He will arrive here today to take his son home.

THEODORA GERARD.

E. R. THOMAS.

Linda Lee Thomas wants a divorce. She has been living for two years apart from her husband, E. R. Thomas. She names Theodora Gerard, formerly a member of the octette in "Havana." Mrs. Thomas was one of the beauties of Kentucky. E. R. Thomas was the son of the late Gen. Sam Thomas, who made a fortune in railroads. Young Thomas was a familiar figure on the Great White Way for years. At one time he was seen a great deal in public restaurants with Evelyn Nesbit Thaw and it was reported that Harry Thaw was going to cut off his wife's allowance because of her relations with Thomas. Thomas went in for racing at one time and owned a fine stable. He was one of the most reckless automobile speeders in New York and met with several sensational accidents. The last of these occurred at Long Branch and resulted in the loss of his leg.

Looking for new sensations, possibly, Thomas went into banking and other business ventures and got himself so involved that he was practically bankrupt. His father, however, had put part of his inheritance in trust so that he could not dispose of the principal. Recently his creditors tried to persuade the court to order most of Thomas's income paid to them. He can always fall back on his mother, who is still wealthy. He is living with her in Paris now.

OVERTHROW OF CIVIL SERVICE IN CHICAGO

Safeguards of the Sick Were Scattered to the Winds—2,700 Patients With But One Trained Nurse—Way to Popularize Public Efficiency.

By JANE ADDAMS,
Headworker, Hull House, Chicago.

(Exclusive Service the Survey Press Bureau.)

In spite of the enormous headway the civil service has made in America during the last forty years, the system of examinations for entrance and promotion in public office has never really captured popular imagination. It has always been associated with a cold and correct morality versus open-hearted kindness. Perhaps its propagandists have over-emphasized its usefulness in keeping the rascals out and thus have allowed it to become stranded in the shallow waters of negative virtue.

Although it is in connection with humanitarian institutions that civil service has reached its most telling success, recent events in Chicago have shown that the safeguards which a decade of the merit system have thrown about public care of the sick, the insane, the aged poor, and dependent children, may be scattered to the winds in a spirit of Rabelaisian gaiety with scarcely a protest from the community as a whole. The mere facts that civil service has secured a more efficient administration of public affairs is not of itself a sufficient guarantee that will endure.

A review of the methods of triumphal destruction pursued by the president of the board of county commissioners, to whom the care of Chicago's humanitarian institutions was committed, proves this. One of his earliest official acts was to walk portentiously into the wards of the public hospitals and eat of the food which was being served to the patients. When the eggs proved to be "bad 'uns," he was in a state of righteous indignation and dramatically called upon heaven to witness that never again so long as he held office would the sick poor of the county suffer such indignities.

That very large public to whom the compassionate and big-hearted man always appeals to once concluded that the new president understood the poor and was serving them with unselfish devotion. The fact that the newly appointed food inspector was "Fish Murray," a hungry office holder out of a job who had become famous through his venal lack of discrimination in foods, did not apparently reach the public minds, nor did the fact that a new position was illegally made for him, at a salary of $3,000. The president of the county board dismissed the medical help of the county hospital for the insane, scattered the trained nurses who had been in charge of the patients and ruthlessly fired the corps of civil service employes. Of course, incidentally, many partisans were given positions, but again the fact that they were unfitted, that a huge hospital of 2,700 patients was left with only one trained nurse did not interest the public. It saw only the fact that a kind-hearted man had put in new people to make things better.

The president of the county board next turned his attention to the juvenile court; which affords the best possible field for the operation of befriending the people, for did it not constanly deal with neglected children, with the widows and the fatherless, whose defense has ever been the chief glory of the politician, and began a campaign which cleverly combined the vilification of the chief probation officer and a pathetic appeal on behalf of dependent children. In this he had the support of a Hearst daily with its great advantage of supreme indifference to accuracy, until the stage was at last made ready for the civil service trial of the chief probation officer. This trial was prolonged throughout three months at least, affording an impressive lesson to other public servants against the folly of standing on their rights.

Many things, however, transpired to dim the final triumph. Perhaps the plan was too long or the blackness of the villain too unrelieved. At any rate the leading men in the center of the stage, the civil service commissioners, grew tired of the part assigned them and quarrelled with the stage managers. One of the latter who had promised the place of chief probation officer with a substantial increase of salary suddenly found himself in full view of the audience without a make-up and hastily retreated after an incoherent apology. The spot light, awkwardly managed, unexpectedly threw into bold relief two dependent girls, who, although they had been dramatically abducted by night from an industrial school and carefully coached as to their parts, forget their lines at the crucial moment, as did other prepared witnesses. Before the end of the third month it was clear that the audience had become restless sand the ruder ones occasionally guyed the actors. At any rate an unexpected impression finally got over the footlights that perhaps after all people who had been trained to care for children could do it better than the hastily selected appointees of a kind-hearted politician.

The lesson which the friends of civil service might long since have learned from the petty politician was thus writ large for all to read; that in some wise or other the beneficent aspects of the merit system must be made clear. It would be clearly impossible to destroy the institutions of the people under the guise of befriending the poor, did the public in the least understand its beneficence. To have opened a large public hospital, to the ablest graduates of the medical schools, to have replaced the ward heeler who formerly stood guard over the intimidated insane by trained nurses are results which might well claim the gratitude of the admiring public on a popular basis. Yet such achievements in the end appear colorless, quite as drab and uninteresting as righteousness is proverbially supposed to be.

The humanitarian institutions of the state afford careers as honorable and absorbing as professorships in a great university or as worthy and solid as officialdom in a great business house. At present, however, young people are barred from the services of the state unless they accidentally become interested in its humanitarian institutions. The fact that civil service examinations are to be held is, of course, made public but the date is given with an announcement as dryly official as possible. Gifted youth at the present moment is not systematically allured to the service of the state except through the one old patch of political ambition. The finer sentiments and emotions are still left to be made sport of by self-seeking men, because the so-called reformer is afraid to assert that efficiency is tenderness and that untrained service results in cruelty.

The state will continue to be deprived of the service of the best until the humanitarian values of civil service are made so clear that "he who runs may read."

DRINKING VESSELS.

Mankind has ever exhibited a lively interest in the vessels from which he drinks. A pleasing draught acquires a considerable portion of its virtue according to the manner in which it is offered. Different potions have called for diverse vessels, so that the various drinking vessels serve as milestones in history and mark the change in social costums.

The earliest drinking vessels for wines and ales were those made from skins of animals, and these vessels still retain their popularity in the East and on the continent. In England these vessels were made unbreakable and possessed everlasting properties.

The blackjacks, famed in song and story, were shaped like pitchers, says the London Globe, and were fashioned from one large piece of leather which was curled in the necessary manner. Pitch was smeared over the inside. These old blackjacks gave their name to the heavy riding boots worn by cavaliers, which came to be called jackboots. Owing to the popularity of the blackjacks the French declared that the English drank out of their boots.

A bombard was a jack of immense size, so called on account of its resemblance to the cannon of the time, and the man who could account for a bombard at a sitting was a very formidable fellow indeed. In England these drinking vessels made of hides have almost disappeared but in Italy and France they are much esteemed. Certain kinds of wines retain their flavor and bouquet to a much greater degree when carried in this type of vessel.

Drinking horns were beloved of the early Saxons, who always took their mead in this manner. Many of the old drinking horns were fashioned from the horns of the rhinoceros, under the belief that "it sweats at the approach of poison." Hence, according to this superstition, the drinker would be in a position to tell at once whether an enemy had been tampering with his beverage. The horn was the forerunner of the modern tumbler.

It was considered etiquette among the Saxons that a horn of mead should be drunk at a draught, and in order to insure that this was done primitive drinking horns were made in such a manner that they could not be set down without the mead being spilled. Then some ingenious individuals who desired to quaff their mead at leisure hit upon the idea of weighting the bottom of the horn with lead, thus enabling it to keep an upright position. By a process of evolution the horn gave place to the modern glass tumbler, which is in no sense as picturesque a vessel as the old Saxon drinking horn.

The tankard, which still holds its own in these days, is one of the oldest of drinking vessels. The old tankards were vessels of great capacity, and as they held more than one man could imbibe they were pegged; that is to say, they were divided into equal parts, each part being marked with a peg of wood or silver. Thus, when several were drinking from the tankard, as was the custom, each was supposed to stop drinking when he reached his peg, so that all might share alike. The custom of pegging tankards is said to have been instituted by St. Dunstan in order to place some check on the amount that was drunk and thus obviate brawling.

Few vessels can compare with the old fashioned pewter mugs, either from an artistic or an epicurean point of view. Unfortunately they are expensive vessels, and are seldom met with save at old fashioned hostelries. Some of them are fitted with glass bottoms for those who like to gaze through a glass, even if darkly.

It was customary in old taverns to place rows of glistening pewter mugs along the mantelpieces, and these along with bright candlesticks and other shining utensils formed a delightful contrast to the oak beams. The "mug houses" were a feature of London during the early days of the eighteenth century. They were the resort of those who were strong adherents of the House of Hanover and were to be distinguished by the prominent display they made of pewter mugs.

Earthenware mugs hold an unassailed position by reason of their cheapness. The two handed mugs which are popular in Somerset and from which a couple are wont to drink perpetuate an old custom. Our forefathers were greatly attached to tygs, which were large earthenware mugs equipped with half a dozen or more handles. The mug was passed round and each took a different handle and applied a different part of the mug to his lips.

A WOMAN DRIVES 900 MILES.

A span of ponies were hitched to a single seated top buggy which contained the mother and her four children, one a girl of 11, a boy of 9, a girl of 7 and a baby of 18 months. In the old buggy were plied the worldly possessions of the family.

The journey required six weeks time. Some days they were unable to travel more than fifteen miles. The two older children and part of the time three of them walked while the mother drove. The ponies had only such grazing as they could find along the road and were without grain the entire trip. They were nearly exhausted at the end of the journey.

MISSOURI GRASSHOPPER YEAR.

Kansas City Star: Kansas has sometimes wished that some of the other rightful heirs to unpleasant legacies would come forward and claim their share of the inheritance. Grasshoppers, for instance, do not belong solely to Kansas. J. W. Wood recalls the year that grasshoppers were distinctly a Missouri pest. It was in 1875, the year following the blight Kansas suffered from the all devouring hordes.

Mr. Wood went to Warrensburg that year. The track, laid on the surface, as the early engineering placed it, met many grades. Grasshoppers had taken the land. Every time the train came to a slight grade it was necessary for the passengers and train crew to get out of the train and drive the insects from the right-of-way; crushed on the rails the track became too slick for the locomotive's progress. There was a cut through which the track passed near Warrensburg, and there, Mr Wood recalls, was stationed a section gang with shovels scooping out the windrifts of insects.

There was more or less bravado in the offer a bank in Warrensburg made of $1 for every bushel of grasshoppers brought to the bank. Next day the bounty was reduced to 50 cents a bushel, the following day to 25 cents and the day after the bank announced that it was out of the market for grasshoppers

The woolen goods house for which Mr Wood traveled at that time was dissatisfied with the business he was doing in the West and was prone to discredit his account of the adverse conditions in Missouri and Kansas. Mr. Wood filled a large packing box with dead grasshoppers and expressed it to his firm in the East. His house said nothing more about the lack of trade in the West.

"Yes," said the dean, "and how are you spelling 'Jones' now?"

GRAHAM SAYS MANN LIED

Says His Colleague Knowingly Uttered Deliberate Falsehood.

Controversy Over Mrs. Gray Leads to Bitter Speech in House.

Washington, April 16.—For the purpose of making the flat charge that Mr. Mann, the minority leader, "knowingly" had uttered a deliberate falsehood in an effort to discredit him, Representative Graham of Illinois, chairman of the house interior department expenditures committee, took the floor and delivered a bitter assault on his colleague.

The attack grew out of Mr. Mann's allegations of a few days ago that Chairman Graham had befriended and advised Mrs. Helen Pierce Gray, alleged by him to be a woman lobbyist active in Indian legislation.

ADMITS OWING BANK $180,000

New Orleans, La., April 16.—Joseph H. Gomila, chairman of the finance committee of the Teutonia Bank & Trust company, under arrest with other officials, accused of having sworn to false statements as to the bank's condition, has admitted to the authorities that his indebtedness to the institution is $180,000.

Eugene E. Bahlier, president of the bank, and Frank J. Brand, former assistant cashier, are under arrest. They have been released on bond.

The bank was ordered closed and police were on guard last night keeping back long lines of depositors, who clamored to get into the bank building.

Some estimates place the loss the bank will sustain as between $300,000 and $400,000. No official statement has been issued.

The company had a capital of $200,000, reported deposits of $1,413,569.71 and its reported resources were $2,039,679.37.

WANT NAMES ON THE ELECTION BALLOTS.

St. Paul, Minn., April 16.—(Special to The Herald.)—Names of presidential electors of the United Christian party may be placed on election ballots in Minnesota this year, if action of William K. Benkert of Davenport, Iowa, national chairman, is taken as suggested by Julius A. Schmahl, secretary of state. Mr. Benkert asked in a letter received this morning if their candidates for president and vice president might be placed on the ticket.

Replying, Mr. Schmahl told him that the names of their presidential electors might, if a petition signed by 2,000 or more persons, was filed in his office. No state official knew anything about the United Christian party.

ANOTHER CONTEST FOR THE REPUBLICANS.

Sedalia, Mo., April 16.—Republicans of the Seventh congressional district here elected two sets of delegates to the national convention. The Taft faction named its delegates and then adjourned. The Roosevelt followers then took possession of the room and named their men. The forces of Taft claimed 38 votes, while the Roosevelt men asserted they had 42. Each side claimed its action was regular.

CANAL FROM THE RHINE TO THE EMS

Plan to Make the River Rhine a German Stream From the Black Forest to Its Mouth—Would Reclaim Considerable Stretches of Moorland.

Berlin, April 16.—The River Rhine "the German Rhine," as the Fatherland's national song describes it, may eventually be made a German stream from that corner of the Black Forest where it first enters the empire to its mouth. Plans for a great ship canal to open the stream's way entirely through German territory to the North sea, first broached when Bismarck was in power and known to have had his approval, have now been prepared, with full engineering and financial details, and will be laid before the government, the reichstag, the parliaments of the federated states and the municipalities interested in the project.

The canal, according to these plans, will leave the Rhine near Wesel, follow the boundary of Holland closely and join the River Ems not far from Leer. The city of Emden, at the mouth of the Ems, would thus become the harbor city of two great German rivers, and shipping which now enters the Rhine through Dutch territory would need fear no embargo by hostile navigation or tariff regulations. The estimated cost of the undertaking is $58,750,000, some $4,000,000 less than that of the Rhine-Hanover canal now under construction. Apart from the advantages which this new mouth to the Rhine would afford shipping interests, it would result in the reclamation of considerable stretches of moorland, the so-called Bourtanger moor, through which the canal would run for its entire length. This, it is believed, will appeal strongly to the government, as the emperor in his address from the throne last year announced the government's intention of systematically pushing the reclamation and settlement of moorlands.

Flying is recognized as a regular profession, and professional aviators employed by German aeroplane builders are held entitled to the benefits of the state insurance act if killed or injured in flights executed in testing or selling aeroplanes by a decision just given by the imperial insurance tribunal. The case was that of George Schendel, one of the best known German aviators, and his mechanician, August Voss, who were killed at Johannisthal June 9, 1911, while attempting to break the world's record for height. The widow of Voss claimed for herself and child from the Union of Skilled Mechanics and Electricians, to which her husband belonged, the insurance provided by law, namely, an annuity equal to two-fifths of her husband's annual wages. In view of the extreme risk in this profession, twenty-six German aviators having been killed already, the union appealed to the insurance tribunal for a decision. This is to the effect that while the union is entitled to refuse to pay the legal accident insurance for casualties incurred in sport competitions, it must pay when its member is injured in the regular performance of his duties as a purely technical employe of an aeroplane firm. The court took the ground that the high ascent was a necessary test of the ability of the machine, further that Voss, as the mechanician and not the aviator, was not responsible for the extreme to which the test was carried.

The United States consul general, A. M. Thacwara, and his staff have been soundly scolded by an indignant German for writing to him in English, and the organ of the International German Language society, a large branch of which exists in New York, has approved the scolding. The complainant wrote to the consulate general asking certain information regarding the United States tariff schedules. This was sent to him, but, as is customary in the correspondence of all United States consulates in Germany, in English. The recipient protested and the consulate general wrote an explanatory letter, pointing to the regular custom of the office and the fact that no complaint had ever been made against it. But this letter, too, was in English, and the fact moved the recipient to an indignant answer, which the language society's magazine publishes with approving comment.

"I find it very astonishing and very remarkable," wrote the aggrieved German, "that you have written your answer to me in English. You come to us especially to further the commerce of your nation, and it is your duty to write only German in Germany to Germans. Any other course is a misuse of the hospitality which we extend to you in the fullest measure."

WHY HE QUIT.

Chicago News: "Old Quackenbush and his wife had another row this morning," said the retired merchant. "She asked him to go up to the roof and fix the shingles where it had been leaking, and he said he'd be everlastingly jiggered if he'd do it, and then they began fussing, and you could have heard them in the next county. Quackenbush is a mean old hunks. He won't lift a hand to help his wife with any of the chores around the place.'

"I haven't much use for Quackenbush myself," remarked the hotelkeeper. "He isn't the sort of man to whom I would willingly give my maiden aunt in marriage, but in this instance he was right, and I stand up for him. A woman shouldn't ask her husband to do all carpentering and plumbing and blacksmithing around the place. I believe if you investigated the divorce business you would find that much of the domestic unhappiness in this country is caused by the weakness of wives for always asking their husbands to do chores.

"When I was first married my wife always had a string of chores for me to do when I went home, and at first I did them cheerfully, but my enthusiasm soon dwindled. The more I did the more she had for me to do. One day I'd go down into the cistern to see if there wasn't a dead cat there, and the next day I'd be pruning the trees, and cutting my legs off with edged tools. I don't believe I ever did a chore around home without dislocating a shoulder or rupturing a diaphragm. I never had worked at any trade, and yet my wife took it for granted that I should be a mason and a carpenter, and a plumber and everything else.

"After a while I began making more money, and we were in comfortable circumstances, and I suggested to my wife as kindly as possible that she should send for skilled workmen whenever there was anything to be done around the place. But she didn't approve of that scheme at all. The fact that we're prosperous,' said she, 'is no reason why we should waste money.'

"Well, one day the chimney wouldn't draw, and my wife insisted that I should get up on the roof with a long pole and clean it out. I expostulated and argued for two or three hours, urging her to send down for a chimney sweep, but she wouldn't hear of it. Mrs. Tentacle, a neighbor, was assessed $4 by a chimney sweep for an hour's work, and my wife wouldn't stand for any such highway robbery so long as she had an able-bodied husband loafing around the place. At that time I hadn't learned that it is foolish for a husband to argue about a thing or to protest; his safety lies in handing down his decrees as though they were final.

"So I yielded, and got a pole about a quarter of a mile long, and wrapped some burlap around one end of it, and then I climbed up on the roof and began prodding down the chimney, and I put so much steam into my blows that I broke a hole through the side of the chimney, and half a ton of bricks fell into our sitting room and spoiled some of our best furniture.

"When the pole went through the side of the chimney I lost my balance and went skating down the roof on my shoulder blades, ripping off the shingles as I went. My coat caught on a big nail that some one had driven into the edge of the roof, to hold up the eavetroughs, and I hung there for half an hour, before a large and cultured audience, and I never felt so doggone ridiculous in my life. Finally a neighbor put up a ladder and started to my relief. Just then the nail broke, and I landed on that Samaritan when he was half way up the ladder, and the way the two of us struck the ground was a caution.

"From that day to this I have refused to do chores that I could hire a man to do."

SOURCES OF PLATINUM.

Moody's Magazine: Platinum is found associated with gold, principally in gravel beds. The ordinary source is accumulations of gravel which have been eroded from an extensive area and gradually concentrated in one locality by the continued action of water. It is a rare metal and the accumulation must be from a great extent of country if a paying deposit is to be developed.

Platinum is of a silver gray color which is rarely tarnished. Its development is similar to gold, except that where gold is usually associated with quartz and light colored rocks, platinum will be found more commonly with dark colored rocks, and especially those of a greenish shading.

It is found only in small quantities, except at two or three localities. Western Colombia and Eastern Russia have gravel beds which afford the principal supply of this metal. Elsewhere it is found over considerable areas, but not sufficiently concentrated to be of importance. It may be looked for among the formations adjacent to regions of old volcanic activity.

The distribution is principally in altered rocks, and segregation seems to have been the principal cause contributing to its collection in ore bodies. The deposits found up to the present time have been of irregular mineralization and not of great extent, consequently all platinum deposits must be considered with caution.

Of the rare metals associated with platinum, iridium, osmium, paladium and others, little need be said because of their rarity. If found they will be associated with platinum and will be known by their greater hardness, brighter surface and great specific gravity.

A BEAVER'S DAY WORK.

Harper's Weekly: A young beaver in Regent's Park Gardens, London, was once placed at work upon a tree 12 feet long and 2 feet 4 inches thick just as the town clocks sounded the hour of noon. The beaver began by barking the tree a foot above the ground.

That done he attacked the wood. He worked hard, alternating his labor with dips in his bathing pond. He bathed and labored alternately until 4 o'clock in the afternoon, when he ate his supper of bread and carrots and paddled about in his pond until half-past 5 o'clock.

Ten minutes later, when only one inch of the tree's diameter remained intact, he bore upon his work and the tree fell. Before it fell the beaver ran as men run when they have fired a blast. Then as the tree lay on the ground he portioned it out mentally and again began to gnaw.

He worked at intervals all night, cut the log into three parts, rolled two of the portions into the water and reserved the other third for his permanent shelter. The work done he took a bath.

TAFT TALKS TO GEN. WOOD

Also Consults Cabinet About Course of Affairs With Mexico.

Secretary of War and Chief of Staff of the Army Confer.

Washington, April 16.—Apprehension in official circles of the Mexican situation was indicated today by conferences at the White House in which President Taft and the cabinet, Huntington Wilson, acting secretary of state, and Maj-Gen. Leonard Wood, chief of staff of the army, participated.

Gen. Wood reached the White House soon after the cabinet assembled and held an earnest conversation with Secretary Stimson in an adjoining room. Mr. Wilson then was summoned from the state department and the three officials went into the cabinet room.

ADDITIONAL SPORTS

CLOCKERS' CLUB IS SUGGESTED

New Idea Is to Bring About Expert Timing of Races.

New York, April 16. — Track and field sport for the next season promises to be enlivened by the advent of a new clockers' club, the plans of which have been discussed by the men really interested in the welfare of athletics, and who like to see only genuine records admitted on the athletic annals. The Junior Timers' club is the title under which the organization will float its banner, and if the report is to be believed a man will have to possess certain qualifications before he is eligible for membership, and all will have to undergo the most searching investigation. No man will be considered except one who has served a lengthy term in connection with active athletics in the capacity of clerk of the course, judge at the finish, scorer, inspector or some one of the other duties wherein men acquire some knowledge of competition and its vital points.

Must Have Goods.

When the club assumes fair working order it will not be possible for anyone to come to a meet arrayed in glad rags and a tall hat and plant himself on the finish line of sprint or other races and set himself up as an authority. Neither can he claim eligibility in the new club because he might have spent a term at county fairs timing camel or dromedary races, for only actual acquaintance with track and field sports will go toward securing the diploma of the club. Even should an applicant for membership chance to be connected previously with athletics his record must be above question. For instance, if a man once happened to be discharging the duties of referee and allowed any one competitor to foul everybody in the race, it will count against him; or if at any time he allowed an athlete to start in the final of a sprint who did not earn his right by actual competition it will also militate against him.

It is understood that men with good eyesight only need apply for membership, and those wearing glasses must satisfy by a test that their vision is good to discern the smoke of a pistol at 100 yards away or more. It is said that the watches to be sanctioned by the new club will be on the plan of those used for timing greyhound and whippet races, with the stop on the only class of watch which can render correct time for sprint races. Those behind the new move have it that the old style of watch with the stop and start worked from a lever was more or less of a toy, and got up for amateur horsemen and others of that ilk who liked to see themselves around, watch in hand, and be pointed out as official timers. In clocking a sprint of 100 yards these watches always made the time a fifth of a second faster, or, perhaps, two-fifths when in the hands of a beginner, and it will ever remain a mystery why this style of watch has been given the least credit in the timing of amateur sprint races.

SELF STARTING PROBLEM OF HOUR

Engineers Trying to Make Motors Go Without Muscular Efforts.

After spending years in perfecting the running qualities of their product, automobile engineers are now devoting considerable attention to means for starting with ease and certainty, as the result a strong demand for this luxury.

There are two general methods by which this is accomplished.

One, consists in merely substituting another source of energy for the muscular efforts of the chauffeur. This may be compressed air, electricity, or special mechanical device. In the former case the air may be introduced into cylinders through suitable valves, causing the pistons to move by its pressure on them. The electrical and mechanical devices apply the power to the crank shaft of the engine.

The second general method consists in producing an explosion in the cylinder of the motor when the motor is at rest, and by this means start the engine. It is the problem of the acetylene gas systems to get the gas into the cylinders. It is the problem of the ignition makers to explode this gas by means of an electric spark. While these problems are distinctly different, yet they are so closely allied in actual operation that the maker of the starter and the maker of the ignition apparatus can assist each other and the entire industry to a large extent, if each will work out his proposition, keeping the object of the other in mind and so co-operating for the best ultimate results.

The operator of a car finds that the fuel mixture may have been in the cylinder since the last run, or it may be introduced there just previous to starting. In the latter case, instead of the gasoline mixture, some other substance gasoline mixture, some other substance giving better starting conditions, such as acetylene may be employed.

The charge which is exploded to start the engine, and also the next few charges, are frequently of inferior quality and do not readily ignite.

In other words, the conditions for starting may not be favorable and the entire result may depend upon most perfect ignition. It is the object of the ignition designer and maker, therefore, to produce an ignition system that will overcome, as far as possible, all adverse conditions.

A regular dual ignition device incorporating a battery wired through the same coil as the magneto, offers a generally satisfactory means of starting without cranking. This system is equipped with a push button which acts on the battery current in a manner exactly analagous to the action of the magneto timer or contact breaker. The push operation is equivalent to making the circuit, and the release is equivalent to breaking the circuit. The operator by holding down the button may release it gradually, making the break a slow one, therefore not as effective as a snap.

The spark is produced in the cylinder containing the fuel charge or upon the working stroke. The connections of this push arrangement are necessarily in parallel with the magneto timer or contact breaker. The spark will not occur when the magneto contact points are closed.

It is possible for the motor to stop occasionally in such a position that the contact points will be closed. This happens very infrequently, in fact, our experiments show that it stops in this condition only about once in fifty times.

It is impossible to eliminate this occasional failure altogether because a cam that would take care of this feature absolutely every time would not be entirely satisfactory for its chief work while the car is running.

Then again it is possible for the motor to stop in such a position that a spark occurring even with the magneto timer contacts closed would not furnish the desired results. For example, say the motor stops so the exhaust valve is beginning to open or about 45 deg. before dead center, or on top dead center. Theoretically, motors do not stop on dead center, but they do in actual practice, especially when new.

Of course, the single spark system is not as positive for igniting as a shower of sparks where a bad mixture must be fired. This bad mixture, of course, may be the result of bad gasoline carburetion or faulty mixture of acetylene and air.

SOME CURIOUS DRINKS.

Tit-Bits: Some men boast of knowing the taste of every drink except water. They do not. One tipple they have never sampled is "acorn cup," or "the liquor," the stuff in which hides are tanned into leather.

Made from oak bark and acorns and acorn cups, it has a sharp, bitter taste that is anything but agreeable to the ordinary palate; but the men engaged in some tanneries habitually drink it in small quantities—a wineglassful at a time is the limit—as a pick me up.

Another drink unknown to the general tippler is a favorite among ironstone workers. It is a natural product of a very curious kind. In the best sort of such stone are found hollow pieces, inside of which is about a pint of mush, a cold liquor with a sweet, sharp taste, and either red or white in color. Strangers seldom want more than one sip of mush, but the workmen quaff it with avidity.

There are, too, many kinds of alcoholic products which are rarely if ever tasted outside particular trades. Methylated spirit is drunk not only by furniture polishers but by hatters and others who use it in their work, and it seems impossible to make it so vile that they cannot swallow it.

A man engaged in one of the shops of a London warehouse was found to be drinking considerable quantities of methylated spirit, whereupon the remainder of the stock was dosed with that noisome drug asafoetida, which, it was thought, would make the stuff undrinkable. But the spirit actually disappeared faster than ever.

In the same way some of the alcohol used in scent works is drunk by those who have the handling of it, and some men engaged at drug warehouses get into the dangerous habit of taking "nips" of essences and the like. Not long ago a man employed by a large firm of wholesale chemists was seriously ill through long indulgence in the practice.

THE HERALD IS DULUTH'S GREAT WANT AD MEDIUM

MARKETS ARE INDEPENDENT

Wheat Exchanges of North America Again Fail to Pull Together.

Duluth Flaxseed Market Still Dull and Prices Holding Steady.

Duluth Board of Trade, April 16.—The wheat markets of this continent today once more presented the peculiar spectacle of moving out of concert. Duluth May wheat closed at an advance of ⅜c, Minneapolis at an advance of 1⅛@1c, and Chicago and Winnipeg at a decline of ⅜c. Duluth cash wheat closed at an advance of 1c over May. Durum closed ¼c off and oats a full 1c off. Rye and barley closed unchanged. Duluth May flaxseed closed unchanged and July ½c higher.

The wheat markets of North America this morning went their several ways. As a rule, they pull together, following Chicago, more or less. Yesterday they broke away from Chicago, and up to noon today Chicago had not recovered the leadership, the story being widely circulated that that market was still being manipulated. Duluth May wheat, which closed yesterday at $1.09¾ bid, opened today at $1.09¼ asked, and at noon today was selling at $1.09½. Minneapolis at that time showed quite a bulge, being ⅞c up from the closing figure of yesterday. Winnipeg was off ¼c, being influenced, undoubtedly, by its close associate, the Liverpool market, on which wheat made a weak close today. Chicago at noon was ¼c down, showing a slight reaction from its sensational bulge of yesterday.

The Duluth and Minneapolis movements, which were upwards, seemed logical, in view of the continued reports of heavy damage to winter wheat and the reports of primary receipts on the American markets. These showed quite a falling off from the figures of a year ago. Moreover, a big decrease was reported in the American visible supply.

Wheat at Buenos Ayres closed last night 1¼c to 1⅛c off and opened this morning at a further decline of ½c to ⅝c. The weakness at Buenos Ayres, large Manitoba and Platte offers and the large increase in the European visible supply had quite a bearish influence on the Liverpool market, and it closed ⅝d to ¾d lower.

Flaxseed Market Dull.

There was little doing on the Duluth flaxseed market this morning and prices hardly changed at all. At noon May was unchanged and July was ¼c higher. Offerings were fair, though not so much as they have been, by reason of rains in the West, which have made the roads wet and delayed hauling. There seemed to be just enough of a demand to take all that was offered. Rains in the West have been delaying the spring thrashing. This will probably have something of a bullish effect in the near future. There were six cars of flaxseed on the track for inspection. Buenos Ayres April flexseed closed last night at $1.75¼, being 1½c up, and this morning opened ¼c higher. London Calcutta April flaxseed closed today at $2.17⅞, being unchanged from yesterday. Winnipeg May at noon today stood at $1.94, being unchanged from yesterday's close.

MARKET GOSSIP

J. B. Cooper, who represents the Cargill Elevator company on the Minneapolis chamber of commerce, was a guest on the Duluth board of trade today. Mr. Cooper does not share in the intensely bullish feeling that has been seizing vast numbers of the grain brokers of America, especially on the Chicago board of trade.

"We hear a great deal of talk just now," he remarked, "about the great damage that has been done to winter wheat. While there has undoubtedly been much damage, I think it is a little early to get excited over it. The winter has been very cold and the frost has gone deep in the earth. The spring has been very late. It is not surprising that very little of the wheat has shown any considerable amount of life yet. We may get reports in the near future to the effect that farmers are surprised at its recovery. It has taken an unusual amount of time this spring to bring the frost out of the ground and wheat has not yet had much of a chance to get a start.

"I think the conditions of the Northwest for the spring wheat are excellent. The ground is in fine shape and it is reasonable to look forward to a good yield.

"All through the winter and early spring business has been quiet here, too. The country people are not taking the interest they used to in the speculative doings on the grain exchanges. There has been a vast amount of manipulation lately, especially at Chicago. I think the country people would be more willing to invest and do business on the grain exchanges if the prices on these exchanges were allowed to follow the legitimate channels of trade, instead of being subjected to so much manipulation.

"Another reason why the farmers have not been doing much speculating as in former years is that they have been rather hard up, and have been busily marketing their grain to meet the demands of the bankers and other creditors."

The European visible wheat supply was reported today as follows: This week, 90,124,000 bu; last week, 88,440,000 bu; increase, 1,684,000 bu; increase, previous week, 6,400,000 bu; last year's decrease in corresponding week, 1,200,000 bu; wheat total then, 112,100,000 bu.

The loading of grain upon the barges and vessels in the harbor is now going on at a fairly rapid rate, and the elevators are being relieved. While the car receipts from Western Canada are still very large, there is absolutely no danger of the elevators not being able to handle every bushel of wheat that comes. There is the greatest abundance of room. Before the loading of grain upon the vessels was begun, the elevators were shipping a great deal of grain, nearly all bonded, by rail. Now very little is going out by rail. Yesterday, the bonded grain shipped by rail amounted only to 19,482 bu of wheat and 1,875 bu of barley, but the elevators were relieved of bonded wheat in the elevators to the amount of 526,438 bu, thus making the total amount of bonded grain loaded out of the elevators, 547,795 bu. The vessels which have been taking the wheat in the harbor are the Caldera and the Wainwright.

Le Count reported from Peoria: "From Decatur to Bloomington most of the wheat is dead. The same conditions exist from Bloomington here. Some fields show a little life but the stand is too thin to make a crop. This favorable weather is bringing vegetation forward and will bring out lots of wheat that is weak, but where the wheat is dead, that is the end of it. In most of the fields one can see the drill rows, mostly brown with here and there a dead shoot. I think in this part of the state 75 per cent of the wheat is dead. Farmers are sowing and plowing the fields."

A message from Goodland, Ind., reads: "Conditions in this part of Indiana could hardly be worse. Everybody is plowing up wheat and preparing to plant corn."

John Inglis sends the following after covering the territory from Dayton to Lima, Ohio: "Through Miami, Shelby, Auglaisee and Allen counties I consider the wheat a total failure. About 10 per cent of the acreage shows some thin and spotted wheat, which might possibly make 50 per cent of a crop."

The following was received from T. W. Lewis at Cincinnati: "Ten million bu is a fair estimate for Ohio with favorable conditions to harvest time. Over half of its original 2,000,000 acres will be abandoned. The condition of the rest is not above 50. All that growing weather, sunshine, etc., can do is to the half that is left. The damage is irreparable and without parallel in the history of the state. The bulk of the abandoned acreage has been or will be seeded to oats. Spring is fully three weeks late."

CHICAGO MARKET.

Wheat Is Lively But Trading Is Back Near Normal.

Chicago, April 16.—For the first time in nearly a week the wheat market today approached a normal condition. There was plenty of business, with fluctuations lively. At least for the time being the wildness due to the scare about damage to winter wheat was at an end. Opening prices varied from 1c lower to ⅝@¾c advance. July started at $1.06@1.06¾, a shade off to ⅝@¾c higher; rose to $1.07 and reacted to $1.06½.

Indiana sent word of whole farms of 500 and 600 acres being plowed under. Accordingly the market tightened, but profit-taking led to a setback. July, ½c net higher at $1.06½; May finished ⅜c down at $1.10⅜.

Corn gave evidence of a lack of support. July opened ¼@¾c lower at 76½@76⅞c, rallied to 77⅛c and then fell back to 76¾c.

Reports of starch and glucose works closing down reduced the courage of the bulls. Feeding at the end of the session was weak at 76@76⅛c for July, a decline of 1⅛@1¼c net.

Oats turned weak on account of heavy sales. July started ⅛@¼c to ⅝@¾c down at 53½c to 53⅞@54c, touched 54@54⅛c and then dropped to 53⅞c.

In provisions firmness in the outset was not maintained. Initial transactions ranged from 2½c lower to 7½c gain, with September delivery $18.47½ for pork, $10.70@10.72½ for lard and $10.50 for ribs.

MINNEAPOLIS MARKET.

Wheat Prices Advance on Variety of Supporting Influences.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 16. — Bullish crop reports from the Southwest, light receipts, heavy shipments, liberal withdrawals from local elevators and stronger cash demand, brought support to wheat today and prices advanced gradually. May closed 1@1½c higher than yesterday; July ⅞c higher and September ⅞c higher. Local elevator stocks decreased 335,000 bu for three days.

Carlot wheat receipts follow: Minneapolis today, 94; week ago, 167; year ago, 104. Duluth, today, 51; week ago, 35; year ago, 18. Winnipeg today, 433; week ago, 269; year ago, 184.

Cash wheat was in excellent demand today and light offerings were all disposed of early. Mills active buyers. No. 1 northern sold for 2@2½c above the May contract.

Millstuffs — Shipments, 1,972 tons. Bran continued in good demand, but the heavier feeds slow sales. Prices unchanged.

DECLINES IN STOCKS

Prices of Representative Issues Melt Rapidly Under Selling.

Upward Impulse Given Later By Bears Closing Out Contracts.

New York, April 16.—The common shares of the International Mercantile Marine company were down a point at the opening of today's stock market with a loss of 2½ points on the preferred and 2 points in the 4½ per cent bonds. The movement otherwise was decidedly irregular with gains and losses quite evenly balanced. A decline of 2 points in American Can on sales of 1,000 shares and 1¾ points in Canadian Pacific were especially noteworthy. Fractional losses were shown by United States Steel, Amalgamated and Utah Copper and Erie common and first preferred. Among the specialties were a 2 points advance in Sears-Roebuck. Strength was shown by Northern Pacific, Union Pacific, International Harvester and American Smelting.

There were few dealings in International Mercantile Marine issues during the first hour, with a further loss o a point in the bonds. The list in general became stronger with one point gains in New York Central, Northern Pacific and Amalgamated Copper. American Can common more than regained its loss, selling up to its high record attained on the previous day, with substantial recoveries in the preferred, Union Pacific, Reading and Great Northern preferred also added to opening gains. The market became dull and had sagged back to about the opening figures at 11 o'clock.

The list became unsettled in the second hour, the undertone denoting a mixture of liquidation for profit and bear selling. All early gains were wiped out and prices in many cases were under yesterday's close, the setback ranging from one to two points, with a full three fro American Can. Efforts made early in the day to advance coppers, especially Amalgamated, on rumors that the prospective dividend on that stock may be in excess of the 4 per cent rate, were not credited. International Mercantile Marine issues shaded further and at noon the market was feverishly active. Bonds were steady.

Considerable downward progress was made with the bear faction becoming bolder as it became evident that the market was receiving little support apart from the buying by the shorts. Prices of the representative stocks melted away rapidly and there were severe losses also in some of the industrials that have been unduly active recently. Canadian Pacific sustained a loss of 3 points and Union Pacific, Reading and United States Steel about 2.

The market closed steady. Buying by the bears who make it a rule to close out their contracts each day gave the market an upward impulse, which was accentuated when the rise did not invite fresh selling. Recoveries of a point or more were common in the active shares, and the list showed a better under-current of steadiness than had been looked for in view of the day's developments.

Edwin R. Cooper, manager of the bond department of the company furnishing these figures, remarked today that many people were buying up bonds just now, because they did not feel that the present spell of briskness in business would last a great while, this being a presidential year. Therefore, they were putting their money into bonds, as a safe place to keep it.

COPPER STOCKS ARE STEADY

Most of the copper stocks today closed very little changed from the closing figures of yesterday. There were a few that lost a little. Among these were Giroux, Greene Cananea, North Butte and Butte & Superior. The copper market was kept from rising by the sympathetic influence of the New York general stock list, which was rather weak today. The news from London, however, was bullish, spot copper and futures closing at an advance of 5s over yesterday's close.

Gay & Sturgis received the following closing copper letter from Boston: "Opening quotations on stocks were very strong throughout. For the first hour prices advanced, but at about noon a sharp and decisive reaction occurred, which was no doubt beneficial. Final quotations were much better than the worst and copper shares especially showed great rallying power. A great deal of manipuation is going on, and if it is withdrawn prices will break, but at the same time a lot of people are waiting to buy, and at the moment higher prices seem more likely than not. A move in Utah Copper seems likely."

Paine, Webber & Co. received from Boston the following closing letter: "The local market continued very active today, but the small reaction in Amalgamated brought in more or less liquidation throughout the local coppers, and prices had a sagging tendency. The buying power was good and increased at every fractional decline, so that near the close, when the market turned, there were very few stocks offered. Tamarack was well bought and made a new high record on this movement. We should have news from Hancock within a few days, and we believe this stock around 32 is one of the cheapest on the list. We look for a continued advance in all the coppers and a continuation of the present activity and a good trading market."

Thompson, Towle & Co. say in their Weekly Market Letter: "The best possible test of the legitimacy of the copper metal market is the fact that notwithstanding England has beenin throes of an industrial crisis, and that labor troubles have been rampant in both Germany and France to a lesser degree than in England, prices have steadily advanced, backed up by a large consumptive demand from both this country and abroad. Europe has been a substantial buyer of copper in the face of her labor troubles, recognizing the necessity for the maintenance of stocks which have been steadily decreasing in that country for some time.

"Statistically, copper is in a stronger position than even in 1907, when copper sold at 26c, for in that year we were at the end of a boom which had lasted several years, while at the present time we are almost on the fourth year of a business depression in this country, notwithstanding it is a presidential year, gives evidence of a distinct revival of business, and there is very good prospect of this country having to meet forthcoming large copper demand for railroad electrification with no surplus of stocks of copper."

OUT OF TUNE.

Chicago News: "I see by the newspapers your wife has applied for a divorce," said Scroggs.

"Well, the newspapers seem to have the facts," replied Savage.

"I didn't know you had any trouble in your household."

"There isn't any trouble to speak of. Mrs. Savage and I have the highest regard for each other and always will have. It was simply a case of incompatibility of temperament. She liked the things that I hated, and I hated the things she liked. That naturally led to occasional little scrimmages and so we concluded that we'd be happier apart.

"About a year ago I took a family surrey and harness on a debt and, once having such an outfit, we concluded that we ought to have some critter to haul it, so I went down to the market and bought a handsome mule. I came from Missouri, where mules are held in high esteem. The best citizens of Missouri are proud to ride behind mules. Well, sir, I took that animal home and hitched him to the surrey and then called my wife to the door and invited her to take a ride. She went up in the air as you might say, and said she'd be found dead in a cornfield before she'd ride around behind a mule. So I had to take my ride alone and I didn't enjoy it.

"Then what does that woman do but go down town and buy a family horse. So there we had both a mule and a horse eating their heads off and my wife took her rides behind the horse and I took mine behind the mule and neither of us got any satisfaction out of it, each thinking the other was in the wrong.

"Well, one night the horse and the mule got loose in the barn and kicked each other almost to death, so I had to hire a man to shoot them both, and there we were again, with a good family carriage and nothing to haul it. Things like that were always happening, and they kept us both under a sort of nervous strain that was highly uncomfortable.

"Some time ago, for instance, I bought a phonograph with a number of fine records and hoped to pass many delightful evenings listening to sweet music. I have a great fondness for sentimental songs—songs with feeling and pathos in them, and those records were of that description. Well, the first evening I wound up that machine and leaned back in my chair, prepared for a feast of reason and a flow of soul. No sooner had the machine got down to business than my wife began raising objections. She hated such caterwauling music as that, she said. She wanted something lively, something with snap and go to it. I tried to convince her that the music the machine was playing was the kind that lifted people to a higher plane, but she couldn't see it that way. I don't blame her or criticise her in the least. She has as much right to prefer band music as I have to prefer the songs that reach the heart.

"The next morning that remarkable woman went down to the store and ordered another phonograph with a lot of slap-bang-here-we-are-again band selections, loud enough to be heard in the next county. In the evening, when I put my phonograph into action playing 'Tenting on the Old Camp Ground,' she started up her opposition mill with one of the Sousa marches that fairly loosened the shingles on the roof. You never heard such discord as we had there. I felt it a matter of principle to go ahead and play all my song records, and she kept her rival mill going with band music. Finally a delegation of neighbors came to the door and threatened to resort to extreme measures unless we cut out the noise.

"It was that way all along the line. If I bought a dog, she would get a cat and the two critters would fill the house with fur and bloodshed. So we realized at last that our temperaments never would hitch, no matter how hard we tried to make them and we just naturally agreed on a divorce, with mutual esteem and congratulations all round."

MESSAGES TO LONDON GIVE NO NEW HOPE

Agitation Over Lack of Boats on the Titanic Is Increasing.

Construction of Mammoth Floating Palace Is Severely Criticized.

London, April 17.—Although hope that the list of survivors of the sunken Titanic will be added to has been practically given up, the offices of the White Star line in London, Southampton and Liverpool were again besieged this morning by throngs of anxious inquirers. Some of those who had relatives on board remained at the office throughout the night, scanning the lists given out during the early hours, which, however, proved not to contain any fresh names, but merely corroborations of those given before.

Those who waited in the London offices were mostly women whose husbands had started for America on

REPORTS TWENTY ICEBERGS SIGHTED

Carpathia in Momentary Communication With Sable Island.

Halifax, N. S., April 17.—The wireless station at Sable Island was in communication for a time this morning with the Carpathia en route to New York with the survivors of the Titanic on board. The Carpathia reported that twenty icebergs were sighted off the banks near where the Titanic sank, but no details of the disaster were sent.

The wireless station here reported a violent electrical storm off Sable Island early today which cut off communication with the Carpathia at that time.

Communication with the Carpathia is greatly hampered by the maze of wireless flashes that are being sent out by the fleet of steamers dotting the ocean, all seeking news of the Titanic disaster. Apparently not until the Carpathia gets out of range of these ships will anything filter through.

Control of Convention By Police and Militia or By Boss?

Militant Methods in Michigan and the Tammany Way Compared.

(By Willis J. Abbot).

Washington, April 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The question is raised in Washington as to whether the more militant method of the Republicans in Bay City, Mich., when the police and militia were called out to control the convention, is, after all, better than the more peaceful way in which Charles F. Murphy of Tammany Hall controls the convention in New York. Probably nobody will say that Mr. Murphy expresses in his own personality the view of the voters of New York state. He does stand for an organization which could not exist unless a sufficient number of voters were willing to maintain it. He is close-mouthed, a careful man, keeping his own counsel. Today nobody knows who he stands for for president. Perhaps in the next six weeks he may change his present view. My own opinion, which is formed upon information given to me by men very Lincoln, Neb., April 17.—With the primaries but two days ahead, Nebraska is a stage on which one presidential candidate and a half dozen lieutenants of opponents and would-be nominees of the other party are playing.

Colonel Roosevelt arrived in the state this morning and started his tour, intended to counteract the effect of Senator La Follette's presidential campaign of a week ago.

NEW YORK HARBOR FLAGS LOWERED

Maritime Exchange Directs Expression of Sorrow for the Dead.

New York, April 17.—The flags of all shipping in New York harbor were at half mast today in honor of the Titanic's dead. This action was taken at the official behest of the Maritime exchange, which posted the following resolution under a brief head line, "The Greatest Marine Disaster of Modern Times:"

"The members of the Maritime association of the port of New York express their great regret at the lamentable disaster which has befallen the steamer Titanic, their great sorrow at the deplorable loss of life and property which has evidently accompanied the disaster, and extend to all involved in the great calamity their deep and heartfelt sympathy.

"Resolved, That all vessels in the harbor place their flags at half mast out of respect to the unfortunate dead."

AVIATOR MAY BE SELF-DESTROYER

Belgian Who Threatened Suicide Plunges to Earth During Flight.

Versailles, France, April 17.—John Verrept, the well known Belgian airman, who had participated in many of the leading sporting events in Europe, was killed today while making a flight at the aerodrome here. For some unknown cause his monoplane collapsed while he was flying at a height of 600 feet, and he was killed instantly.

Friends of Verrept express the opinion that the aviator committed suicide. He had yesterday, they say, a dispute with his fiancee, to whom he swore that he would kill himself.

Observers of his flight say they saw Verrept throw his arms up, and the aeroplane, left to itself, crashed to the ground. The machine was found in perfect working order. Verrept was 23 years old.

ESTIMATE SIZE OF BERG THAT WRECKED TITANIC.

Washington, April 17.—The iceberg which caused the Titanic disaster was a giant one quarter to a half mile in length, rising 400 feet out of the water, according to the confident belief of government marine officers, based on reports just received here.

The master of the steamer Carmania has advised the hydrographic office that one week ago today he passed about thirty icebergs and other extensive fields of ice off the Grand Banks of Newfoundland, many of the bergs being in the vicinity of the Titanic wreck.

Reports from other vessels confirmed the terrible conditions of the ice. The British steamer Lord Cromer advised the government officials that mammoth icebergs were seen in these northern latitudes March 31 and April 1.

STORM KILLS FOUR PEOPLE

South Louisiana Visited By Outburst of the Elements.

Lightning, Wind and Rain Do Great Damage to Property.

New Orleans, La., April 17.—Several persons were killed and a large amount of property was damaged in several South Louisiana towns during the night by electric, rain and wind storms. In the early crop district north of New Orleans the damage will be heaviest, it is estimated.

Most of the damage was confined to towns north or west of New Orleans.

The dead:

JOHN WILLIAMS, Plaquemine; struck by lightning.

FRANK MONTELONE, Natalbany; struck by lightning.

CHARLES GILES, Goodbee; caught in collapsing house.

JOHN HAMILTON, negro, Matchas Bayou; struck by lightning.

A wind storm of tornado intensity swept through the town of Ponchatoula, north of New Orleans. A church, a public hall, a mill and several residences were wrecked. Hailstones that accompanied the wind pelted out nearly all the glass in the town. Trees were prostrated. As they fell several persons were hurt. The strawberry crop is said to have suffered.

When the wind passed over the town of Goodbee, several houses were blown down. Charles Giles was killed when the ruins of his home tumbled about him.

In the country about Plaquemine, west of New Orleans, the wind was accompanied by a cloudburst. There was much damage.

Harry Thaw Case Up Friday.

Albany, N. Y., April 17.—A representative of the attorney generals office will appear for the state at the judicial inquiry into Harry Thaw's present mental condition at Brooklyn on Friday.

HOPE NOT YET ABANDONED

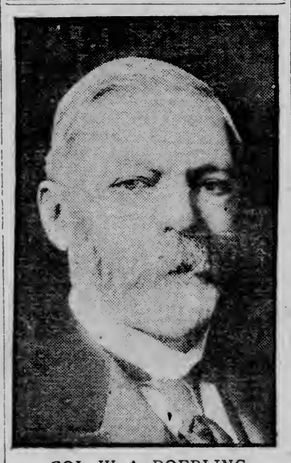
Still a Possibility That Mr. Silvey Is Among the Survivors.

Duluthians Leave for New York to Meet the Carpathia.

Mrs. Dwight E. Woodbridge, sister of Mrs. W. B. Silvey, who was among the rescued passengers of the ill-fated steamer Titanic, left Duluth yesterday for New York, where she will meet the Carpathia on Thursday, when that vessel arrives with its rescued passengers. She still has hopes that Mr. Silvey has been saved and that she will hear tidings of him when she meets Mrs. Silvey. There are nearly 500 survivors whose names have not yet been sent out by the wireless and Mr. Silvey may be among them.

Mrs. Woodbridge was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Peter E. Stroud, the latter being a daughter of Mrs. H. F. Chaffee, who is also among the survivors.

This little Duluth party will be among the thousands who will be gathered on the New York docks to meet relatives and friends among the surviving passengers of the Titanic.



A number of Duluth residents are concerned over the fate of Joseph

JACQUES FUTRELLE IS REPORTED SAFE.

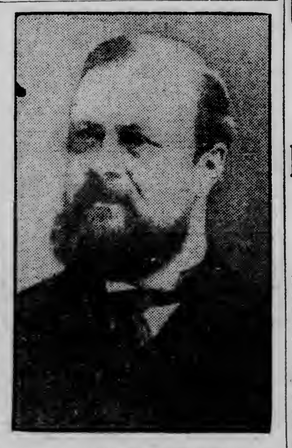
London, April 17.—The list of survivors of the Titanic disaster as given out by the White Star line offices here contains the names of both Mr. and Mrs. Jacques Futrelle of Boston, the novelists. Previous dispatches published here contained the name of Mrs. Futrelle only. Another new name appearing on the list of second-class passengers is that of Miss Finney. The name of Charles M. Hays, president of the Grand Trunk railway, does not appear on the list.

NOTED MEN WHO HAVE LOST LIVES

COL. W. A. ROEBLING, Prominent Engineer.

New York, April 17. — Wealth aggregating something like half a billion dollars was represented by seven of the passengers, who, according to the latest advices, perished in the sinking of the Titanic. The seven are:

Col. John Jacob Aster	$150,000,000
J. Bruce Ismay	40,000,000
Col. Washington Roebling	25,000,000
Isidor Strauss	50,000,000
George D. Widener	50,000,000
Benjamin Guggenheim	95,000,000
J. B. Thayer	10,000,000
Total	$420,000,000



If the fortunes of the first-class passengers alone were placed together they would easily make $1,000,000,000.

Foremost among the passengers in point of wealth is Col. John Astor, who was returning to New York with his bride, formerly Miss Madeline Force. Col. Astor's holdings amounted to probably $150,000,000. Besides attending to his realty interests he was connected with many corporations.

Guggenheim Interests Wide.

Next in financial importance comes Benjamin Guggenheim. Mr. Guggenheim was in the American Smelting Securities company, the great mining corporation which was founded by his father, Meyer Guggenheim. He was connected with the following corporations: Blake & Knowles Steam Pump Works, president and director; the Henry R. Worthington company, presi-

WORD FROM CARPATHIA

CRUISER CHESTER SENDS ITS REPORT

Says All First and Second Class Passengers Rescued Have Been Reported to Shore.

Unverified Marconigram Declares Only 710 Survived Tragedy of the High Sea.

Washington, April 17.—The following telegram has just been received by the navy department from Capt. Decker of the scout cruiser Chester, via Portland, Me.:

"Carpathia states that list of first and second class passengers and crew sent to shore. Chester will relay list third class passengers when convenient to Carpathia."

The message is taken to mean that the list transmitted by wireless from the Carpathia to the station at Cape Race, Nfld., through the Olympic, contains the names of all of the first and second class passengers rescued.

REPORT SAYS 710 SURVIVED.

New York, April 17.—The Camperdown wireless station at Halifax today sent the Associated Press the following dispatch:

"We are now in communication with Carpathia and in position to announce unofficially that the Titanic struck an enormous berg and sunk; over two thousand lost; 700 survivors, mostly women, on Carpathia."

The attention of the Camperdown station was at once called to the obvious error in figures, which would give the total of lost and survivors at 2,700, whereas the total number of passengers and crew was about 2,200.

In reply to the inquiry the following further explanation was received from Halifax:

"The Marconi station reports that nothing authentic regarding lost is known on board Carpathia, but the steamer Franconia, in relaying the messages from the Carpathia, says the total number of saved is only 710. There is no list of missing on the Cunarder, and only a rough estimate of her total passenger list. There probably were more than 2,200 on the ship, as quite a number boarded her at Cherbourg."

The estimates of 2,200 on board the Titanic have embraced the sailings from all ports, including Cherbourg, as far as the company officials have been able to give the information.

LESS THAN 600 MILES OUT.

The Cunarder Carpathia bearing 868 survivors of the sunken White Star liner Titanic was less than 600 miles from New York at noon today, and word eagerly was awaited that would shed further light on the catastrophe of Sunday night, which cost 1,312 lives. Sable Island was in brief communication with the rescue ship for a time this morning, but no additional names of survivors were obtained.

In New York the White Star line officers received a brief wireless dispatch saying that the Carpathia was 596 miles from the harbor entrance. This should bring her into port either late Thursday night or early Friday morning.

At Halifax the cable ship Mackay-Bennett has been fitted out to go to the scene of the disaster. Coffins, ice and embalming materials were loaded aboard in the hope that many bodies may be picked up near the scene of the wreck.

CUNARD OFFICE HAS REPORT OF 705 SAFE

Franklin of White Star Line Insists That 800 Survived Wreck of the Titanic.

New York, April 17. — The Cunard line this afternoon gave out a copy of a Marconi message received from Winfield Thompson of Boston, who is a passenger on the steamship Franconia, saying:

"Steamer Franconia established communication with Carpathia 6:10 a. m. New York time. Latter was then 458 miles east of Ambrose channel in no need of assistance, steaming thirteen knots. Expect to reach New York 8 Thursday evening. Has total of 705 survivors aboard. Franconia is relaying messages from Carpathia to Sable Island."

The number of 705 survivors given in Mr. Thompson's dispatch may mean surviving passengers as distinguished from the crew. A previous dispatch gave the total number of survivors as 868, which was believed to include both the crew and passengers on the Carpathia.

The Cunard office officially announced this afternoon that they expected that the Carpathia would dock at midnight Thursday. Vice President Franklin of the White Star line said that the company places faith in the message that Capt. Rostron has 800 survivors of the Titanic on board the Carpathia. Mr. Franklin said he did not know when the company would get Fifty Thousand Dollar Memorial Dedicated at Washington.

Washington, April 17.—The grim visaged Statue of John Paul Jones, the first great commander of the American navy, moulded by the sculptor to show him as he stood on the deck of the Bonhomme Richard in her fight with the Serapis more than 120 years ago, was unveiled in Potomac park here today with impressive ceremonies.

After more than a century of apparent indifference, honor was paid to the memory of the Scotch-American who spread terror throughout England when she was mistress of the sea and who taught the world that the thir-

ESTIMATE SIZE OF BERG THAT WRECKED TITANIC.

Washington, April 17.—The iceberg which caused the Titanic disaster was a giant one quarter to a half mile in length, rising 400 feet out of the water, according to the confident belief of government marine officers, based on reports just received here.

The master of the steamer Carmania has advised the hydrographic office that one week ago today he passed about thirty icebergs and other extensive fields of ice off the Grand Banks of Newfoundland, many of the bergs being in the vicinity of the Titanic wreck.

Reports from other vessels confirmed the terrible conditions of the ice. The British steamer Lord Cromer advised the government officials that mammoth icebergs were seen in these northern latitudes March 31 and April 1.

STORM KILLS FOUR PEOPLE

Lightning, Wind and Rain Do Great Damage to Property.

New Orleans, La., April 17.—Several persons were killed and a large amount of property was damaged in several South Louisiana towns during the night by electric, rain and wind storms. In the early crop district north of New Orleans the damage will be heaviest, it is estimated.

Most of the damage was confined to towns north or west of New Orleans.

The dead:

JOHN WILLIAMS, Plaquemine; struck by lightning.

FRANK MONTELONE, Natalbany; struck by lightning.

CHARLES GILES, Goodbee; caught in collapsing house.

JOHN HAMILTON, negro, Matchas Bayou; struck by lightning.

A wind storm of tornado intensity swept through the town of Ponchatoula, north of New Orleans. A church, a public hall, a mill and several residences were wrecked. Hailstones that accompanied the wind pelted out nearly all the glass in the town. Trees were prostrated. As they fell several persons were hurt. The strawberry crop is said to have suffered.

When the wind passed over the town of Goodbee, several houses were blown down. Charles Giles was killed when the ruins of his home tumbled about him.

In the country about Plaquemine, west of New Orleans, the wind was accompanied by a cloudburst. There was much damage.

HOPE NOT YET ABANDONED

Still a Possibility That Mr. Silvey Is Among the Survivors.

Duluthians Leave for New York to Meet the Carpathia.

Mrs. Dwight E. Woodbridge, sister of Mrs. W. B. Silvey, who was among the rescued passengers of the ill-fated steamer Titanic, left Duluth yesterday for New York, where she will meet the Carpathia on Thursday, when that vessel arrives with its rescued passengers. She still has hopes that Mr. Silvey has been saved and that she will hear tidings of him when she meets Mrs. Silvey. There are nearly 500 survivors whose names have not yet been sent out by the wireless and Mr. Silvey may be among them.

Mrs. Woodbridge was accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Peter E. Siroud, the latter being a daughter of Mrs. H. F. Chaffee, who is also among the survivors.

This little Duluth party will be among the thousands who will be gathered on the New York docks to meet relatives and friends among the surviving passengers of the Titanic.

JACQUES FUTRELLE IS REPORTED SAFE.

London, April 17.—The list of survivors of the Titanic disaster as given out by the White Star line offices here contains the names of both Mr. and Mrs. Jacques Futrelle of Boston, the novelists. Previous dispatches published here contained the name of Mrs. Futrelle only. Another new name appearing on the list of second-class passengers is that of Miss Finney. The name of Charles M. Hays, president of the Grand Trunk railway, does not appear on the list.

WORD FROM CARPATHIA

Says All First and Second Class Passengers Rescued Have Been Reported to Shore.

Unverified Marconigram Declares Only 710 Survived Tragedy of the High Sea.

Washington, April 17.—The following telegram has just been received by the navy department from Capt. Decker of the scout cruiser Chester, via Portland, Me.:

"Carpathia states that list of first and second class passengers and crew sent to shore. Chester will relay list third class passengers when convenient to Carpathia."

The message is taken to mean that the list transmitted by wireless from the Carpathia to the station at Cape Race, Nfld., through the Olympic, contains the names of all of the first and second class passengers rescued.

REPORT SAYS 710 SURVIVED.

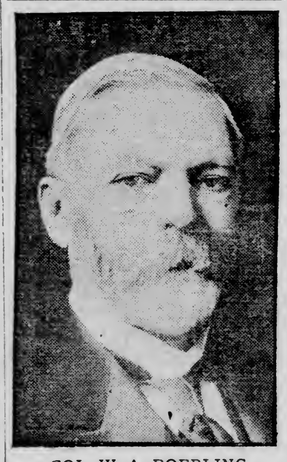
"We are now in communication with Carpathia and in position to announce unofficially that the Titanic struck an enormous berg and sunk; over two thousand lost; 700 survivors, mostly women, on Carpathia."

The attention of the Camperdown station was at once called to the obvious error in figures, which would give the total of lost and survivors at 2,700, whereas the total number of passengers and crew was about 2,200.

In reply to the inquiry the following further explanation was received from Halifax:

"The Marconi station reports that nothing authentic regarding lost is known on board Carpathia, but the steamer Franconia, in relaying the messages from the Carpathia, says the total number of saved is only 710. There is no list of missing on the Cunarder, and only a rough estimate of her total passenger list. There probably were more than 2,200 on the ship, as quite a number boarded her at Cherbourg."

The estimates of 2,200 on board the Titanic have embraced the sailings from all ports, including Cherbourg, as far as the company officials have been able to give the information.



LESS THAN 600 MILES OUT.

The Cunarder Carpathia bearing 868 survivors of the sunken White Star liner Titanic was less than 600 miles from New York at noon today, and word eagerly was awaited that would shed further light on the catastrophe of Sunday night, which cost 1,312 lives. Sable Island was in brief communication with the rescue ship for a time this morning, but no additional names of survivors were obtained.

In New York the White Star line officers received a brief wireless dispatch saying that the Carpathia was 596 miles from the harbor entrance. This should bring her into port either late Thursday night or early Friday morning.

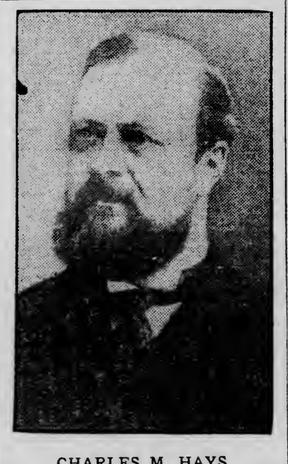
At Halifax the cable ship Mackay-Bennett has been fitted out to go to the scene of the disaster. Coffins, ice and embalming materials were loaded aboard in the hope that many bodies may be picked up near the scene of the wreck.

NOTED MEN WHO HAVE LOST LIVES

COL. W. A. ROEBLING, Prominent Engineer.

New York, April 17. — Wealth aggregating something like half a billion dollars was represented by seven of the passengers, who, according to the latest advices, perished in the sinking of the Titanic. The seven are:

Col. John Jacob Astor	$150,000,000
J. Bruce Ismay	40,000,000
Col. Washington Roebling	25,000,000
Isidor Strauss	50,000,000
George D. Widener	50,000,000
Benjamin Guggenheim	95,000,000
J. B. Thayer	10,000,000
Total	$420,000,000



If the fortunes of the first-class passengers alone were placed together they would easily make $1,000,000,000.

Foremost among the passengers in point of wealth is Col. John Astor, who was returning to New York with his bride, formerly Miss Madeline Force. Col. Astor's holdings amounted to probably $150,000,000. Besides attending to his realty interests he was connected with many corporations.

Guggenheim Interests Wide.

Next in financial importance comes Benjamin Guggenheim. Mr. Guggenheim was in the American Smelting Securities company, the great mining corporation which was founded by his father, Meyer Guggenheim. CUNARD OFFICE HAS REPORT OF 705 SAFE

New York, April 17. — The Cunard line this afternoon gave out a copy of a Marconi message received from Winfield Thompson of Boston, who is a passenger on the steamship Franconia, saying:

"Steamer Franconia established communication with Carpathia 6:10 a. m. New York time. Latter was then 458 miles east of Ambrose channel in no need of assistance steaming thirteen knots. 'Expect to reach New York 8 Thursday evening. Has total of 705 survivors aboard. Franconia is relaying messages from Carpathia to Sable Island."

The number of 705 survivors given in Mr. Thompson's dispatch may mean surviving passengers as distinguished from the crew. A previous dispatch gave the total number of survivors as 868, which was believed to include both the crew and passengers on the Carpathia.

The Cunard office officially announced this afternoon that they expected that the Carpathia would dock at midnight Thursday. Vice President Franklin of the White Star line said that the company places faith in the message that Capt. Rostron has 800 survivors of the Titanic on board the Carpathia. Mr. Franklin said he did not know when the company would get

PAST RECORD UNDER FIRE

Prisoner Denies That She Stole From Other Roomers in Her Home.

TESTIMONY RULED OUT.

At this afternoon's session of the district court shortly before 3 o'clock, Judge Dancer granted a motion ruling out all the testimony submitted during the morning, which had to do with former complaints against Mrs. Torrence.

A new feature was furnished by the Torrence larceny trial in district court today, when Mrs. Eleanor Torrence, under cross-examination by Prosecutor Warren E. Greene, denied point blank that she had ever been accused of stealing prior to the trouble at the Torrence home last November, for which she is now on trial.

In response to questions put to her by Mr. Greene, she denied that Mrs. Breckenridge had seen her take a book from Stone's book store; that Mrs. W. B. McDonald, whose sister, Miss Morrell, roomed at the Torrence home had complained of losing diamonds; and branded as a falsehood any insinuation that other roomers had complained of losing property while occupying quarters at the Torrence apartments.

The line of questioning was objected to by Andrew Nelson, attorney for Mrs. Torrence, on the ground that the evidence might tend to incriminate the witness on a charge for which she was not on trial. Mr. Greene argued that the questions were put purely for the purpose of impeaching the testimony of Mrs. Torrence. The court overruled the objection interposed by Attorney Nelson, who fought every inch of the way.

Referring to the Stone book store episode, Mr. Greene asked: "And at the time, she (Mrs. Breckenridge) saw you take that book out of the shelf and put it in your bag, didn't she?"

Here, Attorney Nelson interposed an objection, but not before Mrs. Torrence had answered the question. Her answer was given in a low voice and probably was not heard except by a few people in the room. It appears on the records as:

"I bought the book and paid for it—she saw me pay for it and for some candy."

Denies the Charge.

Judge Dancer overruled the objection and the question was again stated to the witness. Her answer this time was "She did not."

"And did she not say to you, 'What are you doing there?"

"She did not."

"And then, did you not reply to her and say 'I'm simply going to take this book home and read it and bring it back?"

"Mr. Greene, I did not."

The witness then denied that Mrs. W. B. McDonnald had complained to her that while visiting her sister at the Torrence home that she had lost two diamonds, valued at $110 and $40, and that a Mrs. Norris, who roomed at the Torrence apartments had stated to her that she had lost diamonds and money while there.

Just before the noon adjournment of the court, Mr. Green asked Mrs. Torrence if she had ever lived at 315 West Fourth street. She stated that she had. He asked her if Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Crab did not take rooms with her and if on Oct. 25, 1908, they did not complain to her that they had lost a long list of articles, which Mr. Green read from a search warrant. At this point and before the witness answered, the court took its noon recess.

Mrs. Torrence admitted on cross-examination that it was she who had furnished whisky to the draymen who had been engaged in moving the Breckenridge goods from her home. When Mr. Green asked her if it were not true that this was not the first time that people rooming at her house had lost things and that she had claimed that the goods had been "planted." an objection was put in by her attorney. The court sustained the objection.

On her direct and cross-examination with reference to several instances which occurred on both days of the search, Mrs. Torrence has not hesitated to pass the lie to Detectives Bradley and Terry and has also handed it to Mrs. Breckenridge, the state's complaining witness.

When Assistant County Attorney Green brought out the testimony from Mrs. Torrence, calculated to impeach her veracity, Attorney Nelson stated that if the state intended to "go into those things" that in all probability the trial would drag along in the courts for another two weeks.

ROAD FUNDS WELL SPENT

Secretary of State Engineers Complete Tour of Northern Counties.

Favors the Patrol System for Keeping Roads in Repair.

Charles A. Forbes of St. Paul, secretary of the state engineers' society and assistant engineer for the state highway commission, wound up a tour of Crow Wing, Cass, Beltrami, Hubbard, Becker, Aitkin and Carlton counties in Duluth today.

Mr. Forbes has been investigating the methods of the different county boards in distributing road funds throughout their districts. He says that in each case the county boards are doing well spreading the money through the districts on roads where it will do the most good.

"In each case," says Mr. Forbes, "the funds are being distributed in a manner highly satisfactory. All the improvements being made are permanent and the roads being built bid fair to some day rival those of older and more established sections. Once well built, the roads, I think, will be lasting and a credit to the counties."

Mr. Forbes is very much in favor of the road patrol system, which is a plan by which the different roads are kept in repair in sections. The plan is very much on the same order as that used by railroads, which have men every few miles whose duty it is to keep a certain number of miles of track in repair.

On the road system a man is kept every six or eight miles. That length or road he is supposed to keep in good repair. The system is being adopted by a number of counties, and Mr. Forbes states that it is found to be very satisfactory.

Mr. Forbes is one of the best known engineers of the state, being prominently identified with the state society, which recently held its annual convention in Duluth.

Mr. Forbes left this afternoon for his home at St. Paul.

CHEAPER TO BUY THAN MINE

Consumers Are Finding Present Low Iron Prices Attractive.

"Consumers who own their own ore should keep it and fill their requirements from the mines of people who are willing to provide it at the present prices," is the belief of Capt. Thomas Walters of Negaunee, Mich. manager of mines for Jones & Laughlin, one of the largest iron and steel manufacturing firms in the United States. Capt. Walters was in Duluth last evening on his way to the Mesaba range.

Capt. Walters claims that the present price of iron ore warrants each consumer purchasing instead of using his own. "I have recommended to my company," he said, "to purchase all the ore it can buy. It is proahble that at least 1,000,000 tons will be purchased by the Jones & Laughlin company this year."

DIETZ STORY IS RETOLD

Lester and Myra Dietz Visit Duluth to Raise Defense Fund.

Son Claims His Father Was Victim of Cruel Persecution.

Lester Dietz is a fine manly intelligent young man. Myra Dietz is a fine looking girl—and she never fired a gun in her life her brother says. She doesn't dress in the costume of the cow girl; instead she was attired today in a neat brown tailored suit and one would never guess that this girl has passed through one of the most remarkable and unique battles between organized society, represented by the officers of the law, and a lone man.

Lester and his sister are in Duluth this week appearing at a local theater.

"Were we persecuted?" Lester Dietz repeated the question of the interviewer. "I should say we were. Marshals in the dress of lumberjacks were hired to come and get us. Thugs were sent innumerable times to shoot father and us boys. We can prove where they have hired men to assassinate us. Hundreds of shots have been fired at us. Myra never fired a gun in her life, yet they would have you believe that she was in the habit of shooting at people that came out to view the house.

"Governor Davidson never made any direct proposition to my father regarding the arbitration of our contention, mainly that they had no right to run the logs through our farm. Two men did come and represent themselves as state officials. An official of the lumber company brought them. This made it look bad at the very start. We have never discovered whether they were really state officials or not.

"One of the seasons why father never surrendered was the very simple one that we were never given a real chance. On that day when we gave up they started shooting before they gave us a real chance. They attacked us without the least warning when we were driving to Winter. Why we were not murdered in cold blood, is something that I cannot understand. Sheriff Madden is a coward.

Expect Father's Release.

"Father will be out of prison, at least, we have every occasion to believe he will be. I don't see how they can beat us at the new trial. They don't know that it was father who killed that man; there were bullets coming from all around the house, so how can anyone swear that John Dietz killed this deputy?

"Our cause has been a just one. The lumber company never attempted to take the dispute into court. Many of the things that were printed in the papers were untrue, absolutely. Newspaper men, who came to our home, and hundreds of them were entertained there, always gave the facts in the case. But the lumber company officials took care that many things regarding us crept into print, all of them tending to discredit us.

"Father is not insane; neither is he quick tempered and ugly. He is one of the best informed men in the country and a man who believes in fairness. They said that his own brother didn't like him. Here is a letter from this same brother and you can see what he says.

"Father and Clarence and I have been shot at many times. They tried hard to kill us and perhaps we should be thankful today that some of the members of the family were not killed. Myra was shot up and so was Clarence. Myra is not entirely well at the present time, her spine being affected. She may never fully recover.

"It has been a long and bitter struggle and I believe the people of Winter and Hayward would have been glad to have settled years ago. I don't believe they feel bitter toward us. We were fighting for our rights and we overlooked chances to kill those opposed to us in that famous fight. That was one of the things we were particular about.

"We have rented the farm. None of the family is there at the present time. I don't know whether we will go back. Plans are hard to make just now. We are all confident that father is going to get out of the state penitentiary, for we don't see how the state has any case against us.

"I saw father the other day. He is bearing up well, for he believes with us that he will regain his liberty. Father is 50 years of age, so you see he is not as old a man as you may have imagined from reading some of the stories in the papers.

"There is no chance in the world to prove him insane. His mind is bright and well developed, for he is a studious man. He is not a Socialist. Father and some of the rest of us believe in some of the principals of Socialism, just as many other people do; but that statement that we are Socialists is wrong."

While Lester was giving his story Miss Myra sat and listened. She had little to say. She impresses one as being a very bright girl, exceptionally bright in fact, and she is well poised, self possessed and is not the type that one would look for in the daughter of the John Dietz as pictured by gossip, newspaper stories, rumor and the imagination of the public mind.

Both Lester and Myra believe that the stage work they are engaged in at the present time is helping them, or rather giving them the opportunity, to present their case to the public. The children of the famous defender of the dam believed the Dietz family has been unjustly, criminally persecuted, and they want the public to know this version of it.

ASK STATE TO SELL BONDS.

Minneapolis Men Want Money Spent in Virginia Paper Regained.

St. Paul, Minn., April 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Minneapolis Real Estate board believe the state should sell the Virginia bonds in the vaults of W. J. Smith, state treasurer, and bring the money here, where it may be used for internal improvements and bring 4 per cent interest instead of 3, as it now draws.

In a letter to the governor and other members of the state investment board, H. F. Newhall, secretary, quoted the following resolution, passed at a board meeting yesterday:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this meeting, that the $2,000,000 of bonds of the state of Virginia, held by the state of Minnesota, could more properly be invested in the securities of communities within our own state, and that the state investment board would do well to sell these bonds and make such investments with a view to promoting improvements within the state.

BOARD WAS NOT TO BLAME

Delay in Making Final Assessment Was Due to Lawsuit.

Comptroller's Criticism Is Claimed to Have Been Unjust.

The delay in making the final assessment for the Sixth and Vista streets improvements was due to no neglect on the part of the board of public works, says R. Murchison, clerk of the board.

Mr. Murchison explains that it was impossible to make the final assessment because the figures were not given to the board by the engineering department, although they were requested on more than one occasion. A law suit involving the same improvement was also pending and this was another reason for the delay, holding up the matter in the engineering department.

It appears that the job was done by two different contractors, one doing the grading and the other the paving. The paving contractor claimed that his predecessor did not finish his work and that they had to complete the grading before they could lay the paving. This caused a difference as to payments, which were finally adjusted in the courts.

The court held that the street intersections should be paid from the street intersection and storm sewer fund and that under the wording of the amendment it made no difference when the job was finished. For that reason the $6,600 for the intersections was taken from that fund.

On the face of the matter the board of public works is charged with the delay, but investigation shows that the board was not responsible. As far as the board was concerned the matter was put through as expeditiously as possible, it is claimed.

W. S. McCormick, city comptroller, who sent the communication to the council relative to the improvements, stated this morning that the board was wrongfully charged with the delay in making the assessment. He said that the information on which the assessment was based was furnished to the board Jan. 30, 1912, and that the board promptly prepared the assessment.

Kelsall, a Duluth & Iron Range employe, who may have been among the passengers of the Titanic. He had been visiting at his home in England during the last three months, and in a recent letter to friends at Duluth stated that he intended to leave England on his reurn to America on the White Star liner Titanic on April 10. It is not certain that he carried out this intention, and his name does not appear on the list of passengers as published.

Many Finnish People.

A. Riippa, editor of the Duluth Finnish paper, the Siirtolainen, received a message yesterday to the effect that among those who lost their lives in the catastrophe was a party of Finns, who were on their way to make their homes in St. Louis county. The party included 26 men, 22 women and about 30 children. All were farmers and were coming with a view to making their living by that occupation. Some of them had money enough to buy their farms immediately. Others had made arrangements with friends and relatives at and near Duluth to take care of them until they had a chance to make a start.

How the Titanic, supposed to be one of the most modern and thoroughly equipped boats ever built, could have been disabled and put in a sinking condition by a collision with an iceberg is a question that is exciting universal wonder and comment.

Views of Mariners.

Capt. Albert Swenson, United States hydrographer, located at Duluth, himself an experienced navigator, remarked today that he did not see why the Titanic should have sunk, even if she did hit an iceberg hard enough to stave in her bow. The Titanic was a compartment ship, as all modern ships are, and even if two or three of her compartments should be filled with water, she would not necessarily sink. Capt. Swenson thinks it possible that the force of the collision sheared thousands of rivets and opened up the vessel so that she was bound to fill. Another theory that he suggests is that after the ship struck, she slid forward on a shelving part of the berg and buckled so that she virtually broke in two.

Capt. Swenson regards it as a very unusual occurrence that icebergs should be as far south as the northern route between England and America as early as April. As a rule, he says, there is little to fear from icebergs in the northern Atlantic track of vessels before June. Some charts, however, have shown icebergs well down towards that latitude, even in March.

R. H. Kidd, marine surveyor and architect, of Duluth, agrees with Capt. Swenson that it is very odd that a great compartment boat like the Titanic could have been so damaged by collision with an iceberg, as to sink in a few hours, and like the captain, he thinks she either buckled or sheared rivets in great numbers.

N. F. Hugo of Duluth recalls his experience as chief engineer of the steamship City of Topeka on her maiden trip from Chester, Pa., to Guymas, Mex. The ship struck a rock in the Straits of Magellan, but kept afloat because she was a compartment boat, although the bow settled eight feet. In this condition she completed her journey, the remaining distance being about 7,000 miles.

brought to a close a movement begun several years ago to provide some memorial of the great naval hero. It started with a wave of public interest by the discovery in France and removal to America of the remains of the sea fighter. Designs were submitted by famous sculptors and the choice finally fell upon that offered by Charles P. Niehaus of New York, for a statue, including a fountain, pylon and approaches, the whole work costing $50,000.

The memorial is located on the northwest shore of the Tidal Basin in Potomac park, at the foot of Seventeenth street, not far from the White House. It consists of a marble pylon of classic design as the background for a colossal bronze figure of the intrepid naval commander of the early days of the republic.

The pylon is a rectangular tower about fifteen feet in height. It occupies the center of an ornamental fountain, water for which is supplied from the bronze heads of dolphins, on each side of the pylon.

Statue Ten Feet High.

Under the statue is inscribed:

"1747—1792."

"First to compel foreign men of war to strike colors to the Stars and Stripes."

On the rear of the pylon is an inscription of the language popularly attributed to Jones when called upon by the British frigate Serapis to surrender the battered Bonhomme Richard. The inscription is arranged without quotation marks, as follows:

Surrender?—I have not yet begun to fight.

teen colonies had a right to a place among nations.

Most of the dignitaries in Washington honored the memory of John Paul Jones.

Taft and Porter Speakers.

President Taft and Gen. Horace Porter were the only speakers on the program. George von L. Veyer, secretary of the navy, was presiding officer, and to Admiral Dewey was assigned the task of pulling the cords that released the flags about the heroic figure.

The U. S. S. Dolphin and Mayflower, anchored in the Potomac just west of the Washington monument, fired the national salute of twenty-one guns as the admiral of the navy tugged at the cords.

Practically all the available military force near Washington, more than 1,000 men, participated in the parade before the unveiling and passed in review before President Taft afterwards. In the naval column was included the entire brigade of midshipmen from Annapolis. In all, Brig. Gen. Robert K. Evans, U. S. A., grand marshal of the day, had arranged for a force of more than 2,500 officers and men.

Around the monument and speaking stand seats had been erected for 1,200 persons, including officers of the army and navy, members of the senate and house and other officials.

Movement Started Years Ago.

MESSAGES TO LONDON GIVE NO NEW HOPE

business or to make new homes there for their families.

Early this morning the White Star company gave out the statement received from the captain of the Olympic that neither the Virginian nor the Parisian had survivors on board, and expressing the belief that all those who had been rescued were on board the Carpathia.

Agitation Over Boats.

While travelers generally understood the fact that the great liners do not carry enough boats to accommodate all of the passengers and crew, to the general public the news that all on board the Titanic did not have a chance of saving their lives in this way came as a rude surprise, and there is likely to be considerable agitation in and out of parliament on the subject.

The lord mayor of London today opened a mansion house fund for the relief of the families of the crew of the Titanic and of any others left in needy circumstances in consequence of the disaster.

A memorial service for the victims is to be held at St. Paul's cathedral on April 19.

Much indignation is expressed in connection with the publication of the telegrams stating that the Titanic was in tow of the Virginian just after the news of the accident was received. Col. Charles E. Yate, member of parliament for Leicestershire, will ask the president of the board of trade in the house of commons if his attention has been drawn to the publication of the telegrams and whether their origin could be traced.

Construction Criticized.

The electrical control of the bulkheads installed in the Titanic is coming in for much criticism. It is stated here that they are a pet idea of Lord Pirrie, who insists on introducing them in ships built at Belfast despite the condemnation of many well known contractors who pin their faith to hydraulic power as being far more reliable. These constructors point out that even a small mishap is liable to render the electric installation useless.

A meeting of the executives of the British committee for the celebration of the centenary of peace, held under the presidency of Earl Grey, today passed the following resolution:

"This committee, formed to celebrate the centenary of unbroken peace and friendship between the British empire and the United States of America, desires to convey the expression of its profound and heartfelt sympathy to the families of those who have been lost with the Titanic. In particular it desires to express its solicitude for the safety of William T. Stead, a member of this committee, who was traveling by the vessel on a mission of peace."

This has been well known to the best doctors for years as the quickest and most reliable cure obtainable for rheumatism and back-ache. It has been published here for several winters and hundreds of the worst cases cured by it in a short time. "From your druggist get one ounce of Toris compound (in original sealed package) and one ounce of syrup of Sarsaparilla compound. Take these two ingredients home and put them into a half pint of good whiskey. Shake the bottle and take a tablespoonful before each meal and at bedtime." Results come the first day. If your druggist does not have Toris Compound in stock he will get it in a few hours from his wholesale house. Don't be influenced to take some patent medicine instead of this. Insist on having the genuine Toris compound in the original, one ounce, sealed, yellow package.

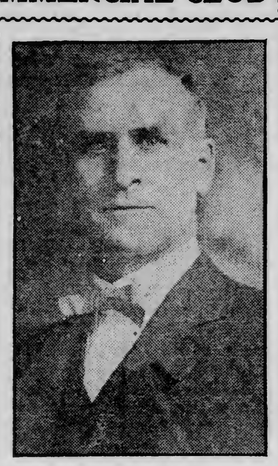
West End News

HERALD BRANCH:
Herman Olson, Manager, 1823 West Superior Street.

WOULD REVIVE DAYS OF OLD DULUTH COMMERCIAL CLUB

In the announcement that the West End Commercial club will be reorganized at a special meeting Friday evening, business men of this end of the city recall with interest the organization of the old Duluth Commercial club of 1895. The club was a strong factor in the industrial and business life of the West end until 1905, when it disbanded.



Since that time several attempts have been made to organize a permanent association, but none have met with success. Those behind the present move expect to revive some of the old interest which prevailed back in '95. It is planned to organize with a membership of about 200.

A number of prominent citizens of the West end were affiliated with the old Duluth Commercial club. Among them were: Francis Long, J. H. Whitely, Charles S. Pierce, Nathan L. Summerfield, S. W. Hill, Hugh A. Whitmore, Jacob Zimmerman, W. W. Allen, Frederick H. White, J. L. Ryter, J. W. Nelson, William F. Schnuckle, Peter J. Krupp, P. L. Johnson, J. W. Preston, R. C. Sloan, L. A. Gunderson, John Peterson, L. W. Fowler, W. I. Olson, Robert Mooro, P. Baake and N. N. Vie. Its first officers were: Francis Long, president; Sanford W. Hill, vice president; and J. H. Whitely, secretary.

Mr. Hill, who was first vice president of the first club and the last president of the last West End Commercial club, in speaking of the reorganization, yesterday afternoon said: "A number of these old charter members are now dead, but many are still living. When it was in its prime, the club had an active membership of 100, which included the best from all parts of the city. That was before the day of the present Duluth Commercial club and at that time the local club was the only organization of its kind in the city. The club disbanded in 1905. It was at that time that the present Duluth Commercial club was organized.

"We certainly did a great deal for Duluth during the first years of our existence. The present Interstate bridge was built while the club was in existence and the organization played a prominent part in closing the details for the city. The members took part in everything that was going on and the welfare of Duluth was always at heart.

"The club had a number of committees, which looked after the different interests of the city and the organization was operated similar to the city council. It is just such an organization that the West end itself needs at the present time—one that will aid this end of the city and secure the various improvements that are needed from time to time. With a number of committees in operation there is no doubt but that the West end will come into its own."

S. W. HILL.

In recalling the old club, Mr. Hill produced a small pamphlet, which told of the various features of that organization. The by-laws and constitution are inclued in the pamphlet as well as the following standing committees: Legislation, transportation, harbors, streets and parks, health and sanitation, municipal affairs, membership, reception, education, industrial, auditing, mercantile, manufacturers and property and finance.

At the meeting Friday evening a new organization will be perfected and officers elected for the year. Mr. Hill will be in charge of the meeting.

DOCTORS CURE MEN AND WOMEN

New Doctors Are Skillful Specialists in Diseases of Men and Women.

Cure Diseases of All Descriptions Most Successfully.

There are a great many diseases which were looked upon to be incurable. It was considered to be impossible to fly fifty years ago, but since we learned to fly as much as to cure so-called "incurable." People have always looked up to medicine as the one means to save human life and restore health to the one afflicted with disease. In this age of scientific advancement the world is steadily getting further away from medicine because of the many failures.

The Electro Medical Doctors have brought to this city a new method, entirely different from anything we ever had. At first they were looked at with suspicion, but as they steadily were successful in the cure of a great many diseases, and the patients supplied the papers with testimonials, the suspicion vanished, and the doctors had easy sailing ever since, for their offices were filled most of the time with patients from all parts of this and other states. One of the doctors said: "We have been working under great difficulties; when we first opened our office the opposition and knocking of other advertising doctors, the fact that people knew nothing of the great power of Electro Medicine, and the fact that the people have been fooled so often by traveling doctors had hurt us a great deal. We have shown the people that this new method will cure where all other methods failed. We have healed and cured such diseases as Bright's disease and cancer, gallstones, heart disease and myxodema. They have always been considered to be incurable, and such they are under the old system of medicine. However our methods are as far superior to the old methods as the street car is to the ox cart." The doctors reported to the papers from time to time some of the cases they cured successfully, many of the patients getting well with a few treatments; others improving, but slowly. Following are the diseases which have been cured successfully with Electro Medicine without operations:

Goitre and Basedow's disease, Female trouble, Appendicitis, Tumor of the Liver, Gallstones, Piles, Varicose Veins and Fistula, Chronic Headache, Catarrh of the lungs and of the throat, the nose and the ears; Early Consumption, Bronchitis, Hysteria, Fainting Spells and Blood-poverty, Stomach Troubles, Ulcerated Stomach, Catarrh of the stomach and of the bowels as well as of the rectum, Prostrate Diseases of men and Stricture, Unnatural Discharges, Vital Weakness, Loss of Memory and Bladder Disease, Diseases of the bones and joints, Rheumatism, Lumbago and Sciatica, St. Vitus Dance, Liver Trouble and Ulcers. Many other diseases with complexing names too difficult and almost impossible to translate into every-day English have been cured. The doctors are permanently established at No. 26 West Superior street (next to Gidding's store), and invite every sick man and woman to a free consultation. If others have failed to cure you that is no reason for you to stay sick, for Electro Medicine has cured where all others failed.

CODY BLOCK IS BEING REMODELED

New Owners Will Spend About $4,000 on Repairs.

Work was begun yesterday on the repairing and remodeling of the old Cody block at 1915 West Superior street. About $4,000 will be spent in improving the structure.

The building was bought the middle of last month by P. George Hanson & Son from "Buffalo Bill," William F. Cody, the world-renowned scout and Indian fighter, through his local agents. The consideration was $8,500. The building was constructed about twenty years ago by Buffalo Bill himself, who built it for his sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh T. Whetmore.

At that time the building housed the old Duluth News and was known as the Duluth Press building. Following the suspension of the newspaper, the structure was used for a hotel, which was known as the Cody hotel until several years ago. Since that time the building has housed several other hotels, and has been vacant now for the past year. A barber shop occupies the basement.

P. George Hanson & Son, who bought the building, are in charge of the repair work, which is expected to be finished within a few weeks. The entire front of the building, with its raised steps from the sidewalk, will be changed, and a direct street entrance will be built. The steps are to be placed on the inside of the hallway. The interior is also being remodeled and the first floor is to be arranged for offices, which will be occupied by the Hanson real estate office. The upper two floors will be remodeled for flats. The basement will be occupied by the present barber shop.

PROMINENT SPEAKERS COMING TO CONVENTION.

E. church of the West end and who is now district superintendent on the Pacific coast of that church, will be one of the principal speakers at the convention of pastors of the Red River valley district, to be held the week of May 28 at the church, Twenty-fourth avenue west and Third street.

Rev. Mr. Peterson organized the local church in 1892 and was in charge of the pastorate for several years following. The present pastor, Rev. Edward Erickson, and the following laymen of the church are on a committee to arrange the program for the week's convention: John J. Moe, P. George Hanson and A. O. Anderson.

Among the prominent pastors throughout the country, who will speak here during the gathering are the following: Rev. John Thorelson of Christiania, Norway; Rev. John Larson of Copenhagen, Denmark, and Rev. L. Tweed of San Francisco, Cal. These pastors are all to take a prominent part in the general conference at Minneapolis next month and they will come to Duluth immediately after the meetings.

TONIGHT'S ATTRACTIONS.

ORPHEUM—Vaudeville.
EMPRESS—Vaudeville.

Amusement Notes.

When it was decided to import Homer's "Odyssey," the $200,000 moving picture film from Italy, an expression as to the merits of the "Odyssey" was desired.

Letters were written to the presidents of Yale, Harvard, Princeton, Cornell and many other prominent institutions of learning. The unanimous reply was that the story, written nearly 3,000 years ago, was the classical masterpiece of the world literature.

The story tells of the ten-year Trojan war. It is simple in construction, thrilling in plot, and enacted by the same wonderful cast that produced Dante's "Inferno."

All the various Gaelic societies throughout the country are taking a keen interest in the engagement of the All-Scotch company in "Bunty Pulls the Strings," the new comedy by Graham Moffat, which is to open at the Lyceum theater on April 22 for five days and matinee Wednesday. Several of the male members of the different companies have already been elected honorary members of different Scotch organizations, and in the cities visited the Scotch people take a keen interest in the members of the "Bunty" company, and are usually at the theater in full force on the opening night of the play. America has seen companies of Irish players, French players, German, English, Sicilian and even Chinese players, in fact players of almost all other nationalities, but so far as anyone can recall, this is the first time that America has seen an organization absolutely and truthfully composed only of Scotch players in a play which deals only with Scotch types, and for which all the scenes are laid in Scotland. Miss Dawsey McNaughton, the clever Scotch actress who has been for several years a member of the Edinburgh Theater company, will be seen in the part of "Bunty," and will be ably supported by a large and excellent company of Scotch artists.

"In Wyoming," which will come to the Lyceum Sunday matinee and night, is the best play Willard Mack ever wrote. The story is interesting throughout the entire four acts, and there is not a moment, from the rise to the fall of the curtain, when the interest of the spectator flags. The characters are all taken from life and are a correct portrayal of the people who go to make up the inhabitants of the state from which the play takes its name.

"It's not strength alone that makes a gymnast, but the will or mental energy," said the smaller of the two Lietzel Sisters, who are at the Orpheum this week. The two young women who are headlining the Orpheum bill this week in a most remarkable gymnastic act, are somewhat of a mystery. They do not use their full names. Lietzel is the first name of the younger and smaller sister, and the young women refuse to tell their family name. Their parents are members of a well-known family in Austria. They object to the young women appearing either with circuses or on the stage, and out of deference to their wishes the young women call themselves simply the Lietzel Sisters.

"There are lots of women stronger than I am," said the younger sister, whose work is the feature of the act, "but they do not possess the energy that is necessary to make a gymnast, or the control over their muscles.

"It is a peculiar fact that the higher up in the air we are the easier it seems to be to work. Last year we were with the Ringling circus during its engagement in New York and Chicago, and worked alone in the center ring up at the top of the Madison Square Garden and the Coliseum. Our act was short, as all circus acts are, but it was very fast and difficult. Up there all alone, it seemed easier to work than down near the ground. We never grew dizzy with whirling on the rings or the bars. We did much the same work that we do now, but also did some stunts hanging by our teeth. We always welcomed this part of the act, for it meant a rest for us. We would just close our teeth and hang on while they swung us around, and we had a chance to rest our arms. Those tricks with the teeth are nothing.

"The only unpleasant part of our work is that th rope tears my wrist. I have never been able to prevent this, and my right wrist is always sore. When it gets too bad, I have to do my tricks with my left arm, and then they are hard work."

The art of thought transference has been so much abused by the countless so-called mind-readers who have appeared in this city from time to time that it is a treat to witness the performance of Sa-Hera, who is headlining the bill at the Empress this week. The performance of this remarkable woman is entirely different from that of any other mind-reader who has visited this city, and her answers to questions of every nature are so accurate and so quickly given that one is almost forced to believe that Sa-Hera possesses some supernatural power. However, Sa-Hera claims nothing supernatural, and says her work is accomplished scientifically only. Sa-Hera answers no questions that have been written on pads or paper, but takes the question direct from the mind of her inquisitor. Sa-Hera works without the aid of confederates in any manner, and has offered a standing reward of $1,000 to any one who can prove that she uses accomplices during any part of her performance. As has been her custom for years, Sa-Hera will give a special matinee for the women, and she has picked the Friday matinee as the performance at which she will devote her time to the women exclusively. As a rule, many of the women patrons of the theater in each city have questions of a semi-private nature to ask, and in order that they may obtain the benefit of her advice, Sa-Hera always gives at least one performance for the women only. During her engagement in Milwaukee, Sa-Hera was forced to give three performances for the women, but she thinks she will be able to take care of all desiring information at the matinee performance on Friday.

Old Lady's Sage Advice

Knoxville, Tenn.—Mrs. Mamie Towe, of 102 W. Main Street, this city, says: "If you had seen me, before I began to take Cardui, you would not think I was the same person. Six doctors failed to do me good, and my friends thought I would die. I could hardly get out of bed or walk a step. At last an old lady advised me to take Cardui, and now I can go most anywhere." All ailing women need Cardui, as a gentle, refreshing tonic, especially adapted to their peculiar ailments. It is a reliable, vegetable remedy, successfully used for over 50 years. You ought to try it.

HEAD OF THE REVOLUTION

Orozco Is Young Man With Undoubted Ability for Leadership.

Mexico City, April 17.—While most of the other military personages of the two revolutions have permitted their personalities, views and daily movements to become subject matter for the pencils and typewriters of the correspondents with considerable freedom, the most interesting figure of them all at the present moment is at the same time one of the least known either in Mexico or out. That is Pascual Orozco, the fighting head of the present revolution as well as of that of a year ago.

Orozco is a lean, angular man whose personality is redolent of the camp and the hills and not at all of the council chamber of state nor of the drawing room. Outside his own particular circle there are not many who know even how old he is. It is a moral certainty that he can "hog-tie" a steer quickly and artistically, that he can throw a diamond hitch on a pack animal and that when he speaks he is in the habit of receiving respectful attention.

For a Mexican he is a large man. A life in the deserts and mountains of the north has tanned him with a parchment finish and has bequeathed him the loose figure that looks a good deal better on horseback than on the ground. His hair and mustache are black and the latter droops from unrestrained habit. His photographs show him slightly stooped and looking straight at the camera as if more interested in it than in the results of the snap shots.

Never Courted Publicity.

What he thinks, what he intends to do become apparent chiefly in his actions. Not that he has the reputation of being morose or silent, for his men seem to think him an ideal leader; but he has never courted publicity in any of his campaigns. He had been fighting in the Madero revolution last year several months before the reporters found out what his name was and began putting him in the news. The capture of Juarez early in May, 1911, less than a year ago, brought him into public view. President Madero had been busy and conspicuous with his organization of a provisional government whose ramifications extended all the way from Washington to the interior of his own country; but Orozco had been doing most of the fighting.

Twice since then Orozco has been in Mexico City. He came first to personally escort President Madero to the palace on the day of his inauguration in September. He came again quietly last February on personal business with the government.

Not of Spanish Nobility.

In a period of a little over a year Pascual Orozco has removed himself from his rather humble station of being the trusty man who could be given the responsibility of convoying a pack-train of valuable ore through the mountains to Chihuahua city, to a position where he expects to make or unmake presidents. So far as anybody knows there are no heraldic symbols of Spanish nobility anywhere up the Orozco family tree. Men who used to know him in Chihuahua when, with a revolver and rifle, he took charge of his own pack-train and delivered ore through a country where his main business was to watch out for and keep off bandits in Chihuahua, say that in those days he had difficulty in reading anything that was not set in clear type. But he prospered in a material way and was far from being poor when he took up the revolutionary cause. His claim against the Madero government for personal services and expense incurred by himself and father, who is now a colonel under his command, amounted to $50,000 gold. The assertion that only half that amount was allowed has been reported to have done much to wean him away from the Madero interests.

It is probable that a feeling that he himself "made" Madero, and that he has not been pleased with his own handiwork, is responsible for his present revolutionary activity. He has evidently come to the conclusion that his own ideas on important subjects are about as sound as anybody else's and he has thus far kept himself in a relation to the revolution where his ideas will have to be considered in the event of a successful outcome.

He has developed rapidly as a factor in Mexican revolutionary politics and it is the very possibility that his development is yet incomplete that makes his personality particularly interesting. He has made his revolution so substantial an affair that it is hard to believe that he, himself, will be obliterated, even though the movement may be suppressed. He is a young man with an undoubted ability for leadership, and with the taste of authority he has enjoyed it is not likely that he will permit himself to be retired to private life even if he should be persuaded to compromise with the government upon political differences.

Would Abolish Office.

Members of the opposition party in the Mexican congress have started a movement to abolish the office of vice president, their main object being to abolish Pino Suarez, whom they do not like. This opposition includes some of the people who made Madero president and it is likely that the effort to change the constitution will cause considerable strife.

But there is another aspect of the case. The office was created at the time the New York financial interests furnished money for the nationalization of the Mexican railways, there not having been previously a vice presidency. The idea was to give an immediate succession at the head of the government in the event the president died or was suddenly removed. The interests which really created the office have not yet been heard from and may prove a very effective source of support to the Madero government in saving Pino Saurez to the administration.

Students in Politics.

As in some other countries the student element of Mexico is allotted more or less importance of a political character. Their views are published in the newspapers as, sometimes, are the reports of their riots and other manifestations. They are a select body of young men from whose number will be picked the congressmen and cabinet officers of a later day.

They are now busy supporting the "constitutional government," welcoming home Former President de la Barra and in many other ways, not all being entirely consistent; but among other things they have formed a military corps for home guard duty. A cadet from Chapultepec is in command. On one of the principal residence streets every evening they may be seen in the midst of military evolutions and setting up drills.

Running is one of the disagreeable features of this performance. "Forward!" shouts the officer and the corps breaks into a run to the end of the block with a quick "right about" and back. They arrive at the starting point breathless and, as one man, reach for their coat sleeves, extract handkerchiefs and alternately elevating their feet, carefully brush the dust from the immaculate "shine" which above all else, must be maintained inviolate. Then they resume mixed discussions of bull rings and politics.

GROCERS AT BIG BANQUET

Speakers Declare Small Merchant Not to Blame for High Prices.

More than 200 retail grocers and wholesale house men attended a banquet at the Spalding hotel last evening under the auspices of the Duluth Retail Grocers' association. The principal speakers were ex-Judge Milton D. Purdy of Minneapolis and W. G. Hollis of St. Paul.

The banquet was the first of a series of social gatherings which have been arranged by the local association during the summer. Dinners will be held each month. R. E. Burbridge is chairman of the social arrangement committee.

At the dinner last evening, F. X. Gravel acted as toastmaster and introduced the visitors. Ex-Judge Purdy is counsel for the National Federation of Retailers and W. G. Hollis is secretary of the same organization.

Mr. Purdy's subject was "The Law and Its Relation to the Retailer, the General Public, the Wholesaler and the Jobber." He urged that retail men get together for their own protection and for protecting the general public. He declared that the retailer was not to blame for the high price of foodstuffs.

Mr. Hollis touched upon the mail order business, declaring that it tended to drive the retailer in the small town out of business, but asserted that any retailer could meet the prices of the mail order house, providing no misrepresentations were made by the mail order people.

The topic for the next social meeting, which will be held on May 16, will be "Truck Gardening." An expert will be secured to address the club at that time. The business meeting of the association will be held tomorrow evening. Joseph Cumming will preside.

PERE MARQUETTE WOULD CUT WAGES

All Employes Getting Over $50 a Month to Be Affected.

New York, April 17.—That every employe of the Pere Marquette railroad, whether a member of a union or not, who has been receiving more than $50 a month in wages or salary will shortly be asked to accept a reduction of 5 per cent, is the statement made here.

Recently the road withdrew from the conference of executives of the Eastern railroads, on the demands of the engineers for an advance in pay, its withdrawal following the receivership. In the circumstances, it is understood, it was decided to ask the locomotive engineers as well as all other employes to help the property back to solvency. The aggregate saving to the company with a 5 per cent reduction in wages is expected to be $300,000 a year.

VETERAN MANAGER HERE.

Edward J. Hassan Arranging for Visit of "Bunty" Next Week.

Edward J. Hassan, personal representative of W. A. Brady, is in the city arranging for the coming to the Lyceum next week of the Brady-Shubert success, "When Bunty Pulls the String." The company will arrive from Chicago early Monday morning, where they have been playing to the capacity of the Princess theater for months.

The company will go from here to the Pacific coast, and Mr. Hassan is arranging with the railroad officials here for special trains and tickets that will amount to several thousand dollars. Mr. Hassan was in Duluth twenty-eight years ago when he brought here the largest organization that had ever visited this section, "The Michael Strogoff" company of sixty people. It was quite a task then, he says, to get hotel accommodations here for such a large company, and quite a few were taken care of in private homes.

He is much impressed with the changed conditions now prevailing and says W. A. Brady considers Duluth one of the best cities in the country.

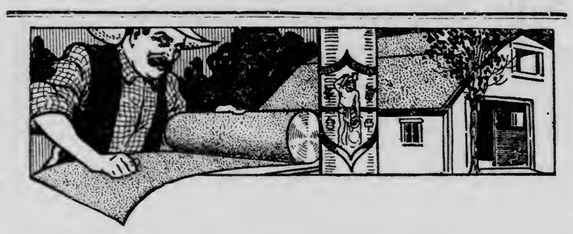
TAFT MEN MAKE SERIOUS CHARGE

Claim Roosevelt Leaders Are Using Intimidation to Get Votes.



Washington, April 17.—The Taft national bureau has issued a statement in part as follows:

"In the Far West many instances have been called to the attention of President Taft's managers where Gifford Pinchot has demanded of his own personal appointees in the forest service a discharge of obligation in the form of support of Roosevelt in this campaign.

"Furthermore it is a matter of official record, and the Taft national bureau has the document to prove it, that Senator Dixon, Mr. Roosevelt's campaign manager, is positively preparing to oppose for re-nomination in the senate the United States federal officeholders who have openly stated they favor the re-nomination of President Taft. In other words, intimidation, if not direct bribery, is being practiced by Mr. Roosevelt's own personal representative in his national headquarters."

Y. M. C. A. "POP" IS ENJOYED

A fair-sized audience enjoyed the regular "pop" at the Y. M. C. A. last night. The evening's entertainment was featured by the singing of Miss Natalie Brchish, who responded to a number of encores. The Gopher team won their basket ball game against the Ericsson alumni of Superior by a score of 23 to 18. Mrs. K. Compton gave a vocal solo and Edward Dillon rendered a selection on the violin, both of which were greatly appreciated. The "elephant" vaulting by the "elephant" team of the Y. M. C. A. was decidedly interesting. The last of the series or "pops" will be given next Tuesday evening.

Vulcanite Roofing Is Always Dependable

Here's a roofing you can buy with confidence. Cover your buildings with it and they're roofed to stay. No painting or repairs after you lay Vulcanite.

It's interesting to know the care we take to make every inch of Vulcanite waterproof. Shredded wool fibres are sorted, cleaned and pressed into a long web or roll of felt. It is these long-fibre wool shreds that make Vulcanite such a strong, tough, lasting roofing.

Then, we force genuine asphalt into every fibre of the felt, which makes it permanently watertight and unchangeable. On top is a coating of Mineral Rubber, and into this we crush a surfacing of ground rock, so that

You can't beat this fair and square method of making a roofing. You can't beat Vulcanite when you buy a roofing. That's why you should be absolutely certain to get Vulcanite.

Our dealer has a full line of Vulcanite in stock. Buy from him, and get a square deal from your roofing, eight, ten, fifteen years from now. (1)

MAKE PLANS FOR REVIVAL

Labor Committee of Fifty Will Discuss "Union Forward Movement."

Speakers of National Reputation Will Be Brought to Duluth.

At a conference of delegates selected by the different labor unions of the city to be held tomorrow evening at Kalamazoo hall plans for the labor union forward movement will be discussed.

There is one delegate from each union. It is stated that there are fifty unions in the city. The committee of fifty will have in charge the arrangements for the revival, which will be the most pretentious in the history of union labor at the Head of the Lakes.

Speakers, well known as national figures in the labor movement of the country, will be brought to Duluth for open meetings. Street demonstrations are being planned and the labor union men of Superior will be invited to help the Duluth men revive interest in organizing every branch of trade workers in the city.

Some time ago a committee from the trades assembly was delegated to find out how many unorganized trades there were in the city.

To the astonishment of the other delegates to the assembly, the committee chairman reported after a thorough investigation, covering several weeks' time, that there were at least forty unorganized trades in the city. It was also found that those unorganized were working the same hours and receiving the same pay that they received years ago.

The announcement so aroused the delegates to the assembly that they immediately took steps to have another revival at which time a concentrated effort will be made to draw these unorganized trades into the fold and strengthen the union bodies already formed.

A similar movement will begin in Minneapolis Sunday, with labor union sermons in forty-eight of the city churches. William E. McEwen of Duluth will deliver one of the sermons on the opening day.

The revival in Minneapolis will last two weeks and the one in St. Paul will begin with the completion of the one in Minneapolis, and last another two weeks.

As many prominent labor speakers will go to the Twin Cities for the revivals, it will be an easy matter to bring them to Duluth to help in the local movement.

Plans will be made by the committee at the meeting tomorrow night for a series of open mass meetings and it may be planned to have a labor union Sunday in Duluth as they are doing in Minneapolis, supplying labor speakers to all the churches on a certain date.

But few of these plans have been worked out as yet.

The opening and closing dates of the revival have not as yet been decided upon.

FIFTY MORE MEN WATCH FORESTS

Townships Are Taking Advantage of New Law Permitting Tax.

St. Paul, Minn., April 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Approximately fifty new patrolmen have been added to the list of forest watchmen through the action of townships in the northern part of the state taking advantage of the law passed at the last session of the legislature permitting the voting of a tax for fire protection and fire prevention. W. T. Cox, state forester, said today that St. Louis, Koochiching, Itasca, Carlton, Hubbard, Beltrami and Aitkin counties were leaders in the movement.

These patrolmen will receive commissions from the forester's office and will work under direction of the forest rangers. In the north woods this summer there will be five classes of patrolmen—those paid by the state, those paid by the Federal government in co-operation with the state, and those paid by the lumber companies, the railroad companies and by the townships.

CUTTER WILL PUBLISH NEWSPAPER IN NORTH.

St. Paul, Minn., April 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—M. C. Cutter, purchasing agent of the state board of control, has handed in his resignation, effective May 6. CHRISTIAN ENDEAVORERS FAVOR HALF HOLIDAY.

The Christian Endeavor union of Duluth, comprising 400 members, at their last regular business meeting passed the following resolutions:

"Realizing that the Christian Sabbath is of vital importance to our church and city, and realizing that in order to have the proper observance of the Sabbath the laboring class should be considered,

"Be it resolved, That we respectfully call attention of the business men to this matter, urging that they give their employes a half holiday each week."

ECLIPSE OF SUN IS SEEN

Moon Totally Obscures Orb of Day in Other Countries.

Early risers saw a partial eclipse of the sun this morning.

The sun rose at 5:19 o'clock and was eclipsed at the time. The eclipse lasted until 5:39 o'clock, fully twenty minutes. The air was clear and the eclipse was easily visible to the naked eye. Capt. J. H. Darling of the United States engineering department, who is an ardent student of astronomy, was one of the early risers this morning to witness the partial eclipse of the sun by the moon.

According to the astronomical reports from Washington, D. C., the eclipse was a central one and was also visible as a partial one in the eastern portion of the United States and Canada. The eclipse was not visible at all west of a line drawn from a point a few miles west of Pembina, N. D., through Sioux City, Iowa, Memphis, Tenn., and Pensacola, Fla. The eclipse was not visible in Central America or Panama.

Capt. Darling, in speaking of the eclipse this morning, said: "The path of the central eclipse begins in the eastern part of Venezuela and moves in a northeast direction across the Madeira islands, the northeast corner of Portugal and Spain, over Paris, through Northern Russia and ends at sunset in Siberia."

Weather Forecaster Richardson reported the eclipse this morning, but did not rise early enough to witness it, he said.

SEE ECLIPSE OF THE SUN AT PARIS

Scientists Have Excellent Opportunity to Study Phenomenon.

Paris, April 17.—A cloudless day gave a fine opportunity to the many representatives of scientific and astronomical societies assembled in Paris from all parts of the world to study the eclipse of the sun which occurred today. As the cone of the moon's shadow ran directly through Paris from the southwest after touching Europe at Portugal, there was an excellent chance for making good observations.

The eclipse began about 10:45, when hundreds of people carrying smoked glasses stood on the streets or visited the suburbs, especially St. Germain-en-Laye, where the eclipse was total. In the city itself the eclipse was not quite total, the crescent of the sun showing at its climax at 12:10, after which the sun rapidly emerged.

WILL REPRESENT DULUTH CLUB

Three Delegates Will Attend Meeting at Washington Monday.

Maj. H. V. Eva will leave this evening for Washington, D. C., where he will represent the Commercial club at the meeting which is called for the purpose of perfecting the National Association of Commercial Clubs. Julius H. Barnes and C. E. Wilson will be the two other representatives of the club. The meeting is set for Monday.

"There can be no doubt but that the organization of the commercial clubs of the country into a national body will accomplish great good," said Maj. Eva in discussing the object of the meeting. "Through such an organization more efficiency can be secured and a greater co-operative spirit aroused."

LUCKAHAUKS.

"Butter tasters" is the name children give to the violet tinted, worn fragments of clam shells that are found on most beaches. These "butter tasters," according to a writer in Handicraft, were an important medium of exchange among the Indian tribes living along the shore in their trading with other natives further inland.

It can readily be understood that Indians sufficiently adept in the art of chipping arrow heads and other implements of hard flint could easily manufacture rude "money" out of the more attractive colored pieces of these water worn shells; and this they did, giving to this medium of exchange the name Luckahauk, somewhat after the style of wampums.

It may be surprising to many, especially to craft workers, to know what really beautiful "stones" these same so-called Luckahauks will produce when cut and polished into symmetrical form from pieces of sufficient thickness and showing the rich and beautiful violet colorings that many of them possess

Such as are found on the beach are necessarily dull, with no polish, due of course to the wear of the sea and sand; but by proper treatment on the laps are brought to a very high polish and look very rich indeed, being entirely unlike an yother "gem."

Having considerable hardness they will wear almost indefinitely when once polished. The colors blend beautifully with silver either in bright or antique finish, while their beauty is heightened by treatment or embellishment with small baroque or seed pearls, small amethysts or other harmonizing stones.

ROOSEVELT CONFIDENT

Tells Iowans He Expects to Win the Fight.

Deplores Iowa's Lack of Direct Vote on the Presidency.

Creston, Iowa, April 17. — "I think we are going to win the fight this year," said Col. Roosevelt here, "but if we don't we are in for three years of the war."

The colonel made this declaration in one of a dozen speeches on his way to Nebraska.

"I wish you had a presidential primary in Iowa as they have in Illinois and Pennsylvania," he told the crowd at Burlington. "I am more than content to put my case before the people and trust to their decision. But I am not content to put my case before the politicians and trust to their decisions, as they are the people I intend to move against."

"How about the standpatters, colonel?" some one in the crowd called out.

Harm in Political Life.

"You would find," he replied, "that the standpat crowd as a whole, plus the type of business man who is in combination with the crooked politician, does most of the harm in our political life."

In his Iowa speeches, Col. Roosevelt said that he would come to this state to make a campaign if there were presidential primaries here.

"Here you are," he said, "one of the great typical American states—you can't express your own opinion; you let the postmasters and bosses represent you; and Iowa is not the factor in this contest which it should be, but Illinois and Pennsylvania are.

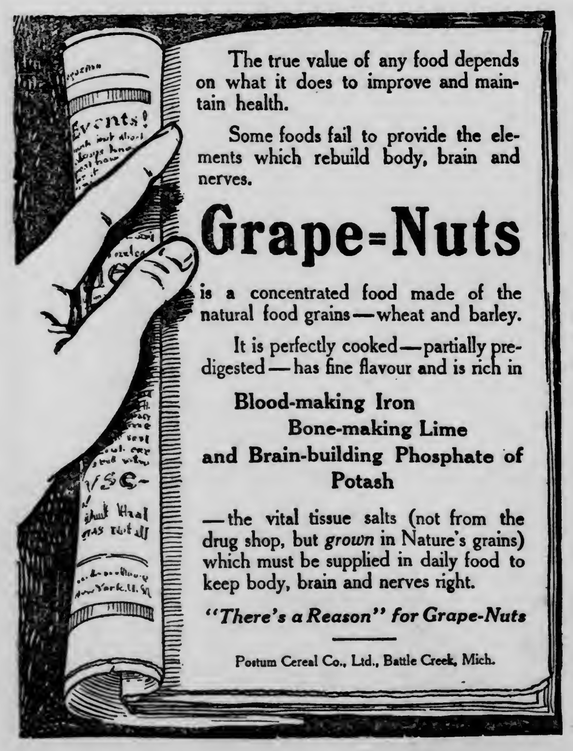
"There is no use in my talking in Iowa, because if you should decide for me, somebody else would cast your vote for you. If we had direct primaries in New York, we would have done as we did in Illinois—we are the genuine Abraham Lincoln Republicans."

In several speeches Col. Roosevelt pledged himself to live up to his promises.

"I will guarantee to do everything I can do," he said at Galesburg, "and live up to Illinois. Believe me, I never say anything on the stump that I don't carry on off the stump."

WANTS ROSENBAUM GRAIN FIRM ENJOINED.

Chicago, April 17.—The circuit court has been asked to restrain the members of the firm of J. Rosenbaum Grain company from storing its grain in what are known as class A public warehouses controlled under the name of Joseph Rosenbaum.



The complaint was filed by Adolph J. Lichstern, millionaire board of trade operator, and alleges that Lichstern is the owner of warehouse receipts covering more than 500,000 bushels of wheat stored in the warehouses declared to be operated by the defendants.

It is alleged further by Lichstern on "information and belief" that the defendants have mixed the grain owned by them with the Lichstern grain, and the court is petitioned to stop by its mandate this practice.

Representative Murdock of Kansas, Republican, introduced the amendment. He was supported by Representative Cooper of Wisconsin, Republican.

The house also adopted an amendment approving hereafter the opening of any postoffices on Sunday for the purpose of distributing mail.

BLAMES PUBLIC FOR THE DISASTER TO THE TITANIC

Lewis Nixon Tells What Lessons Are Found in the Wreck.

Believes in Big Liners and Says Lifeboats Are of Little Value.

LEWIS NIXON.

New York, April 17.—Lewis Nixon, one of the foremost American shipbuilders, when asked what lessons, if any, might be drawn from the Titanic disaster, said:

"The one great lesson is that men who go down to the sea in ships take risks."

Nixon said that if any one was to blame for the sinking of the greatest ship of modern times it was the traveling public. It was not necessary for the ship to follow the perilous northerly course, he argued, but the public demanded it.

"Supposing the company" he said, "had announced that the Titanic would cross by way of the southern route to avoid icebergs. Do you suppose more than one-tenth of the passengers would have booked passage? Suppose you were going abroad. Would you take a ship sailing by the longer or southern course when you could get one that went over the shorter northern course? Of course not. It is the traveling public that forces the companies to send their ships up where the icebergs are thickest."

Believes in Big Ships.

Nixon has not lost faith in big liners because of the Titanic's brief and tragic career. A smaller ship would have fared as badly as, if not worse than, the giant White Star liner, according to Nixon. It was no reflection upon the product of the shipbuilder's art, he maintained, that the largest ship yet built should have gone to the bottom on her first voyage. As far as construction went, he said, the Titanic was probably better able to withstand the shock of collision than any of the smaller trans-Atlantic liners.

"There is no such thing as the 'unsinkable ship,'" he said. "It never has been built. An unsinkable ship could be built, but it would be good for nothing else but keeping afloat. By that I mean a ship could be built with enough double bottoms and double sides and water tight compartments to keep her afloat even in such an accident as this, but she would not be the kind of a boat you would ever think of crossing the ocean on. A company could not afford to run such a ship.

Evolution From the Best.

"The Titanic was a development, an evolution from the best examples of shipbuilding afloat. There was nothing radically different about her construction. She was bigger and better able to withstand the strongest gales than most of the ships of the Atlantic."

Not only does Nixon regard big ships as more seaworthy than the smaller ones, but he maintains that the leading companies will continue to build them, because of the greater economy in operation. There is practically no limit to the size of the trans-Atlantic liner, Nixon said, so far as the shipbuilder is concerned, and a vessel eight times as large as the Titanic would require only four times as much power. For that reason the companies would tend to build larger ships until the limit of harbor capacity is reached, or some other means of landing passengers and cargo is devised.

As to Lifeboats.

Nixon found no reason to criticise the owners of the Titanic because she was equipped with only twenty lifeboats, capable at the outside of holding 1,000 persons, or less than half of those on board. Lifeboats on a big liner are, according to Nixon, a matter of sentiment as much as anything else.

"The number of lifeboats carried by the Titanic undoubtedly complied with the law," said he, "and if there is any criticism, it should be criticism of the law, not the company. As a matter of fact, lifeboats do not solve the problem of safeguarding passengers in a wreck at sea. They would not last long in rough weather."

Titanic's Disaster Stirs Official Washington to Action.

Congressmen Propose Plans for Protection of Lives.

Washington, April 17.—Stirred by the horror of the Titanic disaster, all of Washington is preparing for steps to minimize the probabilities of another such tragedy.

Congress has begun framing legislation to govern life-saving appliances and wireless, and President Taft, doubly touched by the probable loss of his friend and military aide, Maj. Archibald W. Butt, held conferences with cabinet officers, to consider government control over the operation of wireless.

In the house, what may result in a federal investigation into the cause of the wreck and the enactment of protective measures was begun with resolutions offered by Representatives Mott and Hardwick. The Mott resolution provides for a searching inquiry by the merchant marine committee.

Regulations for Life Saving.

The Hardwick resolution would touch upon regulations for life saving apparatus. Under the Mott resolution the merchant marine committee would sit as a court and compel the attendance of witnesses.

Chairman Alexander of the committee declared that the catastrophe would stop the building of such enormous vessels. He favors limitation by law upon the sizes of vessels which visit American ports. The committee also expects to report a bill to regulate wireless.

President Taft was in conference at the White House for nearly two hours with some of his cabinet officers whose functions cover the operations of this new system of telegraphy. These were Secretaries Nagel, Stimson and Meyer. Attorney General Wickersham was also called in to give legal advice as to the necessities in a legislative way of additional laws.

Private Interests Consulted.

In recognition of the extensive interests of private corporations which have spent much in the equipment of ships and shore stations with wireless outfits, Former Attorney General Griggs and Mr. Sheffield, representing the Marconi company, also were consulted. The technical side of the question was developed by Admiral Cone, the engineer-in-chief of the navy, which bureau is charged with the management of the naval wireless system.

The discussion was general in character and touched particularly on the details of a new bill which has been prepared in the navy department to give effect to the requirements of the general wireless telegraphic convention to which America recently has adhered.

Lord Burnham cabled to President Taft today expressing sympathy of the proprietors of the London Daily Telegraph for the terrible loss of the many prominent people and distinguished citizens and the appalling catastrophe which has befallen the Titanic.

By direction of the president, Acting Secretary Huntington Wilson of the state department sent a message in reply extending mutual sympathy.

Resolution of Condolence.

The house adopted a resolution expressive of condolence to the relatives of those who lost their lives on the Titanic, offered by Representative Austin of Tennessee, republican, was as follows:

"Resolved, That this house has heard with profound regret and sorrow of the appalling loss of life on the steamship Titanic and expresses its deep sympathy for the relatives of those who perished in that great disaster.

RUSH OF FOREIGN TRAVEL UNCHECKED

Steamship Companies' Business Not Hurt By Titanic's Accident.

New York, April 17.—The disaster to the Titanic has thus far had no effect so far as curtailing sea travel is concerned, according to the steamship companies, and they believe that it will have no material bearing on the summer rush of vacation tourists, which has already begun but which does not reach its maximum until the latter part of May.

Some of the larger companies, as a matter of fact, are experiencing a contary effect, an addition to their normal business, for each of them has had its generous quota of those who had planned to leave these shores on the new White Star liner.

"Public Will Soon Forget."

The conviction that the disaster would lead to few if any cancellations in bookings was expressed by Gen. Luigi Bolari, one of the officials of the Italian lines, who lost several friends on the Titanic.

"The public will soon forget the Titanic," he said sadly. "Everywhere it is the same. My nation has already forgotten the disaster of Messina. You have forgotten San Francisco. The Republic disaster was forgotten. Every day you read of railroad wrecks, but the people swarm to the trains every day as though there were no such things as wrecks on the rail. Don't you think it will be much the same with this disaster of the sea?"

WOMEN WILL HELP STEERAGE PASSENGERS.

New York, April 17.—A committee of thirteen prominent women of this city, headed by Mrs. Nelson Henry, wife of the surveyor of the port of New York, has been formed to care for the surviving steerage passengers of the Titanic on the arrival of the Carpathia in port. The committee consists of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Sr.; Mrs. Henry F. Dimock, Mrs. Herbert L. Satterlee, Mrs. James Sherman Aldrich, Mrs. Richard Irvin, Mrs. William Church Osborn, Mrs. Edward Ringwood Held, Mrs. J. Van Vechten Olcott, Mrs. Henry Whitney Munroe, Mrs. Arthur Murray Dodge and Miss Virginia Potter.

"We do not know how many steerage passengers may have been saved," said Mrs. Henry, "but we feel that something should be done for their comfort on their arrival, as there probably will be few of their friends on this side of the ocean to give them adequate care. We wish to give them what financial aid may be necessary to alleviate the suffering as far as possible and assist the immigration authorities."

MONTREAL PEOPLE TO MEET CARPATHIA.

Montreal, Can., April 17.—Several residents of Montreal who had relatives aboard the Titanic are on their way to New York to meet the Carpathia. Among them are Dr. F. C. Douglas, whose wife was reported among those rescued; James Baxter, whose brother, Quigley Baxter, has not been accounted for, and Dr. James Goodarte, who is going to New York to attend Mrs. Baxter, one of the rescued women, whose health was poor when she boarded the Titanic.

MOVING PICTURE BRIDE MAY NOW BE WIDOW.

New York, April 17.—Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Marvin of the first cabin passenger list of the Titanic are young bride and groom who five weeks ago were married in this city, with a moving picture machine taking a record of the wedding ceremony. Mr. Marvin's father, Henry N. Marvin, is the president of a biograph company. The bride and groom were both 18 years old and immediately after the ceremony took a liner for Europe. Mrs. Marvin is among those reported saved, but Mr. Marvin's name has not yet appeared on the list.

FRANKLIN SAYS HE LIED ABOUT THE LOSS OF LIFE.

New York, April 17.—Vice President Franklin of the White Star line has been criticized for his definite reassuring declaration regarding the loss of the Titanic which tended to mislead the public. Mr. Franklin has given to the public the full text of the wireless message received from Captain Haddock of the Olympic Monday afternoon.

"The reason I did not give it out before," Mr. Franklin said, "was because it was so discouraging that I felt that it would not be right to alarm the public unnecessarily. Now that the worst is known I am willing to give it out. Here it is:

"'Carpathia reached Titanic's position at daybreak. Found boats and wreckage only. Titanic had foundered about 2:30 a. m., in 41.16 north, 50.14 west. All boats accounted for. About 675 souls saved, crew and passengers. Latter nearly all women and children. Leyland line steamer Californian remaining and searching for exact position of disaster. Carpathia returning to New York with survivors. Please inform Cunard. Haddock.'"

WHICH PLAN IS BETTER?

close to Murphy, is that he believes that the strongest candidate would be Oscar Underwood and next to him, Judson Harmon. That he is strongly against Woodrow Wilson there can be no doubt whatsoever. That he would be willing to accept Champ Clark as a last resort is probable, although Murphy and Clark represent two different poles of the Democratic globe.

But the question now arises whether it is so much more sinful for the Tammany organization and the New York state committee to hold a convention and reconfinize the dominating force of one man in that convention, a force which is dominating because he has fought his way up in politics to a controlling position, or whether it is better, as we have seen in Michigan, the governor calling out the militia to enforce upon the convention the views and the candidates of whom he approves. There are bosses and bosses. It is fair to say for the New York boss that he has not been obliged to bring out rifles and bayonets in order to support his particular view.

Candidates and the Tariff.

Governor Harmon, in his first speech in Nebraska, sounded the tariff issue. Curiously enough not one of the candidates for the presidency thus far on the Democratic side has talked tariff very much. Of all, Governor Wilson has avoided it the most. For him the issues that used to be regarded as the dominant ones, namely initiative and referendum, the independence of the Philippines and matters of that sort, seem to have been the more important topics. The tariff has not appealed to him, or if it has he has said little about it. Champ Clark, seemingly terrified by the result of his proposition to tear down the custom houses and make them into pest houses, has himself been silent on the tariff. Oscar Underwood has made but few speeches throughout the country, but such as he has made he has stood squarely on the Democratic doctrine of a tariff for revenue only. Besides which Mr. Underwood has had ample opportunity to express himself on the floor of the house, and as a mere observer of politics I do not think he has suffered at all by sticking closely to his job and not going out on the platform in behalf of his own candidacy. It is only two or three days ago that Governor Wilson was bitterly rebuked by the Republicans in his state legislature for neglect of duty and for giving a few hours' attention to bills which under the Constitution he should have considered for ten days. Of course, it is fair to say that the criticism came from the hostile minority. At the same time the people of the country are very much disinclined now to excuse an absentee office holder. Governor Harmon has been exceedingly careful regarding this matter. The number of invitations to speak which he has declined, because it would take him away from the capital where his official duties lie, would amaze people if they were made known. Champ Clark, too, has been careful not to offend on this point. And as for Oscar Underwood, I cannot recall one day during this session of congress when his presence was even remotely necessary that he was not present.

For Direct Vote on Senators.

Boston, Mass., April 17.—The Massachusetts senate has adopted a resolution favoring the election of United States senators by the people. The house substituted for an adverse report of the committee on election laws a bill providing for placing on the official ballot the names of candidates for United States senators.

Ohioans For Direct Nomination.

Columbus, Ohio, April 17.—The constitutional convention has adopted a proposal providing for the direct nomination of United States senators by the voters. The proposal, which was in the form of an amendment, does not make it mandatory for the legislature to elect the popular choice.

Woman's Realm

The paddling, rowing, sailing and picnicing season is almost here and members of the Duluth Boat club are awaiting impatiently for the opening of the various branches of this extensive club and the beginning of the summer sports.

The Oatka branch of the club has been open for the use of members all winter and picnic parties may use this branch any time now. The other branches will be opened soon. The officers of the club and the working committees are working on the arrangements for the year, but general scope of the coming season's activities is embodied in announcements sent out to members.

At the main house the tennis courts will be ready for use by the end of this month; the cafe will open May 30; the first club dance will be held June 1 and weekly thereafter. The regular sailing schedule will be given out later with weekly races for sailing, rowing and motor boats.

At the Oatka beach branch the old tennis courts will be ready May 1 and two new ones will be ready soon thereafter. The Wednesday evening "club informals" will start in June. Courses of instruction for children in folk dancing will be given during the summer with music there for dancing every evening except Sunday.

As a new feature in the cafe, breakfasts will be served.

Another new feature of this branch will be the starting of a "tent city." Furnished tents will be rented by the club and this should appeal strongly to young men who would appreciate an out-door summer with tennis, boating and bathing and within easy car service.

At the Spirit Lake branch, with its tennis, boating and bathing, activities will begin in June.

H. Smith, who had charge of the dining service at all branches last summer, will again be in charge of this department.

In some form the club will have its regular summer holiday function. Sports will be planned so as to be adjustable to weather conditions, and the annual Venetian fete will also be a feature of the club life.

The annual meeting of the club and election of officers will be held at the clubhouse Tuesday evening, May 14. After the business meeting the usual entertainment will be given.

THE EVENING STORY

THE PET JACKDAW

By Maggie Dighart.

It was Tommy Brown's 8th birthday, and a pleasant surprise awaited him when he awoke that morning. An elder brother, returning home to breakfast had brought with him a jackdaw which he had rescued from a watery grave in a fountain near at hnd. Mr. Brown said if it survived its recent imemrsion the bird would be retained as a pet under Tommy's charge. This, then was the surprise that greeted Tom on entering the kitchen that morning.

New birds and other creatures offer a strange fascinating interest to most boys, and Tommy was no exception to the rule. It was with unabated devotion that he undertook the care of this welcome addition to the household. A large basket cage was procured, and into this the bird was safely put. Bird and cage were then transferred to the kitchen, where the dusky fledgling quickly recovered, and in a few days became quite strong. It would have been unkind to have kept so large a bird always caged, therefore "Jacky," as he was called, enjoyed the scope of the scullery, where he could stretch his wings—for which he was very grateful, and felt very happy, too, I am sure.

As time went on Tommy grew to love his little charge very much, and was loved by it in return. Almost pathetic it was to witness the joy the bird evinced when its young master entered the scullery. There would be a great flapping of wings and loud crying of "Jack, Jack!"—which is the jackdaw's one exclamation. On these occasions he would receive various titbits such as scraps of meat, a few worms, etc. It was amusing to watch him sidle along and cleverly pick up the dainties.

Three months had passed since the bird's arrival. It had now gained the entire confidence of the family, and was allowed to fly in and out of the house at will. Like the magpie, the thieving instinct is inherent in the jackdaw. Various small glittering articles would occasionally go amissing, but fortunately these were usually found again, and so Jack would be duly forgiven for such depredations.

One Sunday, Tommy inadvertently omitted to have the bird caged, a proceeding which Mr. Brown always insisted should be observed on the Sabbath day. While the family were entering church that forenoon, Jacky very neatly alighted on his young master's shoulder, to the latter's dismay, his parent's consternation, and the amusement of not a few of the worshippers. Tommy, of course, was obliged to return home with his pet, and, needless to say, that young gentleman was, later in the day, reproved for his carelessness.

A certain Irate old gentleman, a widower, who lived a short distance from Mr. Brown, and a pretty golden-haired and only daughter, to whom he was fondly attached. Now, Tommy and this motherless maid were boon companions, and loved each other dearly, and no one was fonder of Jacky than tiny Daisy Rutherford. Now she loved to stroke his glossy plumage as she played on the green sward with her dusky feathered playmate, while the sunbeams burnished her golden tresses as they waved in the summer breeze. The scene was a picturesque one, and not readily forgotten.

The children's respective homes being only a stone's throw apart, Jacky would often be found at Daisy's residence. Although a stern man, Mr. Rutherford was a very indulgent father. He strongly objected, however, to the bird being encouraged about the house. Jacky had been guilty of pilfering on one of two occasions, but the articles taken had invariably been discovered. Following on a reecnt visit from Jacky, a gold sleeve link had mysteriously disappeared, which brought Mr. Rutherford in a towering rage round to Tommy's father, with the threat that if the artiele in question wasn't found he would have the bird destroyed. Mr. Brown expressed his sorrow at the occurrence, and hoped the sleeve link would soon be recovered. After a lengthy harangue it was ultimately resolved that the bird be confined to the scullery.

The children were deeply grieved at the turn events had taken. They would sit daily for hours, closeted with their pet, endeavoring by their childish prattle to arouse the bird from the reverie into which he so often lapsed since his incarceration. At the close of these meetings the trio would again appear quite happy and contented. An eventful day was soon to dawn in the life of Daisy, and one which aroused kindlier feelings between her parent and the Brown family. Behind Mr. Rutherford's villa, and skirted by a rough fence rose a gently sloping embankment, topped by a railroad. One glorious summer morning found Daisy on this dangerous track on her way to the opposite embankment, whereupon wild roses and other flowers grew in profusion. She was bent on collecting some of nature's treasures to present to her little play fellow, Tommy, who had been unwell, and confined to his room. She reached the goal in safety and proceeded to glean a many-heud bouquet. This work completed, the child ascended the incline, appearing once more in the danger zone. Would she cross the intervening space in safety? Her progress was intercepted by some obstruction a moment later, and the fragile form lay between the metals, her flowers scattered in every direction. In less than two minutes the express would pass this very spot. Would she escape?

All unconscious of the coming danger, the child arose, and straightaway began to gather together her blossoms. Around a bend on the line in the near distance, the great engine was already in view, tearing along at a terrific pace. No brake could stay the onrushing locomotive at this point.

Mr. Rutherford, hearing the engine's shrill, had, out of curiosity, come to the window. The spectacle that met his gaze completely unnerved him. Horror-stricken, he stared wildly on the scene, powerless and speechless, as if turned to stone.

At this perilous moment a very strange thing happened. A jackdaw flew across the track, within a yard of the imperilled child, uttering that old familiar cry: "Jack," as he went Mistaking the bird by his raucous voice for her favorite Jacky, the damsel instantly threw down her flowers and with a cry of joy slid over the embankment just as the mighty locomotive thundered past. It was truly a miraculous escape. The child's love for a bird had saved her life. The next day, Mr. Brown and family, including Jacky, were guests of Mr. Rutherford, and a very enjoyable time was spent. From that day a true friendship between the two families was established. There was no further restretion of Jacky's freedom, not even on Sundays, and all lived in harmony and happiness ever after.

Milady's Toilet Table

By Mme. D'MILLE

A good complexion is within reach of every woman. All it requires is proper care. Throw away powders and cosmetics, live in the open air as much as possible and use a simple solution made by dissolving an original package of mayatone in a half-pint witch hazel. Gently massage face, neck and arms with this solution and you will be delighted with results. Its effect is instantaneous, and in a short time the skin is smooth, soft, satinlike and girlish.

To keep the hair bright, fluffy and youthful looking use a dry shampoo two or three times a month. Washing the hair makes it faded and brittle. Put a cupful of corn meal in a fruit jar and mix with it an original package of therox; sprinkle a little on the head and brush out. It brushes out easily, takes all dust, dandruff and excess oil with it and leaves the hair clean, bright, wavy and rich in color.

To stop headache, or ache in back or joints, reduce swelling, allay inflammation, to relieve pain in any part of the body, apply Mother's Salve, rubbing in well. It is used for neuralgia, rheumatism, lumbago, etc. The world never saw its equal as a pain killer.

Superfluous hair on face or forearms can be quickly and easily removed at home by applying delatone paste. Make enough paste to cover the hairy surface by mixing powdered delatone and water; apply, and wipe off after two minutes; then wash the skin, and the hairs will be gone. This recipe is safe, speedy and sure.

THE SPEED MANIA AGAIN?

It is, perhaps, unfair to attempt placing blame too soon for the terrible calamity which has just shocked the world. The first thought of horror at this wholesale taking of human lives still holds first place, and second to that is a thrilled admiration of the heroism of the men who, white-lipped but calm, as brave men are in such a crisis, helped the women and children to safety and then perished.

But pretty soon the world will want to know why this had to happen, and whether the horror of it may not be compensated to some slight extent by a lesson of caution for the future. And already discussion is trending to this side of the story.

Was it the speed mania? Was it that the Titanic, beautifully appointed and ideally safeguarded as she was against accident, was not provided with boats and life-rafts enough to care for all on board?

It has come to be the habit to make the trans-Atlantic trip in six days or so, and less if possible. The Titanic was on her maiden trip, and it might be that her master was under orders to make what speed he could, in the hope of lowering the record. The objective of a short trip is what makes these vessels take the shorter though more perilous north route which leads them by the foggy Grand Banks, a notorious graveyard of ships where it has been known for some time that an unusually early drift of icebergs was taking place. Some experts say that speed makes little difference; that the impact would have been almost as serious if the Titanic had struck an iceberg while traveling slowly as it would be if she were at the maximum speed. That, most people will find hard to believe. The impact at slow speed would have crushed in the vessel's bow, no doubt, but the collision bulkheads should have saved her. It is hard to imagine how the crash that crumpled the Titanic like a peanut shell could have come except at high speed.

Worse still is the ugly charge, voiced from London, that the Titanic did not carry boats enough to care for much more than a third of those on board. The law, it seems, has not been expanded to include the modern giant vessels, so they are not required to carry a full complement of boats and liferafts. Presuming on a security that is now shown to be only fancied, the Titanic had about a third as many boats as she should have carried.

But judgment should be withheld until the survivors tell the full story of that dreadful night when, four hours after her crash against an iceberg, the Titanic carried thirteen hundred human beings down to death in her last plunge.

In the meantime, the world may profit from the splendid example of heroism set by the men on the Titanic. Thought naturally turns to those men of world-wide note—W. T. Stead, John Jacob Astor, Isador Straus, Benjamin Guggenheim and the kindly, gallant Archie Butt. Yet none of these was a greater hero than the humblest immigrant who helped his wife and children to safety, or the grimiest stoker who obeyed orders in that hour of terror, and then died. All stood, that night, on a common level of heroism, and this honor to womanhood and tenderness to childhood displays the glory of manhood in its highest light.

The great secret has come out at last! Those miners just wanted to lay off awhile to see the opening games.

GOVERNOR WILSON'S VETOES.

Governor Wilson showed that he had courage—if anybody had doubted it—the other day when he vetoed forty-five bills that had been passed by the New Jersey legislature.

Most of these bills were local measures which Governor Wilson rejected because they were extravagant, unjust or improper.

Among other bills, he vetoed that providing for a congressional reapportionment in New Jersey. It seems that although the legislature is Republican, two Democratic members, very likely by an exchange of votes and "legislative courtesies," which are mighty expensive things to the people, as a rule, had fixed up two nice little congressional districts in which both of them could easily be elected to congress.

Though this benefited members of his own party, Governor Wilson vetoed the bill on the ground that it was a gerrymander—of which there is no doubt whatever.

And he did exactly right. He rebuked a practice all too prevalent in this country, and he showed himself to be possessed of the courage, public spirit and clear-visioned wisdom the country needs in its president.

And what did the senate committee on elections think of the way Illinois turned Lorimer down?

SILLY MOCK MODESTY.

A plan to teach sex hygiene in the public schools of Chicago, hitherto referred to with approval in these columns, seems to have stirred up a blaze of furious prudery and spurious modesty.

While the school management committee finally approved it, one member objected that the plan "verged on immodesty," and another declared that it would "put impure thoughts into the minds of the children."

It is fortunate that such stupidity did not prevail, and that Chicago will take steps to teach its public school pupils the vital facts about life which they must learn, and which if they do not learn from parents or teachers they will learn from evil associates.

The false modesty which restrains parents from teaching their children, delicately but truly, the important facts about sex life, has ruined thousands. Properly, this teaching should be done in the home and by the parents. Not one parent in a thousand, however, attempts it. The parents failing, the public schools should take it up, not alone in Chicago but in Duluth and in every other place where there is a school.

All children learn of these things sooner or later. If they learn them correctly from parent or teachers they are enabled to place them in a normal relationship with other vital facts. If they are forced to learn them from their associates in school or at play, they are certain to get wrong and distorted ideas. Much of the character and career of a child depends upon the manner in which these inescapable facts are learned.

Thousands have been lost by being permitted to learn these things in a distorted and misleading form. Untold thousands will be saved when society learns to drop its ridiculous false modesty—a close kin, by the way, to salaciousness and pruriency—and to teach its children all the facts of life in a sane, common sense and honest way.

Teddy's so apt with his phraseology, why doesn't he arbitrarily change the name from the "Keystone State" to the "Keynote State."

THE RETAILER AND THE COST OF LIVING.

The secretary of the National Federation of Retail Merchants, talking in Duluth yesterday, said that the retailers are getting aweary of being the "goat" for public resentment of the high cost of living.

We don't blame them much. As they are the ones who come in contact with the irate consumer, and as theirs are the only heads in reach, the irate consumer is too likely to heap upon them the blame not only for a steadily advancing cost of living, but for the utter failure of his income to keep pace with the increase.

That's unjust, of course. Retailers aren't in business for their health, and no doubt they like to make all the money they can decently; but if they are at fault at all it is because there are too many of them, and they suffer from this fault as much as the public does. We seldom hear of retail grocers or butchers or drygoods merchants giving libraries to every community that will take one. Even the rich "merchant princes" in the department stores are few and far between.

If the retail trade is at all responsible for the high cost of living it is because it is trying to provide profits and employment for more people than it ought to. There are too many retail stores, too many retail merchants, too many clerks, too many delivery wagons; and for all this the public and the merchants themselves have to pay. The public pays by maintaining the surplus machinery for distribution, and the merchant pays by the inroads of a fierce competition for survival among a surplus of merchants.

Hardly anybody can escape some part of the blame for the high cost of living, and the public and its laggard governments are most of all to blame. Poor country roads, increasing the cost of getting food to market; high railroad rates, which do the same thing; too many middlemen to dip into the bag as it travels from the producer to the consumer; too many tariff and other taxes to take their share of the retail price; too much watered stock which the many have to pay dividends on so the few may riot in luxury; too great an absorption by excessive profits and excessive costs of distribution: these are all more weighty factors in the high cost of living than the luckless retailer, who has to take most of the blame.

Which will be the next state to drop itself upon the accumulation of Roosevelt "soap-boxes?"

MORE GOOD NEWS.

Belated official reports from the Pennsylvania primaries show that Congressman Dalzell, consistent standpatter, corporal in the standpat organization, and persistent advocate of tariffs mountain high, went down to defeat at the hands of a progressive candidate.

That's good news, too. It means another political scalp added to the score since the people left the reservation of blind partisanship on which the interests and their bosses thought they had them safely herded.

If any old timer starts to tell you about the campaigns they used to have when he was a boy, just tell him to keep his eye on 1912.

IMPORTANT TESTIMONY.

An interview in The Herald Monday evening with E. L. Buck of Cohasset made clear two very important and encouraging points.

One was that the campaign for settlers for Northern Minnesota is gaining headway rapidly. Mr. Buck estimates that five times as many settlers are coming into Itasca county this spring as came in any previous season, and he sees no reason to believe that the proportion of gain is less than this in other Northern Minnesota counties. The hardest work in settling a new country is to get the movement started. If the country is worth settling, the movement will keep going once it is fairly started. And there is no longer doubt in any mind that this section is worth settling.

The other important point made clear by Mr. Buck relates to the cost of clearing cut-over lands. There has been much discussion of this point. A Southern Minnesota member of the Minnesota legislature made the statement during the last session that clearing costs $150 to $200 an acre. Correspondents in the Open Court column have lately been discussing this question with animation and some heat. Some of them have mentioned extravagant sums.

Mr. Buck, who has had much personal experience and who has observed the experiences of others, testifies that he has cleared brush land for $5 to $7 an acre, and stump land for $20 to $25 an acre—the latter figure his highest cost for the heaviest stump land.

Generally speaking, it is probably true that at a cost of $15 an acre for the land and say $50 an acre for clearing, to be extreme, land can be acquired in Northern Minnesota and made tillable at less than $75 an acre which is far richer and more productive than land elsewhere which sells at $150 to $200 an acre.

It's a poor congressional district that can't produce a contest over delegates to the Republican national convention.

An American girl has flown across the English channel, but it's doubtful if even that will be enough to win her a duke, unless she has the ducats.

Mr. Franklin of the White Star line has established a reputation at last, but he did it at the expense of that of our old friend the Baron Munchausen.

When you come to think of it, April isn't such a slow month at that. It saw the battles of Lexington and Concord, the inauguration of Washington, the attack on Fort Sumter, the surrender of Gen. Lee, the assassination of Lincoln, the San Francisco earthquake and fire, the discovery of the North Pole, the sinking of the Titanic, and the births of Shakespeare, Thomas Jefferson, Henry Clay and Gen. U. S. Grant.

THE OPEN COURT

(Readers of The Herald are invited to make free use of this column to express their ideas about the topics of general interest, but discussions of sectarian religious differences are barred. Letters should not exceed 300 words—the shorter the better. They must be written on one side of the paper only, and they must be accompanied in every case by the name and address of the writer, though these need not be published. A signed letter is always more effective, however.)

GREAT OPPORTUNITY FOR AMATEUR GARDENERS.

Just a word with regard to the vegetable gardening school at the Y. M. C. A. The plan is most commendable and anyone interested in gardening work should make it a point to attend these meetings. The agricultural exhibits used on the "Duluth special" throughout the range towns are used during the course of study. Practical demonstrations are made at each lesson, which will prove of great value to local garden enthusiasts.

Prof. F. A. Kilpatrick of the state agricultural college is one of the best men in this part of the country in the study of gardening and farming. He understands fully the different processes and is giving a complete course in gardening from the time when the soil is prepared to the final marketing of the products. All of this is valuable and as one, who understands gardening fairly well, I would advise everyone interested in home gardens, to arrange to hear the remaining lectures of the series.

Mr. Hostetter, agricultural expert of the Duluth Commercial club, will also take part in this garden lecture course and should give a number of interesting pointers to the gardener. It is a great opportunity for every man who hopes to have a garden this year.

Thanking you for the opportunity to present this request and appeal, I am,

Sincerely yours,
AN AMATEUR GARDENER.
Duluth, April 16.

A POET'S AVERSIONS.

From Oliver Wendell Holmes's "The Poet at the Breakfast Table": I want to be understood that I consider that a certain number of persons are at liberty to dislike me peremptorily, without showing cause and that they give no offense whatever in so doing.

If I did not cheerfully acquiesce in this sentiment toward myself on the part of others, I should not feel at liberty to divulge my own aversions.

I try to cultivate a Christian feeling to all my fellow creatures, but inasmuch as I must also respect truth and honesty, I confess to myself a certain number of inalienable dislikes and prejudices, some of which may possibly be shared by others. Some of these are purely instinctive, for others I can assign a reason.

Our likes and dislikes play so important a part in the order of things that it is well to see on what they are founded.

There are persons I meet occasionally who are too intelligent by half for my liking. They know my thoughts beforehand and tell me what I was going to say.

Of course they are masters of all my knowledge and a good deal besides; have read all the books I have read and in later editions; have had all the experiences I have been through and more, too.

In my private opinion every mother's son of them will lie at any time rather than confess ignorance.

I have a kind of dread, rather than hatred, of persons with a large excess of vitality; great feeders, great laughers, great story tellers, who come sweeping over their company with a huge tidal wave of animal spirits and boisterous merriment.

I have pretty good spirits myself and enjoy a little mild pleasantry, but I am oppressed and extinguished by these great, lusty, noisy, creatures, and feel as if I were a mute at a funeral when they get into full blast.

I cannot get along much better with those drooping languid people, whose vitality falls short as much as that of the others is in excess.

I have not enough life for two; I wish I had. It is not very enlivening to meet a fellow creature whose expression and accents say:

"You are the hair that breaks the camels' back of my endurance, you are the last drop that makes my cup of woe run over;" persons whose heads drop on one side like those of toothless infants, whose voices recall the tones in which our old snuffling choir used to wail out the verses of "Life is the time to serve the Lord."

There is another style which does not captivate me.

I recognize an attempt at the grand manner now and then, in persons who are well enough in their way, but of no particular importance, socially or otherwise.

Some family tradition of wealth or distinction is apt to be at the bottom of it and it survives all the advantages it used to set it off.

I like family pride as well as my neighbors and respect the highborn fellow-citizen whose progenitors have not worked in their shirt sleeves for the last two generations—full as much as I ought to.

But grand-pere oblige; a person with a known grandfather is too distinguished to find it necessary to put on airs.

The few royal princes I have happened to know were very easy people to get along with, and had not half the social knee action I have often seen in the collapsed dowagers who lifted their eyebrows at me in my earlier years.

Was In Billy Rice's Minstrels.

Washington letter to Brooklyn Eagle: Representative Theron Akin of New York, the only independent representative in the house, was an end man in Billy Rice's minstrels a good many years ago. Akin has worked at a variety of occupations, his present one being that of a farmer.

Not long ago he attended the dinner of the first-termers in the house, and when it came time for his "stunt" he went up into the gallery, where there was a piano, and sang a couple of songs. It was apparent at once that there was a professional flavor to Akin's singing, for he had all the tricks of a man familiar with the stage. The songs he chose were old airs that few people at the dinner had heard for many years.

Following the solos the story got around that Akin had been a minstrel and he was asked about it. "It's a long time ago when I was a kid," said Akin. "I was working in Chicago for $1 a week. It was in 1875, I think, Billy Rice was out there then with his minstrel troupe. I had known Rice before I went to Chicago for we both came from the same town. I used to meet him in the evenings and some of us boys would occasionally get together around the hotel piano and sing. Rice noticed that I had sort of a voice, and one day he said to me:

"Why don't you get into the minstrel business? Your voice is all right. We're going to put on a double-bone end pretty soon and I can work you in, if you want to have a try at it."

"I was willing and Rice kept his word. A 'double-bone' was a new thing in those days. For three months after that I sang with Billy Rice's minstrels. Then I drifted out of the stage business and have never been back in it since."

Akin exhibited a Knights of Pythias charm that hangs on his watchchain. "That belonged to Billy Rice," he said. "He wore it for years. Just before he died at Hot Springs he wanted some of his friends to have something to remember him by, and he designated how certain of his possessions were to be distributed. After his death I received this Knights of Pythias watch charm. It's pretty well worn now and the gold ring that holds it is getting thin, but I'm glad to have it. He was a big boy when I was a small one, but out in the town where we came from everybody looked upon Billy Rice as a great man."

In the Chase.

Judge: Gink—Your son is pursuing his studies at college, isn't he?

Dink—I guess so. He's always behind.

MORE ECHOES OF HARMONY.

Interesting Reading.

Hinckley Herald: It is reported that Governor Eberhart has paid out $354.77 for newspaper clippings and that he expects the state to pay for it. He must have an interesting collection, judging by some of the items in the country press during the year.

Up to Eberhart.

Cambridge North Star: Did the governor advise the committee to reject the proposition for a primary election? If he did, he hasn't much influence, and if he did not some one is eligible to the thirty-third degree in the Ananias club of Minnesota.

It Is Chloroformed.

Northfield News: Governor Eberhart said he would be in favor of a presidential primary if a plan could be devised whereby the expense would not be too great. Now a plan is proposed which will cost nothing but following the habit he contracted as lieutenant governor he has referred it to E. E. Smith's committee, with private directions that it be chloroformed.

Sam Is Running.

Virginia Virginian: With 400 or more country newspaper men and some of the city fellers, boosters all the time for Sam Y. Gordon, it is a shame to even contemplate what will happen to him who now presides when the next state convention takes place.

They Know Their Man.

Nashwauk Herald: Whether the interests will sidetrack Eberhart for Iverson, remains to be seen, but it is our humble opinion that Eberhart has proven himself a most willing employee in the interest of the corporations and will not be cast aside—he is too obliging.

Ask the Governor.

Aitkin Age: Why doesn't the governor give the state a square deal? asks the Moose Lake Star. Ask Loule Hill and Billy Ham. We don't like to tell.

Commended to Smith.

Laporte News: If the Democrats nominate Judge Stanton and the machine element forces "the man of destiny" on to the Republicans again, the present incumbent will get about as many votes "in this neck o' the woods" as a brewery owner in a W. C. T. U. society.

Attend the Caucuses.

Grand Rapids Independent: Say, Republicans of Itasca county, do you follow the dictates of the bosses of the party? If not attend the caucuses of the party when the time comes, and send men to the county convention who will not only vote right but who will stand up and defend the right men and measures. If you don't the bosses may get Itasca county for Eberhart at the state officers' convention, and for Taft at the other meeting.

An Injustice to Mr. Taft.

Philadelphia North American: This is by way of being an apology—or an explanation, anyway. In newspaper making, one of the deadliest sins is inaccuracy or extravagance of statement, and yesterday the North America, in haste, commits that sin, it feels the disgrace keenly.

So an explanation is offered of the statement made on the morning following the North Dakota primaries that "President Taft received only one vote in forty of the total cast."

This estimate was based upon partial figures and seemed to be nearly correct, but it certainly looked very bad when compared next day with the statements in other papers that the Taft vote was one in ten.

Then and there it was determined to await the official count, and immediately apologize to the public for having inadvertently deceived it.

The official figures being in, it is our painful duty to acknowledge how gross was the error. Mr. Taft's vote was not one in forty; it was one in thirty-six. The count is: La Follette, 34,121; Roosevelt, 24,217; Taft, 1,659. Mr. Taft's percentage is 2.7651 plus; say 2¾ per cent.

There is something quite fascinating about the 1,659 votes.

For instance, there are 1,800 precincts in North Dakota. Did 1,659 precincts contribute one vote each, while 141 ignored the name of Taft entirely?

Or did a couple of hundred precincts rise up in their might and give him eight votes apiece, while the other 1,600 forgot the titular head of the party? We do not know. But there is another interesting computation:

Total vote for Mr. Taft.....1,659
Number of federal office holders in North Dakota 1,643

Taft's strength outside of office holders 16

This is maddening. Who were the sixteen? By what arduous effort, with what plausible arguments, through what insidious pressure, did the devoted 1,643 citizens who hold jobs under Mr. Taft allure, persuade or dragoon those sixteen private individuals into voting for him?

And where were the jobholders' sons?

Is it possible that among the 1,643 there were only sixteen sons of voting age?

Again, North Dakota has 70,795 square miles of territory. If the Taft voters were equally distributed, that allows about forty-three square miles to each foe of the gusty passions of the mob.

Or, leaving out the federal officers, it is—

(Enough of this.—Note by Editor.)

Their Just Reward.

From "The Librarian at Play," by E. L. Pearson: I looked and beheld, and there were a vast number of girls standing in rows. Many of them wore pigtails and most of them chewed gum.

"What are they?" I asked my guide.

And he said: "They are the girls who wrote 'lovely' or 'perfectly sweet,' or 'horrid old thing!' on the flyleaves of library books. Some of them used to put comments on the margins of the pages—such as 'Served him right!' or 'There, you mean old cat!'"

"What will happen to them?" I inquired.

"They are to stand up to the neck in a lake of ice cream soda for ten years," he answered.

"That will not be much of a punishment to them," I suggested.

But he told me that I had never tried it, and I could not dispute him.

"The ones over there," he remarked, pointing to a detachment of the girls who were chewing gum more vigorously than the others, "are sentenced for fifteen years in the ice cream soda lake and, moreover, they will have hot molasses candy dropped on them at intervals. They are the ones who wrote:

"'If my name you wish to see,
Look on page 93,'

and then when you had turned to page 93, cursing yourself for a fool as you did it, you only found:

"'If my name you would discover,
Look upon the inside cover,' and so on, and so on, until you were ready to drop from weariness and exasperation. Hang me!" he suddenly exploded, "if I had the say of it, I'd bury 'em alive in cocoanut taffy—I told the boss so myself."

I agreed with him that they were getting off easy.

A Practical Suggestion.

Chicago Record-Herald: "Whatever are we going to do with nine chafing dishes?" exclaimed the bride when she and the bridegroom had at last been permitted to look at the presents.

"We might exchange two or three of them for a couple of skillets and perhaps trade the rest in on a sack of flour and a peck of potatoes."

Heard in a "Dry" State.

Saturday Evening Post: Alabama is a prohibition state. Early last December a man from the rural district, who was preparing for a "big Christmas," went to the postmaster at Jacksonville and said he wanted to get a money order. The postmaster, while assisting him in making out the application, inquired to whom the order was to be made payable. The applicant told him. The postmaster then asked him: "For how much?"

"One gallon!" was the answer.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

An independent convention at St. Paul has nominated a complete ticket for the coming city election. The ticket is headed by Col. Fred P. Wright, Republican, for mayor, and Peter J. Dreis, Democrat, for treasurer. Wright will probably also receive the Republican nomination, and Mayor R. A. Smith will again head the Democratic ticket.

Word comes from Toronto that Hon. Alexander Mackenzie, the well known Canadian statesman, is dying. He was the only Liberal called to the premiership since the confederation of the Canadian provinces was consummated. His ministry held power from 1873 to 1878, when the Conservatives were again under the leadership of Sir John A. Macdonald. Mr. Mackenzie remained in parliament, but was succeeded as leader of the Liberal party by Edward Blake.

William King has left West Duluth for Paducah, Ky., where he has secured a position with a railroad company.

E. L. Prince and wife both died last week in Chicago. Mr. Prince was formerly one of the lessees of the Duluth News job rooms.

The season of navigation was opened here yesterday by the steamer S. R. Kirby, which moved out of the harbor at 10:30 a. m. amid a screeching of whistles. Half an hour later the steamer John Mitchell went out and was followed by the steamer S. B. Barker for Grand Marais and Isle Royale. A dispatch from Sault Ste. Marie says the ice in Mud lake is solid and navigation will probably not open until April 19.

E. F. Stone has gone to Chicago to meet his wife, who is returning from a visit to the East.

Rev. George H. Kemp has returned from Omaha, where he has been supplying the pulpit of the First Baptist church for several weeks.

Duluthians have been well represented in San Francisco during the past two weeks. Among those who have visited the Golden Gate in that time were Mr. and Mrs. Duncan, Mr. and Mrs. Brewer, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Markell, Mrs. and Miss Munger, Mrs. and Miss Miller, Mrs. J. D. Ray, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Smith and A. L. Ordean.

Mrs. D. W. Palmer, nee Mary Sutphin, has gone South for a six weeks' visit.

Mrs. W. O. Timolat of Duluth has gone to Rest Island, where she is to assume charge of the "cottage" work.

The Ohrstrom Concert company, organized and managed by a Duluth man, has closed a six months' successful tour. Miss Ohrstrom has located in Duluth for the summer and will make her permanent home in this country.

AGAIN THE HANDWRITING.

Chicago Tribune: The people of Pennsylvania have written something on the wall, and if the Bourbos princes of the republican party sitting at the feast cannot read it, they would better send for a Daniel.

The people of North Dakota wrote on the wall and the princes did not look up from their food.

The people of Wisconsin wrote, but the princes were busy with another course.

The people of Illinois took a brush and with sweeping strokes wrote, and it was seen.

And now in Pennsylvania they write. If the princes cannot read it a Daniel cannot come too soon to save them.

The writing is there, and to the country it is in plain English.

It is in plain English that Theodore Roosevelt has won sixty-seven Pennsylvania delegates and President Taft nine. It is in plain English that Theodore Roosevelt has won fifty-six Illinois delegates and President Taft two. It is in plain English that Robert La Follotte has won twenty-six Wisconsin delegates and President Taft none. It is in plain English that Robert La Follette has won ten North Dakota delegates and President Taft six, with the others contested. It is plain English that Theodore Roosevelt has won twelve Maine delegates and President Taft none. And these are republican states, the backbone of the party.

That's plain English and if the Bourbon princes do not know what it means they need a Daniel or a surgical operation.

When Daniel will tell them that in Pennsylvania the people are utterly weary and tired of Penrose and all he represents in republican politics—utterly wearied and tired of him. And they will have none of men supported by him. Penrose, defender of Lorimer, may understand it when he finds that his ticket to the republican national convention has been taken away from him. But Penrose may not need a Daniel. He understands the English language. Prince Penrose may be able to read the handwriting on the wall.

A Daniel will tell them that in Illinois the people are utterly weary and tired of Lorimer and all he represents and supports in republican politics—utterly wearied and tired of him.

A Daniel will tell the Bourbon princes that every man who sits insolently and heedlessly in purple at the feast is numbered for the slaughter. A Daniel will tell them that a candidate for president who trust himself to their feeble arms is defeated in his hopes and aspirations.

The people will have none of them. The people are done with them. They are done with Penrose, done with Lorimer, done with Cullom, done with Jones, done with insolence in the purple and at the feast.

Don'ts For High School Girls.

Emporia Gazette: Minerva—don't.

You are just a little girl, only in high school. You should be kept in simple girlish clothes; you should have your head full of books. You should be interested in girlish things.

So don't dress that way; if your mother hasn't enough sense to keep you a little girl in simple frocks, the blessed Lord knows you should have enough sense for the two of you.

Do you know, child, you are horribly overdressed? The idea of your wearing those clothes that bring out every line and curve of your girlish figure for men to leer at! Minerva, don't; don't put up your hair like a woman's of 30! You are so much more beautiful and attractive as you are—a child.

You will be a woman soon enough; be a girl—a simple, genuine, frank-eyed girl—just as long as you can.

Don't frowse yourself up with all those dowdy drygoods.

Don't stir up your hair like a taffy kettle.

Don't go gadding to school in white shoes.

Get into some quiet girlish togs, forget about your social position, put your mind on your books, chase the boys out of your head, and be a nice girl—a nice, candid, open-hearted, fresh-eyed, clean-hearted little girl.

Proof to Madness.

Boson Traveler: Representative John J. Carmody has a long list of Irish stories, gathered largely from his Springfield constituents. Here is one of them:

"An Irishman was on his deathbed. At his side knelt his wife, Mary," says the representative.

"'Before I die,' said Pat, 'I want to tell you how we stand financially! Tom O'Donnell owes us $5.'

"'Praise be to the Virgin,' exclaimed Mary, with a look of admiration at her dying husband. 'Clear in his mind to the last.'

"'And,' continued Pat, 'John O'Shaughness owes us $17.'

"'Mind clear as a bell,' interrupted his wife, and Pat went on to add:

"'And Billy Murray owes us $27.'

"'Was ever man's memory like that?' questioned Mary, ecstatic in her wonder.

"'Then,' said Pat, 'we owe Will O'Connell $11.'

"'The saints preserve!' cried Mary. 'Death's on the man. He's daft—raving crazy.'"

With Mr. Greenly in Europe.

Youth's Companion: Mr. Greenly was traveling in Europe. He had plenty of money, abounding good nature and an almost inexhaustible fund of combined trust and ignorance.

On the railway platform at Heidelberg he was rudely jostled by a student.

"Look here, young man," said Mr. Greenly, surveying him with some disapproval but no rancor, "you hadn't ought to crowd me so. I've got a right to stand here, same as you have."

The student gazed at him haughtily for a moment, then:

"I am at your service at any time and any place," he said, in precise English, with a strong German accent.

"You are!" and the beaming American hooked his arm within the other's and got a firm grip on his coat sleeve. "You're just the man I've been looking for. You carry this holdall, will you, while I tackle the suitcase? Do you charge by the hour or by the piece?"

Two Roads to Fame.

Philadelphia Press: His way was in a bloody lane where clanking caissons splashed along; his goal, the line where blazing guns laughed out their song of death.

On, on he went. His ears were filled with sounds of quick commands, bugle blasts, discordant drums.

No fluttering fear was in his heart, no thought of home, no specter of the dread despair that waited at the hearth if he never came again.

To him there was no warning in the bullet's deadly hiss.

Youth trod all reason under foot; ambition saw all glory overhead. On, on he went to woo his bride, the priceless jewel, Fame.

Another, in a garret sighed, for Fame.

Crusts were his portion and his raiment only rags. Hermit like, he toiled alone; nor cold nor hunger ever daunted him.

He marshaled all his hosts, and visions came and went. On, on he toiled.

In the snowflakes that drifted in and touched his hands he read a message from the world without; all white, all cheerless.

As a chrysalis, his fancy wove and spun and made its garments wondrous, then burst in splendor on a waiting world.

Both fought the fight; each in his way.

One for a heroic shape of bronze, one for a speechless marble face. Each for an epitaph—that all the ages in the dust of time might know he did and died.

A Fixed Law.

Louisville Courier-Journal: The lawyer was determined to discredit the witness.

"You are positive this happened on Wednesday?" he demanded.

"I am."

"Sure it was Wednesday?"

"Yes."

"Can't be mistaken?"

"No."

"Why couldn't it have been Thursday or Tuesday? How is it that you can fix this day so positively in your mind?"

"Because," answered the witness with some spirit, "we had chicken that day. Chicken day is Wednesday where I board."

A Man's Guess.

Boston Transcript: "What will be fashionable this spring?"

"Whatever they happen to be overstocked with in Paris, I suppose."

dent and director; International Steam Pump company, president and director; the Laidlaw-Dunn-Gordon company, president and director; Power & Mining Machinery company, president and director.

George D. Widener was connected with the Widener-Elkins traction syndicate of Philadelphia. He was one of two sons of P. A. B. Widener. George D. Widener's fortune is estimated at $50,000,000. The young man was returning with his wife and son from Europe, where they had gone to purchase a bridal trousseau for their daughter. His home is in Philadelphia.

John B. Thayer, second vice president of the Pennsylvania railroad, another passenger, was accompanied by his wife and a young son.

Arthur Ryerson on Board.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ryerson, their two daughters and a son, were returning to attend the funeral of another son, Arthur L. Ryerson, a Yale student, who was killed in an automobile accident last week.

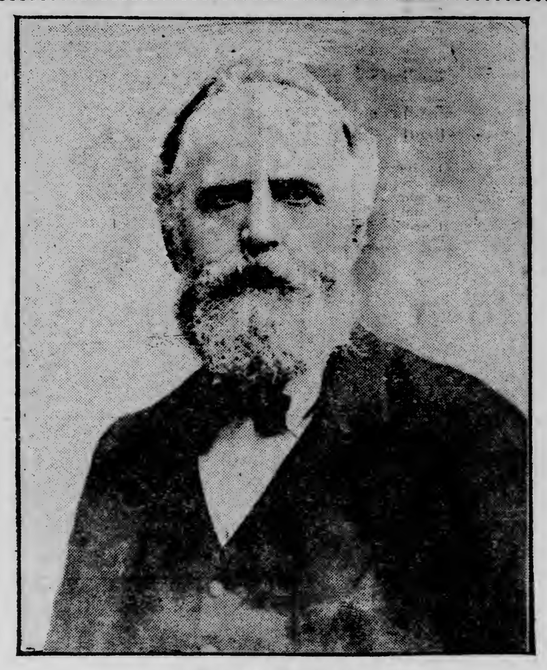
T. D. N. Cardeza, a wealthy sportsman and hunter of big game, and his mother, Mrs. J. W. M. Cardeza of Germantown, also were on the vessel.

Col. Washington Roebling, builder of the Brooklyn bridge, was president and director of the John A. Roebling's Sons' company. His fortune amounts to about $5,000,000.

Roebling Engineering Expert.

Mr. Roebling's first engineering work was found in assisting his father, the late John A. Roebling, to build the Allegheny suspension bridge. This was soon after he was graduated from the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute at Troy, N. Y.

The construction of Brooklyn bridge, including as it did so many new and untried engineering problems, was one that might have tried the capacity and perseverance of many older and more experienced men. The period of time at the end of the sinking of the New York caisson was one of intense anxiety to Col. Roebling. Below was a bed of sand with an irregular ledge of rock underneath, of a depth varying from four to twenty feet. To have gone down to the rock and leveled off the whole foundation would have involved an expense of an additional million and a sacrifice of another year of time. He, therefore, took the bold step of stopping within a few feet of the bedrock and leaving an intervening cushion of sand to distribute the pressures. The result, as proved by experience, has been entirely satisfactory.



Isidor Straus on Ship.

Isidor Straus was one of the best known merchants in the world and was worth about $50,000,000. Mr. Straus was connected with the following organizations: R. H. Macy & Co., L. Straus & Sons, Abraham & Straus, the Birbeck Investment Savings & Loan company, vice president and trustee; the Educational Alliance, president and director; Hanover National bank, director; Second National bank, director. He had obtained national prominence. He was born in Rhenish, Bavaria, Feb. 6, 1845, and came to the United States with his parents in 1854. He was educated in Georgia and at the Washington and Lee universities. In 1863 he was sent abroad by the Georgia Export and Import company to purchase steamers and supplies for shipment to the Confederate states. In 1866 he joined his father in forming the firm of Straus & Sons, importers of pottery and glassware. With his brother Nathan he became a partner in 1888 of the department store of R. H. Macy & Co. He was director of various banks and financial institutions. He was elected to the Fifty-third congress where as an intimate friend of William L. Wilson he was in consultation in the forming of the Wilson tariff bill.

J. Bruce Ismay was president of the International Mercantile Marine company and is one of the founders of that organization. It was Mr. Ismay and J. P. Morgan who consolidated American and British steamship lines. It also was Mr. Ismay who conceived the idea of building the Titanic. He was worth probably $50,000,000.

Hays a Native of Illinois.

Charles Melville Hays, president of the Grand Trunk Railway company, Montreal, who is among the missing, was born in Rock Island, Ill., May 16, 1856. In 1873 he entered the employ of the Atlantic and Pacific Railroad company in St. Louis. From 1873 to Oct. 1, 1886, he was in the employ of that company, the Missouri Pacific and the Wabash, St. Louis and Pacific. Then he was appointed assistant general manager of the Wabash railroad, six months later being appointed general manager of the Wabash Western. July 1, 1869, he was appointed general manager of the reorganized Wabash railroad, of which, in 1893, he was appointed vice president.

Dec. 31, 1895, Mr. Hays resigned from the Wabash to become general manager of the Grand Trunk. In 1897 he completed reorganization of the Central Vermont Railway company, a subsidiary, of which he was elected president. During the regime of Mr. Hays the main line of the Grand Trunk has been double-tracked from Ste. Rosalie, thirty-eight miles east of Montreal, to Chicago, a distance of 378 miles. After the death of Collis P. Huntington Mr. Hays succeeded him as president of the Southern Pacific. About the close of 1901 he resigned to take charge of the Grand Trunk.

Roosevelt in Snow.

Hastings, Neb., April 17.—It was snowing when Colonel Roosevelt began his Nebraska campaign here today. He reached Hastings at 3:30 o'clock and his car was sidetracked for the remainder of the night. At 9 o'clock he made his first speech.

The biting cold resulted in the abandonment of the plan for an outdoor meeting and Colonel Roosevelt spoke in the opera house. He restated his position in the campaign, which he said he was making to obtain genuine rule by the people and asked for support at the forthcoming primaries.

The colonel left Hastings by special train to carry out a program which calls for a dozen speeches today. The last of the day is set for Omaha this evening.

Alabama Democrats Meet.

Montgomery, Ala., April 17.—The Democratic state convention met here today to name delegates to the national convention. The delegation is expected to be instructed for Oscar W. Underwood, Alabama's "favorite son."

Early indications were that complete harmony would prevail. The delegation from Jefferson county—Mr. Underwood's home county—went into the convention with the avowed purpose of obtaining the passage of a resolution instructing the delegates to Baltimore to stand solid for Underwood until a nomination is made.

"The Underwood March club" of Alabama was organized here today The promoters are planning to take 1,000 uniformed Underwood enthusiasts to Baltimore in June.

KROOK CASE NOW NEARING ITS END

Companions of Accused Cloquet Man Tell of Red Light Visits.

Carlton, Minn., April 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The trial of Ed G. Krook for alleged embezzlement of funds belonging to the Northern Pacific railway, Great Northern Railway companies, and the Northern Express company, at Cloquet, occupied the entire attention of the district court here yesterday.

The prosecution had the floor most of the day, and Auditor Wright for the Northern Pacific Railway company was the chief witness. He was fortified with facts and figures which the keen cross-questioning of the defense in Attorneys Persinger and Case put him through. The latter part of the day's session witnessed some more or less spicy testimony of the young fellows with whom Krook is said to have made the rounds of certain sporting districts last fall, and spent his money.

Case to Jury Thursday.

The defense are at the bat today and it is expected that they will finish up their part of it and the case will go to the jury some time tomorrow. Krook is accused of and indicted on three counts for embezzling funds from the three companies in the total sum of over $2,200.

UNCLAIMED FORTUNES

Insurance Companies Have Millions Waiting for Unknown Beneficiaries.

"Unclaimed insurance policies in this country aggregate millions of dollars," said Walter R. Hoefflin, the new district manager at Duluth of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance company. Mr. Hoefflin comes to Duluth from Minneapolis to succeed Frank T. McNally, who has recently resigned to go with another company.

"Our company, for example, has investigated 1,555 cases where policy holders have died and the insurance has not been claimed. With an average policy of $1,000 this would mean $1,555,000. Of these cases 793 policy holders have been found. In 132 other cases no heirs or policy holders could be located, and 630 are still under investigation. This will give some idea of the immense amount of money that is unclaimed. Some companies simply pocket this money, or wait for somebody to claim it. Our company, as will be seen from the above record, has made an effort to locate the people entitled to the money, and other reputable companies have done likewise. The cases generally arise from the fact that the beneficiary did not know about the policy, or that the beneficiary died before the insured."

Mr. Hoefflin has brought his family here from Minneapolis, and will reside at 1422 East Third street. He has offices at 306 Providence building.

HOME RULE BILL PAST FIRST STAGE

Passes Its First Reading in Commons By 360 to 266.

London, April 17.—The home rule bill passed its first reading in the house last night by a vote of 360 to 266. The announcement of the figures was received with deafening ministerial cheers and the waving of hats and handkerchiefs.

In the debate, Andrew Bonar Law, summing up for the opposition, savagely assailed both the bill and the government. The people of Ulster, he declared, were ready in what they believed to be the cause of liberty and justice to lay down their lives. In conclusion he said:

"You will not carry this bill without submitting it to the people. If you try to do so, you will succeed only in breaking the parliamentary machine. The bill has been introduced because the government is dependent upon the Irish votes. The prime minister gave a solemn pledge that he would reform the house of lords, but that debt of honor must wait until he has paid his debt of shame."

T. P. O'Connor said that in Ireland they believed that the true democratic road was through liberty to loyalty. "God save the king" would be sung again in Ireland when it was not degraded into a song of party faction, he said.

Timothy Healy said that the bill, instead of repealing the union, as contended by the opposition, made it perpetual with the consent of the Irish people.

ON SCENE OF DISASTER JUST TWO YEARS AGO

In looking over his log, kept during a trip to Europe two years ago, William E. McEwen, publisher of the Labor World, discovered that he was in almost the exact spot that the Titanic met her fate at the same day of the year and the same hour of the night.

Mr. McEwen kept a log of not only what went on each day, but where the ship was each day, as copied off the log kept by the ship, which was the Lusitania.

SEEDS FROM UNCLE SAM

Seeds Are No Longer Looked Upon as a Joke.

Duluth people and others residing in this congressional district are receiving their annual supply of seeds from the United States department of agriculture.

The seeds come through Congressman C. B. Miller, each congressman being allowed something like 500 packages of flower seeds and 12,000 packages of vegetable seeds.

It is urged that these seeds be not thrown away as they are good stock and will grow if given a proper opportunity.

Time was when the seeds from the department of agriculture were a national joke, but this has ceased to be and people are now taking the annual distribution of seeds seriously.

The custom originated some years ago when a congressman wandered over to the department of agriculture and had some seeds mailed to some farmer friends. He made a hit by this and the demand soon became greater than the supply.

Soon all the congressmen wanted seeds to send home to their friends and congress was almost forced to makes an appropriation for the annual distribution of seeds.

Soon after that time the government purchased the seeds from seed houses, which were not careful to see that the seeds were of the best variety and the government seeds became something of a laughing stock.

The custom was started as an experiment in seeds and varieties, a pretense which is even at the present time kept up. It was the idea of showing the people the results of experiments that the seeds were first sent out and this pretense is still maintained.

The seeds are now purchased by the government from responsible seed houses.

The seeds are good and will grow. It is a waste to throw them away. The days of the old joke about the government seeds are past.

FARGO BRANCH WILL OPEN JUNE 1

Stone-Ordean-Wells Company Will Have New House in Dakota.

The Stone-Ordean-Wells company expects to have the new branch headquarters at Fargo, N. D., in full running order by June 1 next. Frank W. Clark, at present manager of the Bismarck branch, will be manager of the Fargo branch. His successor at Bismarck has not yet been chosen. The new branch headquarters at Fargo will occupy the building formerly used by the hardware jobbing house of the Hall-Robinson company.

R. A. Horr, general manager of the Stone-Ordean-Wells company, is at present in the West looking over the various branch headquarters, including those at Butte, Missoula, Great Falls, Bozeman, Billings, Bismarck and Minot. He will also make final arrangements for the opening of the Fargo branch.

Pays $2,000 to Ease Conscience.

Washington, April 17.—A troubled conscience of forty-six years' duration was appeased yesterday by a contribution of $2,000 to the "conscience fund" of the federal treasury. The unidentified remitter lives in Chicago.

EVERYONE NEEDS S.S.S. IN THE SPRING

Everyone needs S. S. S. in the Spring because there is no other medicine equal to this great vegetable preparation for building up a weakened, run-down system.

General bodily weakness, tired, worn-out feeling, fickle appetite, poor digestion, nervousness, etc.. come as a result of thin, watery blood. These symptoms show that the body is not supplied with a sufficient amount of nourishment from the circulation. The stomach, bowels and digestive members are sluggish from a lack of stimulating blood nutrition.

A great many so-called tonics are simply nerve stimulants, producing temporary exhilarating effects, but often acting with decided injury on the system. Dosing yourself with such drugs is not giving your system the benefit of proper treatment. If you are depleted and run-down you cannot overcome the condition except by supplying an increased amount of nourishment to the body and this can be done only through pure, rich blood.

S. S. S. is the greatest of all tonics because it is the greatest of all blood purifiers. It builds up the system in the natural way, by purifying the blood and supplying an increased amount of nourishment. S. S S. gives healthful energy to every member of the body; it increases the appetite, promotes digestion, quiets overstrained nerves, and in every way adds to the physical comfort of those who use it as a tonic. Do not "mope around" and "feel bad" this Spring; take S. S. S. and be able to perform your customary work every day without fear of overtaxing your strength. Cleanse and enrich your blood with this great purifier and tonic so that the energized circulation will build up and strenghten your system, and permit you to enjoy all the beauties and pleasures of this the most welcome season of the year.

S. S. S. is made entirely of roots, herbs and barks, and is therefore a perfectly safe tonic. Everyone needs S. S. S. in the Spring and almost everyone takes it. If you will try it this year you will know why it is regarded as the best of all tonics. S. S. S. is sold at drug stores.

CHANCE FOR GARDENERS

Duluth Man Offers Use of Vacant Lot to Test Plan.

First Definite Move to Carry Out Idea Long Advocated.

To the Editor of The Herald:

The Herald is advocating the use of vacant lots for gardening purposes. I have a lot, 75 by 140 feet, on the northeast corner of Twentieth avenue east and Second street, that any one can use for that purpose that desires it. The lot is in the rough, has never been plowed or cleared up for gardening. If the right fellow wants it, some fellow who really needs help, I will give him a five or ten spot to help him get it plowed and seeded. If you care to put a little item in your Open Court column, bringing this to the attention of the public, you may do so. The only string on this is that I don't care to have you put my name in the article. I am not looking for any advertisement out of it.

The lot is on the market and has been for about four years. I might sell it and fire the fellow off who puts in a garden, but the probabilities of that are not very great. If, however, that should come up, I will agree to allow you to fix up what he is damaged and I will settle with him for the damages. I wouldn't want a man to put in a lot of hard work and some money and then see him lose it all.

Here is a chance for some Duluth man to provide a year's supply of garden produce for himself and family, and incidentally test the value of the vacant lot garden plan which The Herald has long advocated for Duluth.

The above offer was received by The Herald today, and the name of the writer is known to the editor of The Herald. It will be given to any one who shows that he really wishes to accept the offer, and will put in a garden and care for it. The writer of the letter is known as one of the most reputable business men in Duluth, and he will undoubtedly do as he promises in the letter.

The offer is open to anybody in Duluth, and it will be a case of "first come, first served."

Superior Man Is Alternate.

The Democratic state central committee last night met to select alternates to the national convention at Baltimore, and named those at large as follows:

J. J. Cunningham, Janesville; George C. Cooper, Superior; T. J. Cleary, Platteville, and Burt Williams, Ashland. Two alternatives also were named for each congressional district.

It was voted to hold a state convention soon after the national convention, but as to whether it would be for the adoption of a platform or the naming of a state ticket was not decided. The business to be taken up at the state gathering will be decided at a larger meeting.

"SWAT THE FLY" AGAIN

Warning and Suggestions Sent Out By State Board of Health.

"One Pair in April Means Millions in August."

Warnings against the typhoid fly are again being sent out by the state board of health.

A bulletin has just been issued telling of the dangers of allowing houseflies in the kitchen, dining room or bedroom.

Following is a list of reasons given by the board why the housefly should be fought, and some ways of doing it:

"It is hatched in filth, feeds upon it, walks over it, and brings it, with the contained germs, to your food. It breeds in horse manure, in almost any moist filth, in garbage and similar material.

"It frequents open sewers, drains and out-houses, localities which frequently contain millions of disease germs. It carries these disease germs, typhoid, dysentery, consumption, cholera, etc., to our food. It causes typhoid epidemics. It caused the death of 5,000 American soldiers in the Spanish war.

"It multiplies very rapidly; the descendants of four pair may amount in a season to thousands of millions.

"The female fly lays 120 or more eggs; they hatch in about eight hours; maggots are full grown in six days; the pupal stage follows (maggots become elliptical in shape and skin hardens and turns brownish); three to five days; the adult fly emerges from the pupal case.

"Fourteen days elapse between emergence of female and egg laying. This is an important fact.

"We lost 5,000 American soldiers in the Spanish war through the agency of house flies.

"Where there is no filth there are no flies.

"If one could catch and kill all of the comparatively few flies that first appear, in the spring, the fly pest would be abolished. Therefore, begin the campaign early, the earlier the better. Plans and preparations should all be made by March 15—"One pair in April means millions in August."

"Place the most dependence upon approved traps. You can chase a fly all summer, but you do not have to catch it but once. Better still, let it catch itself.'

"It is dangerous to place the excreta from typhoid or dysenteric patients where flies have access to such.

"All stores carrying edibles which allow flies within their doors should be boycotted. Patronize only those who screen their goods against the pest.

"Your town or city should have a food-screening ordinance, and it should be enforced.

"Co-operation in a fly-fighting campaign is absolutely necessary.

"Your state board of health and state entomologist are glad to co-operate with you in any way possible."

Here are some suggestions made by the board as to the best way of fighting the typhoid fly:

"1. Individually: Do not build stable near dwelling house; arrange for prompt removal of stable manure from your vicinity; keep manure covered and in dark until removed. Keep your premises clean, as free as possible from filth of all kinds, slop water, garbage, refuse heaps. If your neighbor allows such nuisances upon his own premises, complain of him to your board of health. Where there is no sewer connection, cesspool and house toilet are preferable to open vault; earth closets should be carefully tended, and excreta from typhoid patients treated with an abundance of chloride of lime and placed where flies cannot penetrate.

"Do not buy meat or groceries or fruit from any store where flies are tolerated. Keep flies away from the baby and its milk bottle.

"2. In a community: To make a town or district flyless proceed as follows:

"A. Begin in time, in the winter if possible. Form co-operative associations and plan campaign for town improvement in this particular. After dividing the town or community into districts and appointing one or more members of the association inspectors in each district, lay out the work as follows:

"B. Clean up in early spring—all refuse heaps, filth of all kinds, manure piles, garbage heaps, old cans, bottles, trash of all sorts, open vaults and earth closets (abolish these where possible.)

"C. Use screens freely on all doors and windows.

"D. Arrange for prompt garbage disposal and see that swill barrels and garbage cans are tightly closed.

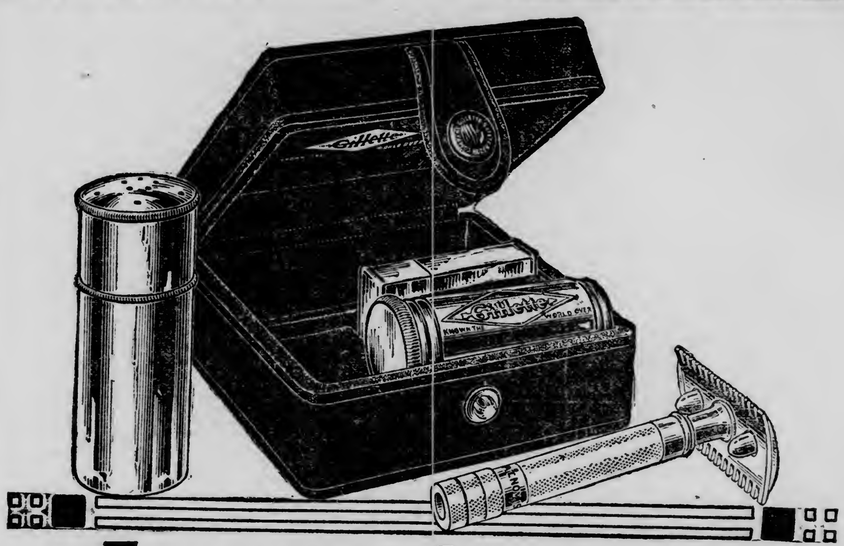
"E. Use the outdoor fly exterminator either on the garbage pail or near it and wherever flies congregate. Bread and milk makes one of the best baits. Many leading hardware men have promised to carry these excellent traps, and before long all progressive dealers will.

"F. Manure heaps back of stables may be sprayed with the following poisonous solution, which can also be used on any other filth upon which flies feed: Eight ounces arsenite of soda, dissolved in 20 gallons of water, to which one pint of cheap molasses have been added. This is an internal poison and it would be unwise to use it where chickens have access to it.

"G. A safe and effective poison is made by adding three teaspoonfuls of formalin to a pint of half milk and half water. Particularly useful where flies do not have access to other sources of moisture. Should be kept out of the reach of children and might be placed in a Mason fruit jar inverted in a shallow dish, and so arranged as to feed the liquid into the dish as fast as needed. Or it might be poured into an open dish and placed near the sink or wherever flies gather.

"H. From April 1 to April 30 (latitude of Minnesota) offer, through teachers in the schools, generous prizes to pupils bringing in the greatest number of living or recently killed house flies."

MURRAY MAY BE NEXT TO MAJ.-GEN. WOOD.



Washington, April 17.—Maj.-Gen. Arthur Murray, at present commanding the Western division, it is reported, has been called to Washington to consider an offer of the important post of assistant chief of staff of the army, soon to be vacated by the transfer of Maj.-Gen. Carter to either New York or Chicago.

DISTRESS SIGNAL HEARD IN DULUTH

Mrs. Redfern, operator at the local wireless station, states that she caught the distress signal which was flashed by the ill-fated Titanic when she struck the iceberg in the Atlantic.

The message was very faint and she explains that she was unable to determine the location of the vessel, although certain that a disaster had happened. Messages are quite often caught here from the Atlantic seaboard and from inland stations as far away as Texas, but the local station cannot sent messages that far.

Enormous Increase in Gillette Users Shown by Canvass of City

Desire for Economy Big Factor, Local Dealers Say

"After the Gillette comfort and convenience, men never go back to old shaving methods," recently declared a leading Gillette dealer.

"I am selling over three times as many Gillette razors to-day as I did two years ago.

"For once the high cost of living is a benefit. It teaches men the luxury of a Gillette shave, as well as the saving of time and money."

A man who is shaved every day in the barber shop spends not less than thirty-six dollars a year, besides tips—and from one hundred to two hundred hours of his time.

And he pays this price simply to avoid having to strop and hone his razor, and to keep from cutting himself with the open blade.

Wonderful Advance of the Gillette

The greatest advance ever made in shaving was when the Gillette, with its hard-tempered, wafer-like blade, freed men from the everlasting annoyance of stropping and honing.

It has done more to make it practicable for the average man to shave himself than all the razors, strops, hones and shaving devices ever invented.

The blade that is helped by stropping is too soft to hold an edge. And stropping a hard-tempered Gillette Blade is an altogether useless operation, whatever a man may think about it.

What the Gillette Will Do for You

Whatever your shaving habits may be, no matter how tender your skin or tough and wiry your beard, the Gillette will give you a clean velvet shave.

It will give you a light shave or close shave (closer than a barber dare give you), with no roughness, no irritation.

The adjustment of the Gillette will suit your beard and your skin. The Gillette will save you time and money and it is safe.

Don't Put It Off—Buy a Gillette To-day

Ask your dealer.

The very next time you see a Gillette in a store window go in and talk to the man about it.

Standard set, $5.00 everywhere.

Pocket editions, $5.00 to $6.00.

Travellers' and Tourists' sets, $6.00 to $50.00.

Gillette Blades, packets of six (12 shaving edges), 50 cents; nickel-plated box of twelve (24 shaving edges), $1.00.

For sale in 40,000 retail stores in every part of the habitable globe.

LATEST SPORTING NEWS OF THE DAY

BRUCE'S COLUMN

COMMENT AND DIVERS DISCUSSION OF THE MERRY WORLD OF SPORT.

HUGHEY FULLERTON, perhaps the very best known of all baseball writers, is of the opinion that the Philadelphia Nationals will win the pennant in the race of the older major league. For some mysterious reason followers of the national sport have gotten out of the habit of seriously considering the Phillies for the gonfalon. There is a sort of jinx that persistently trails the team from the city of brotherly love and ten-hour sleep. At the very start of the present season the famous Sherwood Magee, one of the greatest players in the game, was injured and the chances of the Doolin brigade lessened. Generally speaking the Giants are the choice to win the flag. How much McGraw has strengthened since the win of last season is a difficult matter to tell. Mathewson won't be any better, and the same is true of some of the other members of the pitching staff. But McGraw has a young and dashingly aggressive team and it should be fully as efficient this season as was the case last year.

Dopesters are generally waiting to see what O'Toole is going to do at Pittsburg before any rash predictions are made regarding the standing of the Clarke crew. Marty won his game yesterday and there are reasons to believe that the sensation of the American Association may repeat his triumphs in the larger league.

ALEX JARVINEN arrived yesterday from Chicago, accompanied by his manager, Gus Frilund, and the young giant looks in the very best condition for the contest with Lehto, which will decide the perplexing question as to which is the real champion at the catch-as-catch-can game. Jarvinen has had the benefit of two weeks under the instruction of Illa Vincent, the Cuban wrestler, and he will walk on to the mat in the very best condition of his career. Lehto has been training over in the Copper Country and is said to be in the very finest possible shape for the encounter with Jarvinen. Followers of wrestling here are inclined to favor the chances of Jarvinen, but then it must be remembered that Lehto has not been seen here for a year and that he has improved wonderfully during his absence, according to all the accounts. Lehto is a hard man to beat, for he is one of the most wonderful bridgers in the world and, besides this, he is strong and fast. So great is the interest among the Finnish people in the outcome of this long discussed match, that already there are a number of fans here from the ranges and Copper Country, while a host of visitors are expected in the city today and tomorrow.

This contest will be the biggest match ever wrestled between two Finnish wrestlers, involving as it does the Finnish catch-as-catch-can championship. Lehto has claimed this title for some years and has successfully defended it among his countrymen, one going to Finland and engaging in a number of contests. The claim of the winner of the coming match will not be disputed in the least. It has been agreed that the contest will be a finish one and that a draw will be permitted under no circumstances.

TOMMY RYAN will not, according to the statement made yesterday by Jack Curley, try in the two months before the battle with Johnson to make a boxer of Jim Flynn. Flynn candidly admits that he does not know how to box. He also admits that he does not know how to back up. His idea of beating a man is to keep as close to him as possible and rain blows into the body. It will be the crafty ring knowledge of the veteran that Curley counts upon to be of valuable assistance to Flynn, and then, too, Tonsilitis Tommy is known as one of the best conditioners in the ring.

Speaking of Tommy Ryan, it might be mentioned that his boy, Howard Morrow, won the middleweight bout on the Pacific coast and is looked upon as one of the best of the middle division boys in the country. Fight fans will hail with delight the fact that there is the bare possibility of securing one fighter who can show some real class in this class. Ketchell's death and the going back of Billy Papke have taken away the two greatest fighters of the last decade.

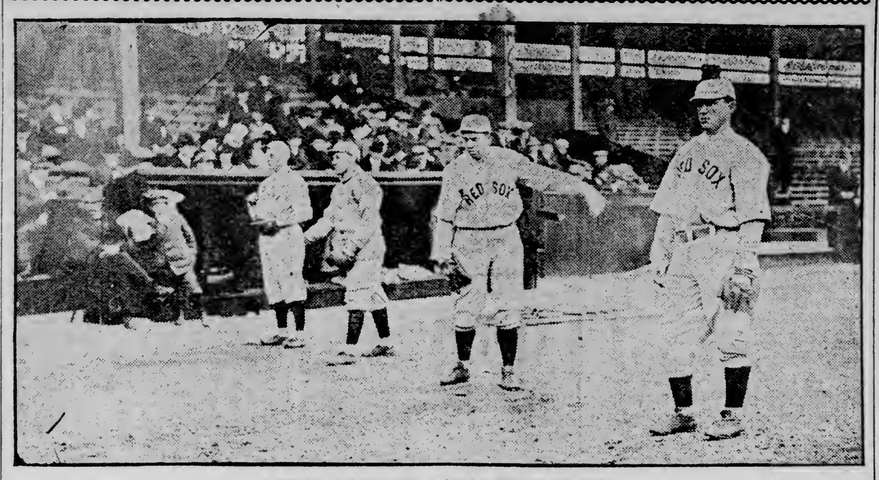
ALL of those interested in the organization of the new league are heartily in favor of getting the very best umpires that can be secured. The umpire question was one that hurt the success of the Minny. It is out of the question to even think of getting good arbitrators cheap, so that the club owners might as well make up their minds to pay the sum for the securing of some competent indicator handlers. Claude Elliott was about the only really first class man in the league last season, and his work was rewarded by a promotion to a better company and with more pay than he received up in the North country.

Perry Werden is a good man and there is some talk that he will be asked to look 'em over in the new league. Good umpires, at least men that will enforce discipline in a league, are one of the essentials of success. Rowdy baseball is something that disgusts the fans and has its resultant effect upon the attendance.



⊙ ⊙ ⊙ ⊙

SO FAR the work of George Dauss with the St. Paul team has stamped the youngster as one of the best members of Kelley's staff. Georgie really ought to make good in the A. A. this season. The boy has a lot of stuff, and if he learns control and how to work the plate and not feed them over the heart of the pan, waist high, the hitters of Chivington's territory may have some trouble in locating his breakers for net results in the hit column.

⊙ ⊙ ⊙ ⊙

BEFORE the opening of the baseball season it was reported that Pitcher Cole of the Chicago Nationals would show the same form that gave the Cubs the pennant two years ago. To date the elongated graduate of the South Michigan league has failed to show a thing, yesterday getting one of the heaviest bombardments that any pitcher has been treated to the present season. With his pitchers going back the hopes of Chance for a pennant will be vain ones.

THE BOSTON RED SOX STARS

LEWIS, GARDNER, SPEAKER, WAGNER.

Lewis, Gardner, Speaker and Wagner are four of the stars of the Boston Red Sox. Lewis is the left fielder, Gardner plays third base, Speaker center field and Wagner shortstop. Their batting averages last season were: Speaker, .327; Lewis, .307; Gardner, .284, and Wagner, .257. All are splendid fielders.

JARVINEN AND LEHTO READY FOR STRUGGLE

Two Finnish Wrestlers Are in Fine Condition for Title Contest of Race.

Alex Jarvinen, the Finnish giant who will meet Karl Lehto for the championship of the Finnish race at the Auditorium tomorrow evening, arrived here yesterday morning from Chicago. Gust Friluud, his manager, is wih him. Today Jarvinen will take a light workout at one of the local gymnasiums, supplementing this with work on the road.

"Jarvinen is in the best condition of his career," said Friluud today. "He has been wrestling every day with Illa Vincent, one of the best of all the heavyweight wrestlers of Chicago. Vincent stated that Jarvinen is one of the most promising heavyweight wrestlers in the world today.

"With three or four more months work under some of the best of the catch-as-catch-can wrestlers Jarvinen will be able to hold his own with the best wrestlers in the game. He has all the qualities that go with a champion."

Karl Lehto will arrive early tomorrow morning, a telegram from him stating that he will finish his training at Hancock. The wire states that Lehto has three men working with him and also that he is in the best condition of his life.

"I have able trainers here and am in better shape than ever before. I want rest and for that reason will not meet fans before battle," is the wire sent by the Finnish champion.

Lehto will step on the mat tomorrow evening weighing around the 190 pound mark, according to the reports that are conveyed from the Copper country. The former Duluth wrestler is in magnificent condition, according to his own statement, and the reports that have come from the Copper country bear this out.

Jarvinen will have somewhat the better of the weight proposition. He should step on the mat weighing something like 207 pounds. To offset this is the knoweldge that Lehto has gained of the catch-as-catch-can style in the past year. During that time Lehto has had the advantage of instruction from some of the very best of the wrestlers and should show a decided improvement in the modern style of grappling.

From what the Duluth fans have seen of the two men, the popular opinion is that Jarvinen is going to take the championship away from Lehto. The new-comer is wonderfully strong and is fully as wonderful a bridger as Lehto. He has endurance and grit and speed, and these qualities with his advantage in weight are expected to give him the edge.

Gust Friluud says Jarvinen right today can hold his own with most of the best wrestlers in the world. In Lehto he is meeting a hard and tough customer and one of the hardest wrestlers in the Northwest to pin to the mat. The contest is expected to develop into a hard fought mat struggle as the issue is one that means much to both of the men.

WINNIPEG IS AFTER MANAGER FOR TEAM

Winnipeg, Man., April 17.—The Winnipeg Baseball club took its first step last night toward landing a championship team for the newly organized Central International Baseball league, when President Blackburn wired Jim Brown of Vancouver offering him a proposition to manage the Maroons for the season 1912. Brown has been dickering with the local management for several days over the management job and is very anxious to land the Winnipeg berth, so that it is expected that he will accept the proposition submitted to him. Jim works with his brother, Bob, towards serving Vancouverites with a high class article of baseball and last year they landed the championship of the Northwestern league and were runners-up the year before. These big baseball moguls have their eyes on Winnipeg as having a good baseball future before it.

Winnipeg as Farm.

So interested are these brothers in Winnipeg that Jim Brown wants an interest in the club before deciding to manage the team and it is more than likely that the club will grant it as the officers have been looking for a man to take over the reins of the club who has more interest than simply drawing his check every month, which has been the general rule with managers here the last few seasons. The Brown brothers are looking for some good place for a farm where they can develop players for the Vancouver team and they think that Winnipeg is the ideal spot for such a farm. They always secure a large number of recruits for the Vancouver team and have been very fortunate in landing high class talent, as is shown from the fact that they practically gave Calgary the team which landed the Western Canada League two years ago and were again responsible for most of the players who wore the Moose Jaw uniform last year and incidently won the pennant in a walk.

Should Have Fast Ball.

It can easily be seen that Winnipeg will be fortunate to secure such a reliable leader as Jim Brown, as with all his strong connections in the Coast league and with the co-operation of his brother Bob he certainly should Winnipeg the best ball club in baseball that the local fans have witnessed since the days of Fred Luderus, Rolly Zider and a few other stars who started their brilliant work in Winnipeg before advancing into higher company. If Brown comes to Winnipeg he will bring along about ten players from the coast, the local club having several players reserved, who will likely report when ordered. These men are Heini Kruger, shortstop; Freer, outfielder; Kirkham, infielder; Glass, pitcher, and Thelan, last year with Brandon, pitcher. Larry Piper, the former idol of the Winnipeg fans, who is held by the Calgary club, may play here again if satisfactory arrangements can be made with the Calgary club for his release.

Mr. Lennon, the big baseball magnate of St. Paul, who owns the club of that city, wired Mr. Blackburn the other day asking if the club would sell the franchise and what the price would be. The Winnipeg president wired back intimating that the club would sell for $12,000. There was no reply.

Grand Forks Out.

Though five of the clubs in the new circuit are going ahead and arranging for a team, there is a little hitch in the league which may cause some trouble before satisfactory arrangements are made for the opening on May 9. Grand Forks, after appearing pretty jubilant about getting back into baseball, has passed up the proposition for this year owing to Sunday ball being prohibited in the city. However, East Grand Forks, where Sunday ball can be played, has shown an inclination to fill the gap and the board of trade has offered to put up from $1,000 to $2,000 toward starting a club. Frank Lohr of this city is thinking of going to Grand Forks and taking hold of the club and thinks that he can make it go. However, Brandon fans are said to be willing to jump in at a moment's notice, and anyway the club will go ahead with four clubs this year if necessary. It is most likely that a Duluth man will be chosen as president, though the Winnipeg club will likely submit a candidate.

PRESIDENT TO BE VOTED UPON

New Executive of League May Be Elected the Present Week.

Wires have been sent out asking for a vote on the presidency of the Central International league. It is understood that Winnipeg is to place the name of a Winnipeg man up for the place. It is expected that the president of the league will be announced during the present week.

According to the report received from Grand Forks, that city is willing to come into the league and two managers have been suggested for the team, both of the men under consideration stating that they have a number of players who will be brought to Grand Forks.

Jack Corrigan has been appointed manager of the Virginia team, according to the news that has been received from the lumber city.

Fans here will remember Corrigan as the chap who was at one time manager of the Rochester team. He is a hustling lad and should be able to sign some strong players for the Virginia team. Some of the best of the Virginia semi-professional players have been signed, according to information received from there.

Just what Fargo is doing at the present time, has not been learned. It is expected that the exact status of the new league will be known when the vote on president is made public.

CHICAGO PLAYERS DELAYED BY WRECK.

St. Louis, Mo., April 17.—Members of the Chicago National league baseball team who were due to play off a postponed game in Cincinnati today, may have difficulty in reaching the Ohio city in time for the contest. Because of a mishap to a Baltimore & Ohio-Southwestern train near O'Fallon, Ill., last night the players were marooned at that town until an early hour this morning. The train was derailed but none of the passengers was hurt.

DULUTH AFTER VETERAN DOLAN

There is a rumor that "Biddy" Dolan is to return to one of the teams of the new Ceneral International league. Reports from Milwaukee state that the Brewers are through with the vet and that he will be offered for sale. Superior is sweet on "Biddy," for it was the hard and timely hitting of the lank Irishman that helped materially in bringing the gonfalon to Will Sommer's ball yard.

Duluth would also like to use the veteran. If there are very many better first sackers in minor league ball than Dolan, they have never showed around these parts. Fred Luderus, the former Winnipeg initial sack tender and at the present time one of the stars of the National league, is about the only player who ever showed the fans of these parts anything on Dolan.

Darby O'Brien has his team playing at the United States league park at Cleveland. He is reported to have signed a catcher by the name of Lew Whaley. Let us hope that Whaley can whale.

FISHING NOT GOOD.

Ice in Streams Causes Poor Conditions for the Anglers.

While there is some fishing at Lester river and a few fair catches have been reported in some of the streams in the vicinity of Duluth, most of the anglers report that fishing in general is not good as yet.

There is too much ice in the streams and some of the river banks in the woods still have a great deal of snow on them.

Fishing at the Brule is reported to be fairly good. Some of the local fol. lowers of Isaac Walton will go out Sunday, but the majority of the fisher folk will remain at home for another two weeks.

Appeals to Commission.

Rockford, Ill., April 17.—Owner George Bubser of the Rockford Wisconsin-Illinois league is to appeal to the national commission for relief in claim against C. W. Murphy of the Chicago National league baseball club for sale price of Cyril Slapnicka, pitcher, turned over to Louisville by the Chicago team and by Louisville returned to Rockford. Slapnicka played with Toledo early last year.

Curley Is Confident.

Curley Ulrich, the Superior fighter, writes from Bartlesville, Okla., that he is in the best of condition and that he expects to beat Art Magirl on Thursday. This is the return battle between the pair, the first bout going to a twenty-round draw, though Ulrich claimed that he did practically all of the leasing and forced his man around the ring. From the general tone of the missive there can be no doubt regarding the confidence Curley has in his ability to win.

BRONSON AFTER CHAMPIONSHIP

Indianapolis Boy Is Willing to Fight Any of the Welters for Title.

Indianapolis, Ind., Ray Bronson of Indianapolis, claimant of the welterweight championship is wondering where the boys who wanted his game sixty days ago have gone. Bronson was made the target for all sorts of challenges, and but two of the challengers actually got into the ring with him. Young Erne of Philadelphia, was the first and he took a lacing. Then Clarence English of Omaha, met Bronson at St. Joseph, Mo., and lost all the way in a fifteen-round go.

The others who wanted to measure lengths with the Indianapolis welter, have failed to show when business was carried to them and in several instances have sidestepped bouts when a club was willing to stage them with the title claimant. "Wild Cat" Ferns of Kansas City, Kept wanting Bronson's argument, until he was offered a bout at St. Joseph, then he backed away. St. Joseph promoters had Bronson's agreement to meet Ferns or any other 142-pounder, and that was as far as the bout went from Ferns' end.

Now comes Jack Goodman of New York, who a short time ago offered to meet Bronson in any kind of a bout to settle the welter title question. The Madison Athletic club of New York, was willing to stage the bout, and accepted Bronson's terms. The Indianapolis battler was agreeable and willing to sign articles, when Goodman came forth with a demand for 140 pounds as the 3 o'clock weight. Now Bronson wonders why Goodman wanted to settle any sort of a welterweight argument and not allow his opponent to fight at the welter limit of 142 pounds.

"I entered the welter class," said Bronson, "because I cannot do lightweight requirements and keep right. Now that I have been fighting as a welter, I believe that I am entitled to the limit of 142 pounds, and again say that I will meet any boy in the world at that weight. I am willing to bet a few thousand also that I won't lose to any of the present crop of welters, Goodman included."

New Way to Make Apple Dumplings

Served With Hard Sauce or Cream and Sugar

By Mrs. Janet McKenzie Hill, Editor of the Boston Cooking School Magazine

Here is a new way to make apple dumplings that will surely please every housewife, for it is not necessary to have whole apples, and the juice cannot run out and burn as with apple dumplings where the apple is placed in the center and the dough turned up around it. The biscuit part forms a crispy shell that holds the apples and juice.

K C Apple Dumplings

One and one-half cups sifted flour; ½ teaspoonful salt; 3 level teaspoonfuls K C Baking Powder; ¼ cup shortening; about ½ cup milk; apples.

Fill the cups of a buttered muffin pan with pared and sliced apples, sprinkle with salt and turn two or three tablespoonfuls of water into each cup. Sift together, three times, the flour, salt and baking powder; work in the shortening, and mix to a soft dough with the milk. Drop the dough from a spoon with the apples in the cups, giving it a smooth exterior. Let bake about twenty-five minutes. Invert the pan on a large serving-dish. Put a spoonful of hard sauce above the apple in each dumpling and finish with a grating of nutmeg.

This is only one of the many new, delicious and appetizing recipes contained in the K C Cook's Book, which may be obtained free by sending the colored certificate packed in every 25-cent can of K C Baking Powder to the JAQUES MFG. Co., Chicago. Be sure to get the 25-cent size—smaller cans do not contain Cook's Book certificates

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST

WOULD ALTER PROSECUTION

Hennepin County Case Strikes at State Criminal Procedure.

McGuirk's Demand for Evidence Against Him Will Settle Question.

St. Paul, Minn., April 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Attorneys of the Twin Cities are watching with unusual interest the outcome of the lawsuit in which County Attorney Robertson of Hennepin county is alleged to be in contempt of court because he refused to deliver to Michael McGuirk, charged with arson, a copy of the evidence against him. Judge John H. Steele in district court issued the order directing the county attorney to produce the evidence, and he refused on the ground that McGuirk had no right to it until it was introduced in trial. The case has been taken to the supreme court and will be heard during the April term.

Would Change State Trials.

According to Alex L. Janes, assistant attorney general, who is conducting the case for Robertson in the name of the state, were Judge Steele's order to be upheld it would subvert the whole system of criminal procedure in this state. In a brief filed with the court, Mr. Janes argued:

"The question here presented to this court is not only a novel proposition of law, but it is a question in which all the prosecuting officers of the state of Minnesota are interested. The statutes of this state clearly define the rights of a defendant, and the statutes nowhere give to the defendant the right to compel the state to produce or furnish any evidence that it does not see fit to produce."

Claims of Attorneys.

It was stated by the attorney for McGuirk that he wanted a copy of the evidence the county attorney had collected in order to make a motion to quash and set aside, and that he could not make such a motion until he knew what the evidence was. Commenting on this, Mr. Janes says:

"If the defendant has such a right, then he should have a right to compel the state to furnish him evidence for the purpose of preparing his defense. One, logically, is as reasonable as the other. Those who have had experience in representing the state in criminal cases are well aware of the great difficulties that the state has to meet in the trial of its cases, and to give the defendant the right to inspect the evidence of the state before going to trial, would make insurmountable the already heavy task placed upon the shoulders of its prosecuting officers."

FALL DOWN STAIRS KILLS AGED WOMAN

Mother-in-Law of George Johnson of Pillsbury Meets Tragic Fate.

Swanville, Minn., April 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Mrs. Anna Forslin, who resided with her son-in-law, George P. Johnson of Pillsbury fell down stairs Monday night, fracturing the base of her skull and broke her collar bone in two places, death being instantaneous.

The family had retired for the night some time previously and it is believed Mrs. Forslin, who was 83 years of age, was taken sick and in crossing to another room, slipped at the head of the stairs, falling to her death.

TO SELECT DELEGATES.

First Congressional District Convention at Rochester May 15.

Rochester, Minn., April 17.—James M. Diment, acting chairman of the First congressional district Republican committee, has issued the call for the First congressional district Republican convention to nominate delegates to the state convention that will nominate delegates to the national convenion. The convention will be held in Rochester May 15. There will be 129 delegates.

Prior to the district convention, active campaigns will be waged by the La Follette, Roosevelt and Taft forces. While no announcement has been made by the leaders of the favorites, it is expected that La Follette will deliver two or three addresses in the district on his visit to the state, as it has been practically assured by the La Follette managers that the senator will speak here. The Taft and Roosevelt forces have made no announcements of any public addresses, but it is known that their representatives are waging a quiet campaign for the control of the convention.

WITNESS' MIND AFFECTED.

Seeing Two Die From Candy Poisoning, Drives Woman Crazy.

Chaska, Minn., April 17.—The shock of witnessing the death of Simon O'Mally and 3-year-old Bonnie Reedy by eating poisoned candy in Minneapolis, is believed by physicians to have caused in part the insanity of Clara Grates who has been taken from her home here to the asylum at St. Peter.

Miss Grates was a housekeeper for O'Malley at the time he and the child ate of the poisoned candy which had been left at the door of his flat.

While in church here Sunday, she partially undressed and began running over the benches. She was taken home and adjudged insane

OPPOSITION EXPECTED

To Lindbergh's Bill Setting Aside White Oak Reservation.

St. Paul, Minn., April 17.—Congressman Lindbergh will meet serious opposition to the bill he introduced in congress setting aside 45,000 acres of the national reserve in Minnesota, for the use of the White Oak bank of Chippewa Indians, according to the belief of W. T. Cox, state forester. He believes that Mr. Lindbergh may be induced to withdraw it.

"In the letter written by Governor Eberhart protesting against the allotment," Mr. Cox said, "this pertinent question was asked:

"If the White Oak Point Indians are entitled to allotments, would it not be well to consider legislation which would give them real agricultural lands up in the Red Lake country? We do not think it would be fair to the Indians or to the state to place them in the wooded national reserve."

Sioux Falls, S. D., April 17.—Two-thirds of the cities and towns in South Dakota voted yesterday on the question of granting licenses to saloons and in several places this issue overshadowed all others.

Municipal and school officers were chosen, but partisan politics will cut no figure in the results.

SETTLES WITH SOO ROAD.

Mrs. Clarity Drops Action for Damages for Husband's Life.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., April 17.—Notice has been filed in circuit court here of the settlement of the damage suit of Mrs. Joseph Clarity against the Soo railroad to recover $10,000 for the death of her husband, who was killed in the company yards at Irvine, Wis.

The attorneys for Mrs. Clarity refused to state the amount of the settlement, but gave out the information that the terms of the settlement were better than expected and the plaintiff realized more than she would under the old law which limited the amount collectable on a death to $5,000.

The case of Mike Murphy of Hayward against Jennie C. Gaynor, administrator of the estate of Thomas Gaynor, was also settled by the satisfaction of a mortgage held against the plaintiff. There was no cash consideration. Mr. Murphy sued for $8,056, an amount he claimed was due him for services rendered during a part of the logging career of the late Thomas Gaynor.

HUDSON, WIS., HAS CLOSE CALL FROM FIRE.

Hudson, Wis., April 17.—Fire which broke out at midnight Monday in a building in the rear of the Fremont hotel threatened to destroy the entire business district of the town. The fire started in an old building and spread rapidly to the hotel, which was soon a mass of flames. The hotel was of wooden construction, and it was with difficulty that the guests gained the street, clad in their nightwear, but all were saved. The adjoining buildings soon caught fire. As a large gas tank was located directly across the street from the blaze an explosion was feared.

Assistance was sent from Stillwater.

ONE NOT CONFIRMED.

Four of Marquette Mayor's Appointments Meet Council's Favor.

Marquette, Mich., April 17.—The council has confirmed all but one of the appointments just made by Mayor Jacobs. The appointment of Peter Kremer to the park, cemetery and street commission, was rejected. The following appointees were confirmed by unanimous vote of the ten aldermen:

John H. Lewis, light and power commission, full term of five years. Fred H. Begole, library board, full term of five years. A. E. Boswell, Library board, resignation of E. W. McPherran.

It is said that Kremer's rejection is due to a desire on the part of the majority of the aldermen not to strengthen Mayor Jacob's position on the street commission and to the belief that Kremer is not a representative man.

There are only two wet towns on the Great Northern above Crookston, Argyle and St. Vincent, out of eleven towns.

Your Vital Strength Can Be Restored

Strong, vital, manly manhood fascinates all who come within its influence. As true as you are a living, breathing human being, I can restore your VITAL MANHOOD; there is not a shadow of a doubt as to what I can thus do. BUT there is a single condition, one restriction I put, a certain, solemn promise I exact from you before you can exact a promise from me—namely, you must unconditionally agree now, at once and forever, to discontinue any wasting, debilitating excess or dissipation that you may be indulging; with this out of the way, I will do all the rest. Remember what I say; no matter what your present condition, no matter what has happened in the past, just forget it and put yourself in my hands; everything will come out as you wish it. I use no drugs, no lotions, no medicines; I place no foolish restrictions upon you; just lead a natural life, get all the enjoyment you possibly can, but cease dissipation; always remember that. I can then restore your vital energy; I can take you out of the half-man class and put you in the spot light of full, healthy, contented, manly vigor; I can make you feel young again and keep you feeling young to a ripe old age, because I drive into your system the one thing which keeps the whole organism in balance, namely VITALITY. My HEALTH BELT with suspensory attachment is the greatest single self-treatment remedy or VITALITY RESTORATIVE that the world has ever known or probably ever will know. It is worn comfortably about the waist all night and every night for two or three months. Thus while you are sleeping it sends a great soft, potent, life giving current of VITAL FORCE into your blood, your nerves and your organs. There is not a moment's waiting; it helps you immediately; it commences from the first time worn to show you the sunshine of new energy; it takes the kink out your back in one night; it makes a man of you after you have given up in despair, simply because it supplies you with VITAL POWER—which means manhood. Just stop to think. You have the same organs, nerves and fibre, the same makeup exactly that healthy, vigorous men possess, the only difference being you are under tone; you need a foundation of NEW VITAL RESERVE, and it is this I give you. There is no reason why you should not be as strong, healthy and vigorous as the best, fullest blooded man of your acquaintance. The matter is easy if you do your part. Never mind about buying a HEALTH BELT as yet; first get in communication with me; read over my booklet and if you want to do so tell me your physical ailments, that I may advise you; then a little later we can arrange in some way for you to try my HEALTH BELT. But first fill in the coupon and get the book free or call at my office. My HEALTH BELT also cures Rheumatism, Kidney, Liver and Stomach disorders.

STRIPPING WORK STOPS

Winston-Dear Halts Operations Because of Frozen Condition of Ground.

Impossible to Carry On Blasting Without Hurling Frozen Earth.

Hibbing Minn., April 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Winston-Dear company which is stripping the Buffalo & Susquehanna mine stopped all operations today, putting about 300 men out of work.

The suspension was made because the ground is so badly frozen that every time there is a blast pieces of frozen earth are hurled among the residences in that locality, and to prevent possible fatalities, the company decided to shut down. Supt. Hanson expects work will be resumed in a week or two, as the ground, by that time, will probably be softer and there will be less danger.

When the shut down order was first issued it was stated that the threat of an injunction against the company, made by some one whose house had been hit by flying rocks and earth, caused the drastic action, but this is denied; the claim being that the shut down is only made because of the frozen condition of the ground.

MAYOR MURPHY MAY USE STEAM ROLLER

Virginia Executive Says He Proposes to Carry Out His Policies.

Virginia, Minn., April 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—George F. Shea, who was elected city attorney over Mayor Murphy's veto, resigned to the council last night and Mayor Murphy promptly reappointed City Attorney Otto Poirier, who was confirmed. This action came as a climax to the proceedings started to recall fire of the aldermen who have opposed the mayor on the city attorney matter.

It is expected the recall proceedings will be dropped. The council chamber was crowded last night in anticipation of a lively session and the spectators were not disappointed. Alderman Boyland and Kimball, both named in the recall petitions were absent.

OTTO A. POIRIER.

Deny Charges Made.

In view of the resignation of Mr. Shea it is probable that their absence did not change the proceedings. Mr. Shea, Alderman Staff, Alderman Weber and others spoke defending the action they had taken and denying the charges that the mayor's opponents were crooks, robbers and grafters. Mr. Shea claimed the mayor overstepped himself somewhat. Others used emphatic language. Attorney M. H. McMahon accused Alderman Staff with falsehood and Mr. Staff accused Alderman Molian with threatening a city employe for not signing a recall petition. Mayor Murphy took a hand and once declared: "I am not a dictator, as has been charged against me but I have some well formulated policies and I am going to carry them out. If any one is in the way when I am doing that he is likely to get run over—that's all."

On a formal vote Otto A. Poirier was elected city attorney by a vote of four, N. B. Arnold receiving three. On the vote on the final resolution, all of the seven aldermen present voted for Mr. Poirier.

The objection to George F. Shea has been that he is a brother-in-law of the manager of the electric light and water plant which the city, as expressed by vote at the last election, desires to buy.

Now that the cause of the dissension, in large part, has been removed, it may be that the recall proceedings will not be pushed. The petitions have been filed with the city clerk in the case of Alderman Staff and Alderman Weber. Last night's meeting was characterized by impassioned oratory, charges and counter charges by aldermen and citizens. The mayor spoke of the recall as the powerful weapon the citizens hold, to require elected officers to do as they desire shall be done. He denied he had any personal grudge or feeling against Mr. Shea, and that the entire objection was that Mr. Shea as city attorney could not satisfy the people that he would be unbiased.

HUNGRY AFTER STATE LANDS

Outside Buyers Numerous at Itasca County Sale---8,500 Acres Sold.

Grand Rapids, Minn., April 17.—(Special to the Herald.)—"Hungry after land" was the expression that fitted the situation here yesterday when prospective land buyers, the majority from outside points, many from Iowa and other states, crowded about Theodore Nelson, who conducted the state land sale which was a record breaker.

In all 8,500 acres were sold, the record sale for Itasca, some going for $36 per acre, the highest price yet during the present state land sales. The average price paid was $8, running from the minimum of $5 to $36. Bids for lands with a large frontage were spirited, the price for those running from $25 to $36 per acre.

The state owns about 400,000 acres of land in Itasca county and 40,000 acres have been appraised for sale this year. Monthly sales will be held from April to November in Itasca, St. Louis, Roseau, Cass, Beltrami, and Aitkin counties, while in addition to these there will be sales of state lands in June in Carlton, Pine, Wadena, Marshall, Hubbard and Kittson counties.

MANY TEACHERS MARRY.

Dan Cupid Pretty Busy Among Virginia Educators.

Virginia, Minn., April 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Dan Cupid is reported quite busy among local teachers. Miss Ada Foor resigned recently and left the city and rumor has it she will return a bride and reside here. A few days ago Miss Josephine Crawford dismissed her classes at the primary school at 4 o'clock and at 4:30 she had been led to the altar by Eugene M. McCarthy of Virginia. Mrs. McCarthy went back to school the following morning with her name changed. She will teach to the end of the term. Now comes the resignation of Miss Kathleen E. Sackett, teacher in the kindergarten. She will cease teaching, perhaps before the end of the term and will be wedded to Archie McDougall, a well known mining man formerly of the range, now of British Columbia. He visited in Virginia recently. There is talk of requiring teachers to pledge themselves to refrain from marriage once a teaching year is started and that they will teach out the full term as it disorganizes the classes to change teachers during a semester.

ISLE OF PINES

The Isle of Pines ten years ago was practically a wilderness. Not an American resident. Not a tree planted. Not a road built, no churches, schools, or hotels. Now it has 5,000 American residents, hundreds of grape fruit, orange and lemon groves, 15 hotels, churches, schools, automobile roads, etc., and is growing and shipping the finest fruits and vegetables in the world. Land is producing $500 to $1,000 per acre. Prices are advancing rapidly and great profits are to be made in land investments. I own 400 acres of the very choicest land on the island, every acre selected by myself, all within 1 to 2 miles from town, surrounded with groves and homes. I am selling 10 and 20-acre lots on easy terms. One hundred Duluth and vicinity people have invested and many have made a second purchase. See me now.

GLEANED ALONG THE POLICE RUN

It was possible to confirm the award of the contract for the construction of the new hillside fire hall, involving about $11,000.

Why is it not possible to award a contract for the remodeling of the city jail? That is what the police are asking.

The new fire hall is needed, but not half as badly as the jail improvement, many taxpayers claim.

The plans for the remodeling of the city lockup were completed and approved by the state board of control before the fire hall contract came before the council for approval. The finance committee reported that the permanent improvement fund was fundless, that the balance it contained was only enough to pay the fees of the architect who had made the plans for bettering the jail. And the jail improvement was put on the table.

The sole and only reason for postponing the improvement was the lack of the necessary cash. When the fire hall matter came up a few weeks later the fund must have been just as fundless. The condition had not changed, unless during the interim the balance had shrunk still more. Yet the contract was approved.

That was possible but the jail was impossible. Why? The council was fully informed and is now of the necessity of remodeling the jail, yet nothing has been done towards getting the work under way. The only answer to the question seems to be that the fire hall had the backing of the aldermen of the Second ward, who were convinced of the need of the hall and determined to secure it, while no particular alderman or aldermen took it upon themselves to see that the jail contract was put through. It was stated at the time the report on the permanent improvement fund was made that the money levied for 1912 had already been spent, certificates of indebtedness having been issued against it last fall. It is said that when the fire hall is paid for the life of the certificates will have to be extended. If that can be done for the fire hall, why can it not be done for the jail? Ask the police.

It is estimated that the cost of the jail improvement will be about $10,000, or approximately the same as the fire hall.

The need of better facilities at the jail is becoming more pressing every day. The business of the department is increasing with the growth of the city. Every night fifty or sixty men are locked in the bull pen under the most unhealthful conditions. They are herded in like so many cattle, without a decent place to sleep and without nearly enough fresh air. The stench in the morning is something awful. It is so foul that it would sicken the average person to get just one whiff of it. And in the mornings there is the ever present difficulty of weeding out the lodgers from the prisoners. This takes much time and care and by exercising the utmost vigilance the police have been able to prevent all but one prisoner from passing himself off for a lodger. And in his case it did not make any difference as the police had been trying to get him out of town. He got himself out more effectively than it could have been accomplished in almost any other way.

Last night forty-four lodgers were given shelter in the bull pen. For a week the number has run from forty to sixty. This is partly due to the closing of the rock pile, by means of which many were kept out during the winter. A large number of men are also flocking into the city looking for work. But navigation is not yet open and it is a bit early for construction work to be in full swing. Without money and without work they apply at the station for a place to spend the night.

Chief Troyer also wants private telephones in his office and needs them. At present there is but one line of each telephone running into the station. About half the time the chief wants to transact business over the wire both telephones are busy. They are "working" most of the time, day and night. This causes much inconvenience and delay, particularly in long distance telephoning. The installation of the telephones in the chief's office would add considerably to the efficiency of the department.

Mrs. Annie Carrneau of International Falls has written the health department asking if they have any record of the death of Eli St. Croix or Ell Le Roy or Ell Lescardes, the latter being his true name. John Hedington, arrested in Superior on suspicion of having stolen a dog belonging to J. L. Hurd of this city, was released this morning for lack of evidence.

Hedrington claimed that he had bought the dog for 20 cents from Nicholas' Friend and that he had sold it in Superior for half a dollar. Friegd was brought to the station this morning and denied that he had ever sold the dog, which was the property of his brother-in-law, Mrs. Hurd being his sister. Friend said that he couldn't even think of selling the dog and that there isn't enough money in the world to buy it from its master.

When they had satisfied their appetites, which weren't small, the proprietor found that they didn't have the money to pay for the food, whereupon he caused their arrest. Axel Borg was profuse with his promises when he was brought into police court with the grist today to answer a charge of dunkenness. He said that he would join the church, the Salvation Army, go to work, quit drinking or do anything else the court might direct. He pointed out that he may have to go to a hospital for an operation. He didn't specifically so state, but he inferred that maybe he couldn't come back, even if he wanted to, after he had once entered the doors of the hospital. The court let him go.

NO REMOVALS FOR POLITICAL BIAS

Washington, April 17.—In a letter to Representative Gardner of Massachusetts, President Taft declared that he did not intend to remove any Federal office holder on account of his political views no matter whom he might favor for president.

The president's letter was written in connection with the reappointment of David M. Little, as collector of customs at Salem, Mass. Mr. Little had filled that office for eight years, was recommended for reappointment by Mr. Gardner and his nomination was sent to the senate yesterday.

"Mr. Little is now concerned with reference to my appointing him because he favors Colonel Roosevelt for the presidency and he has desired you to bring that matter to my attention before I reappoint him, if I desired to do so under the circumstances," reads the president's letter. "I think this shows on the part of Mr. Little a high minded view of the situation, which I respect.

Had Already Reappointed Little.

"As a matter of fact I sent Mr. Little's reappointment to the senate yesterday and would not think of recalling him. I have removed no one in this campaign because of his political views and I do not intend to begin to do so now.

"The truth is there has never been a time with which I am familiar in the history of politics in this country when the political support of the Federal office holders, such as it is, has been so divided and at no time has the Federal patronage exercised less influence in the national convention than it will in the one to be held at Chicago."

MANY MEN GIVEN JOBS

Nearly 200 Have Already Been Shipped By Lake Carriers' Association.

Rock Pile Raised Standard of Men Asking for Work.

Already the local branch of the Lake Carriers' association has sent nearly 200 men to work on the different boats being fitted out in the local harbor.

By the time navigation has opened, the local offices will probably have shipped nearly 500 men as Manager Currie states that there are perhaps 200 men still looking for jobs and that there are jobs for all of them in the local port.

A large number of boats wintered in the Duluth-Superior harbor and new ones are starting fitting out operations every day.

Today the new quarters of the Lake Carriers' association were filled with men, many of them coming from distant inland points to put in the season on the Great Lakes.

The class of men this year is better than last year and last year showed a great improvement over the year before. "This undoubtedly was due to the rock pile established two years ago by the Associated Charities and the city council," said Mr. Currie this morning.

"Duluth now has a name far and wide, spread for the most part by those who hate to work, that the city has a rock pile and worthless men steer clear of the city as they would of the yellow fever.

"The rock pile is the best thing that ever happened. We are now getting the kind of men we want. They are high class, honest workmen and as a direct result of the rock pile the men being shipped from Duluth are of the best."

PUTS LID ON GRAIN DEALS

Lever Bill Is Ordered Favorably Reported By House Committee.

Beall Measure Against Future Trades in Cotton Also Favored.

(From The Herald Washington Bureau.)

Washington, April 17.—The house committee on agriculture today ordered a favorable report on the Lever bill prohibiting dealing in grain futures. Two measures were reported, one by Representative Beall of Texas, Democrat, dealing with cotton, and the other by Representative Lever of South Carolina, Democrat, relating to corn, wheat and oats.

The Lever bill provides:

"That it shall be unlawful for any person to send or cause to be sent any message offering to make or enter into a contract for the purchase or sale for future delivery of wheat, corn, or oats, without intending that such wheat, corn or oats shall be actually delivered or received, or offering to make or enter into a contract whereby any party thereto or any party for whom or in whose behalf such contract is made, acquires the right or privilege to demand in the future the acceptance or delivery of wheat, corn, or oats, without being thereby obligated to accept or to deliver such wheat, corn, or oats; and the transmission of any message pertaining to any such transaction is hereby declared to be an interference with commerce among the states and territories and with foreign nations."

Strong opposition to this bill was voiced by representations from the grain exchanges of Duluth, Minneapolis and Chicago, at hearings held last week, on the ground that dealing in futures was a necessary part of the grain business, but the committee disregarded these protests.

The bills will be opposed vigorously on the floor when they are called up for consideration.

OUTLAWS EXECUTED FOR KILLING HICKS

Six Chinese Who Confessed Killing Wisconsin Man, Put to Death.

Pekin, April 17.—Six outlaws who were arrested in connection with the murder of Bert Hicks of Oshkosh, Wis., last month, all confessed that they had been concerned in the crime and were immediately executed.

A battle between the old and new military forces occurred at Wenshawan province of Sze-Chuen Sunday in consequence of a dispute over the question of the disarmament of the former, who were defeated in the fighting and sustained a loss of 100 killed. Order has now been completely restored.

STATE SELLS 3,000 ACRES

Avearge Price Is $5—Some Tracts Sell for $8.25.

More than 3,000 acres of state and school lands were sold at the state land sale at the courthouse this morning. The sale was the first sale of the year in this county and was conducted by Theodore Nelson, manager of the land sales department of the state auditor's office.

While a majority of the tracts disposed of were sold at about $5 an acre, some of the parcels were bid up to $8.25. The average price paid, according to Mr. Nelson, was $5.25. About 150 bidders were present.

"I consider the sale a good one for this time of the year," said Mr. Nelson. "The lands which were disposed of were pretty well scattered, but the heaviest business was done in townships 56-18, 56-19 and 55-20, which are located just south of the Iron ranges and are tributary to them."

State land sales will be held in Duluth every month from now on up to and including November. The sales will be conducted by Mr. Nelson at the county board room on the third Wednesday of each month.

Mr. Nelson expects to leave today for Aitkin, where he will conduct another sale Friday.

WROTE STORY OF TITANIC

Magazine Story Published This Month Similar in All Details.

Vivid Tale of Collision Between Ocean Liner and Iceberg.

Strikingly similar in all its details to the horrible catastrophe of the Titanic, which went down into the Atlantic Monday morning, carrying with it more than 1,300 passengers, is the story of "The White Ghost of Disaster," which appeared in one of the popular story magazines early this month.

"The White Ghost of Disaster" is a short story, probably written several months ago, but published this month. The description of the awful impact, the sinking of the ship, the agony of the passengers and the final rescue of those who escaped the sinking ship, might have been taken from a newspaper account of the sinking of the Titanic early this week.

The author has woven an interesting plot into the story of a captain and his second mate. The description of the conditions about the iceberg, the air currents and the "icy smell" are all well protrayed to the reader. The final impact of the ship, the rush to the decks, the carrying of the women to the lifeboats, the final sinking of the huge 800-foot ocean liner and the face of the captain on the upper deck as the ship went down, the struggles of the crew to keep the rescued quiet in the small boats, the suffering of the women and children before any aid arrived and the final rescue by other passenger boats passing by and coming in answer to the wireless messages, were all reproduced in the Titanic catastrophe. Even in names there is a coincidence, for Smith was the name of the second officer, who is the hero of the magazine story.

Lyndon Smith Better.

St. Paul, Minn., April 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—The condition of Attorney General Lyndon A. Smith, who has been confined to his bed since his return from Washington the first of the week, is reported to be slightly improved. The attorney general is suffering with gallstones. It is not believed an operation will be necessary.

GLEANED ALONG THE POLICE RUN

It was possible to confirm the award of the contract for the construction of the new hillside fire hall, involving about $11,000.

Why is it not possible to award a contract for the remodeling of the city jail? That is what the police are asking.

The new fire hall is needed, but not half as badly as the jail improvement, many taxpayers claim.

The plans for the remodeling of the city lockup were completed and approved by the state board of control before the fire hall contract came before the council for approval. The finance committee reported that the permanent improvement fund was fundless, that the balance it contained was only enough to pay the fees of the architect who had made the plans for bettering the jail. And the jail improvement was put on the table.

The sole and only reason for postponing the improvement was the lack of the necessary cash. When the fire hall matter came up a few weeks later the fund must have been just as fundless. The condition had not changed, unless during the interim the balance had shrunk still more. Yet the contract was approved.

That was possible but the jail was impossible. Why? The council was fully informed and is now of the necessity of remodeling the jail, yet nothing has been done towards getting the work under way. The only answer to the question seems to be that the fire hall had the backing of the aldermen of the Second ward, who were convinced of the need of the hall and determined to secure it, while no particular alderman or aldermen took it upon themselves to see that the jail contract was put through. It was stated at the time the report on the permanent improvement fund was made that the money levied for 1912 had already been spent, certificates of indebtedness having been issued against it last fall. It is said that when the fire hall is paid for the life of the certificates will have to be extended. If that can be done for the fire hall, why can it not be done for the jail? Ask the police.

It is estimated that the cost of the jail improvement will be about $10,000, or approximately the same as the fire hall.

The need of better facilities at the jail is becoming more pressing every day. The business of the department is increasing with the growth of the city. Every night fifty or sixty men are locked in the bull pen under the most unhealthful conditions. They are herded in like so many cattle, without a decent place to sleep and without nearly enough fresh air. The stench in the morning is something awful. It is so foul that it would sicken the average person to get just one whiff of it. And in the mornings there is the ever present difficulty of weeding out the lodgers from the prisoners. This takes much time and care and by exercising the utmost vigilance the police have been able to prevent all but one prisoner from passing himself off for a lodger. And in his case it did not make any difference as the police had been trying to get him out of town. He got himself out more effectively than it could have been accomplished in almost any other way.

Last night forty-four lodgers were given shelter in the bull pen. For a week the number has run from forty to sixty. This is partly due to the closing of the rock pile, by means of which many were kept out during the winter. A large number of men are also flocking into the city looking for work. But navigation is not yet open and it is a bit early for construction work to be in full swing. Without money and without work they apply at the station for a place to spend the night.

Chief Troyer also wants private telephones in his office and needs them. At present there is but one line of each telephone running into the station. About half the time the chief wants to transact business over the wire both telephones are busy. They are "working" most of the time, day and night. This causes much inconvenience and delay, particularly in long distance telephoning. The installation of the telephones in the chief's office would add considerably to the efficiency of the department.

Mrs. Annie Carreau of International Falls has written the health department asking if they have any record of the death of Eli St. Croix or Eli Le Coy or Eli Lescardes, the latter being his true name. She says that she has been looking for him fifteen years and only recently heard that he had died here fourteen or fifteen years ago of a gunshot wound.

John Sillanpaa, the bartender of Matt Lind, Lake avenue saloonkeeper, who was arrested yesterday on a charge of having embezzled $55 from his employer, asked for an examination when arraigned in police court. His hearing was set for tomorrow morning. He is alleged to have taken the money from the till Monday night.

John Hedington, arrested in Superior on suspicion of having stolen a dog belonging to J. L. Hurd of this city, was released this morning for lack of evidence.

Hedrington claimed that he had bought the dog for 20 cents from Nicholas Friend and that he had sold it in Superior for half a dollar. Friend was brought to the station this morning and denied that he had ever sold the dog, which was the property of his brother-in-law, Mrs. Hurd being his sister. Friend said that he couldn't even think of selling the dog and that there isn't enough money in the world to buy it from its master.

Leonard Saadori and William Jarvi ordered and ate a big meal in a Lake avenue restaurant. When they had satisfied their appetites, which weren't small, the proprietor found that they didn't have the money to pay for the food, whereupon he caused their arrest. They were booked for disorderly conduct. Although how eating a meal without money is disorderly isn't clear, the two pleaded guilty in police court this morning. They got $5 or five days, each.

Axel Borg was profuse with his promises when he was brought into police court with the grist today to answer a charge of dunkenness. He said that he would join the church, the Salvation Army, go to work, quit drinking or do anything else the court might direct. He swore that he would forever after lead a moral, abstemious, exemplary existence if the court would only let him go. In addition to his promises he added that he has a terrible pain in his side. He pointed out that he may have to go to a hospital for an operation. He didn't specifically so state, but he inferred that maybe he couldn't come back, even if he wanted to, after he had once entered the doors of the hospital. The court let him go.

Oscar Paulson pleaded not guilty in police court yesterday afternoon when brought up on a charge of stealing a coat from Charles R. Parker at the Tacoma hotel. He will be tried May 6.

NO REMOVALS FOR POLITICAL BIAS

Washington, April 17.—In a letter to Representative Gardner of Massachusetts, President Taft declared that he did not intend to remove any Federal office holder on account of his political views no matter whom he might favor for president.

The president's letter was written in connection with the reappointment of David M. Little, as collector of customs at Salem, Mass. Mr. Little had filled that office for eight years, was recommended for reappointment by Mr. Gardner and his nomination was sent to the senate yesterday.

"Mr. Little is now concerned with reference to my appointing him because he favors Colonel Roosevelt for the presidency and he has desired you to bring that matter to my attention before I reappoint him, if I desired to do so under the circumstances," reads the president's letter. "I think this shows on the part of Mr. Little a high minded view of the situation, which I respect.

Had Already Reappointed Little.

"As a matter of fact I sent Mr. Little's reappointment to the senate yesterday and would not think of recalling him. I have removed no one in this campaign because of his political views and I do not intend to begin to do so now.

"The truth is there has never been a time with which I am familiar in the history of politics in this country when the political support of the Federal office holders, such as it is, has been so divided and at no time has the Federal patronage exercised less influence in the national convention than it will in the one to be held at Chicago."

Eeight delegates at large to be chosen Friday at the state convention at Springfield will, it is expected, be instructed for Roosevelt.

The only district in Illinois carried by Taft was the Fifth in Chicago, controlled by friends of Senator William Lorimer.

MANY MEN GIVEN JOBS

Nearly 200 Have Already Been Shipped By Lake Carriers' Association.

Rock Pile Raised Standard of Men Asking for Work.

Already the local branch of the Lake Carriers' association has sent nearly 200 men to work on the different boats being fitted out in the local harbor.

By the time navigation has opened, the local offices will probably have shipped nearly 500 men as Manager Currie states that there are perhaps 300 men still looking for jobs and that there are jobs for all of them in the local port.

A large number of boats wintered in the Duluth-Superior harbor and new ones are starting fitting out operations every day.

Today the new quarters of the Lake Carriers' association were filled with men, many of them coming from distant inland points to put in the season on the Great Lakes.

The class of men this year is better than last year and last year showed a great improvement over the year before. "This undoubtedly was due to the rock pile established two years ago by the Associated Charities and the city council," said Mr. Currie this morning.

"Duluth now has a name far and wide, spread for the most part by those who hate to work, that the city has a rock pile and worthless men steer clear of the city as they would of the yellow fever.

"The rock pile is the best thing that ever happened. We are now getting the kind of men we want. They are high class, honest workmen and as a direct result of the rock pile the men being shipped from Duluth are of the best."

PUTS LID ON GRAIN DEALS

Lever Bill Is Ordered Favorably Reported By House Committee.

Beall Measure Against Future Trades in Cotton Also Favored.

(From The Herald Washington Bureau.)

Washington, April 17.—The house committee on agriculture today ordered a favorable report on the Lever bill prohibiting dealing in grain futures. Two measures were reported, one by Representative Beall of Texas, Democrat, dealing with cotton, and the other by Representative Lever of South Carolina, Democrat, relating to corn, wheat and oats.

The Lever bill provides:

"That it shall be unlawful for any person to send or cause to be sent any message offering to make or enter into a contract for the purchase or sale for future delivery of wheat, corn, or oats, without intending that such wheat, corn or oats shall be actually delivered or received, or offering to make or enter into a contract whereby any party thereto or any party for whom or in whose behalf such contract is made, acquires the right or privilege to demand in the future the acceptance or delivery of wheat, corn, or oats, without being thereby obligated to accept or to deliver such wheat, corn, or oats; and the transmission of any message pertaining to any such transaction is hereby declared to be an interference with commerce among the states and territories and with foreign nations."

Strong opposition to this bill was voiced by representations from the grain exchanges of Duluth, Minneapolis and Chicago, at hearings held last week, on the ground that dealing in futures was a necessary part of the grain business, but the committee disregarded these protests.

The bills will be opposed vigorously on the floor when they are called up for consideration.

OUTLAWS EXECUTED FOR KILLING HICKS

Six Chinese Who Confessed Killing Wisconsin Man, Put to Death.

Pekin, April 17.—Six outlaws who were arrested in connection with the murder of Bert Hicks of Oshkosh, Wis., last month, all confessed that they had been concerned in the crime and were immediately executed.

A battle between the old and new military forces occurred at Wenshawan province of Sze-Chuen Sunday in consequence of a dispute over the question of the disarmament of the former, who were defeated in the fighting and sustained a loss of 100 killed. Order has now been completely restored.

STATE SELLS 3,000 ACRES

Avearge Price Is $5—Some Tracts Sell for $8.25.

More than 3,000 acres of state and school lands were sold at the state land sale at the courthouse this morning. The sale was the first sale of the year in this county and was conducted by Theodore Nelson, manager of the land sales department of the state auditor's office.

While a majority of the tracts disposed of were sold at about $5 an acre, some of the parcels were bid up to $8.25. The average price paid, according to Mr. Nelson, was $5.25. About 150 bidders were present.

"I consider the sale a good one for this time of the year," said Mr. Nelson. "The lands which were disposed of were pretty well scattered, but the heaviest business was done in townships 54-18, 56-19 and 55-20, which are located just south of the iron ranges and are tributary to them."

State land sales will be held in Duluth every month from now on up to and including November. The sales will be conducted by Mr. Nelson at the county board room on the third Wednesday of each month.

Mr. Nelson expects to leave today for Aitkin, where he will conduct another sale Friday.

INQUIRY BY THE SENATE

Titanic Disaster Is Subject of Resolution By Senator Smith.

Treaty to Insure Safety of Oceanic Travel May Be Sought.

Washington, April 17.—A sweeping resolution of inquiry into the Titanic disaster was presented to the senate today by Senator Smith of Michigan, who asked immediate recognition. The resolution follows:

"Resolved, That the committee on commerce, or a sub-committee thereof, is hereby authorized and directed to investigate the causes leading to the wreck of the White Star liner Titanic, with its attendant loss of life, so shocking to the civilized world.

"Resolved, further, That said committee or sub-committee is hereby empowered to summon witnesses, send for persons and papers and take such testimony as may be necessary to determine the responsibility therefor, with a view to such legislation as may be necessary to prevent, as far as possible, any repetition of such a disaster.

Life-preserving Appliances.

"Resolved, further, That said committee shall inquire particularly into the number of lifeboats, life rafts and life preservers and other equipment for the protection of the passengers and crews; the number of persons aboard the Titanic, whether passengers or crew, and whether adequate inspections had been made of such vessel, in view of the large number of American passengers traveling over a route commonly regarded as dangerous from icebergs; and whether it is feasible for congress to take steps looking to an international agreement to secure the protection of sea traffic, including regulation of the size of ships and designation of routes.

"Resolved, further, That in the report of said committee it shall recommend such legislation as it shall deem expedient."

It was referred to the commerce committee and a resolution by Senator Martine of New Jersey, looking to an international agreement looking to a change in the trans-Atlantic route, was sent to the foreign relations committee.

"We can't do any more than we have already done and it is a waiting game now," said Mr. Franklin.

Mr. Franklin said he reckoned the Carpathia would arrive here early Friday morning, perhaps between 4 and 6 a. m. The company had made every arrangement for the comfort of the survivors of the Titanic disaster, he said.

"Just now," he said, "we are bending every effort to get the names of the additional survivors. There is no reason why these names should not come through, provided they can be relayed by some ship, but the Carpathia's wireless is greatly overtaxed. We have heard nothing from her or the Olympic since 9 o'clock yesterday morning and we know nothing of reports that a number of bodies have been picked up. The Olympic had continued on her way across."

Limit Wireless Activity.

Washington, April 17.—A cessation of all wireless activity except from a few designated stations which are unaffected by amateur operators has been agreed upon between the Marconi company and the navy department, according to a statement made by Former Attorney General John W. Griggs, now attorney for the Marconi company.

Forming Wireless Relay.

Boston, April 17. — Various radiograms received here early today showed that several vessels are within wireless range, either directly or by one relay with the steamer Carpathia.

The outward bound Boston steamer Franconia was in communication with the Carpathia at 9 a. m. The scout cruiser Chester stated that she expected to sight the Carpathia at noon. The scout cruiser Salem announced that she would stop off Nantucket lightship during the forenoon and relay messages from the Chester to shore stations.

A number of outward bound liners were in the vicinity of the Carpathia during the afternoon.

No New Names.

New York, April 17. — Wireless communication with the steamer Carpathia, speeding here with the 868 survivors of the sunken White Star liner Titanic, was still broken this morning.

No new names have been added to the list of 328 known persons saved. There are on board the Carpathia 540 survivors whose names have not been sent in by wireless. Little hope remains that there are any survivors of the disaster on board steamships other than the Carpathia.

The Titanic carried to their death 1,512 souls in the water whose depth is estimated at two miles.

The scout cruiser Chester is nearing the Carpathia this morning and a full list of saved and details of the Titanic's collision with the iceberg is hourly expected.

About 140 of Crew Saved.

It is estimated that approximately 140 members of the crew were saved, their presence to man the lifeboats being required to insure the safety of the passengers. An estimate of 409 steerage passengers saved completes the total of 868 which the Carpathia has made known she has on board.

As the lists indicate, the great majority of these are women. The names of only seventy-nine men rescued have been given in the lists telegraphed from the Carpathia, whereas the names of 249 women appear in the tabulations. Of the 400 steerage passengers thought to be saved, it is believed that nearly all were women. The men among the passengers seemed largely to have remained to die that the women and children might be saved.

Little hope was entertained today that the fishing schooner Dorothy Baird, which was passed in the vicinity of the Titanic disaster by the freighter Etonian of the Phoenix line, had rescued any of the liner's passengers. Officers of the Etonian thought it probable that the schooner had returned to St. Johns without knowledge of the disaster.

No New Names.

Officials of the White Star line remained at their offices during the night, vainly attempting to obtain additional names to the lists of survivors, but efforts to reach the Carpathia by wireless came to nothing. No new names have been added to the list of saved since yesterday, when wireless communication with the Carpathia ceased because the Cunarder had steamed out of her zone of land communication.

Gallipolis Man Missing.

Gallipolis, Ohio, April 17.—Albert A. Stewart of Gallipolis was among the passengers on the Titanic whose name is not found among the survivors on the Carpathia. Mr. Stewart was the New York representative of a lithographing company in Cincinnati. He was returning from France, leaving his family on the Continent.

SHIP GOING TO SCENE OF WRECK

White Star Line Has Chartered Mackay-Bennett to Seek Bodies.

Halifax, April 17.—The cable ship Mackay-Bennett, which has been chartered by the White Star line to go to the scene of the Titanic disaster, was being loaded today preparatory to departure. In the hope that some bodies may be picked up, coffins are being included in the cargo, and several undertakers and embalmers will go along.

The cable ship Minia, which was in the vicinity of the disaster, has arrived here with no survivors on board. It had been hoped that she might have picked up a few stragglers floating on rafts or among the wreckage.

BAR REPORTERS FROM STEAMER

No Newspaper Men Will Be Allowed to Board the Carpathia.

Washington, April 17.—After a conference with President Taft, it was announced today by Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh that no revenue cutters would be ordered to meet the Carpathia, unless new conditions should arise. The two scout cruisers already ordered to meet the Carpathia are much faster boats than the revenue cutters.

Secretary MacVeagh also said the treasury department had been informed by officials of the Cunard company, which owns the Carpathia, that no newspaper men would be permitted to board the Carpathia. The president and Mr. MacVeagh both believed, it was said, that the rescued from the Titanic, hysterical as most of them undoubtedly would be, should be undisturbed, at least until they reached land.

Mr. MacVeagh has issued orders that all the rescued from the Titanic be allowed to land at New York without undergoing any examination by customs officers. They will be permitted to go directly to their homes when they land.

C. M. HAYS' FATE IS NOT CERTAIN

Reports That He Is Safe on Carpathia Are Not Substantiated.

Montreal, April 17.—The assertion sent out from here yesterday that C. M. Hays, president of the Grand Trunk railway, was safe, which information cannot now be substantiated, was indorsed by the three evening papers yesterday. The Herald interviewed Pierce Davidson, brother of Thornton Davidson, the latter the son-in-law of C. M. Hays and a passenger on the Titanic, who said he had received a cable saying the Hays party was safe.

The Star published a statement at 4 p. m. that Mr. Hays was safe, this information being secured by the Grand Trunk agent in New York by telephone and handed over by Grand Trunk officials here.

The Witness interviewed Judge Davidson, father of Thornton Davidson, who said he had received a private message from the vice president of the White Star line in New York, Mr. Franklin, that all the Montreelers were safe.

KAISER SENDS MESSAGE TO WHITE STAR LINE.

London, April 17.—The text of the German emperor's message of sympathy, sent to the White Star line, is as follows:

"Achilleion, April 16.—Deeply grieved by the sad news of the terrible disaster which has befallen your line, I send you the expression of my deepest sympathy, and also with all those who mourn the loss of relatives and friends.

"WILLIAM, I. R."

HAVE LOST HOPE FOR BENJAMIN GUGGENHEIM.

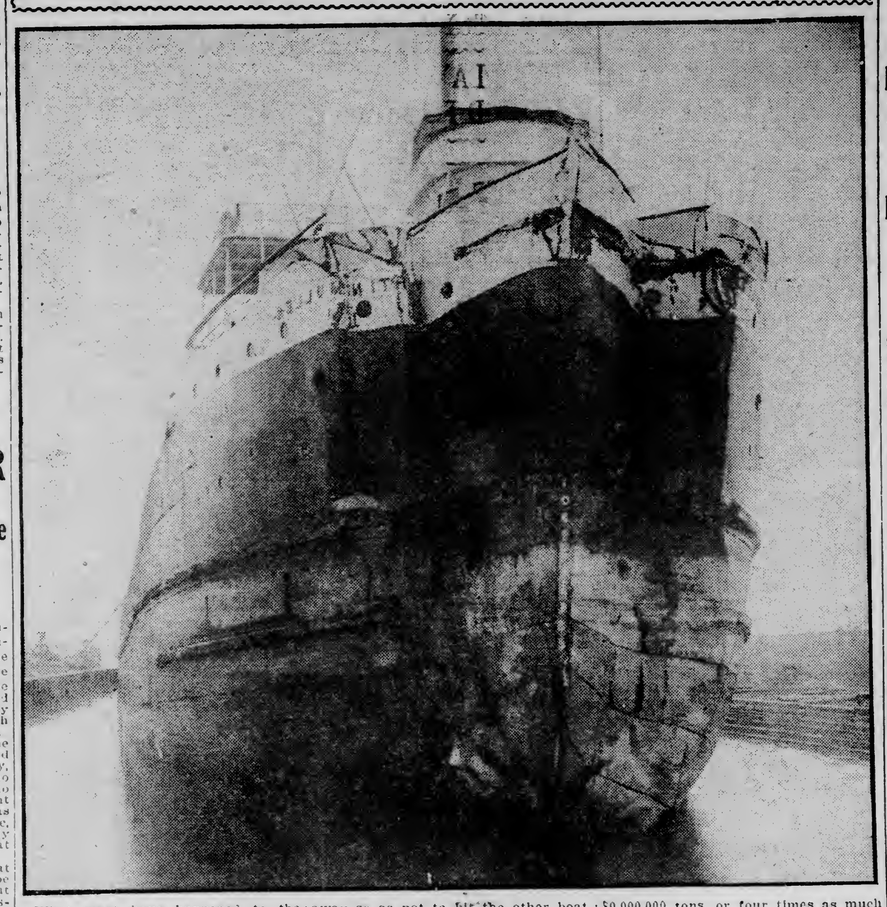
Washington, April 17.—Senator and Mrs. Guggenheim left today for New York to meet the Titanic survivors. The senator's brother, Benjamin Guggenheim, one of the wealthiest men in the world, was on the Titanic. The family has given up practically all hope.

FORMER WAUSAU MAN NOT ABOARD TITANIC.

Wausau, Wis., April 17.—George Hart, for many years court reporter here, reported to have been a passenger on the Titanic, who was believed to have been lost, was not on board, according to a letter received here which stated his reservation had been canceled.

ONE POLICEMAN FOR MENOMINEE

New Mayor Sees No Need of More to Protect the Citizens.



Marinette, Wis., April 17.—Frank Kartheiser, the new mayor of Menominee, Mich., elected on a reform platform, recommended at the city council meeting last night that the police force be cut down from seven to one patrolmen. He says that years ago when the city had 100 saloons it got along with one policeman and he sees no reason why it cannot be done now.

The new mayor controls the council and an opportunity may be afforded the rest of the country to see the peace and dignity of a city of 11,000 people preserved by one bluecoat.

Sugar Prices Increased.

New York, April 17.—All grades of refined sugar were increased 5 cents per 100 pounds today.

HERE'S WHAT A COLLISION DID TO A LAKE BOAT RUNNING AT GREATLY REDUCED SPEED

What must have happened to the steamer Titanic when it struck the iceberg last Monday is very forcibly illustrated by the above photograph of the Martin Mullen after a collision with another boat on Lake Erie last season.

This boat weighed about 20,000 tons, including the cargo. Her master saw the danger coming and tried to back away so as not to hit the other boat. The momentum was but slight, but the entire bow crumpled up.

At the time of the accident to the Titanic, she must have been running at full speed, hitting the solid iceberg squarely and with full force. There was no "give" to the ice and something had to go.

The Titanic weighed something like $0,000,000 tons, or four times as much as the Mullen. If a lake boat, stoutly built and weighing 20,000 tons, had her bow crushed in as the result of a slight collision, it is hard to realize what might have been the result of the $0,000-ton boat hitting a solid iceberg while running at full speed ahead.

SOFT COAL MEN ACCEPT TERMS

Seventy-Five Per Cent of Miners Vote in Favor of Wage Scale.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 17.—Seventy-five per cent of the soft coal miners voted in favor of the proposed new wage agreement, it was stated today at the offices of the United Mine Workers of America. Of 121,000 ballots counted so far, 92,000 are favorable, it was said, and the votes uncounted are those of a few small, scattering local unions.

ST. PAUL DAIRY WINS AN APPEAL

Revenue Commissioner Has No Right to Rule on Water in Butter.

St. Louis, Mo., April 17. — The commissioner of internal revenue has no authority to say what amount of water in butter will constitute adulteration, according to an opinion of the United States circuit court of appeals, handed down here today.

In 1903 J. W. Yerkes, United States commissioner of revenue, ruled that 16 per cent of moisture in butter was adulteration and 13,150 pounds of butter of the Milton Dairy company of St. Paul, Minn., were seized under this ruling. The dairy company won in the lower court at St. Paul and the government appealed.

Marquette, Mich., April 17.—(Special to The Herald.)—Samuel Bernard, aged 75, for twenty-four years a resident of Marquette, the father of nine children, one of whom is Mrs. George Marchand of Duluth, died here yesterday.

WHAT'S THE USE?

Chicago News: "I see you have glued yourself to a book again," said Mrs. Turnover, in tones of discouragement.

"The minute you come home you flop down in your easy chair with one of your silly books, and your wife might as well whistle when she wants a little help."

"You have my permission to whistle if it will relieve you," replied Turnover, calmly, "but kindly use some artistic judgment in the selection of your tunes. I have known several women who whistled and they all had a weakness for cheap music. I can't say that I admire a whistling woman, for she has to twist her face into a Psyche knot in order to get action on a tune, and a woman with a distorted face is not a pleasant sight, but I won't try to discourage you if you really want to whistle."

"Oh, whistling iddlesticks! If you're not the most provoking man under the sun! I didn't say I wanted to whistle. I was trying to get your attention away from that book for a minute, to tell you that I want a little help in the kitchen."

"It's a singular thing, may dear, that a housewife always wants a little help in the kitchen. In other avenues of usefulness she may be a woman of self-reliance, scorning to appeal to outsiders for aid, but as soon as she gets into the kitchen she is reduced to a condition of helplessness, and she appeals to her husband to come and stand the stove on end, or fix the mainspring of the meat grinder, or see what's the matter with the damper in the refrigerator. Because of this unfortunate weakness or idiosyncrasy, or whatever it is, husbands find it almost impossible to read their books with satisfaction, and they are tempted to hire a hall and lecture on marriage as a failure.

"Here I have the eighty-fourth volume in the Hawkshaw Hemingway series, and the opening chapter indicates that it is the best narrative in the lot. Sir Hector Trevelyan, a British nobleman, is found in his room in a New York hotel with his head and feet cut off. Who murdered him? Why was he murdered? These be questions that bafile the keenest brains in the detective department, and it seems probable that the mystery will never be solved. Then Hawkshaw Hemingway appears on the scene. With superhuman sagacity—"

"Oh, bother his superhuman sagacity! If you want any breakfast in the morning you will have to come and see if you can do anything to the oil stove."

"I could do a number of things to the oil stove, but they wouldn't help it any. I could sit up and read poetry to it, or put it in a cradle and rock it to sleep, but what's the use? When the oil stove is out of order why don't you call up the specialist who treats patients of that class? Do you actually expect me to leave this admirable book and go into the kitchen to work around that stove, getting myself covered with soot and kerosene and lacerating my fingers and ruining my moral character?"

"Oh, of course, you'll argue for three hours when you might fix the stove in ten minutes. I wish you were more like Mr. Bilderbeck. When his wife asks him to do anything he goes at it as cheerfully as though he considered it a privilege. It must be a great comfort to a woman to have a husband like that."

"It must, indeed, my dear, and it seems a great pity that you didn't marry him. And yet I doubt whether Mrs. Bilderbeck is perfectly happy. You see, her admirable husband owes money to every merchant in town and collectors have worn a path to the house, and Mrs. Bilderbeck must find it embarrassing to be forever explaining that her husband will settle in a few days. And it must be annoying to her when she calls up the grocer and asks for a package of shredded laundry soap to be told that the goods will be delivered when the old bill is paid, and not before. Even the alacrity with which he puts up stovepipes and repairs old washtubs must fail to console Mrs. Bilderbeck for her husband's commercial reputation.

"So, you see, my love, there is no flock, however, well defended, but one dead goat is there, or words to that effect. Now please let me read this story."

NUGGET IN DUCK'S CROP.

San Carlos correspondence San Francisco Chronicle: Pure, glittering gold, in nuggets as big as peas, lies in the beds of the streams of the San Mateo foothills. After man has tramped over these hills for years and their wooded slopes have become the estates of the wealthy, a poor, simple duck detected the presence of the yellow metal and had to die to give the secret to the world.

While preparing a duck which she had purchased from Alexander Dombrosky, a poultryman of San Carlos, Mrs. John Tibbet of Redwood City found several pieces of gravel and a nugget of pure gold as large as a pea in the crop. Dombrosky had recently covered his poultry yard where the duck had been feeding with gravel from the bed of the San Carlos creek.

The gravel was taken from where the creek passes through the country estate of Col. N. J. Brittan, the San Francisco capitalist. During the summer months the stream is dry and many loads of gravel are extracted, but the presence of gold was never suspected.

Following the sensational find of the duck, who now almost ranks with the goose that laid the golden eggs, the sluice will be applied to the sands of many San Mateo creeks which wind through the foothills on their way to the bay, and the lawns and gardens of the country homes on the peninsula may be laid out as placer claims.

THAT ENGLISH CHANNEL TUNNEL

The Queen: The scheme for a tunnel between England and France is being revived in spite of the emphatic refusal of the last bill which was presented in 1907. But great changes have been brought about since then in relation to the military opposition to the scheme, for the coming of the aeroplane and its rapid development as an implement of war have to some extent removed the idea of danger from an invasion by tunnel.

If eleven aeroplanes can cross the channel together, as they did a few weeks ago, there is little reason why an army of them may not do so in the near future if they wished. A tunnel also might under certain circumstances be a help in time of war rather than a danger, as much of our food supply could be brought through it.

The chief advantage, however, of the tunnel would be an increase of trade and tourist traffic between England and France as well as countries beyond France. At present the borings at each side are well over a mile and it is estimated that the whole work could be completed within five years, as there is no hard rock to be pierced. The adoption of electricity instead of steam would also remove one of the original drawbacks to the scheme.

HOME OF THE PTARMIGAN.

Country Life in America: In order to make the acquaintance of the ptarmigan it is necessary either to journey into the snows and ice of the far North or to climb up to the very highest glacier valleys among the frozen peaks of the Rockies or Cascades, where circumpolar conditions are reproduced. While this curious bird is essentially a sub-Arctic type, it is occasionally found among the isolated fields of eternal snow as far South as Colorado and Northern New Mexico.

The rack ptarmigan is a bird of storms and ice and raw mists and bleak winds, in the summer gray as the rocks among which he lives, in winter white as the whirling snows in the midst of which he survives after every other feathered living thing save only the fearless eagle has fled to the lower valleys.

His brother, the willow ptarmigan, lives lower down, by 500 or 1,000 feet, among the dwarfed shrubs which mark the upper edges of tree life, and while similar in size and structure, is of a less somber plumage and more friendly disposition than the ghostly gray spectre of the upper world, the rock ptarmigan. The males of the willow ptarmigan especially are beautiful birds, brownish gray upon the backs and wings, with rich, reddish brown throats almost chestnut in color and dazzling white breasts.

UNCLE SAM AS "LIGHTNING"

Mexican Paper Also Calls America "Colossus of the North."

Part of Press Calls Note of State Department Impertinent.

City of Mexico, April 17.—Discussing Assistant Secretary Wilson's joint warning to President Madero and Gen. Orozco, El Pels, the official Catholic organ, says editorially, directing its message to the revolutionists:

"This is the first flash of lightning. Be assured that the colossus of the north will not make the government responsible, but the Mexican people, for any attempt against the rights, interests or lives of foreigners. It is not a moment to discuss the legality of the revolution; the lightning is not discussed. Be sure that if you do not respect these lives and interests you will be condemned as assassins of the fatherland."

Calls Note "Impertinent."

La Prenza qualified the diplomatic note as "bitter, discourteous and impertinent."

The note is called impertinent since, in the conception of the editor of the paper, international law requires a nation to give protection to aliens so far as it is able, and does not lay it open to any claims for damage to life or property which it willingly would protect but cannot.

In summing the matter up the action of the American government, La Prenza brands as despotic and overbearing and as an attempt to protect American lives and interests by a sort of "civics Romanus sum."

Walkout Is Complete.

Laredo, Tex., April 17.—The walkout of American engineers and conductors was completed today on the entire Northern and the Gulf divisions of the Mexican National railway. No serious disorder was reported. Without exception the Americans are reported to have joined the strike.

SUPERIOR

WELFARE ASSOCIATION DISCUSSES ITS PLANS.

The Public Welfare association held a meeting at the Commercial club last evening at which the members discussed the advisability of the adoption of social center and playground work. No decisive steps were taken with the exception of the appointment of a committee by President Benson to confer with the city commissioners. The committee is made up of Rev. H. F. Burns, W. C. Lounsbury and Mrs. A. J. Dentzel. Following the meeting the directors held a business session in which the reports from different committees were read.

Alumni Reception.

The Bryant alumni will give a reception to their parents and members of the board of education tomorrow evening in the Bryant school, South Superior. Those on the committee are: J. E. Heule, Julia Van Kirk, and Alma Degler. Prominent speakers will be Superintendent of Schools W. E. Maddock and Judge L. K. Luse. The program will consist of a piano solo by Miss Ethel Jacobson; reading by Yvonne Duplaise; address, W. E. Maddock; vocal solo, Miss Nellie Bickford; reading, Miss Kate Bowen; address, Judge L. K. Luse; 'celo solo, Rev. G. N. Calloway.

Now Up to Crumpton.

Hughitt avenue property owners may be greatly disappointed in the outcome of their appeal to Mayor Crumpton for his signature to the resolution authorizing reimbursement to the property owners on Hughitt avenue. Their last hope lies with the mayor who has six days in which to veto a resolution and can do so without confirmation by the council in a case like this one, when the council ceases to exist before the veto is attached. The resolution becomes effective without the signature of the mayor if, after a lapse of six days, he has not taken action.

Power Company Issues Bonds.

The issuance of bonds with which to carry on the season's work was yesterday authorized by the board of directors of the Superior Water and Power company. The amount was not made public, but it will be of sufficient proportions to care for all extensions and other branches of work which will be required this summer. President T. B. Scott of Burkeville, Va., was in attendance at the meeting. He will leave for his home tomorrow evening.

Petition for Paving.

The signatures of property owners representing over 425 feet of frontage on Tower avenue, between Third and Sixteenth streets, have been attached to the petitions circulated to induce prompt action on the proposed paving of the street. When the commission enters upon its duties the circulators of the petition hope to have the majority of property owners represented.

New Superintendent.

Robert Hoffman, formerly of Superior and at present superintendent of the St. Paul & Western Coal company, with headquarters in St. Paul, has been appointed superintendent of the Great Lakes Coal & Dock company of this city. The appointment was confirmed by President O. E. Fellows of the company upon his arrival in the city yesterday morning. Mr. Hoffman will assume his duties Monday morning. He resided here several years ago and was connected in an official capacity with one of the coal docks in this city.

Council Is No More.

The city council of twenty members is no more. It went out of existence last night. When the vote to adjourn without date was taken no voice arose in opposition. The legal department of the city fixed the date on the death of the present administration and ward system, as midnight, on Monday, April 22. When roll was called but eleven aldermen answered to their names. Every member was asked to be present at the last session, but nine of them were absent.

Some routine business was transacted and the aldermen then adjourned to the city clerk's office for dinner.

THE METHODICAL MAN'S VACATION.

New York Sun: "Well," said a man who works for a living and keeps it up fifty-two weeks in the year, "my vacation's over. Now I'm ready to dig in again."

"Where did you go this year?" his friend asked him.

"Where did I go?" echoed the digger, "where I always go—nowhere. I never go anywhere. I take my vacation right here, sleeping over.

"I'm a man of system, method. I wouldn't call myself a mechanical person, but I certainly am systematic, methodical; and I should be uncomfortable any other way.

"For instance I get up every morning at twenty minutes past 6. That gives me exactly the time I require to get through everything and get my breakfast and get to the office on time comfortably, and month after month I keep to that always at the same hour, but every year there comes a time when I deliberately get reckless and sleep over a few mornings, and that's my vacation.

"That time comes in the month of August when business is at a low ebb; slack water and nothing doing at all; when we might just as well close the office as far as that goes; and when that time comes I start on my vacation.

"Some mornings, instead of getting up at 6:20, I just lie there till, maybe, a quarter of 7 and then get up and don't hurry; just let the schedule, the whole business, go to blazes and take life easy and eat my breakfast and saunter down to the office, taking my time to get there. For a few more mornings I get up that way or later and I find nothing happens, and then for two or three mornings finally I indulge in the wild dissipation of lying abed till half past 7 o'clock.

"And I find this does me a world of good. It braces me up wonderfully and makes me smile and laugh. It's a change from my regular routine, and change is what we want. It isn't good for any of us to stick endlessly to the same dull routine, and this change that I make every year like that in my getting up hours breaks the tension, gives me a sense of liberty and makes me free and happy.

"Then on one of the fine mornings when I'm doing what I please I find in the office when I get there a little change in the atmosphere, things have begun to stir a little, business is starting up and that means the vacation season is over; and next morning I set my mental alarm clock for 6:20 a. m., and wake up on the dot, refreshed and strong, feeling fit as a fiddle and ar ready to dig in."

NO NEED TO HURRY.

San Francisco Star: Theatrical folks love to tell of a western manager, now prominent in the business, who made fame and fortune as proprietor of a small variety house in San Francisco.

The thrifty German had accumulated considerable money, and was about to open a new theater. Several hours before the first performance the entrance was packed, and the manager in trying to reach the front door became hopelessly imprisoned in the crush.

"Here, here," he yelled, "peeples, peebles, it's me—it's Mr. Warner!"

As no one appeared to take any notice of him he again yelled at the top of his voice:

"Vait a minute, peeples. Vat's de use of pooshing lige dis? Take your time—de first two acts is rotten."

WAYS OF FRENCH SMUGGLERS.

Le Temps: Describing a visit paid to the customs laboratory a correspondent quotes the manager as saying that one enterprising innovator in an endeavor to avoid the duty on alcohol had embodied it in soap of which 70 per cent was pure spirit.

Then there is the imitation baby carried by a nurse, who by a judicious squeeze produces melancholy wails. A hearse escorted by four undertaker's men and followed by a weeping family conveyed to the cemetery a coffin sumptuously draped in black velvet which contained 180 liters of alcohol.

One day a cart drawn by three horses rumbled into Paris under the noses of our customs officers. Apparently the cart was laden with square blocks of stone; in reality every stone was hollow and contained alcohol.

First class railway carriages sometime conceal lace, chonometers and expensive cigars. Motor cars have false bottoms, logs of wood are hollowed out. The informant went on:

"One day the people of a little village near the Belgian frontier were waiting for the bishop of Chimay, who was crossing to conduct a confirmation. All the villagers in their best clothes lined the road. Presently the carriage comes in sight, crosses the frontier, and the bishop, carrying the toral cross (very gravely, stretches out a hand to bless the custom house officers, who bow their heads to receive it. Then the carriage rolls on.

"Twenty minutes later there comes a second carriage, much less elaborately filled up than the first, containing a second bishop of Chimay! Suspicion fell on the ecclesiastic and he was requested to leave the vehicle without delay and his carriage was ransacked from end to end. Of course, nothing is found. Not a stain on the character of the bishop, who naturally is the real one.

"You remember how Henri Rochefort's paper, La Lanterne, when placed under an interdict under the Empire was smuggled in from Belgium concealed inside busts representing Napoleon III." Going on to speak of the various adulterations practiced, the manager concluded:

"But the worst crime of these people is the adulterations of milk; 80,000 French children are annually poisoned—yes, I deliberately say poisoned—by adulterated or dirty or infected milk."

MEASURING STARLIGHT AND SUNLIGHT.

Chicago Tribune: Starlight has been measured in comparison with sunlight and the following results have been announced: The light received from a star of the first magnitude like Vega is about one forty-thousandth-millionth of the sun's. Young places the total starlight received by the earth at the value of 3,000 first magnitude stars, thus making the whole starlight to be one-sixtieth that of the full moon.

Light has an actual mechanical pressure and can be measure in the laboratory. It has been found that the sun's light in itself presses against the earth with a force something like 70,000 tons.

BEARISH REACTION

Wheat Brokers Become Alarmed That They Have Put Price Too High.

Closes Are Lower Except at Chicago—Flaxseed Dull and Steady.

Duluth Board of Trade, April 17.—Chicago failed to lead the other markets of North America today, and though wheat closed on the Windy City market at a gain of ⅜c for the May option, there were declines at Duluth, Minneapolis and Winnipeg. The slump took place late in the session and affected even Chicago for a time. Brokers, on receiving reports of better conditions in the Western part of the winter wheat belt, became alarmed at the high prices they had set for wheat, and a reaction set in. Chicago recovered from this, but Duluth, Minneapolis and Winnipeg did not.

Duluth May wheat closed at a decline of ⅝c. Cash closed 1c over May. Durum closed ¼c off, oats 1¼c up and rye a full 1c lower. Barley closed unchanged. Duluth May flaxseed closed ¼c down and July ½c off.

During the early part of the morning there was an intensely bullish feeling on the wheat markets of North America, and, led by Chicago, they all put wheat up. The rise was stimulated by continued reports of bad wheat conditions in the winter wheat territory east of the Mississippi river, and, to some extent, west of that stream. Moreover, the primary receipts were bullish, being considerably less than those of a year ago. But towards noon, reports from farther west showed a far better condition of wheat. The scare began to subside and many became alarmed that the market was over-bought. Then came a slump that carried them all below the closing figures of yesterday. Duluth May wheat, which closed yesterday at $1.09⅝ bid, opened today at $1.09¾ bid, and then began a steady rise, but that was succeeded by a slump later in the morning and at noon it was selling at $1.09 bid. At this time lower quotations were also received from Chicago, Minneapolis and Winnipeg.

Buenos Ayres wheat closed last night ¼c higher to ⅛c lower, and this morning opened unchanged to ⅛c higher. There was bearish news, however, from Liverpool, where wheat closed ¼@⅜d lower by reason of larger shipments of Argentine wheat.

Flaxseed Quiet and Steady.

The Duluth flaxseed situation showed scarcely any change this morning. Trading was light, though there were buyers to take all that was offered. Receipts were a little heavier. This was due, in large measure, to spring thrashing on the flaxseed farms of North Dakota. It had the effect of pulling down Duluth flaxseed a little, and at noon May was ¼c lower and July ½c lower. One rather bearish-looking feature of the market was the sudden decline in the cash price at Minneapolis. Minneapolis has been paying the Duluth May price, but today began to offer 3c under that for cash seed. This is taken to mean that the Minneapolis crushers have been getting more of the seed than they really want. Foreign cables were mixed. Winnipeg at noon today was unchanged at $1.94. Buenos Ayres April flaxseed closed last evening at $1.76½, being 1¼c higher, and this morning it opened at a further advance of ⅝c. London flaxseed, for both April and June delivery, closed today at $2.16, being ¾c lower.

News has been received from India to the effect that the flaxseed of the Calcutta districts is unsatisfactory in its yield. Estimates of this year's out-turn have been reduced below the estimates of the out-turn of last year. It is thought that damage by rains and rust will prove to have reduced the exportable surplus to 475,000 tons, or about 50,000 tons short of the exportable surplus of last year, in spite of the increased acreage this season of 400,000 acres. In 1910 the exports totaled but 351,000 tons and in 1909 were down as low as 237,000 tons.

Sampel J. McCaull of Minneapolis, associated with the McCaull-Dinsmore company and the Hawkeye Elevator company, was a visitor on the Duluth Board of Trade this morning. Mr. McCaull remarked that the prospects of the wheat farms in the territory from which Minneapolis draws its supplies are very good.

"We have heard a great deal of news about frightful damage to winter wheat through Illinois, Indiana and Ohio," said Mr. McCaull. "That news we at first thought was colored by Chicago wheat bulls, but from what I have learned by talks with men whom I could believe and who have actually been traveling through that part of the country, I am convinced that the damage there is vast. But, about the wheat territory from which we get our supplies there is another tale to tell. Our wheat reports from Nebraska, Kansas and Oklahoma are very optimistic. We also have received fine reports of the conditions through the wheat farming territory of the Dakotas and Montana, with the exception of a district west of the Missouri river between Bismarck and Pierre, where there was a great drouth last year. I understand that feed has been so scarce on the farms in that territory that the horses are all down from under-feeding and have not the strength to do the customary spring plowing. I understand in many fields there will be no plowing, but the wheat will be seeded after merely running the cultivators through the stubble. Moreover, the winter has been so long and the spring so late, that I do not think we can look for much increase in acreage."

Lyle's night letter from Decatur reads: "In over 100 miles of travel today I saw no wheat in full promise. Half the acreage will certainly be plowed up and go to other crops. The situation is bad in this part of Illinois. The prospective wheat is not yet under 400,000,000 bu. Damage falls on different areas from those of last year. The Southwest promises a high record."

John Inglis wired from Orrville, Ohio: "There is no improvement eastward. In Crawford county eleven fields out of forty-nine show some promise, while thirty-eight are total failures. The same conditions prevail in Holmes and Ashland counties. Out of sixty fields in Wayne county, eighteen are hopeful, but thin and spotted, while forty-two are a total loss."

From Zanesville, his later wire reads: "South from Orrville to to Zanesville, conditions are much the same. Some small fields in the valleys are looking well, but the best uplands are thin and spotted."

Dennis wired from Chicago: "Snow says the largest counties in Indiana show 75 per cent condition. Among these are Knox, Gibson and Posey counties. He is talking favorably about Nebraska conditions. The market is feeling the effects of better reports."

Le Count wired Finley-Barrell from Springfield, Ill.: "All the way from Peoria, wheat is a failure. Farmers are sowing oats all along the line."

A wire from St. Louis says: "This talk of increased acreage will soon be proven a myth. I know a lot of farmers who are not one-third through with sowing oats. It is getting late and the ground is water-logged."

A correspondent wired from Evansville, Ind.: "I will take in Posey, Gibson and Knox counties with 200,000 acres tomorrow morning. Unless their condition is high, the state as a whole will produce only a half crop. Early-sown wheat is making a fair appearance in some localities of Western Indiana, but there is much more than the usual amount of abandoned acreage, with the condition of the balance low."

C. E. Lewis wired from Minneapolis: "I would not be surprised if the stock of wheat here should decrease 1,000,000 bu this week. The movement in from the country has stopped and railroads are now furnishing cars for terminal houses to load out."

Minneapolis cash wheat was strong today, the mills being the principal buyers. The receipts were light and millers were turning to terminal stocks. Flour sales were larger.

The following is from B. W. Snow, dated at Evansville, Ind.: "Southern Indiana shows up rather better than central and northern. The abandoned acreage will hardly reach 20 per cent, but most of the fields are badly killed in spots. Occasionally there is a little early-sown wheat that is extra good. I think the south third of the state will make about half a crop, with the whole state under 20,000,000 bu. Early seeded oats are up and more are being drilled in the wheat land. Through Southern and Western Ohio there is a surprising amount of corn still in the fields and just now being husked."

Minneapolis, Minn., April 17.—Profit-taking in Minneapolis resulted in moderate recessions in wheat after early firmness. Local receipts light. Weather in Northwest favorable and seeding resumed. CHICAGO MARKET.

Frost Reports Have Bullish Effect on Wheat Prices.

Chicago, April 17.—Frosts reported all through Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and the north part of Texas had a bullish effect today on the price of wheat. Moreover, the weather was cold and cloudy northwest with many places sending word of temperature below freezing. Decreasing stocks at Liverpool counted also against the bear side. No ray of hope appeared from the districts east of the Mississippi, where winter killing was alleged to have wrought such widespread harm. For example, all the way from Peoria to Springfield, Ill., was said to show this morning total failure—only here and there a green field. The opening varied from ⅛c off to ½c up, July started at $1.06¾ to $1.07, a gain of ¼c to ½c, touched $1.06⅝ and then rose to $1.07¼.

After a trifle more advance the July option dipped sharply because of a leading firm making heavy sales intended to effect a quiet scalp. The close was unsettled, with July ⅛@¼c net lower at $1.06¼@1.06⅜.

Corn turned strong on account of the wet and cold. Shorts scurried to buy and found but little offered. July opened ¼@⅜c to ¾@⅞c higher, at 75⅝c to 76⅞c and mounted to 77c.

The market climbed yet higher, but temporarily fell back after wheat turned weak. Closing prices were nervous, with July at 77⅛@77¼c, a net gain of 1⅛c.

A bulge in oats took place as a result of sympathy with corn and wheat. Prospect of additional delay to seeding was a further help to the bulls. July started ¼@⅜c to ⅜@½c dearer, at 53⅝c to 53¾c and advanced to 54¼c.

Scarcity of hogs as shown in the government report gave provisions a lift, but hardly to the extent that had been expected. Initial sales ranged from 5c lower to 15c rise, with September deliveries $18.57½ for pork, $10.62½ to $10.65 for lard, and $10.45 to $10.45@10.47½ for ribs.

New York, April 17.—Comptroller Prendergast announced that he would sell $65,000,000 4¼ per cent 50-year corporate stock of the city of New York on May 7.

Cotton Market.

New York, April 17.—The cotton opened firm at an advance of 13@16 points on excited general buying incited by strong cables from Liverpool and reports of further heavy rains in the South during the past twenty-four hours. Every delivery on the list made new high ground for the movement on the call and there was extremely heavy realizing around $11.66 for July and $11.63 for October. Prospects for clearing weather after the present rains, and more favorable official forecasts encouraged the disposition to take profits, but there was plenty of demand to absorb offerings on this setback, with the market unsettled but fairly steady during the middle of the morning, when prices were still some 9@10 points net higher.

Spot closed steady, 10 points higher; middling uplands, 11.80; middling gulf, 12.05. Sales, 70 bales.

South St. Paul Livestock.

South St. Paul, Minn., April 17.—Cattle—Receipts, 1,400; killers steady; steers, $5.00@7.75; cows and heifers, $4.00@6.50; calves irregular, $3.00@7.00; feeders steady, $2.75@6.25. STAGNATION IN STOCKS

Depression Prevailing in Wall Street Reflected on the Exchange.

Prices Advance From the Early Declines and Close Is Firm.

New York, April 17.—Opening prices in the stock market reflected a degree of steadiness which soon gave way to irregularity. The several issues of the International Mercantile Marine company showed a better tone, the common stock advancing ⅜, the preferred a full point and the 4½ per cent bonds 1¼ points. Fractional gains were made in Anaconda Copper, Union Pacific common and preferred, Republic Iron and Steel preferred, Missouri Pacific and the Can issues, with a gain of a point for Tennessee Copper. United States Steel, which opened with a slight advance, soon sagged, as did the Can issues and Union Pacific.

The depression prevailing in the financial district was shown in the general declines in the first hour. Pressure was directed mainly against the leaders, Union Pacific, Reading and United States Steel falling under yesterday's lowest prices with losses of 1 to 2 points in almost all standard issues, while some of the specialties recorded greater declines.

Some improvement was made in the second hour, Union Pacific, Reading, New York Central, St. Paul and Amalgamated Copper showing some support, especially the latter, while American Can made complete recovery. Later United States Steel also made up much of its loss, but continued heavy on rumors connected with the next dividend. Elsewhere the list dragged along fitfully with trading at a minimum and lack of initiative for either account. Bonds were irregular.

Speculation became stupid on the recovery but prices held.

On the lapse into dullness the familiar expedient of bidding up special stocks to create a following was resorted to. Room traders were easily induced to join the movement in the Bethlehem Steel and International Harvester stocks owing to the apathy of the rest of the list and thereby advanced these issues several points. Elsewhere prices were scarcely altered, but the market showed a decided degree of steadiness in the face of almost complete stagnation.

The market closed firm. New York Central was bought heavily in the last hour and rose to its best figures of the week.

COPPERS CLOSE SLIGHTLY CHANGED

Trading Is Not Active and Price Fluctuations Are Very Narrow.

Trading was not active in the copper stock market this morning and the price fluctuations amounted to little. There were very few changes from the closing price of yesterday of any consequence, and the general level was about the same at the close today. Hancock, however, made a very considerable gain. Calumet ⅞ Arizona, Butte Alex Scott and Keating made some advance. Butte & Superior and Cliff showed a slight sagging. The news from the London copper metal market was bearish, spot and futures both closing at a decline of 6s 3d. The general level of prices on the stock market of New York was about the same.

Recent rumors to the effect that on Thursday of this week the Amalgamated Copper company will raise its dividend from 2 to 4 per cent yearly have been confirmed by the largest interests in the property.

Gay & Sturgis today received from Boston the following closing letter: "Transactions today were again large and the general list had its usual periods of heaviness and strength. Final prices were at the best for the day and were either at or better than the closing prices last night. Copper shares were especially strong, with the Lake issues leaders. New high records for the year, and in numerous instances for several years, were made. A better tone was observable than at any time since the movement began. Tomorrow it is the general expectation that Amalgamated will double its dividend. Some realizing is likely when it happens. A continuation of the speculation and a broadening of local market seems easily to be expected."

Paine, Webber & Co. today received the following closing letter from Foster at Boston: "Activity in the local market was more general than on any previous day. The volume of orders was very large and many new specialties showed sharp advances. Superior and La Salle were active for the first time during this movement. Granby maintained its strength and closed at the top, and we look for this stock to sell 10 points higher at least. Boston & Corbin, which has not been traded in for three days, was active with good buying. Tamarack and Hancock both advanced easily and Allouez made a new high record of 48½. The story of the day is one of a general bull market, with every indication of higher prices."

To the Stockholders of Butte and Superior Copper Co., Limited.

Duluth, Minn., April 16, 1912.

You have already been informed regarding the plans of the management with reference to equipping the properties of your company with a mill of a capacity of 500 tons of ore per day. The work of construction has been prosecuted diligently and during this period the developments in the mine have disclosed ore reserves of such magnitude and extent that your engineers have united in the recommendation that the capacity of the mill be increased to 1,000 tons of ore per day and that the mine be equipped to meet these requirements. The additional savings and economies that may be introduced by operating on the larger basis above stated fully justify the additional expenditures necessary to accomplish it. Your board has therefore unanimously recommended the sale of an additional 30,000 shares of stock. This stock will be offered for subscription pro rata to all stockholders of record at the close of business on April 27, 1912, and in view of the fact that the company has outstanding convertible bonds which the holders may elect to convert into stock prior to that time, the exact basis of apportionment cannot now be stated. Stockholders of record on said 27th day of April, 1912, will have the right to subscribe up to and including May 15th, 1912, at $27.50 per share, payment in full for the stock to accompany the subscription, which must be made on or prior to the said May 15th. Immediately after the closing of the books on April 27th subscription warrants will be forwarded to all shareholders covering their right to subscribe and containing full directions as to remittances. The entire issue of 30,000 shares has been underwritten at the price stated by Messrs. Hayden, Stone & Company.

Butte & Superior Copper Co., Lt'd. By Its Board of Directors.

POPE'S INITIALS.

London Chronicle: Alexander Pope was a victim of his initials. After the publication of the "Dunciad," one of the poet's enemies, who had suffered a severe trouncing in the satire, declared that if you took the initial letters of Pope's name and added the final letter of his surname you had his character.

The "jest" caught on, and in 1728 appeared a pamphlet entitled "Pope Alexander's Supremacy and Infallibility Examined." The frontispiece to this now forgotten pasquinade represented Pope in the form of an ape, with his head resting on his hand, and his elbow placed upon a pile of his own works.

No modern writer is better known by his initials than Robert Louis Stevenson, but "R. L. S." was arrived at after considerable experiment. Stevenson's baptismal names were Robert Lewis Balfour, and the third name caused the difficulty.

Until he was about 15 he signed himself "R. Stevenson." After that he occasionally used Stevenson, "R. L. B." In 1868 he asked his mother to address him as "Robert Lewis;" but a year or two later, as he expressed it in a letter to Mr. Baxter, "after several years of feeble and ineffectual endeavor with regard to my third initial (a thing I loathe)" he finally abandoned it altogether.

Stevenson when about 18 changed the spelling of his second name from "Lewis" to "Louis," but Lewis he remained at all times in the mouth of his family and friends.

FISHING WITH STEAM PUMP.

Scientific American: One of the most singular fishing devices imaginable was discovered by accident in France. Though extremely simple, the system is revolutionary.

A pond on the farm of La Maricquette, bordered by rocky shores, was drained one year by the aid of a steam pump. Each stroke of the piston drew up twenty-five gallons of water and the pond was emptied in a few hours, and not only was the water drawn off, but all the fishes were transferred to a new element.

This was a revolution. The owners of ponds in the neighborhood followed suit, and the proprietor of the pump made a specialty of this sort of work. He "let" one of his pumps, modified for the purpose. The peasants of the region called it "the fish pump." Each stroke of the piston brought up torrents of water, in which were fish and crawfish, together with mud and debris.

One pond of several acres was cleared of fish at an expense of 36 francs, or $7.20. The process was ingenious, but as one cannot have his fish and eat it, too, and such rapid consumption would have led to equally rapid extermination, the authorities stopped the practice.

TITANIC'S SURVIVORS ON CARPATHIA DO NOT KNOW THE AWFUL MAGNITUDE OF THE DISASTER

ONE ITALIAN VESSEL SUNK IN ATTACK ON DARDANELLES FORTS

Fleet Makes Move That Was Planned Some Weeks Ago.

Details of the Battle at the Straits Not Yet Reported.

Mines Are Said to Have Been Laid By Turkish Government.

Constantinople, April 18.—The Italian fleet is reported to have appeared at the entrance to the Dardanelles straits. One Italian warship is said to have been sunk.

Twenty-four Ships in Fleet.

Athens, Greece, April 18.—Two divisions of Italian war vessels, each comprising a dozen ships, passed Skyro island in the Aegean sea yesterday, sailing to the north.

Cannon Firing Heard.

London, April 18.—Cannon firing was heard at the entrance to the Dardanelles at noon today, according to a dispatch received here from Lloyd's signal station in the Dardanelles. It is believed the Italian fleet has begun an attack on the forts of the straits, but no details have come to hand.

It has been rumored for some weeks that Italy contemplated a renewal of naval action in Turkish waters, and the Italian fleet was said to have approached within fifty miles of the Dardanelles a month ago with the intention of occupying some of the islands. In consequence of these reports the Turkish military authorities reinforced the garrison in the vicinity of the Dardanelles straits and the Turkish government notified the foreign powers that the Dardanelles has been mined and that it was necessary for vessels passing through to employ local pilots.

PHILADELPHIA BELLE SUICIDE

Julia Carter, Estranged From Family, Inhales Gas and Dies.

Philadelphia, April 18.—Miss Julia Carter, popular in exclusive society circles in this city, is dead from inhaling gas in her apartments. According to the coroner, she was a suicide. The coroner said she had made every preparation to end her life, and left a note addressed to a sister.

It was further stated by the coroner that an investigation showed that Miss Carter had been estranged from her family and that her relatives had threatened to cut off her allowance if she did not return home. Her mother, Mrs. Henry Levis Carter, visited her yesterday to try to induce the girl to return home, but she refused.

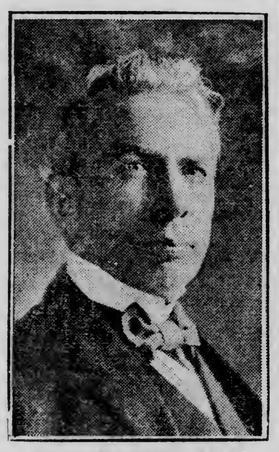
MILWAUKEE GETS HEAVY SNOWFALL

Storm Impedes Traffic and Hinders Service on the Wires.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 18.—About six inches of snow fell in Milwaukee and vicinity during the night, causing considerable inconvenience to street railway and steam road travel. Telegraph and telephone companies also report trouble on some of their circuits.

The storm is from the northwest and still continued at 8 o'clock this morning.

Snow in Chicago.



Chicago, April 18.—Snow fell in Chicago during the night and early today, but later the storm developed into light rain.

MR. AND MRS. SNYDER BOTH AMONG RESCUED.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—A message was received here today by Mrs. T. W. Stevenson from her mother, Mrs. John Pillsbury Snyder, who with her husband was returning from a honeymoon trip on the Titanic, that both were safe on the Carpathia.

Attempts of relatives and the Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce to get in connection with Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Douglas, also of Minneapolis, on the Carpathia, have failed.

HEADS PROBE OF THE DISASTER TO TITANIC

WILLIAM ALDEN SMITH, United States Senator From Michigan.

TEDDY DRAWS IDEAL CHIEF

Talks to Nebraskans About Qualifications for the Presidency.

Compares Taft's Methods With Those He Used Himself.

Auburn, Neb., April 18.—Col. Roosevelt's view on the qualifications of a president were brought out in a speech which he delivered at Nebraska City at the beginning of today's campaigning trip in this state.

"Often we have to try a man out," he said. "He may be a first-class lieutenant and doesn't make good in command of the army. Often the lieutenant, when he becomes commander, means well, but means well feebly, and you don't get much out of it if you have a lot of strong men around him who don't mean well at all."

After again charging that President Taft had entrusted his fight to Senator Lorimer, Senator Penrose, Senator Gallinger and others whom he characterized as opposed to the rule of the people, he said:

"When I was president I saw all those men. I consulted with them, but I did not let them be my masters. Whenever there was a line-up between them and the people I was against them."

The colonel brought a laugh from the crowd with an epigram. He was speaking of the "Silk Stocking Whigs," who, he said, were against him. He said:

"The silk stocking, if he is a game man, is just as good if he didn't wear any socks at all."

Col. Roosevelt's program called for a day's run through the southeastern section of the state, ending at Lincoln, where he is to speak tonight.

RUSSIAN SOLDIERS AND MINERS FIGHT

Over 100 Killed and Eighty Wounded at Gold Mine Workings.

Irkutsk, Siberia, April 18.—One hundred and seven gold miners were killed and eighty more were wounded in a fight with Russian soldiers at the Lena Gold Mining company's workings in this vicinity. Details of the fighting and of the cause of the trouble have not yet been ascertained.

St. George Banquet Postponed.

New York, April 18.—The regular banquet of the St. George society, that is held in this city every year on April 23, St. George's day, has been indefinitely postponed on account of the fact that so many members of the society have lost friends on board the Titanic.

FLOODS RICH COTTON LAND

The Mississippi Has Broken Through Dikes of South Stream.

Nine Large Towns Directly in Path of Devastating Water.

Greenville, Miss., April 18.—Flood waters rushing through a rapidly widening breach in the Mississippi dike near the town of Beulah, Miss., are spreading over the fertile delta lands today. Practically the entire southern half of Bolivar county is inundated, and before it flows back into the Mississippi the water will flood the counties of Sunflower, Washington, Sharkey and Issaquena—comprising some of the richest cotton land in the world. Benoit, Dahomey, Beulah, Cleveland, Pace, Shaw, Choctaw, Leland and Rolling Fork are the larger towns directly in the path of the overflow.

Gasoline launches were sent from this city and Rosedale early today to begin

THAYER'S SAFETY STILL IN DOUBT

Wife Is Said to Have Reported He Is Among Missing.

Philadelphia, April 18. — Grave doubt exists here regarding the safety of John B. Thayer, second vice president of the Pennsylvania railroad, who, with his wife and 14-year-old son, were on the Titanic. A wireless message was received here today, signed by Mrs. Thayer, reading:

"Jack, Margaret and I safe. No news of Mr. Thayer."

Margaret is Mrs. Thayer's maid and Jack is the son. The message came from the Carpathia via Halifax and is said to have been one of 300 received here.

It is possible that the message was filed before all the boats of the Titanic had been picked up. Mr. Thayer's name is in the list of survivors.

Claim He Is Safe.

New York, April 18.—The following statement regarding the rumor that John B. Thayer, second vice president of the Pennsylvania railroad, is not among the survivors of the Titanic on board the Carpathia, was given out this morning by the Pennsylvania road:

"The Pennsylvania railroad officials most emphatically deny that a personal message of any kind has been received from J. B. Thayer or any of his family who are on board the Carpathia bound for New York.

"The only information regarding Mr. Thayer and his family received by this company has come from the officers of the White Star line, which is to the effect that J. B. Thayer, Mrs. Thayer and J. B. Thayer, Jr., are among the passengers on board the Carpathia."

COL. J. J. ASTOR IS NOT ABOARD CARPATHIA.

Siasconsett, Wireless Station, Nantucket, Mass., April 18.—In reply to a query sent to the Carpathia early this morning, the wireless operator aboard the steamer said that Col. John Jacob Astor was not on board the Carpathia. He said he did not know whether Benjamin Guggenheim or Maj. Archibald Butt were on board.

SENATORS TO QUIZ ISMAY

Committee Headed By Smith of Michigan Will Make Probe.

Surviving Officers of the Titanic Will Be Examined.

Washington, April 18.—The task of investigating the wreck of the Titanic is being prepared for by senate committees. The commerce committee has appointed a sub-committee of seven, headed by Senator William Alden Smith of Michigan, to take testimony. Chairman Smith will leave today for New York, accompanied by a senate sergeant at arms, to procure witnesses to attend immediate hearings. J. Bruce Ismay will be among the first asked to testify.

Other members of the senate subcommittee are Senators Perkins, Bourne, Burton, Simmons, Newlands and Fletcher.

Senator Smith said he feared his committee would be without jurisdiction to compel Mr. Ismay and other British subjects connected with the International Mercantile Marine, to attend its hearing and give testimony.

"We may not have jurisdiction over the individual," said Senator Smith, "but the American congress is not without jurisdiction over the harbors of the United States. It is for these men who make use of the harbors to meet the public demand for information as

NAGEL TO LOOK OUT FOR IMMIGRANTS

Secretary Will Take Personal Charge When Carpathia Docks.

Washington, April 18.—In accordance with the agreement reached last night between President Taft and Secretary Nagel, the latter will leave for New York at 4 p. m. today to make certain that immigrants to the United States who survived the Titanic disaster will receive sympathetic and lenient treatment.

Secretary Nagel pointedly intimated that there practically would be a complete relaxation of all stringent immigration regulations in connection with the aliens who fortunately escaped a grave in the sea.

The secretary, picturing in his imagination the terrible ordeal through which the survivors must have passed, said he desired to be on the spot to settle all problems at once and obviate the delay of reference to Washington. Practically all the ordinary barriers which would be raised to their landing will be waived.

CAPT. SMITH'S WIDOW EXTENDS SYMPATHY.

London, April 18.—The widow of Capt. Smith, the commander of the Titanic, has written a pathetic message which was posted today outside the White Star offices. It reads as follows:

"To my poor fellow sufferers: My heart overflows with grief for you all, and is laden with sorrow that you are weighed down with this terrible burden that has been thrust upon us. May God be with us and comfort us all. Yours in deep sympathy.

"ELEANOR SMITH."

WHITE STAR LINE OFFICIAL IS SAFE

J. BRUCE ISMAY.

New York, April 18.—Wireless reports received from the Carpathia via the scout cruisers Chester and Salem state that Bruce Ismay, managing director of the White Star line, is among those aboard the Carpathia who escaped from the Titanic. He had been reported among the missing.

PARLIAMENT INQUISITIVE

Is Told There Were 2,208 Persons on Board the Titanic.

Two Investigations of Origin of False Reports Are Promised.

London, April 18.—The actual number of passengers and crew on board the Titanic at the time of the disaster was 2,208, according to Sydney Buxton, president of the board of trade, in reply to a question in the house of commons this afternoon.

A searching inquiry into matters concerning the catastrophe to the Titanic, appertaining to their respective departments, was promised in the house of commons this afternoon by both Sydney Buxton, president of the board of trade, and Herbert L. Samuel, postmaster general.

The postmaster general said that he had already taken up the subject of the false reports which had been sent out. He continued:

"I am making inquiries as to whether the wireless messages from ships holding my license for wireless telegraphy, on which the reports were represented to be founded, were in fact sent from those ships."

He asked that the question be repeated in a week's time.

Some members of the house suggested that the false reports had been spread with a view to affecting the premiums of reinsurance, but Mr. Samuel said that matter was not within his cognizance.

Portuguese Express Sympathy.

Lisbon, Portugal, April 18.—The Portuguese senate this morning adopted unanimously a resolution expressing the sympathy of the government and people of Portugal with the victims of the Titanic disaster.

WIDOWS UNAWARE OF THEIR BEREAVEMENT

Rescue Ship, Shrouded in Fog, Is Creeping Slowly Toward New York.

Ceaseless Bombardment of Wireless Messages Meets With No Response.

New York, April 18.—The Cunard liner Carpathia, bearing the survivors of the sunken steamship Titanic, is making her way slowly toward New York this afternoon, groping through the fog, her wireless as silent as that of the stricken vessel, a small part of whose human cargo she carries. She probably will dock here not before 1 o'clock tomorrow morning. Gen. Henry, surveyor of the port of New York, told a large crowd of anxious people who had gathered at the custom house seeking information as to when the liner would dock, that the fog down the bay and off the coast had compelled the Carpathia to reduce her speed from thirteen to nine knots an hour.

Wireless messages bombarded the Carpathia for hours, but with little result. Even a message from President Taft, asking for news of his aide, Maj. Butt, remained unanswered, and the indications are that no details of the disaster will be known until the Carpathia reaches port.

Judging from the nature of the few messages received from the survivors aboard the Carpathia, the inference is that most of them are unaware of the awful tragedy which occurred aboard the Titanic after she was abandoned. Thus many wives are ignorant that their husbands have perished and are hoping they were picked up by some passing liner.

In New York all preparations have been made to receive the survivors when they land. Food, clothing, ambulances and other necessities and luxuries have been provided; the police protection will be ample, and every measure will be taken to protect those who have been under such a terrific strain.

For the women of the steerage, a committee of prominent New York women has been formed to house and take care of them until relatives abroad can be notified of their plight.

U. S. GOVERNMENT'S MESSAGES IGNORED BY THE CARPATHIA

RED CROSS WILL AID DESTITUTE

People Will Be Asked to Contribute for Titanic Survivors.

Washington, April 18.—After a conference at the White House today between Mr. Nagel, the secretary of commerce and labor; C. D. Hilles, secretary to President Taft and Miss Mabel Boardman, the active head of the American Red Cross, it was announced that an appeal to the people of the United States probably would be sent broadcast today by the Red Cross for funds to aid the destitute rescued from the Titanic.

ASK FEDERAL LAW REQUIRING BOATS

Mayors of All Cities in New York Unite in Petition.

Utica, N. Y., April 18.—The mayors of all the cities in this state are authorizing that their signatures be affixed to a telegram to be forwarded to congress by the secretary of their association, asking that the United States pass a law requiring every passenger vessel leaving a port in this country to be equipped with life boats or rafts sufficient to receive and float every human creature on board the vessel.

C. M. HAYS LOST IN THE SINKING OF THE TITANIC.

Montreal, April 18.—The Grand Trunk Railway company this morning received the following telegram:

"Mrs. Hays, Mrs. Davidson saved; no news of husband.

"HAYS."

This message came from Wood's Hole, Mass. This confirms information thus far received to the effect that the president of the Grand Trunk railway is not among the survivors.

Scout Cruiser Can Get No Reply From Incoming Steamer.

Number of Survivors From Titanic Not Reported Within Thirty Hours.

Hope for Astor, Straus, Widener, Butt, Hays and Harris Abandoned.

Washington, April 18.—The navy department this morning gave out a dispatch sent by the U. S. S. Salem at 8 a. m. corroborating the numerous dispatches declaring that the Carpathia has persistently declined to answer any messages of inquiry, although sometimes acknowledging calls. The message made remarkable time, having been received in Washington ten minutes after its dispatch from the Salem. It follows:

"U. S. S. Salem, 8 a. m.—Can get no information from Carpathia of any kind, although she is within easy radio communication. She sometimes acknowledges calls, but will not admit receipt of messages or make reply. Cannot believe that she has failed to understand the messages I have sent. She is within easy range of the torpedo station, Newport, R. I., so Salem will sail to Bradford (naval coaling station on Narragansett bay, R. I.) this afternoon.

"CHANDLER, Commander."

Suspending Judgment.

Officials of the navy department are suspending judgment upon the conduct of officers of the Carpathia who have treated with scant courtesy requests for information transmitted through the scout cruisers Salem and Chester by government officials, including the president of the United States.

Whether responsibility rests with the captain of the Cunarder or President Ismay of the White Star line, who is reported as a survivor of the Titanic aboard the Carpathia, is a matter of conjecture.

Naval officials indignantly reject the insinuation by the Cunard people that the naval wireless operators are in-

SAYS ISMAY IS OVERWHELMED

Franklin Admits Getting Messages From Him on Carpathia.

New York, April 18.—Vice President Franklin of the White Star line said this afternoon:

"We are not getting a thing by wireless from the Carpathia. We have heard from her several times, but there is not the slightest explanation of the Titanic's sinking or anything pertaining to the disaster in any way in any of the wireless messages we have received."

"Have you heard from Mr. Ismay?"

"Yes," replied Mr. Franklin. "I have received several messages from Mr. Ismay. The last one came in during the night. Mr. Ismay is stunned beyond expression; he simply is overwhelmed.

Mr. Franklin declined to make public the messages from Mr. Ismay. Asked if true that Mr. Ismay would transfer to the Cedric at sea, Mr. Franklin said:

"I am certain no attempt to transfer will be made.

Mr. Franklin said arrangements had been made with several hospitals, and that automobiles would be at the pier to take care of any survivors who require hospital attention.

WARNING OF ICE GIVEN TO THE TITANIC

Liner Mesaba Brings Record of Exchange of Wireless Messages.

Field Biggest He Ever Saw, Says Captain of the Vessel.

Run of 120 Miles Out of Course Made to Avoid Big Bergs.

New York, April 18.—The Atlantic Transport liner Mesaba, in today from England, gives the information that at 7:50 o'clock last Sunday night the following messages passed between the Mesaba and Titanic, both bound for New York:

"M. G. Y.—Latitude 42 to 41.25 north, longitude 49 to 50.30 west; much heavy packed ice and great number of bergs. Weather clear.

"CLARKE, Captain, Mesaba."

"Thanks."

Latter signed "M. G. Y."

"M. G. Y." is the call of the Titanic. The Titanic at the time the messages were exchanged was estimated by Capt. Clarke to be about ninety miles astern of the Mesaba. Explanation of the failure of the Mesaba to get the "S. O. S." call of the Titanic when she hit the berg is made by Stanley Adams, wireless operator of the Mesaba, who said today that he had his instruments tuned for a much greater radius than ninety miles after warning the Titanic, and the waves passed by without registering on his receiver.

Most Ice He Ever Saw.

Sunday morning at 6 o'clock the Mesaba ran into what Capt. Clarke says was the largest field of ice he ever encountered. The field was from seventy to ninety miles wide and dotted with between seventy-five to 100 enormous bergs. The Mesaba ran 120 miles out of her course to avoid the ice field.

On Sunday night the operator aboard the Mesaba heard the Titanic talking with Cape Race and later sent the Titanic the message quoted.

Again at 9 o'clock Monday the Mesaba heard the Olympic talking with the Parisian and learned for the first time that the Titanic had failed to profit by the Mesaba's warning and had been destroyed.

REPORTED IN DULUTH

Even Local Hydrographic Office Knew of Existence of Icebergs.

Many Times as Much Ice Under Water as Above.

That there were icebergs and ice fields for the past two weeks in the vicinity of the spot where the Titanic met its fate early Monday morning was known even in Duluth.

According to the statistics received in the local hydrographic office by Capt. Albert Swenson, reports of ice fields have been received at Washington, from the various trans-Atlantic liners for the past two weeks. This condition is embodied in the regular report issued from the Washington hydrographic office.

"No one can realize the extent of these bergs under the water," said Capt. Swenson, "and I believe that the Titantic hit one of these monster icebergs about a quarter of a mile from where the berg itself was visible. He might not have known he was in the ice field, which the government reports of April 10 show was 15 miles long and a few hundred feet wide.

"From my observations the spot where the Titanic sank is 2,995 fathoms or about 3.4 miles deep. The government reports show that there were extensive fields in this vicinity and the last of these on record is that of the steamship Excelsior, which passed this large field but two days before the disaster.'

"These large icebergs that appear in the line of steamships plying from England and New York or Montreal come from the far north, breaking away from the huge glaciers that form on the hills and mountains in Greenland. The icebergs flow down with the current, passing Newfoundland, and enterling the Gulf stream, where they remain until they finally melt. These icebergs are of monstrous size and extend miles under the water. The submerged parts are the parts the ship will usually strike. The part under water is seven times the size of that above the water."

RETURNS FROM EAST.

Duluth Merchant Back From Buying Trip; Reports Business Good.

Ben Blumenthal, manager of the Leiser company store, returned this morning from a buying trip to the eastern markets, on which he was accompanied by Mr. Leiser.

"Our business is simply great," is the way Mr. Blumenthal expressed himself. "The Duluth store is making records and the Leiser stores are all doing a remarkably big business.

"The opening of our Chicago store was made a social event and the doors had to be closed several times, so great were the crowds. Mayor Harrison, who was present, remarked that he had never before seen so many society people at the openins of a store."

ADVERSE REPORT ON CHEMICAL SCHEDULE.

Washington, April 18.—The senate finance committee today ordered an adverse report on the house chemical tariff revision bill. It was a strict party vote, the republican members voting against it and the democrats for it. The vote was 8 to 6.

The Loss of the Arctic

BY HENRY WARD BEECHER.

It was autumn. Hundreds had wended their way from pilgrimages—from Rome and its treasures of dead art and its glory of living nature; from the side of the Switzer's mountains and from the capitals of various nations—all of them saying in their hearts, we will wait for the September gales to have done with their equinoctial fury, and then we will embark; we will slide across the appeased ocean, and in the gorgeous month of October we will greet our longed for native land and our heart loved homes.

And so the throng streamed along from Berlin, from Paris, from the orient, converging upon London, still hastening toward the welcome ship and narrowing every day the circle of engagements and preparations. They crowded aboard. Never had the Arctic borne such a host of passengers, nor passengers so nearly related to so many of us. The hour was come. The signal ball fell at Greenwich. It was noon also at Liverpool. The anchors were weighed; the great hull swayed to the current; the national colors streamed above, as if themselves instinct with life and national sympathy. The bell strikes; the wheels revolve; the signal gun beats its echoes in upon every structure along the shore, and the Arctic glides joyfully forth from the Mersey, and turns her prow to the winding channel and begins her homeward run. The pilot stood at the wheel, and men saw him. Death sat upon the prow and no eye beheld him. Whoever stood at the wheel in all the voyage, Death was the pilot that steered the craft, and none knew it. He neither revealed his presence nor whispered his errand.

And so hope was effulgent, and lithe gayety disported itself, and joy was with every guest. Amid all the inconveniences of the voyage there was still that which hushed every murmur, "Home is not far away." And every morning it was still one night nearer home. Eight days had passed. They beheld that distant bank of mist that forever haunts the vast shallows of Newfoundland. Boldly they made it, and, plunging in, its pliant wreaths wrapped them about. They shall never emerge. The last sunlight has flashed from that deck. The last voyage is done to ship and passengers. At noon there came noiselessly stealing from the north that fated instrument of destruction. In that mysterious shroud, that vast atmosphere of mist both steamers were holding their way with rushing prow and roaring wheels, but invisible.

At a league's distance, unconscious; and at nearer approach, unwarned; within hail, and bearing right toward each other, unseen, unfelt, till in a moment more, emerging from the gray mists, the ill omened Vesta dealt her deadly stroke to the Arctic. The death blow was scarcely felt along the mighty hull. She neither reeled nor shivered. Neither commander nor officers deemed that they had suffered harm. Prompt upon humanity, the brave Luce (let his name be ever spoken with admiration and respect) ordered away his boat with the first officer to inquire if the stranger had suffered harm. As Gourley went over the ship's side, oh, that some good angel had called to the brave commander in the words of Paul on a like occasion, "Except these abide in the ship, ye cannot be saved."

They departed, and with them the hope of the ship, for now the waters, gaining upon the hold, and rising upon the fires, revealed the mortal blow. Oh, had now that stern, brave mate, Gourley, been on deck, whom the sailors were wont to mind—had he stood to execute efficiently the commander's will—we may believe that we should not have had to blush for the cowardice and recreancy of the crew, nor weep for the untimely dead. But, apparently, each subordinate officer lost all presence of mind, then courage, and so honor. In a wild scramble that ignoble mob of firemen, engineers, waiters and crew rushed for the boats and abandoned the helpless women, children and men to the mercy of the deep. Four hours there were from the catastrophe of collision to the catastrophe of sinking.

Oh, what a burial was here. Not as when one is borne from his home among weeping throngs and gently carried to the green fields, and laid peacefully beneath the turf and flowers. No priest stood to pronounce a burial service. It was an ocean grave. The mists alone shrouded the burial place. No spade prepared the grave, no sexton filled up the hollowed earth. Down, down they sank, and the quick returning waters smoothed out every ripple, and left the sea as if it had not been.

McKinley Says Methods Amount to Bribery and Corruption.

Claims $200,000 Was Spent in New York County Alone.

Washington, April 18.—Director McKinley of the national Taft bureau today issued a statement calling attention to the alleged use of money in the Roosevelt campaign.

"The lavish expenditure of money in this campaign by the backers of Former President Theodore Roosevelt," says the statement, "has led to the question being raised: Were the victories of Roosevelt in Pennsylvania and Oklahoma due to a 'great popular demand' for his renomination or to the use of money?"

Further along Mr. McKinley says:

"In no pre-convention campaign in the history of the country has money been used in large sums, amounting, in view of the general verdict of the country with respect to expenditures by senators of the United States, to plain bribery and corruption, as has been expended by the backers of Col. Theodore Roosevelt."

"Spent $200,000 in One County."

Mr. McKinley declared the Roosevelt forces spent large sums in Oklahoma, that they distributed $100,000 in Allegheny county, Pa., including Pittsburg, issuing 20,000 pieces of "scrip" in $5 denominations to "messengers;" that the total Roosevelt expenditures in Pennsylvania were between $250,000 and $500,000; that in New York county alone $200,000 was spent in an endeavor to influence the primaries and that efforts were made to "buy out" precinct captains in New York.

"In this connection," said the McKinley statement, "one district captain in New York did sell out to the Roosevelt managers, plainly showing that Mr. Roosevelt was not the candidate in answer to a great popular demand, but the beneficiary of a bag of good, hard dollars."

Chicago Man Sues the Town of Buyck for $7,500.

Suit Is Outcome of Buyck-James Alleged Conspiracy.

A lawsuit growing out of the sale of a bond issue to finance the building of a town road in the town of Buyck nearly six years ago has been started in district court by Charles H. Strawbridge of Chicago against the town of Buyck, St. Louis county.

The action is one in which Strawbridge, who purchased the road bonds, is seeking to establish the liability of the town organization and to recover about $7,500, which he claims is past due on payments and interest.

The facts of the case as set out in the complaint, which has been drawn by Charles E. Adams, attorney for Mr. Strawbridge, are as follows:

The town of Buyck, five and one-half years ago issued $22,000 worth of road and bridge bonds bearing 6 per cent interest payable annually. The first payment on the bonds, amounting to $2,000, was due in five years and $2,000 was payable every year after that until the principal was paid off.

The town paid $1,320 as interest the first year and then the payments lapsed four years. Last November the first payment of $2,000 on the bonds fell due and the town did not pay.

The bonds were originally sold to the Commercial Investment company of this city. The Commercial Investment company sold them to John Nuneen & Co. of Chicago, from which Mr. Strawbridge purchased them.

At the last meeting of the township board, it was voted 16 to 15 to fight the payments of the bonds in the court on the ground that the bonds have been fraudulently issued by the first set of town officers for the purpose of building a private road. John Heitman of Duluth was retained as an attorney.

Charles Buyck and W. A. James organized the town of Buyck and were among its first officers. Buyck and James, it is claimed, fraudulently conspired while in the office to issue bonds and to get money to finance a private enterprise.

Part of the money has been spent in building the road. Since the road building started, the town board brought suit against Buyck and James, former members, and surety companies in which they were bonded and recovered about $15,000 on the ground that the money had been spent in an illegal manner and for illegal purposes in many cases.

The town board, although fighting in the courts the payment of the original bonds, has been levying taxes each year for this purpose and is now said to have about $20,000 in the town treasury.

HANDS TIED BY THE LAW

Attorney Says Board Has No Right to Maintain Penal Farm.

Nothing to Prevent All Preliminary Steps Being Taken.

Although the board of county commissioners has no legal authority to push the penal farm plans advocated by the public welfare committee and other prominent citizens of Duluth, Charles E. Adams, special consul to the county board, sees no reason why all preliminary plans should not be perfected preparatory to the enactment of a law permitting St. Louis county to appropriate money for the building of such a farm.

At the request of Joseph W. Cumming, county commissioner, Mr. Adams prepared an opinion as to the legal right of the county in taking the proposed step. The opinion is as follows:

"Joseph W. Cumming, county commissioner, Duluth, Minnesota. Dear Sir—You have asked me for an opinion, whether the board of county commissioners of St. Louis county has the right to purchase necessary land and erect suitable buildings thereon, for the purpose of establishing and maintaining a work or correction farm where short term prisoners sentenced by the district or lower courts of the county may be confined.

No Authority.

"I have given your inquiry careful consideration and am obliged to answer it in the negative.

"The statutes of this state do not provide for the establishment of any such institution by county boards. Section 434, revised laws of 1905, sub-section 3, provides the county board shall erect, furnish and maintain a suitable courthouse and jail. Section 5462 provides that the county board of each county is authorized to construct and maintain at the exnepse of the county, a jail for the safe-keeping of prisoners, and also adjoining and connected therewith a residence for the use of the sheriff. Section 5475 provides that the sheriff of the county shall have charge of the jail and be responsible for its condition. The foregoing provisions of the statute are the only ones giving county boards power to erect and maintain jails or any other place where prisoners may be confined, except a detention home for dependent children. There appears to be no law giving county boards power to expend public money for any such purpose as a work house or work farm or similar institution.

"The city of St. Paul maintains a workhouse, but this is under authority of chapter 190, special laws of Minnesota for 1881. The city of Minneapolis maintains a workhouse on the farm plan near that city, but this is under authority contained in the charter of that city. Duluth now has similar authority to establish and maintain a work farm under the recent charter amendment establishing the board of public welfare.

Definition of Jail.

"The suggestion made by some that the term 'jail' as used in the statute may fairly be construed to include a work or correction farm or other place of confinement which may be called a jail, does not impress me as sound. The term 'jail' as used in penal statutes has had a well defined meaning from the early days of the common law to the present time and it has never, so far as I can find, been held to be synonymous with workhouse or work farm, unless expressly so declared by statute. There is direct authority for holding that a jail and workhouse are legally different institutions, in the case of State vs. Ellis 26 New Jersey Law Reports, page 219, in which the court ordered a prisoner released on habeas corpus because he had been sentenced to the county jail when the law provided that the punishment for the offense of which he was convicted should be confinement in a workhouse.

"In view of the fact that the powers of the county board are purely statutory and such as are expressly granted or as may be fairly implied as necessary to the exercise of those expressly granted, I see no way in which your board can take the action desired without an unwarranted construction of the law.

"I see no objection, however, to your board, either independently or in conjunction with the board of public welfare of Duluth, taking preliminary action toward the selection of a suitable site, arranging for plans for buildings, and making all necessary investigations preparatory to establishing such work farm as soon as the needed legislation shall be enacted. And I may say that I have no doubt that the legislature will grant the authority needed when a proper bill is presented to it. Yours very truly,

CHARLES E. ADAMS,
Special Counsel for St. Louis County."

Board's Position.

County Commissioner Cummings has had several copies of this opinion reproduced and is mailing them to more than 100 people who have written to him for a statement as to how the county board stood on the matter of a penal farm. With each copy of the opinion, Mr. Cumming is mailing out a letter which reads as follows:

"Dear sir—I acknowledge receipt of your letter of recent date in which you express your views regarding the espress your views regarding the establishing of a county work farm for short term prisoners in preference to building a new jail, and answering the same, will say that I personally am heartily in favor of the general plan of establishing a work or correction farm near the city of Duluth where prisoners convicted of minor offenses may be sent to work in the open air, rather than confining them in idleness in the county jail.

"I believe I am correct also in saying that a majority of the board of county commissioners are also in favor of this farm plan in preference to building a new jail at the present time, and I believe that the board will act favorably in this matter as soon as they can secure the legal authority to do so. I know that there is no hostility to such a plan.

"For some time it has been the understanding of the board that the law as it now stands did not give county boards authority to establish a work or correction farm, and recently at my request Charles E. Adams, attorney for the board of county commissioners, furnished me an opinion, whether the county board of this county had the legal right to establish such work farm at this time, in which opinion he holds that we have not such power. This opinion of our attorney states the law on this question more concisely than I can state it and for your information I am herewith enclosing a copy of this opinion.

"I assure you that I shall favor the establishing of a work farm just as soon as it can legally be done and shall also favor reconsidering the action of our board taken at the last meeting in favor of building a new county jail at this time and shall urge the appointment of a committee to investigate the matter and report in favor of buying a suitable tract of land near Duluth and establishing a work farm thereon along such lines as shall seem most desirable after full consideration of the question. Any further suggestions which you or your friends may have to offer in this matter will be very cordially received. Yours very truly,

J. W. CUMMING,
County Commissioner."

Mr. Adams today suggested that the welfare committee of the city might well direct its attention to the buying of an option on a desirable tract of land near the city to be later acquired by the county as soon as the needed legislative action was secured.

RAILROAD NEWS

BLANCHARD IS GIVEN ANOTHER PROMOTION

Duluth railroad men and local friends of Edwin C. Blanchard, general superintendent of the Northern Pacific railroad east of Mandan, N. D., with headquarters at St. Paul will receive the news of his promotion to the position of general mannager of maintenance and operation of the lines west of Paradise, Mont., with much pleasure.

Mr. Blanchard was appointed to the position following the recent resignation of Harry C. Nutt, who now has a similar position with the San Pedro road at Los Angeles. Mr. Nutt was also fourth vice president of the road, and this title may be given Mr. Blanchard.

In Duluth Mr. Blanchard is well known, having been for several years superintendent of the Lake Superior district of the Northern Pacific, with headquarters in this city. He started railroading in 1883 with the Northern Pacific and has been prominently identified with its operating department ever since. From Duluth he was promoted to St. Paul.

C. L. Nichols, general superintendent at Livingstone, Mont., has been promoted to fill Mr. Blanchard's place in St. Paul and J. N. Rapelje, superintendent at Spokane, will move up to Mr. Nichols' place. The vacancy in the Spokane office has not been filled yet.

The changes have just been announced by President Elliott and become effective at once.

PHILBIN AND HIS NEW JOB

Returns From Vacation and Goes to St. Paul to Get Instructions.

Ore Shipments for 1912 Are Estimated at 42,000,000 Tons.

D. M. Philbin, recently promoted from superintendent of the Great Northern railway to have general charge of the ore department of the road, has gone to St. Paul to find out just what his duties are.

He knows neither his title or his duties. He is in conference with Louis Hill, president of the road, today to be enlightened.

Yesterday he, with Mrs. Philbin, returned from Hot Springs, Ark., where he has been for the past two months, his promotion taking place during his absence. This morning he left for St. Paul and is expected back by Saturday.

Mr. Philbin knew that he had been promoted, but as to his duties, he has only a general idea.

It is generally taken for granted that Mr. Philbin will have general charge of the Hill properties on the Mesaba range. He is a recognized expert on ore transportation and he has a wide knowledge of the iron ore industry.

Mr. Philbin stated on his return yesterday that in the East it is estimated that the ore shipments from the Lake Superior district for 1912 will equal 42,000,000 tons.

"The iron and steel business in the East is in excellent shape, though prices for ore are low," said Mr. Philbin, yesterday. "The fundamental conditions of the country are so sound, and the needs so great that we shall enjoy prosperity. Just to what degree the presidential campaign will check the natural impulse of enterprise remains to be seen, but from present prospects I would assume that the campaign will not discourage business and industry to the extent we have witnessed in some former presidential years."

RAILROAD FARE TO CHICAGO CUT SLIGHTLY.

Owing to the shortening of the Soo Line route to Chicago, a new rate of $8.15 will go into effect on all roads to Chicago on May 25.

The previous rate was $9.30, the cut off on the line known as the Spencer cut off, saving a haul of something like 15 miles.

The rate to Milwaukee will also be reduced 10 cents. The new rate will be $7.45, while the old was $7.55.

The new rate will also affect all Eastern rates.

Railroad Personals.

J. I. Thomas of the Northern Pacific is home after attending the meeting of the Eastern general agents of the Northern Pacific Railroad company, which was held in Chicago.

J. C. Small of St. Paul, traveling freight agent for the Erie Railroad company, was calling on local railroad men today.

WOULD BAR SOME CULTS FROM CHURCH UNITY.

St. Louis, Mo., April 18. — Christian Science, spiritualism, theosophy and similar doctrines must be dismissed from all considerations of plans for unification of the Christian church, Rev. George B. Vandewater, D. D., of St. Andrews church, New York, said in discussing church unity at the thirtieth Episcopal congress here.

He characterized such doctrines as "attempts to aviate without motive power." The Greek church and the Roman church also must be omitted from consideration, he said, as neither desired unification except by absorption.

The speaker named the Lutheran, Presbyterian, Methodist and Baptist churches and the Church of England as the denominations most fully awake to the desirability of unity.

Belfield, N. D., Banks Merged.

Belfield, N. D., April 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The consolidation of the First National and the Merchants State bank of this city has been effected. R. C. Davis, president of the latter bank, is the president of the new concern, R. K. Stewart being the retiring president of the First National.

EXHIBIT AT THE ST. LOUIS HOTEL

Stoddard-Dayton Company to Have Motor in Constant Operation.

The motor of a Stoddard-Dayton automobile will be kept running for hours at a stretch in the lobby of the St. Louis hotel, as soon as the car is received in Duluth. It was shipped from the factory at Dayton, Ohio, yesterday.

By the courtesy of Manager Hickey of the St. Louis hotel, H. B. Groff, traveling representative of the firm, who is in Duluth to establish a Stoddard-Dayton agency, made the final arrangements for the novelty this morning.

Te Stoddard-Dayton company has adopted the Silent-Knight type of motor, a motor that is said at the present time to be recognized throughout the world as the perfect gasoline engine.

The motor will create no noise whatever and absolutely no smell, for arrangements have been made to carry off the gasoline vapor through a chimney. The motor operates so smoothly and quietly that none of the guests of the hotel will in any way be disturbed. Even at close range it is difficult to tell by the sense of hearing whether the motor is in motion or not, it is said.

The motor will be kept running hours at a time to show how thoroughly reliable it is. Duluth will have at the St. Louis a real miniature auto show, for at auto shows the different firms keep the motors running, the better to explain their workings and prove their worth.

A shipment of five Stoddard-Daytons will soon be received in the city. Mr. Groff hopes to have a location and open up a local agency within the next ten days.

The coming of the Stoddard-Dayton concern is but another indication of new auto salesrooms to the city.

Many Stoddard-Dayton cars are in daily operation in Duluth and those who own them cannot speak too highly of them. The Dayton car has more power than can be used and is besides being speedy, a car that is up to the minute on lines and construction.

MEN'S HEALTH!

We offer afflicted men a cure. We are in a position to do this, because we have made it our business to study diseases of men alone. Men's diseases differ as widely from those of women, as winter differs from summer. NO doctor can skillfully treat both, men and women, because of the difficulty to know all diseases of both sexes. We cure men alone. Our specialists have spent years of study, both in universities of Germany and America in this one field alone, and there is no human ill which they are not able to detect. We are offering every weak and afflicted man a cure, not only treatments, but a complete cure. That is the reason why we can guarantee our cures; no other doctor in Duluth will risk this. It is no risk with us, because we absolutely know that we can cure cases which scores of doctors have given up as hopeless.

WE CURE EVERY AND ANY AILMENT MEN ARE AFFLICTED WITH—THE STOMACH, THE KIDNEYS, BOWELS, PILES, ANY RUPTURE, STRICTURE, BLADDER AND PROSATE TROUBLE. ALL DISEASES WHICH RESULT FROM POISON LIKE RHEUMATISM, SKIN TROUBLES, WEAKNESS, BLOOD POISON, DISCHARGES AND ALL DISEASES WHICH FOLLOW BAD HABITS OF ANY KIND. PARALYSIS AND STRICTURES.

One treatment with our powerful X-Ray machine will do you more good than a gallon of medicine. The one who puts too much faith in medicines will be sadly disappointed. Anita Louise McTeer, daughter of George L. Reis, vice president of the Minnesota Steel company, of this city, was granted a divorce from George White McTeer by Judge Dibell in district court late yesterday afternoon.

The decree was granted on the grounds of desertion, Mr. McTeer making no appearance. The court gave her an absolute separation and allowed her to resume her maiden name, Anita Louise Reis. J. B. Cotton appeared in court as her attorney.

The wedding took place in New York city, May 29, 1907. She is 27 and he 36. According to her story, Mr. McTeer deserted her at Knoxville, Tenn., on Jan. 2, 1911. Since that time she has been living with her parents in this city.

A summons was served on McTeer at Morgantown, N. C., but he filed no answer to the suit and the case went by default.

WHEN YOU ARE OLD

Poverty is unpleasant when you are young; it is doubly hard when you are old. What provision are you making for your old age? You can afford to smile at the passing years if each one brings you nearer to the time when you can live at your ease without the necessity of working; but you may well worry if each year brings you nearer to the time when you are no longer able to work and you have nothing to live on.

MARINE NEWS

ICE IS NOW GOING FAST

Warm Weather Has Decreased the Fields in Great Lakes.

More Ice Than There Was at This Time Year Ago.

The reports from the regular and display stations of the weather bureau and meteorological service of Canada indicate that the warm weather of the past week has materially decreased the amount of ice in the lakes.

In Superior there is a field about twenty miles wide at this end, with open water, apparently extending eastward beyond this to Keweenaw Point. From Keweenaw Point eastward to Whitefish the field continues very extensive, but more open water is appearing.

The ice in Whitefish bay is intact but honey-combing rapidly. The St. Marys river is reported open from above the rapids to Nine Mile point in Hay lake; over the southern portion the ice is softening. The ice in Green bay is breaking and moving with the wind. In Michigan the ice fields are confined to the northern portion, to the north of North Manitou island.

The ice was driven out of the straits on April 14 by strong east winds, but considerable floating ice is reported. In Huron the fields have moved from the west shore and appear intact over the eastern portion. The ice has run out of Lake St. Clair. In Erie the fields are confined to the eastern portion, being reported from Cleveland east to Buffalo; the field is breaking up and much open water appearing. In Ontario the fields are confined to the extreme eastern portion and becoming soft.

In comparison with the same period last year there is more ice in Superior, Huron, Erie and Ontario.

The opening of the straits will allow of general navigation between Lake Erie and Lake Michigan.

Lake Superior.

Duluth—The harbor is practically free of ice of consequence except in the slips; tugs moving about; in the lake field extends more or less solid about 20 miles; this field has been cracked by the strong northeast winds and sea during the past few days; a shift to the southwest winds would probably move this field out; the lake ice is very dark on the surface.

Washburn—The heavy northeast winds have broken the ice and southwest winds would drive it out.

Ashland—Some open water at the head of the bay; ice is rotting.

Port Arthur, Ont.—Ice in harbor 32 inches in thickness; the field in lake extends beyond vision; tug Whalen has broken a channel four miles out from breakwater.

Ontonagon—Some rotten ice in the harbor; large iceberg across the mouth; open water in the lake.

Portage, L. S. S.—Canal clear of ice; some ice inside breakwater; no ice visible in the lake.

Eagle Harbor—Ice in harbor 25 inches in thickness and solid; open water in lake to the northwest with large fields of ice to the northeast.

Houghton—Harbor clear along some of the docks; Big Portage lake still solid; some open water between Houghton and Portage canal. The ice in Big Portage lake breaking up on Monday with open water along north shore from Portage river to Torch bay and out to center of lake.

Portage Entry—Portage river clear of ice; bay ice rotting but intact; no open water visible.

Baraga—Some open water along shore and for some distance out.

Marquette—Harbor ice intact but softening; fields of cake ice moving with the winds; very little open water visible.

Munising—Harbor ice 20 inches in thickness; no change from last week.

Grand Marais, Mich.—Harbor ice about 28 inches in thickness and honeycombing; the fields in the lake extend beyond vision with few open spaces of water.

Whitefish Point—The bay ice is honeycombing fast and is now soft on top, no water in sight; some open water in spots about three miles above the point; the ice field extends beyond vision.

Sault Ste. Marie—The channel is clear of ice from a mile above the rapids to about Nine Mile Point in Hay lake; the ice along shore is very rotten. Tests made April 13 in the vicinity of Lime Island indicate from 20 to 26 inches of ice with some spots of 12-inch ice; it is honeycombed about half through.

APPARATUS IS INADEQUATE

Lake Vessels Have Not Lifeboats Enough for Their Passengers.

Chicago, April 18.—"Most of the passenger steamers that ply Lake Michigan are inadequately provided with life saving apparatus," declared Roy L. Peck, federal inspector of steam vessels for this district, here today.

"Laws referring to provisions for life boats and rafts are entirely inadequate, and, as applied to some of the lake boats, are absurd," he ded.

"For instance, there is one boat that carries nearly every day in the summer season more than 2,000 persons, and it has been known to carry nearly 4,000. Only life boats enough for 156 persons are required, and only enough for 180 actually are carried. Many other boats are similarly provided and there are only a few of them properly supplied with rafts and boats."

Hood's Sarsaparilla

For All Spring Ailments.

Mrs. Marion Bruce, Cumberland, Me., writes: "I have taken Hood's Sarsaparilla for a great many years, and I think it the best blood medicine in the world. I take it both spring and fall. This last winter and spring I was in very poor health. I was weak and had lost all my appetite and I was all run down. As soon as I began to take Hood's Sarsaparilla my strength came back and my appetite returned. I am now well, do my housework, and no longer have that tired feeling."

MORE BOATS FITTED OUT

Anchor Liners Will Probably Leave Port on April 27.

Bulk Freighters Towed to Elevators to Load Grain.

The steamers Delaware and Connemaugh of the Anchor line are being fitted out for the season's work. The boats will probably leave the local harbor April 27, on the first trip of the season.

The steamer Buffalo of the Western Transit company, will begin loading Monday. She is a package freighter.

It is now expected that boats leaving the local port on April 27, will be able to get through as the ice is now breaking up in the lakes and rivers very rapidly. This is several days earlier than the most optimistic had dared hope.

The steamers Stewart and James Davidson are being moved to the Great Northern Elevator by tugs of the Union Towing company today. Both boats will load grain.

The Western Star, an independent boat, has been towed to Elevator D, where she will take on a load of grain.

The crews for the Mutual Transit company's boats which have been wintering in the local harbor, arrived this morning and fitting out operations have begun. The boats will be ready to leave port in about ten days' time.

Fitting out operations began this morning on the North Lake, North Sea, Northern Wave and Northern Queen, all Mutual Transit company's boats.

Tugs Are Inspected.

The fire tug W. A. McGonagle, and the tugs Gladiator and Alfred W., were inspected yesterday by Monaghan and Chalk, government inspectors for this port.

NEW CROSBY M. E. CHURCH.

Plans on Foot to Build Structure in Village.

Crosby, Minn., April 18.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Methodist Episcopal church congregation of this place will build a church in the due course of a few weeks.

Monday evening a large congregation attended a service at Young's store at which Rev. E. K. Copper, superintendent of the Duluth district was present, with Rev. Charles Fox Davis of Brainerd, and the local pastor, Rev. E. La Roe, the sermon being preached by Rev. Charles Fox Davis of Brainerd.

At the close of the service it was voted that a trustee board be formed and a M. E. church be organized, together with a Sunday school, which was done.

The call for subscriptions was liberally responded to at the evening service, and the day following Rev. Dr. Copper solicited funds from the business men of the town and enough was subscribed very quickly to enable the trustee board to commence to build right away.

The town has a large following of Methodists and those interested are anxious to erect a church that will be in keeping with the surroundings of the place.

AGED WOMAN IN STARVING CONDITION IN UNION STATION

A Polish woman, nearly 90 years old, was found in a starving condition in the waiting room at the union station yesterday. She had been there several hours before any notice was taken of her. Finally she was observed by one of the Travelers' Aid Workers, who proceeded to question her. The aged woman began to cry, but could not tell her troubles, until an interpreter was obtained, as she was unable to speak a word of English.
